Barlow Discusses Adviser Role

BY DR. RICHARD L. BARLOW
(Emporia State '69)
Professor of Statistics
Kearney State College
Kearney, NE

Dr. Richard L. Barlow (Emporia State '69) has taught mathematics and statistics at Kearney State College since 1966. He has served the fraternity as an adviser since the Nebraska Beta chapter was founded December 1966 and officially as the chapter adviser since his initiation into the Bond in 1969.

Dr. Barlow received the Samuel V. Stone Award as the outstanding Chapter Adviser for the year 1982-83. As the recipient of this award, he was asked to write this article.

Currently Dr. Barlow serves as the Nebraska coordinator of the American High School Mathematics Examination, and has active professional memberships in the American Statistical Association, the Mathematics Association of America, and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. He is associate editor of The Pentagon mathematics magazine. A $29,000 U.S. Department of Education grant in Metric Education was awarded to him in 1981-83. Dr. Barlow is noted for his work in metric education, having received a U.S. congressional award in 1981.

Dr. Barlow received his Bachelor of Science in mathematics from Kearney State College, the M.A. in mathematics from the University of Kansas and his doctorate in mathematical statistics from the University of Northern Colorado.

It is very difficult to list the many and varied reasons why an alumnus of Phi Delta Theta would become a chapter adviser. Each chapter adviser undoubtedly has his own personal set of reasons for devoting his time and effort to a chapter. All advisers, however, probably have on their list the one desire to transmit the fraternity to others better than it was transmitted to him.

Brotherhood is the name of the game. Each one of us as Phis has certainly had many deep and meaningful moments illustrating the strong ties of brotherhood in our fraternal experience. Helping a brother in times of need, sharing his joys in times of triumph, and just being there throughout life are just part of being a Phi. A chapter adviser is fortunate in that he can regenerate his own fraternal spirit each year by working with a chapter and the younger generations of Phis.

The family of "Greeks" is doing well in the 1980's. I have seen a resurgence of interest in the Greek system illustrating the desires of the present generation to return to the ideals and beliefs of the "Greeks" in larger numbers. Phi Delta Theta, as a leader, must set high goals in all areas of fraternity life. A chapter adviser can help guide the chapter in partnership with the officers, actives and pledges of the chapter.

The job of adviser is both time consuming and engulfing, but it can be a very rewarding experience. Being a chapter adviser is more than being just a report signer and an occasional visitor to the chapter house. To be effective, the adviser must attend chapter meetings regularly to be aware of the state of the chapter: its strengths and weaknesses. To properly advise, one must be there and available for consultation. After attending over 400 chapter meetings over the years, I cannot overemphasize the importance of attending chapter meetings as a foundation for advising and setting future goals and objectives. An adviser's visual presence at a chapter meeting gives him credibility and shows the chapter members that the alumni do care.

The role of the chapter adviser is not that of leading the chapter. The elected officers of the chapter lead the chapter. They, as we did, learn from their mistakes. An adviser is a counselor not a dictator. In some instances, the chapter adviser may appear to dictate, especially when possible violations of the Code or the college regulations may occur; but in general, an adviser is there for advice and counsel. The chapter and the chapter adviser must jointly work together for the mutual benefit of the chapter.

I view the responsibilities of the chapter adviser as many and varied. An adviser must look upon his job as a challenge, realizing that an ideal chapter is a goal but impossible to achieve. Each adviser should strive for chapter perfection, for without that goal he would not be setting his goals and objectives in line with the high standards set by the international fraternity and our six founding fathers. The problems of our undergraduate chapter are still present, just in another form. Our previous experience gives us insight into their possible solutions and our input can help the chapter through the rough times that appear each year.

Financial advice is important as any chapter is only as good as its finances. It is important that sound financial advice be given and that the chapter adviser work constantly with the treasurer.

The chapter adviser represents not only the general fraternity but the alumni—both of which have a vital interest in every undergraduate chapter. Our heritage and our future are dependent upon strong and viable active chapters. We, as Phis, have a common bond which is still present long after our graduation from college. We are Phi for life and by serving our fraternity as a chapter adviser, we can continue our fraternal experience striving to further exemplify the teachings of the Bond. ■

Davis Becomes Four-Star General

Lt. Gen. John K. Davis (New Mexico '51) pinned on his fourth star and became the U.S. Marine Corps No. 2 man in Washington, D.C. on July 1. Formerly commanding general of the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific, he became assistant commandant of the Corps.

On June 3 he turned over his Pacific command to a Brother Phi, Lt. Gen. Charles G. Cooper (Mississippi '49). Cooper had been Deputy Chief of Staff for Manpower at Headquarters, Marine Corps in Washington, D.C.

Gen. Davis was nominated for the new command and promotion by President Reagan in May and was confirmed by the Senate shortly afterwards.

"I feel that there has been a growing and wider recognition of a strong and effective Marine Corps in the past three years," said General Davis. "Part of this rediscovery has to do with a shift back to a maritime strategy for this country and part of it has to do with the recent focus on Southwest Asia in the last few years."

The Fleet Marine Force, Pacific constitutes about two-thirds of the combat strength of the Marine Corps. It includes two of the Marine Corps' three active divisions and two of its three active aircraft wings. Headquartered at Camp H. M. Smith, Hawaii, the command exists to provide balanced, combat ready air-ground teams to the Pacific Fleet for use as landing forces throughout the Pacific.

Marines, of course, have been used in tension-ridden Lebanon. "There is always the chance that Marines will be hurt or killed in this situation," said Davis. "But we feel that we're contributing to an eventual solution there."

Davis had been headquartered at Camp Smith as commanding general of the 72,000 Marines and

Frist Guides Successful HCA

Note: The following article is reprinted with permission of Alan Hall, who wrote the article for Sky Magazine.

If you happen to see someone who looks nothing like O.J. Simpson running through the next airport, it may be Thomas F. Frist, Jr (Vanderbilt '61), President and Chief Executive Officer of Hospital Corporation of America, the largest hospital management company in the world.

Frist, a committed jogger who has competed in the New York Marathon and the Boston Marathon, has been known to don his jogging clothes and go for a quick mile or two while waiting to catch a flight to his next port-of-call. But if you happen to catch a glimpse of Frist trotting about the airport, please don't interrupt. Frist said he manages to do some of his most productive thinking concerning HCA's 376 hospitals and 85,000 employees while running.

Frist, 44, along with his father, Dr. Thomas F. Frist, Sr., entrepreneur Jack C. Massey and attorney Henry Hooker, was a co-founder of Nashville-based HCA. The company was founded in 1968 with Nashville's Park View Hospital as its only facility. Now, with about 51,059 beds in 376 owned and managed hospitals, revenues from its operations exceeded $3.5 billion in 1982.

Since the company went public, in 1969, its earnings per share have doubled every three years, and Frist said he expects that trend to continue for the foreseeable future. "There is almost no limit to what this company can achieve over the next 10-20 years in the healthcare field," Frist said.

(Hospital Corporation of America was named one of the "Five Best-Managed Companies in the United States" for 1982 by Dun's Business Month.)

"In ten years, we may well be known as a healthcare company rather than a hospital management company, but for the next five years the company's primary focus will be owning and managing acute-care hospitals," Frist said. "HCA is in a capital intensive, labor intensive and government regulated business. It is absolutely imperative that the company does not dilute its financial and human resources while it is in this rapid growth phase. Our primary objective will be to continue to build our base of hospitals worldwide while the opportunities are there."

As far as expansion in the United States is concerned, Frist thinks there are enough opportunities to allow for expansion by not-for-profit groups.

According to Frist, HCA's growth would be substantial each year without purchasing another hospital. The needs to expand HCA's existing hospital system are great due to the company's presence in expanding markets, the aging of the population, the need for new services and the continued advancement of technology.

"In the past," Frist explained, "HCA has concentrated its building of hospitals in the Sunbelt and other growth areas of the country. Many of our hospitals are replacing outmoded city- or county-owned facilities. The communities can then devote their tax dollars to new schools, utilities and other needs."

In addition to its domestic operations HCA started its overseas operations in 1973, managing a hospital in Saudi Arabia. Now, the hospital company has 30 projects in seven foreign countries, its most recent foreign purchase, in fact, was in Great Britain, where HCA acquired six small private hospitals catering to a growing number of people who have their own health insurance.

When discussing HCA's remarkable success over the past 14 years, Frist attributes much of the credit to the company's high standards of quality. "If a hospital doesn't have a good reputation or the potential to achieve the quality standards we demand, then HCA won't take it," Frist asserted. "We have said since this company was founded that the one thing we will not do is compromise our high standards of quality."

Those high standards are expressed in the calibre of people employed by HCA—in the corporate offices, the hospitals and the boardroom. In fact, HCA's board of directors is one of the most impressive of any company in the country. With the chairmen of IBM, Rockwell International, Procter & Gamble and Wells Fargo Bank, as well as the retired chairmen of AT&T and DuPont on its board, it is no wonder that the investment firm of Morgan Stanley & Company has said the HCA board "reads like a Who's Who of Corporate America."

Frist, who has been president of HCA since 1978, believes the guidance from the Board and its Chairman (former Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of Prudential Insurance Company) Donald

FRIST

S. MacNaughton has been instrumental in helping him do his job. MacNaughton joined HCA as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer in 1978, when Frist was named President and Chief Operating Officer of the firm.

"It was very good for me, for this company and a new industry to have Don MacNaughton join HCA. He understands the basic principles of management and always gave me, as well as the others, the opportunity to take the ball and run with it. And if we ever needed guidance or counsel, he was always there to give it."

MacNaughton turned over the CEO's position to Frist in August of 1982, but Frist still considers MacNaughton to be an important part of the "management team" at

HCA. Frist is also quick to give credit to past leaders of HCA as being keys to the development of his management philosophy. "I got my common sense and basic judgment from my father, I learned an awful lot about management from John Hill, who came here as president in 1970 after taking early retirement from Aetna Life Insurance; and I have relied very heavily on Jack Massey (recently listed as one of Forbes magazine's "400") ever since we started this company, and even before."

Frist, a quiet, slow-talking man, thinks the financing of the American healthcare system must be revamped in the near future, and that federal funding, in particular, must be changed. "The federal government needs to change the way the system is financed," he stated. "Incentives with rewards for the most efficient providers should be implemented. We have to put the consumers back in the payment system so they will be sensitive to the costs of healthcare."

Frist believes the consumer needs to assume more of the risk of the cost of healthcare and by taking that risk, consumers would force healthcare providers to be more conscious of costs. "I don't mean a consumer should be put in the position of losing everything over a catastrophic illness or accident," he said, "but they should share in the normal costs of healthcare."

One encouraging sign to Frist is the federal government's decision to develop a plan where hospitals in an area would be reimbursed on an "average" cost for each type of diagnosis. If the hospital goes below that average, then the hospital would share in the savings. If the cost of the operations is above average, then the hospital would be penalized. Frist describes it as the first "positive step" the government has taken to put incentives into the payment system.

Naturally, Frist is among those who would be pleased to see cost containment achieved. "With so many dollars spent on healthcare, the delivery system in this country must be restructured to see that the expenditures are used for the greatest amount of good and benefit to the consumer. One of the keys to controlling healthcare costs will be to reduce unnecessary hospital admission, testing and length of stay. The hospital of the future will be caring for a more intensively ill patient. If HCA can take a constructive role in this evolutionary process, then we will not only survive but will prosper during the coming years," Frist said.

One of the keys to HCA's success has been what Frist calls the "umbrella effect" of having such a large number of hospitals. The risk of significant adverse impact on the company due to regional occurrences such as weather, a weak economy, changes in regulation, or nursing shortages is minimized by having 376 hospitals, geographically dispersed throughout the world. "Our 85,000 employees can work together to turn problems into opportunities," he said.

"Another factor in the umbrella effect is HCA's non-hospital profit centers," Frist said. The company has its own captive insurance company, regional laboratories and an ambulance company. In addition, the contracts to manage hospitals in Saudi Arabia have been an important contributor to HCA's growth.

But one of the most amazing things about Frist and the HCA management team is that Frist demands that every decision be looked at from the perspective of what its long-term effect will be on the company.

"If you look at the great American companies, such as AT&T, IBM, Procter & Gamble, the one thing that is consistent throughout their histories is that in good and bad times those companies will not compromise their quality," Frist said.

"Those companies are long-term oriented, and as long as I'm around, we will always maintain that long-term perspective rather than trying to maximize short-term gains at the expense of quality."

A physician by training, Frist said he had to overcome the perception in the business community that a doctor does not know what he is doing when it comes to running a business. "When you have that M.D. degree, the connotation is that person may be very skilled in taking care of patients but doesn't know a thing about taking care of a business," he said. "I consider myself a professional manager who happens to have a medical degree."

Frist, who is married to his childhood sweetheart, the former Patricia Gail Champion, is a devoted family man, a trait he learned from his father. "No matter how many patients my father had or how busy he was doing other things," recalled Frist, "he always seemed to have time for his children. I have learned that it takes the same commitment to be a successful family man as it does a businessman. I happen to believe that the two are not incompatible."

At 44, Frist does not plan to stay as head of HCA for the next 20 years, but said, instead, he will step aside after a reasonable length of time and pursue other interests. "One of the problems with a company such as HCA that has had such phenomenal growth in such a short period of time is that senior management is young, with many talented individuals," he explained. "You can't stymie those individuals, and you have to give them an opportunity to rise to the very top."

As one of HCA's founders, Frist, naturally, has had a hand in shaping the philosophy of the company from its infancy. And that philosophy is inextricably wound together with the philosophy of Frist and his father—both physicians, and both trained to help their fellow human beings.

"To me, the fun part is the tremendous opportunity our company and our people have to make a positive contribution to healthcare throughout the world," Frist said. "The ultimate success of HCA will be determined by whether or not we meet the needs of our society in a responsible manner." ■

The Des Moines Alumni Club of Phi Delta Theta met April 20, 1983 in the Des Moines Room of the Savary Hotel. About 60 alumni and undergraduates attended. OREGON ALPHA

Our much looked forward to Sunriver Reunion is now history and according to all reports everyone had a great time. The weather was clear and warm—almost too warm for some who came prepared for cool temperatures—the facilities appeared to offer sufficient diversity to take care of most attendants' interests and we had a good turn out.

Sunday night the "early birds" gathered in our suite for cocktails. Monday night was the big cocktail party hosted by the Fletchers of San Diego—Wig, Steve and Louise, and Ferd and Virginia. They were assisted by Ed Kier who was in charge of hors d'oeuvres. George Weber provided slides, and the Dolph Siegrists and the Bill Hammonds displayed a variety of memorabilia covering the classes represented.

Tuesday during the day many golfed, played tennis, swam, walked and engaged in bull sessions, and Dr. John Hammond, an expert on Oregon geology and botany, took a large group on a nature tour which produced some delighted responses. Then that evening the whole group met in the Lodge for a no-host cocktail party and banquet. George Weber did his usual fine job as Master of Ceremonies and he and Maxine Hammond did some double piano numbers for group singing.

The brunch Wednesday morning was well attended and, as in the past, turned out to be the "business meeting" of the group. Cliff Powers, our "finance officer", explained that the $10 registration fee collected from each couple (and single) was to be used to defray expenses incurred in setting up the reunion and the balance would be donated to the active chapter. He collected the moneys for registration, the dinner and the brunch, and will arrange to have the amount after expenses, expected to be well in excess of $300, presented to the chapter this fall.

Then came the question of another reunion. It was moved that we have the next reunion at Salishan on the Oregon Coast the latter part of September, 1984. There was an enthusiastic 2nd and the motion passed unanimously. Ed Wells then said he and Kay would like to duplicate what they did for us at Salishan in 1981. This generous invitation was roundly applauded and for the information of those who weren't there it was cocktails and dinner at their attractive Salishan home. The final item on the agenda was selection of the Chairman for the next reunion and Dr. George Chamberlain was elected by acclamation. He will name his own committee.

The Committee did a fine job in contacting the members of their respective classes prior to the reunion. Joe and Mildred Bally chaired the Reception Committee and were ably assisted by Budge and Joy Wright. Jerry Lillie arranged for the various group recreational activities. George and Lois Mimnaugh traveled to Sunriver with us to check out the facilities there prior to the reunion, and George got together the Portland members of the Committee for several meetings.

It has been a privilege to serve as your

WASHINGTON

On April 22, alumni from the Washington, DC area attended the 99th Annual Founders Day Dinner at the Hyatt Arlington Hotel in Rosslyn, Virginia.

At the dinner, an alumni directory listing over 2,000 Phis in the Washington, DC metropolitan area was introduced. Over 250 area Phis helped to publish the directory through contributions.

The production of the directory identified the need for a club name change to reflect the entire area membership. The club is now referred to as the Metropolitan Washington, DC Alumni Club.

To provide opportunities for all Phis in the metropolitan area to attend meetings, the location of monthly meetings will vary.

A major discussion topic to come before the club's monthly meetings this year will be the celebration of the club's 100th anniversary in 1984.

For information on monthly meetings or to order a club directory ($15), write or call the club's secretary-treasurer, Cameron Dubes, 501 Slaters Lane #411, Alexandria, VA 22314, (703) 548-3726.

Fraternity to Publish Directory

BY RUSTY RICHARDSON
Director of Alumni Services

Good news for all alumni of Phi Delta Theta! . . . the Fraternity has responded to much alumni demand by authorizing the preparation of a revised directory of alumni. The last alumni directory was published over 10 years ago! This new, full information directory will be a valuable, personal, and professional reference volume for all alumni.

The comprehensive volume will list alumni alphabetically with each entry to indicate name, class, chapter, address, and will include home telephone, and business or professional information with address, and telephone. Two complete indexes, one arranged geographically by towns within states, and the other, special listing of alumni by chapter, will follow the alphabetical division.

Updated information will be derived from brief questionnaires mailed to alumni in August and September of 1984 and followed up by telephone in the Winter for research and verification of the directory information. At that time alumni will be able to place an order for a copy of the directory. Only enough directories to fill these pre-publication orders will be printed, and circulation will be restricted to alumni. Release of the directory is currently scheduled for late Spring, 1985.

The Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc., has been selected as the official publisher. Recognized as the oldest and largest exclusive publisher of alumni directories, they have completed over the past two decades, alumni directories for more than 700 fraternities, colleges and universities. The project will be undertaken at virtually no cost to Phi Delta Theta. Harris has contracted to compile, publish, and market the directory, financing the operation solely through the sale of individual directory copies to alumni only.

Look for updates on this important project in upcoming issues of The Scroll. ■

Dickert, Holling Named Province Leaders

Arby D. Dickert, Jr. (Clemson '76) and Thomas L. Holling (Washington-St. Louis '51) have recently been named new province presidents by the General Council.

Dickert will work in Delta South, consisting of chapters in North Carolina and South Carolina. This position has been vacant for almost six months.

Holling will replace Rody Smith (Texas Tech '70), who is moving to Denver, in Mu East. The province includes all the Missouri chapters.

DICKERT

Following graduation from the McCallie School in Chattanooga, TN., Dickert enrolled in Clemson where he received a Bachelor of Science in Chemical Engineering. He was a four-year letterman at Clemson as a member of the school's swimming team. He served as chorister, alumni secretary and president of his chapter as an undergraduate and, in more recent years, has served as chapter adviser. He and his wife, Deborah, are parents of one daughter.

Holling will be remembered by many as the chairman of the host committee for the 1982 General Convention in St. Louis. He is president of Special Assignment, Inc., a management and financial

McIlhenny Wins Harmon-Rice Award

BY DR. JOHN DAVIS, JR.
Sports Editor

Lance McIlhenny (SMU '84), All-Southwest Conference quarterback of Cotton Bowl champion SMU, edged Gene Segrest (Texas Tech '83), All-Southwest Conference baseball player and two-time Academic All-American, in a run-off to win this year's Harmon-Rice award.

The two finished in a tie after the initial balloting with 27 points each. This marked the third time in four years that a tie resulted in the balloting for this award.

McIlhenny is the third underclassman to win this honor, the other pair being football players Rex Kern (Ohio State '81) and Jack Mildren (Oklahoma '72). Neither repeated as seniors.

The SMU quarterback has led the Mustangs to a 24-2-1 record and two SWC titles in his first three years. This past season he carried them to a Cotton Bowl victory over Pitt and was named the bowl's "Most Valuable Player." SMU finished second in the national rankings of both wire services last year.

He is a business major seeking a career in the oil business (following in the footsteps of his father). Although engaging in football he will graduate in four years. He was chaplain of his pledge class and

Lance lived in the Phi Delta house this past year and was social chairman during the spring semester. He has always been willing to donate his time to represent his fraternity and SMU on any occasion when it has been requested. He represented the school the past two years in answering phones at the Leukemia Telethon. He worked on the Easter Seal Telethon and this past spring represented SMU at the Underprivileged Children's Day at the Zoo.

Segrest graduated from Texas Tech with a 3.7 on a 4 point scale and is now attending Texas Tech Law School. Considering the time and travel involved in playing baseball it is remarkable that he was able to maintain this high grade point average and graduate in four years.

He has been on the Dean's Honor Roll all eight semesters. He was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and also received his chapter's Roy T. Grimes Scholarship Award last spring given to the graduating senior with the highest GPA.

He began his career as a pitcher and infielder but ended up as a first baseman. This year he was named to the Associated Press First Team All-Southwest Conference as a designated hitter. He was also named to the First Team Academic All-American for the second consecutive year.

This past season he hit .363 for the year and .380 in SWC play. Earlier in the summer he was named the 1982-83 winner of the George Trautman Trophy as the fraternity's outstanding baseball player.

Completing the top five in the initial balloting were Scott Reppert (Lawrence '83), three-time Division III All-American; Alan Hutchinson (DePauw '84), a swimmer; and Michael Sidor (Allegheny '83), Magna Cum Laude football player. ■

Segrest Captures Trautman Hono

Gene Segrest (Texas Tech '83), All Southwest Conference baseball player and top scholar, has been named winner of the George Trautman Award, symbolic of the top Phi Delt collegiate baseball player for the past season.

Segrest beat Rick Rose (Whitman '84), All-Northwest Conference and All-NAIA District first baseman, and Jim Crisanti (Washington-St. Louis '85), a shortstop with a .385 average, for the award. Rose finished second and Crisanti third.

Segrest is a four-year letterman at Texas Tech. He began his career as a pitcher and infielder and ended it as a first baseman. This past season he was named to the Associated Press first team All-Southwest Conference as a designated hitter and was also named to the Austin-American Statesman All-SWC team.

He was named this season as a first team Academic All-American for the second year in a row.

This year he hit .363 on the year and .380 in SWC play. He had eight doubles, two triples and four home runs. He led the Red Raiders in runs scored (35) and shared the team lead in runs scored (17) in SWC play. He had 26 RBIs and 11 in SWC play. He led the team in putouts (359).

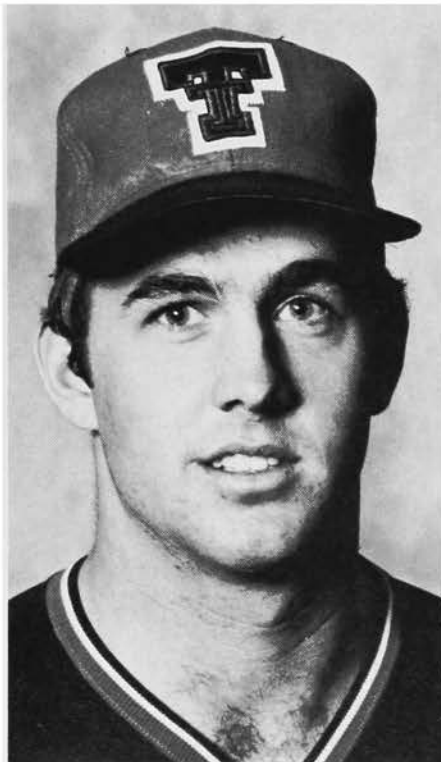

This past summer he was selected to play with Athletes in Action and went on a tour of the Far East with the team.

Gene graduated in four years with a 3.7 grade average (on a 4 pt. scale) majoring in history and pre-law. He is now attending the Texas Tech Law School. Considering the amount of travel the baseball team engages in each spring it is almost impossible for a young man to graduate in four years, much less with these kinds of grades.

He has been on the Dea Honor Roll all eight semesters and has been elected to Omicron De Kappa, Phi Alpha Theta and Sigma Alpha. He has also been named in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

He pledged Phi Delta Theta a sophomore in the fall, 1981. He was chosen by his pledge class to receive the Morton George Williams Award recognizing him as the "Most Outstanding Pledge." He has been an active member of the chapter despite his baseball involvement. This spring he was named to receive the Roy Grimes Scholarship Award given by the chapter to the graduating senior with the highest grade point average.

SEGREST

The Drake Archives for Greek Achievement (DAGA) was formally dedicated at the University on July 9. The archives, which center around a nearly-complete collection of badges from Drake's fraternities and sororities dating back to 1891, took over two years to assemble.

The archives was the joint undertaking of Coordinator of Greek Life Sheree L. Clark and Drake alumnus, Lynden Lyman. The archives is on permanent display in the Student Activities Office, Aolmsted Center.

Included in the collection is the badge of Phi Delta Theta, representing the Iowa Delta chapter.

Spearheading the movement have been David Plater (Williams '58), John Miller (Williams '58) and non-Phi Fred Clifford. They were able to get Schmidt enrolled in a program to help his rehabilitation and have hired a lawyer to act as his advocate.

A year ago, he was enrolled in a new program for the head-injured at Perkins School in Watertown, MS. As a result he shows more coordination, his speech has improved and he seems more outgoing.

Robert J. Miller, executive vice president, was the speaker for the opening night dinner for Delta Gamma's Seminar for Advisory Board Chairmen meeting at Ohio State in February.

He entertained officers and advisers with his views of the fraternity system, the Phi Delta Theta-Delta Gamma connection through the membership in Delta Gamma of George Banta, and a reading of the announcement of the wedding of George Banta to Delta Gamma Lillian Vawter.

Published in an 1881 issue of The Scroll, the announcement is a charming example of the social journalism of that period.

Asked for the secret of his long life, Ward modestly replied, "There was nothing I could do about it."

Aldrich Lawson M. (Brown '33), The Cheechako. Camden: Down East Books, 1982. 183 pp. Given by author.

This book is in no way meant to provide a complete cookbook. Rather, you will find an eclectic choice of old-time family recipes plus those that have developed or adapted and served at The Cheechako Restaurant in Damariscotta, Maine.

Haugland, Vern (Montana '31), The Eagles' War. New York: Jason Aronson, 1982. 234 pp. Given by author.

In this book, Vern Haugland and the pilots themselves tell the full story of the first American to fly against the Axis—the men of the Eagle Squadrons of the Royal Air Force.

Facing enormous trials as members of the RAF and then as the core of the U.S. Eighth Air Force's 4th Fighter Group, the Eagles racked up perhaps the finest score of any group of Allied airmen in World War II.

These young, inexperienced Yanks took on the hardened veterans of the Luftwaffe, suffering heavy casualties. After Pearl Harbor, they shouldered the task of leading the way to aerial victory in Europe. They captured the imagination of the free world, but only now is their story accurately told, as they experienced it.

Their history includes action over embattled Britain, hazardous sweeps at tree-top level through France, and furious dogfights in defense of Malta and in the smashing of the Afrika Korps. Their stories take us on wild missions over Dieppe, escorting Allied bombers deep into Germany and in close support of the D-Day invasion.

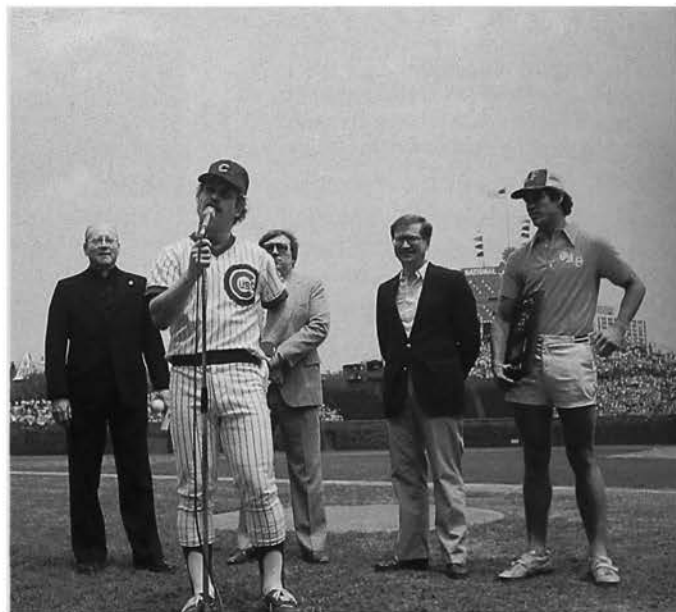

Vern Haugland, himself a correspondent familiar with air combat, has gathered the experiences of the Eagles' war and provides here the very sensations of that struggle.

GEHRIG AWARD PRESENTATION: RON CEY (Washington State '70), winner of the 1982 Lou Gehrig Award, received the award in presentation ceremonies at Wrigley Field on June 11. Present for the presentation were Fr. David Turner (Minnesota

McClain Turns Wisconsin Around

Dave McClain (Bowling Green '60) began his sixth season as head coach at Wisconsin this fall after a highly successful coaching stint at Ball State.

His overall 73-53-5 record for 12 seasons as a head coach ranks him among the nation's Top Twenty coaches, with a winning percentage of .576. He was 46-25-3 at Ball State and his record at Wisconsin is 27-28-2.

McCLAIN dropping to two consecutive years of 4-7 marks he began to turn the program around.

In his first season with the Badgers, he became the first coach since Ivan Williamson in 1949 to post a winning mark as a first year coach. His 1978 Badgers were 5-4-2. After

In 1981 the Badgers went 7-5-0 including the first Bowl appearance for a Wisconsin team since 1962. Their 6-3-0 Big Ten record was good for a third place tie, and included wins over traditional powers Michigan and Ohio State. The Badgers lost to Tennessee 28-21 in the Garden State Bowl.

Last year he became the first coach in Wisconsin history to guide the Badgers to back-to-back bowl games and accomplished what no other Wisconsin coach has been able to do—win a post season bowl game. They beat Kansas State 14-3 in the Independence Bowl to cap a second consecutive 7-5 year, which included the first victory over Ohio State in Columbus since 1918.

McClain played college football at Bowling Green where his team went 45-5-4. He was a quarterback and a defensive safety. He began his coaching career at Crestline, Ohio High School with an 8-1 record in 1960 and then spent several seasons as an assistant at Bowling Green, Cornell, Miami-Ohio, Kansas and Ohio State. He was an assistant to "Bo" Schembechler at Miami and worked under "Woody" Hayes at Ohio State. He took the head job at Ball State in 1971.

He has been honored by being selected as one of the coaches for the Hula Bowl in 1982 and the Japan Bowl in 1983. He served in 1982 as a member of a special subcommittee of the NCAA Recruiting Committee to review proposed recruiting legislation under consideration for submission to the NCAA Council and the NCAA's annual convention.

Dave and his wife, Judy, have three children—son, Tom, 17 and daughters Mindy 15, and Marcy, 12.

Wrestling Peers Honor Dr. Meyer

Dr. Frank "Dutch" Meyer (Nebraska '51), who has taught health and physical education and coached wrestling at Catawba College for 14 years, was recently honored by the NAIA District 26 as its wrestling "Coach of the Year."

District 26 coaches presented him with a plaque which read: "We honor Dr. Frank 'Dutch' Meyer for his dedication of 25 years to the sport of wrestling. Coaches of NAIA District 26 extend our sincerest appreciation for his leadership and ability in upgrading wrestling in North Carolina, 1983."

MEYER

Meyer is giving up his coaching desires and will continue as a health and physical education instructor. "I'll miss it (coaching)," said Meyer, "but I'll be involved in clinics and tournaments, at least next year."

He has held his annual wrestling clinic for junior high school and high school students for 12 years. Attendance averages around 200, but there were approximately 320 at the clinic last year.

Over the years he has started wrestling programs at five schools—Glassboro State College in New Jersey, Presbyterian Junior College (now St. Andrews), and Catawba in North Carolina, and two high schools in California.

The Lincoln, NE native graduated from the University of Nebraska, where he played football and wrestled in intramurals, in 1951.

After graduation he spent two years at the University of Colorado as an assistant football coach under Dal Ward (Oregon State '27), recently deceased, and got his masters degree in health and physical education. "Dal was like a father to me and many of his coaches and players. He gave me my 'break' in coaching," said Meyer.

In California, he taught at two high schools, coaching football and starting wrestling programs at each place, then went to Alan Hancock Junior College as head football coach. His early North Carolina positions, beginning in 1960, were one year at Presbyterian Junior College, then four at Appalachian.

He left the state to obtain his doctorate at the University of West Virginia in 1965, then coached four years at Glassboro State. He then settled down at Catawba in 1969.

At Catawba he has had only one losing season in 14 years. The college does not give scholarships. They did give Meyer $1,800 each year for the last four and he split it evenly among the wrestlers.

Moeller Constructs Course

Acting on the advice and suggestions of friends and customers, Jerry Moeller (Ball State '67) set out in 1978 to build an 18-hole golf-course/practice range adjacent to a restaurant and motel that he ran in Fremont, Indiana.

Today that dream is a reality. The Country Meadows 18-hole public golf course opened on June 10, 1982. The course is a 1983 NGF Associate Member.

Also ready to accommodate the mini-vacation, weekend get-away clientele is a 50-room motel, dining room, cocktail lounge, swimming pool and tennis court. There is even a fishing area (the golf course has five ponds).

The course is less than a half day's drive from metro areas such as Chicago, Indianapolis, Detroit, Toledo or Columbus. Forty per cent of the players come from weekday and weekend packages; another 30 percent from vacationers staying at other resorts in the area; 20 percent from scheduled Fifteen of his former wrestlers are now head coaches at other schools. Another former wrestler is his son, Jeff, who wrestled at Catawba. Before his senior year, he was injured in an automobile accident in Shallotte in eastern North Carolina. Jeff, 24, has been in a coma since that tragic accident in May, 1979, but Dr. and Mrs. Meyer have never given up hope for his recovery.

Jeff is in Davie County Hospital in Mocksville. "The last three years have been tough but our faith in God and Jesus Christ and the prayers of many people helped us bear our burden," commented Meyer.

The Meyers' other children are son Marty, who wrestled in junior and senior high school, and daughter Wendy, who is co-captain of the University of North Carolina's women's gymnastics team. ■ tournaments and outings; and 10 percent from local resident play.

The course was built around water holes, huge old trees and the hilly terrain. Level lies can be rare. Hitting to greens you can't see isn't unusual. Position is more important than distance. It is what Moeller calls a "thinking man's golf course."

In 1978 Moeller found several investors, borrowed $350,000 and overcame a variety of setbacks to begin the venture. He hired Al Edmonson to design and build the 5,933-yard course. Among Edmonson's previous accomplishments was developing the master plan for Jack Nicklaus' Murfield Village Golf Complex near Dublin, OH.

Moeller was an original founder of a local fraternity, XKE, at Ball State in 1964-65. After he graduated in 1967, he was invited back to be initiated and receive Bond Number One for the Ball State chapter of Phi Delta Theta. He considers it a great honor to this day. ■

Sauer Molds Badger Hockey

In what was to be a transition year, first year Head Coach Jeff Sauer (Colorado College '65) guided the Badger hockey team to its fourth NCAA championship last year, their second in the last three years.

Sauer molded the Badger squad slowly but surely and over the final two months of the season it became the best college hockey team in the country, suffering only one loss in its last 15 games.

The Badgers defeated Harvard 6-2 in the title game and finished the season with a record of 33-10-4.

Sauer had been head coach at Colorado College for the previous 12 seasons, compiling a record of 184-233-11. He was named WCHA "Coach of the Year" in his first season, 1971, and again in 1975.

He graduated and played hockey and baseball at Colorado College under Bob Johnson. He then became an assistant under Johnson at Colorado College in 1966 and followed Johnson to Wisconsin in that same position in 1968. He was named head coach at his alma mater in 1971.

He has been active nationally serving as a member of the NCAA Ice Hockey Rules Committee, is the current chairman of the WCHA Coach's Committee and is on the 1984 Olympic Hockey Committee. He is also involved with several nation-wide hockey clinics and directs his own hockey school in the summer.

He and his wife, Jamie, have two children, Chip, 7, and Beth 2. ■

SPORTS SHORTS

A trio of North Dakota athletes inducted in late May to their Sports Hall of Fame included J. GORDON CALDIS (North Dakota '42), a Grand Forks attorney who served on the Athletic Board of Control for over 20 years. GORDY was a two-way football performer and started every game during the 1939-40-41 seasons except one. He was also a letterman in basketball and track. He was elected co-captain of the football team for the 1941 season. Following his discharge from service he enrolled in UND law school and received his degree in 1948. He is currently president of the law firm of Caldís and Arneson Ltd. North Dakota University Hall of Fame now numbers 79.

BRIAN CLAAR (Tampa '81), a 24-year-old first-year pro who plays out of Tampa, won the $2,000 first prize in the Rhode Island Golf Association Open Championships at Valley Country Club in Warwick, RI this summer. He did so by tapping in an easy two-foot putt for a birdie on the fifth hole of a sudden-death playoff with Chick Evans. He ended the tourney with rounds of 72-69-71 for a total 212... RUSS POTTS (Maryland '63), who helped develop a program at SMU while he was athletic director that last year won two national titles in outdoor and indoor track and finished second nationally in football, swimming and tennis, has organized a Dallas company called Sports Productions, Inc. Over the past two years he has acquired the exclusive TV rights to the Southeastern, the Southwest, the Metro and the Western Athletic conferences, covering nearly 50% of the country's college basketball coverage...

Dr. DONALD R. ERNST (Penn State '33) won the Regional Masters Championship Gold Medal in the 5,000 Meter Walk and then competed in the Athletics Congress of the USA Eastern Regional Masters Track and Field Championship at East Stroudsburg State College, PA in June.

JOSH HENSON (Michigan '72) was head official for the sombo wrestling events at the Pan American Games in Caracas, Venezuela in August 1983. HENSON is a former AAU National Champion and Pan American Champion in the sport. Henson is currently the highest ranking official for sombo wrestling in the hemisphere.

GARY ASHBY (Texas Tech '78) was named head baseball coach at Texas Tech late this summer. ASHBY, winner of the fraternity's George Trautman Award in 1977, was an All-SWC performer at first base, both his junior and senior years. He set the school records for most doubles in a season (11), most home runs (11), most doubles in SWC play (7) and most runs batted in (54). He was drafted by the San Diego Padres and played minor league ball at Walla Walla, Washington, Amarillo, Texas; and Honolulu before returning to Texas Tech as an assistant coach.

Phi Tests Use of Alcohol As Plane Fuel

Edmond L. "Skip" Eveleth (Brown '32) recently headed up a team of researchers at Alabama Aviation and Technical College that tested the effects of fuel alcohol on an aircraft engine.

The study lasted two years and was funded by the Alabama Department of Energy utilizing alternate fuels and synthetic oil in aircraft engines. Eveleth, director of research and development at AATC, has a long history of researching the use of alcohol as a fuel. He has produced a documentary on alcohol-fueled racers at Indianapolis and points out that a number of other performance engines utilizing alcohol fuels.

The results of the testing showed that engines ran over 100 degrees cooler in the cruising range and also burned cleaner than regular aviation gas. "It is believed that since heat is an enemy to an engine, there should be less maintenance when using alcohol," Eveleth said. The school is now seeking grant money to conduct further tests concerning the use of alternate fuels in turbine aircraft engines, which are used to power most of the military's helicopters.

Eveleth, 74, spent most of his life at United Aircraft, now known as United Technologies. He was an official of Pratt and Whitney Aircraft and later a sales manager for many years of Sikorsky Aircraft where his office was adjacent to the great aviation genius, Igor I. Sikorsky.

He has patents on three pieces of aviation equipment, among which is an aerovane, a weather-vane, and a tie down mooring device to protect airplanes and helicopters from hull damage during wind storms.

After a unique lifetime of travel and work he is writing a book entitled Achievers, which will consist of anecdotes and behind-the-scene stories never before told about many famous personalities.

His acquaintances reads like an aviation hall of fame. One of his prized possessions is the life story of Sikorsky on tape and also a complete set of photographs of all his airplanes, slying boats and helicopters.

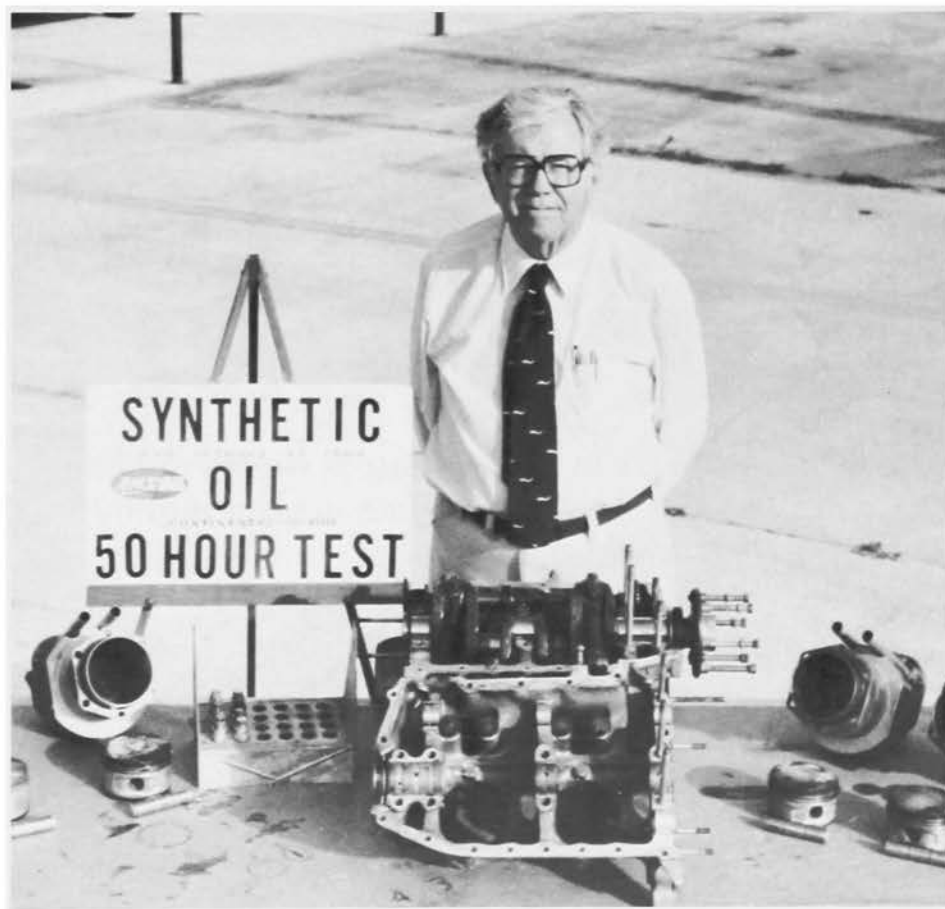

While at Pratt and Whitney, Eveleth spent two years with Howard Hughes on his racing plane, four years with Charles Lindbergh, who was a consultant to United Aircraft, and many years with such other aviation greats as General "Hap" Arnold, Jimmy Doolittle, Roscoe Turner, Frank Hawks, Jacqueline Cochrane, and a host of others in aviation.

During this period he was the author of three aircraft design engine texts and one of aviation carburetors, and in addition, he ran a series of cooperative fuel research tests for the large oil companies, using a variety of Pratt and Whitney Aircraft engines that were so extensively flown in our fighters and bombers in World War II.

He has long held a fascination for filming races. He has photographed thousands of feet of film of both yacht and power boat racing. He also films auto races and claims to have the world's largest private portfolio of auto racing footage, both still photos and motion pictures.

The 74-year-old widower, who lives in Ozark, Alabama, never grows tired of talking about his life-long love affair with airplanes, boats and automobiles. ■

The Use—And Abuse—of Alcohol

Alcoholic beverages have played a prominent role in the lives of college-age men in both the United States and Canada. Some argue that alcohol abuse is a mounting problem while others claim this to be an overstatement. The General Council of Phi Delta Theta believes there to be a potential crisis that merits close attention.

Alcohol abuse is becoming a major problem in society today both on and off campuses. Drinking habits developed during college years can surface with debilitating effects in later life. Evidence of this problem is provided by many sources including college officials, newspapers, and health services, general officers of our Fraternity, as well as through direct observation.

We can see the effects of this problem as it has manifested itself in the following ways:

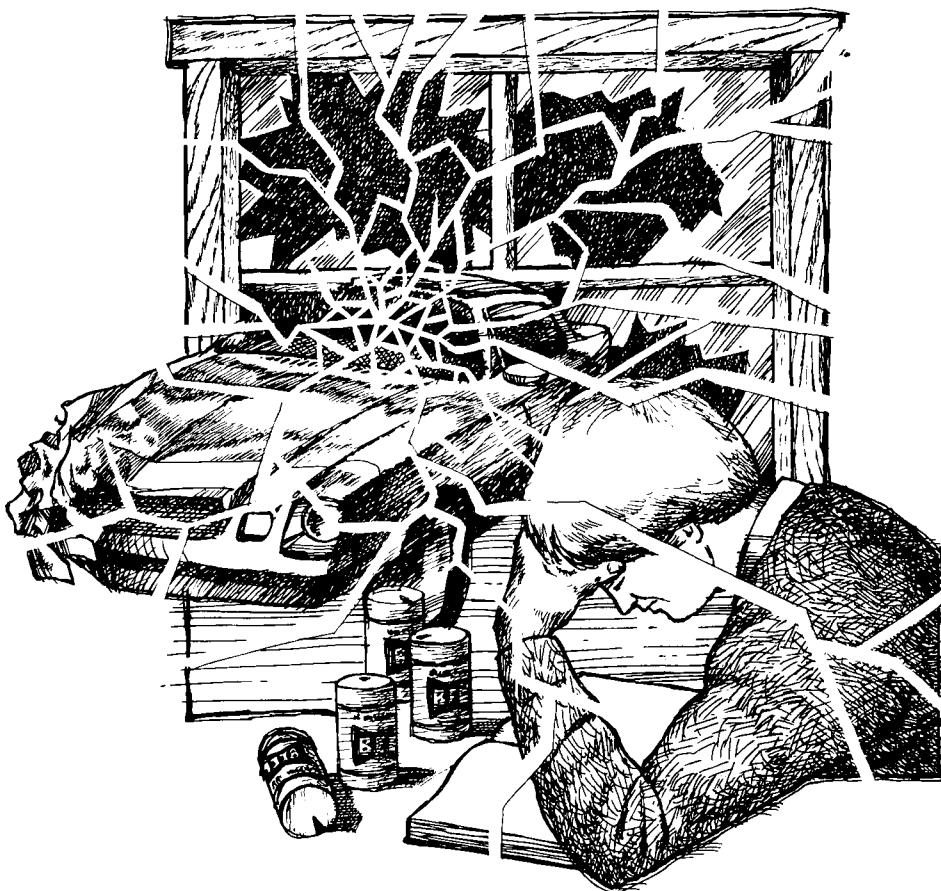

1. A marked impairment of academic performance (grade decline) because of missed classes, reduced levels of concentration, and diminished motivation.

2. A significant deterioration of personal relationships, both person-to-person and person-to-chapter, caused by an impaired self-image and shifts in personality.

3. Increases in property damage both to chapter houses and to the personal possessions of others.

4. Reports made by health professionals indicate irreversible effects upon mental and physical health as a result of long-term abuse of alcohol.

Drinking in and of itself does not constitute a problem. It is the abuse or overuse of alcohol that is of concern to those who provide leadership to the Fraternity. The General Council does not wish to ban the use of alcohol in our chapter houses, but rather we seek to promote a program which stresses the responsible use and the reasonable drinking of alcohol by those who freely choose to do so.

Following its cardinal principle of sound learning, Phi Delta Theta as a fraternity desires its members to view alcohol education as an important part of the total education program of its members. The fraternity experience seeks to help every member prepare for healthy living now and for the years to come.

The university or college where a chapter of Phi Delta Theta is located is a resource which should not go unused or become diminished because of alcohol-related problems. The goals of the Fraternity will be achieved when alcohol is used responsibly in the chapter houses, at the appropriate times, when city, state, and campus regulations are observed, and when brothers are free to make individual decisions unencumbered by negative peer pressure.

Through a coordinated educational program used by its chapters, Phi Delta Theta hopes to develop in its members healthy and productive living on the campuses and for the years ahead. ■

The Space Walk of Story Musgrave

Editor's Note: On April 4, 1983 the Shuttle Orbiter Challenger lifted off into space carrying Dr. Story Musgrave (Syracuse '58) as a Mission Specialist. At 4:15 p.m. on April 7, Dr. Musgrave, with fellow astronaut Donald Peterson, left the airlock of the Challenger for a three and one-half hour walk in space, and became the first Americans to do so in nine years. The following interview with Dr. Musgrave was conducted and edited by Helen D. Kerrick for St. Mark's Magazine. Dr. Musgrave attended St. Mark's School in Southborough, MA and graduated in 1953. This interview is reprinted with permission of St. Mark's Magazine.

The approaching flight of the Challenger and the flight itself were of tremendous significance to me, not only because of the technical performance it would require and the sense of adventure, but because it would be the culmination of many years of work and training. It would represent the essence of my occupational existence over many years. Of special importance would be the spacewalk because I had worked for eleven years as the astronaut who helped design the airlock spacesuit and associated hardware and had helped develop the procedures for their use.

We had an original date for launch in December, but it got pretty firm for January 20. Close to the launch date we went down to Florida for a practice launch, or "dry count," which means we went out to the launch pad and practiced absolutely everything except lighting the engines. Even that is pretty darned exciting. We train so much in simulators, airplanes, in so many different situations, that after a while you begin to wonder about the reality; is this leading to something real. When you're in the van going to the launch pad, you know it really means business, that somebody is really going to do something with you. Then with the engine problems we got into a "slip" (delay) and went to February 4. That didn't bother us emotionally; I've been in this business for 16 years, testing new vehicles and such, and you get used to these things happening.

Delays

After a while, with the other delays, I can't say we got frustrated, but instead the "slips" made me realize how difficult the decisions were that must be made by the program managers. We all knew that as soon as they got ready they would tell us, "Hey, we want you down in Florida two days from now to go," and we would fly down and go. So, while a lot of people were wondering what was happening to the crew, we were empathizing with the people who were making the decisions and trying to get the job done.

For me, three weeks prior to launch date was the point at which I would start feeling we were really going to do it, and I would start revving myself up. That's when I could feel it and smell it and know it was going to happen. Of course, we got within three weeks several times, so I had to ride that yo-yo a few times. I had a lot of practice in revving my engines and bringing them back to idle again. It wasn't exciting but it wasn't frustrating either, just an emotional thing you go through.

Finally, they got it together and I knew when we went to Florida that time that we were finally going to do it. The week before we got down there, the jet stream was so strong that it would have created too much stress on the vehicle. The day we got down there, two days before the launch, was a "no-go" day. The day before the launch was a "no-go" day. The weather men kept saying every day that it was going to move. When we got to bed the night before the launch, we had less than a 50-50 chance of going. I wanted to know I was going to get up and go. I just wanted it to be that simple. We had to go to sleep not knowing.

Launch day we woke up with a definite go and got on with it. Sitting in the van this time I knew this really meant business, that what we were doing was not another rehearsal and that something real was going to happen.

During the two hour wait on the launch pad, my only anxiety was that we might not get off. I wasn't thinking about the risk involved, in this kind of business you just accept the risk. I wanted to light those solids and go wherever they took me. After all I had put into the program, this mission and waiting through all the "slips," I wanted to get out on the elevator to space, not the one back to earth. When the solids lit, and boy did they light, I felt a tremendous relief that we were going and we were going to do this thing.

The Launch

The launch was a push, a lot of noise, several vibrations, but much more benign than we had expected.

MUSGRAVE

After the solid rocket boosters extinguished and fell away, the ride was totally quiet and as smooth as glass. Eight and one-half minutes after launch the main engines shut down and five days of sheer pleasure without the constraints of gravity began.

Once we reached zero-G, and throughout the mission, I felt like I'd been there my whole life. I swallowed up zero gravity just like that; it was old home week. Most people need to maintain a reference point of up or down in space. I never had an up or down in space; the floor wasn't down, I had no emotional feeling that that was down, just as the earth wasn't down. In my mental process there didn't have to be an up or down. I think that made my adaptation to space, to zero-G, so comfortable. I'm not sure exactly how that occurred; I'd like to know how that occurred so that we could condition other people to have that sense.

My activities, which involved the extensive checkout and deployment of our 40,000 payload, the TDRS satellite and the attached IUS rocket which would carry it into a 22,000 mile orbit, went very well. The procedures for deployment went exactly "by the book" and the ground controllers and we were confident that all was well. It was a tremendous disappointment to us all that a later failure prevented the satellite from reaching its planned orbit. It wasn't much of a consolation to us that we had done our part well, because that's why we flew, to get that satellite up there.

After deployment, sleep was in the plan, but I was still too revved up for that. We were in space and you don't get to space every day; I couldn't see wasting the time. I began checking out the spacesuits in preparation for the walk which would occur on day four. They checked out perfectly and I knew, as I always had, that we were going to "open the hatch."

The Spacewalk

and moved around totally at ease. I let go and didn't mind coasting. Here's the orbiter going along and I'm not going anywhere. I knew emotionally I'm not going to fall, I'm not going to separate from the earth, I can take a tool and put it here and it's going to coast along with us. I didn't care where the sun was, where the earth was—actually I was hanging upside down 170 miles above the earth. My reference frame was the structure of the orbiter, my work stations, the handholds. I did not experience any direction as being down. Nor did I experience any sense of time as you know it on earth. I was totally separated from it. Going around the earth every hour and a half, you get about 55 minutes of daytime and about 35 minutes of night. The only clock I had was mission time which referred to how long we had been into the mission and the scheduled events of the mission. That was the only time I knew; I was totally disassociated from any other reference.

The spacewalk was somewhat of a disappointment because I wanted to experience something that you can only experience up there. I wanted it to be totally unique; some kind of religious, spiritual or "out of this world" experience—but it never came. The view was fantastic; the velocity, at 18,000 miles per hour at about 170 miles above the earth was very fast. The lack of gravity, of any feeling of up or down was kind of spectacular. What you could see with the eyes was absolutely extraordinary. The beauty and rapidity of the sunrises and sunsets was very impressive, almost as fast as turning the lights on and off with a switch. The ice chips that flaked off the backpack's sublimators twinkled in the sunlight all around the orbiter, creating our own little galaxy.

The spacewalk went very smoothly. The environment and the performance of the tasks were so comfortable that I felt I had been there many times before. It's amazing that a human being can be so comfortable in an environment that is really so foreign. This speaks very well for our training, the total preparation, the psychological getting ready and the imagination and extrapolation of what it's going to be like when you get there. There are very few surprises and you find yourself in a very comfortable position.

'The fraternity gave me a place to hang my hat. . . It was a place to call home.'

Landing

Entry and landing, as was the entire mission, were smooth and as expected—"no surprises," as we say. On attaining some gravity again we did feel a little heavier than usual, like weighing 200 pounds instead of 150 pounds. I felt elated to have completed our mission successfully, but of course would have liked to stay in my new home a little longer.

For reasons not totally clear to me, my first week home was a real "bummer." Maybe in part—"How can we top that?" or, "What is next?" Maybe it was the long days of debriefing or not being on the hot seat any more and not knowing exactly when I might get back on it. Postscript: On the weekend of Nov. 7-10 Dr. Musgrave attended a reunion hosted by the New York Epsilon chapter at Syracuse. "We had a great week at Syracuse," he reported. "Especially at the big affair at the chapter house on Nov. 8."

"The fraternity gave me a place to hang my hat," he said. "It was a place to call home. This was a very important experience in my life. I made some of my closest friendships in the chapter. It was a place to put down roots."

He is next scheduled to be on the flight of Space Lab II, scheduled for March, 1985. ■

Come To New Orleans This Summer!

Phi Delta Theta's 1984 Convention will provide a unique opportunity for Phis and their families to combine convention attendance with participation in a world's fair.

The Fraternity's convention will be held June 21-24; the Louisiana World Exposition will open May 12 and continue to November 11.

The luxurious Fairmont Hotel, located just off Canal Street, between University and Baronne, will host Phi Delta Theta's 65th biennial convention. The hotel is just one block from the French Quarter and only seven blocks from the 82-acre World Exposition.

From the opening of the convention gavel on Thursday afternoon, June 21, until the close of the convention on Sunday, June 24, Phi and their families will find ample opportunity to partake of the many attractions available in New Orleans. By direction of the General Council, the evening hours will be free of official business and, of course, many persons attending the meeting will want to arrange to arrive early or stay late in order to spend a full day or two at the exposition.

A large portion of this year's convention will be devoted to lead-

A busy four days awaits all Phis who attend the New Orleans Convention. Don't miss this opportunity to renew old friendships, make new friends and sharpen your fraternity skills.

This magic combination of the 1984 Phi Delta Theta Convention and the Louisiana World Exposition itself will provide enough experiences to last a lifetime. The best that a unique region, the nation and the world have to offer is being brought together in entertainment spectacles, major sporting events and scientific marvels, all on site. You'll see magnificent ships along the Mississippi River and awesome fireworks above it. You and your family can be part of this great celebration. A celebration of life itself.

The World of Rivers

Fresh Water As A Source of Life

This is the theme of the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition. The United Nations dedicated the 1980s to the problems and opportunities involved with providing sufficient fresh water for all people. The Fair will spotlight the rivers and ports of the world through a variety of spectacular exhibits, demonstrations and wondrous aquatic performances. Networks of lagoons, streams and aqueducts will wind throughout the Fair. The cultures of many nations will get together here for friendly interchange. You'll gain knowledge of the world and insight into the future while being graciously entertained in historic New Orleans.

The Whole World is Coming to Louisiana

In addition to the cultural and educational aspects of the World's Fair, you'll be part of this joyous celebration of life itself. There'll be fabulous fun, food, music, performers, entertainment spectacles and major sporting events. The World's Fair exhibits will represent the variety of mankind's cultural, scientific and economic breakthroughs. A gigantic international exhibition hall will house pavilions of foreign countries. The People's Republic of China, Japan, Australia, the Republic of Liberia, the Republic of Korea, Italy, El Salvador, France, Canada, Israel, Mexico and the Vatican have already announced their intent to participate. The United States will have an enormous pavilion. Extraordinary displays like the Space Shuttle "Enterprise," a 170-foot-high offshore oil rig and the "Wonderwall," a spectacular 1/2-mile-long structure that highlights shapes and forms of architecture from all periods, will capture your imagination. So far, 14 individual states have announced their participation, led by the host state, Louisiana, with its huge pavilion encompassing an amazing indoor water-way system.

An Exciting Showcase of American Industry

Other countries will portray their technological and scientific breakthroughs, and so will many of America's top corporations. The Fair plans to have industry pavilions with themes like transportation, energy, flight, high technology and more, where visitors will get a fresh perspective on the future of life in America and implications for the rest of the world. You'll be informed about these interesting and important subjects in many different and exciting ways at the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition.

A World of Entertainment

Over 50,000 hours of entertainment are being designed for Fairgoers of all ages. There'll be a fabulous spectrum of live music, dance, drama and other entertainment performed on 22 stages. The sounds of music and a vast array of performers will meander through the Fair on 6 mobile stages while 4 other stages float along waterways for waterside audiences. International stars, including the London Philharmonic, The Oak Ridge Boys, the Stuttgart Ballet, Johnny Cash, Shirley MacLaine, The Osmond Brothers, Isaac Stern, The Tokyo Ballet, Bob Hope, George Burns, Tom Jones, Itzhak Perlman, Julio Iglesias, Roy Clark with Tammy Wynette, and the International Jazz Festival with Count Basie, Woody Herman and Buddy Rich, will perform at the World's Fair Amphitheater. New Orleans and international jazz will be performed in the jazz and gospel tent. At the Louisiana Folklife Festival, there'll be toe-tapping Cajun and other regional music. And not since the 1939 World's Fair has there been anything like the Aquacade, a beautifully synchronized water ballet.

Getting Hungry Is Something To Look Forward To At This World's Fair

New Orleans is as famous for great cuisine as it is for great music. The French, Spanish, Italian and other cultures and cuisines blend in Louisiana to bring forth unique delicacies.

Gumbos and fresh crawfish dishes are exceptional eating experiences. Recipes for jambalaya and other Creole and Cajun foods are family legacies. The local hams, smoked sausage, and red beans and rice are everyday New Orleans specialties. Descendants of French settlers still bake delicate, crusty breads which make memorable sandwiches. And of course you can't visit New Orleans without enjoying fresh seafood prepared in every imaginable way and served in bountiful amounts.

Delicious foods will be a part of the excitement of the World's Fair. There will be wonderful regional and international foods at 75 restaurants and concessions.

See The Art Treasures Of The Vatican

Pope John II has given permission for the Vatican Pavilion to house major works of art from the Vatican Collection in a special exhibit. This collection is different from the Vatican exhibit which is on tour in this country, and contains treasures never before seen in the United States. Spain, Italy, France, Canada, Ireland, England and two African nations have agreed to loan major works of religious art to be part of this unique collection. And so have the major ethnic and immigrant groups of Louisiana. The collection will be entitled, "Jesus Christ Our Redeemer in Art, Ages, Images and Impact." It will be a rewarding experience for people of all faiths and all who love fine art.

Mike Schmidt Wins Gehrig Award

Phi Delta Theta extends a friendly salute to a Beta Theta Pi as the winner of its 1983 Lou Gehrig Memorial Award.

Mike Schmidt, the slugging Philadelphia Phillies third baseman whose career has him on track toward the Hall of Fame, is the 29th winner of the award honoring the memory of the New York Yankee Iron Horse first baseman. Gehrig was a Phi in his undergrad days at Columbia University.

With his 40 home runs this past season, the Dayton, Ohio native captured his sixth National League home run championship in his 11-season major league career. His 109 RBI's pushed his career total beyond the 1,000 plateau to 1,070.

"I appreciate this honor very much," Schmidt responded. "I appreciate it as much for it recognizing what I have done off the field as much as for my playing achievements. With my Christian commitment, I am especially appreciative of recognition for what I am as a person."

"The concept of the Gehrig award makes it something special. An award in memory of Lou Gehrig salutes a man of high moral character and integrity for the life he led."

Another aspect of winning the award that brought a smile to his face is the fact his college coach, Bob Wren (Ohio '43) is a member of the 12 man selection committee.

"I owe a lot to coach Wren," Schmidt said. "He showed a lot of confidence in me at a time not many other people did. He is also the type of person you respect as both a teacher and a fine human being."

Schmidt's athletic career came dangerously close to ending at the high school level because of serious injuries to both knees while at Fairview High School in Dayton.

A football injury his sophomore year took him out of the gridiron sport and necessitated surgery. He damaged the other knee playing basketball a year later and again he had to have surgery. Thus his senior performances in both basketball and baseball were affected and he did not attract the interest of many college coaches. Those who did show an interest quickly cooled when they learned of his damaged knees.

Mike's grandfather, John Phillips, was a close friend of Dr. Dave Reese, commissioner of the Mid-American Conference. Doctor Dave, as he was known, was instrumental in steering Schmidt to Ohio University where he came under the influence of Wren.

"When I went out for freshman basketball, I flunked the physical, and the trainer told me I would be a candidate for a wheelchair by the time I was 50 if I didn't cut down the stress on my knees," Mike recalled.

That trainer was Alan Hart, who went on to Ohio State University. His successor at OU was Larry Starr, now in his 13th season as trainer of the Cincinnati Reds.

Wren prevailed first on Hart and then Starr to set up a rigid exercise and conditioning routine to strengthen Mike's legs and he was cleared for baseball that spring, and the rest as they say is history.

"Mike is the perfect example of what dedication can do for an athlete," Wren recalls. "He followed that tough exercise routine for four years and he never missed a baseball game for us."

Mike was all-MAC shortstop his junior and senior years but once again, reports on his knee problems discouraged many scouts. But Tony Lucadello of the Phillies wasn't one of them. Schmidt was the No. 2 draft selection of the Phillies in the June 1971 draft, having been passed over as a high school senior four years earlier.

Thanks to his four years of sound collegiate training under Wren, Mike's minor league career was short even though his stats were unimpressive.

His first full season in the majors was a near disaster. He batted only .196 and struck out 136 times as a 1973 rookie with the Phillies. But his 18 home runs gave evidence of the power lurking in his swing.

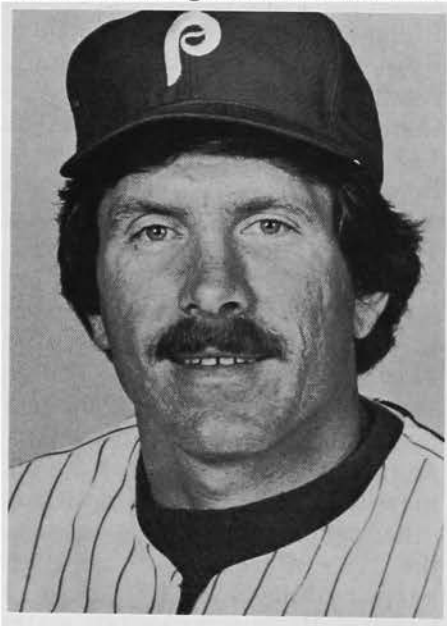

In 1974, he blasted 36 home runs and his 116 RBI's established his reputation as a power hitter.

Mike was NL MVP in back-to-back years (1980-81) as well as World Series MVP in 1980. He has captured six Golden Gloves for his defensive play and has been a member of the All-Star team eight times.

Although he had a miserable batting effort in the 1983 World Series, he won respect for the manner he handled himself with the media. He was available for over an hour in the clubhouse after every game retaining both his poise and sense of humor in a frustrating situation.

When a rib cage injury had him out of the Philadelphia lineup early in the 1982 season, the Phillies lost 12 of 16 games without him. "Being without Mike in your batting order is like going to war with a pop gun," manager Pat Corrales observed.

The first signs of a flareup with his surgically repaired knees occurred in spring training of 1983 causing him to comment, "sooner or later, I knew I would be facing maintenance problems on my knees. I'm just thankful for 10 good years when they caused me no pain or concern."

Mike and Donna, his wife of nine years, both took the Born Again Christian commitment in 1978. They have two children, Jessica Ray, 6 and Jonathon Michael 3.

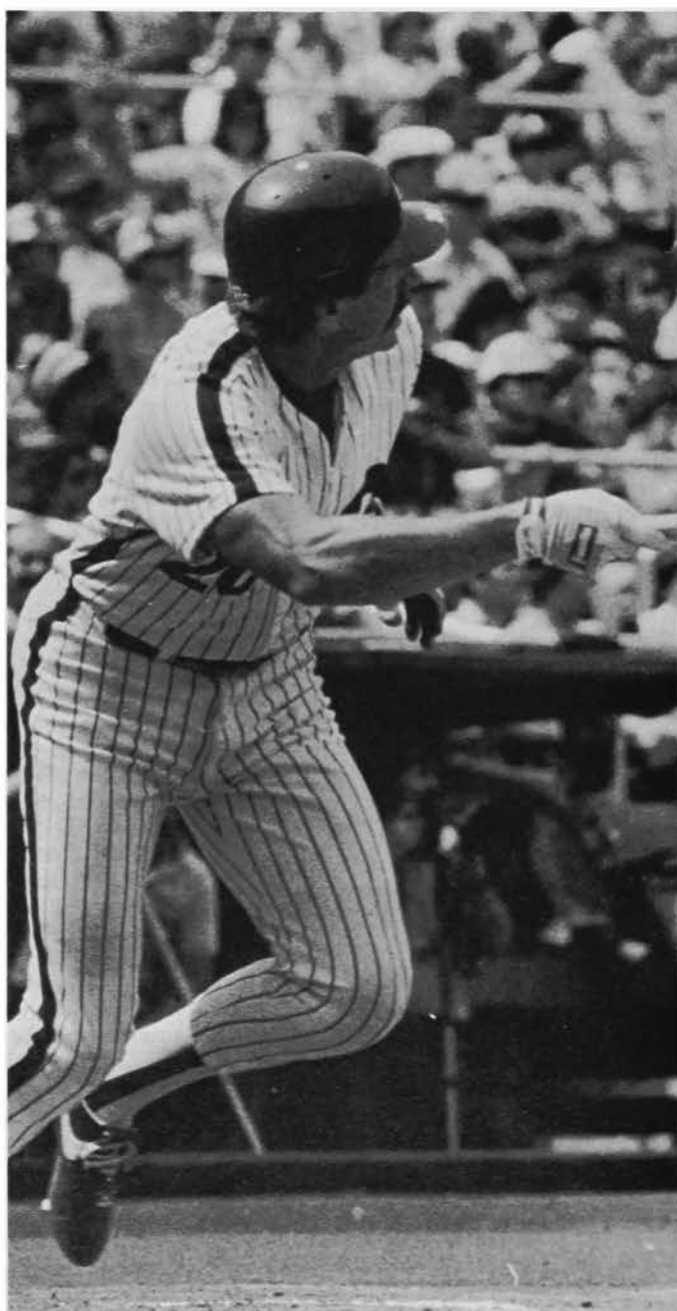

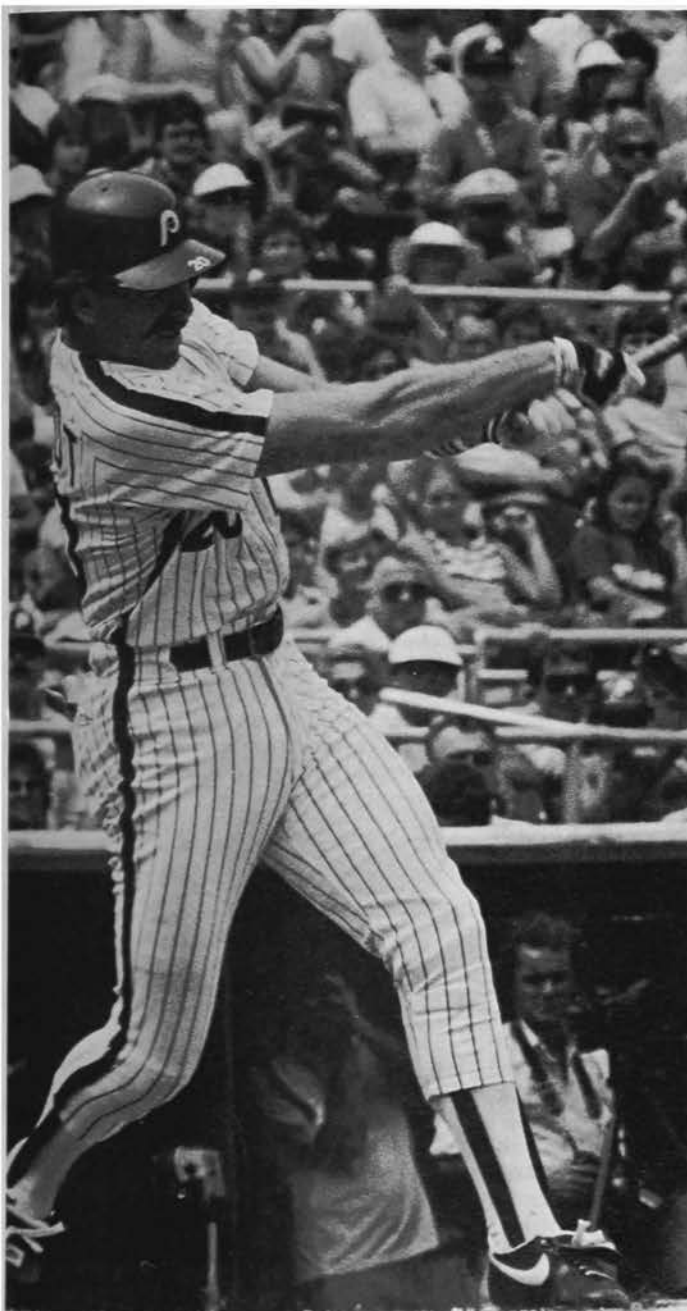

Schmidt is active in many charitable causes and is host of two golf tournaments. The summer one in Philadelphia is for the benefit of the Philadelphia Child Guidance Center. The October event at Hilton Head S.C. pays out to several causes.

He will receive the Gehrig award sometime during the 1984 season. ■

WALLACE L. KADDERLY ('16), 91, died Oct. 9, 1983 in Bend, OR. He was known around the world as an agricultural information specialist. Recognizing in the early 1920s that farmers were the most devoted listeners to radio for weather and crop reports and other information, he organized and managed KOAC, pioneering farm radio station at then Oregon Agricultural College, now Oregon State University. Kad-derly served the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture as chief of its radio section before returning in 1945 to his native Portland as director of farm programs for radio KGW. Two years later, he was chosen by the U.S. State and Agriculture departments to consult with broadcasting commissions in Australia and New Zealand on farm radio programs. From "down under" he was sent to Europe, Japan and Central and South America to work with government ministers of agriculture in the development of their farm production. Kad-derly was Oregon Beta's chapter adviser in the 1920s and early 1930s. In that time he spearheaded the financial drive for, and supervised the architectural planning of, a new, modern and spacious chapter house—still the chapter's house today. As a member of the Class of 1916 and a member of the strong petitioning local fraternity, Kad-derly became a charter member of Oregon Beta of Phi Delta Theta when it was installed in 1918. At that time he was celebrated as a great quarter miler. His record of 48.6 seconds stood as the college record for 45 years, from 1916 to 1961.

EDWARD BURKE WILFORD, JR. ('22), 82, died June 27 in Philadelphia. He had been an active alumnus for 65 years and had received his chapter's "Outstanding Alumni Award" for the third time in 1982. One of his many contributions included the Phi Delta Theta House Plaque initiated in 1936 which is prominently displayed in many chapters around the country. The plaque contains the founding fathers names, the open motto, the pledge and the everlasting bond a Phi Delta Theta brother exemplifies throughout his life. He was nationally recognized for his pioneering aeronautical work in the field of helicopters and convertiplanes. He founded the American Society of Inventors and received many awards in recognition of his numerous inventions from the Franklin Institute, American Helicopter Society, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronauts, and American Society of Inventors. The Franklin Institute honored him in 1939, with an award for his invention to vary the speed on small electrical motors. This device is still used today on electrical appliances and power tools. Other inventive contributions included a submersible aircraft carrier, a V STOL aircraft and a syroboat. Survivors include a Phi son, Edward B. Wilford III (Cornell '47), a Phi grandson, Edward B. Wilford IV (Maryland '79), and two Phi cousins, Paul C. Klahr (Pennsylvania '51) and Lewis S. Klahr (Pennsylvania '51).

Note: The following story appeared in the September, 1936 issue of The Scroll regarding the Phi Delta Theta House Plaque initiated by E. Burke Wilford, Jr. (Pennsylvania '22).

THE WILFORD PLAQUE

The Wilford Plaque is the realization of a dream. Burke Wilford, Pennsylvania '22, is the dreamer. He thinks of the Pennsylvania Zeta chapter in his sleep. One day, while discussing some of the problems of the active chapter with another alumnus, he put this question "How best can alumni foster and encourage the morale of a chapter?"

The question was later put to many prominent alumni and the replies received were carefully considered and many of them put into effect. The results were favorable and immediate. The past year was a most successful one for the Pennsylvania Zeta group.

One idea presented in answer to Wilford's question was to do something that would keep the aims and high ideals of Phi Delta Theta always before the active members. The development of this idea suggested a bronze tablet. As the development progressed, the plaque began to take form.

Size, content, and cost of such a plaque were carefully considered. Setting out the high points of the Fraternity—its Founders, date and place of founding, open motto with its translation, secret motto with its meaning paraphrased—all required intense study. The further the study progressed the more complicated the plan became. It was necessary to be concise, yet accurate; exact without disclosing secret meanings; reasonable in price and content without forfeiting truth and beauty; these were some of the problems to be met and solved.

When the idea was first considered, it was intended to work out a tablet for the Pennsylvania Zeta chapter only. When the plan was presented to the General Fraternity, however, Art Priest at once felt that the chapters generally should have the advantage of the plan. He urged that the plaque should be taken to the Syracuse Convention for display. There it was presented to the General Convention by Claude M. Marriott, Syracuse, '01, who had worked with Burke Wilford in developing the plan through its early stages. The Convention delegates at once approved the idea.

The plaque, as completed, measures 12 x 18" and weighs about 20 pounds. It is made of standard cast bronze and is finished with bright lettering, easily read against the dark bronze background. Ornamental screws at the four corners make it possible to erect the plaque anywhere in the chapter house. It is the intention of the Penn Zeta chapter to display the plaque in the large colonial hall where it will be seen by all who enter the house.

The plaque is bordered with American laurel, and at the top is the Coat of Arms of the Fraternity complete in every detail. At the bottom is the parting pledge "All for one—One for All." The paraphrased meaning of the secret motto is the heart of the whole design. Here is displayed the result of the most intense study by some of our best Greek scholars. It is complete and rhythmic. The wording is:

The True Member
of
PHI DELTA THETA
Exemplifies the Bond
In Friendship, Sincere; As a
Brother, Devoted; In Honor
Aspiring to the Noblest
Culture... With Conduct
Unblemished; Reverencing God."

The original plaque was financed by Brother Wilford. The master cast is in the hands of the artist who made it. Duplicates may be secured with a plate showing the name and the date of installation of each individual chapter and the college where installed. If every chapter will place an order, a price of $25.00 each F.O.B. Philadelphia can be secured.

Surely some interested alumnus or the chapter itself will see to it that this splendid and permanent memorial to the ideals and principles of the Fraternity will be placed so as to greet all members and visitors in every home.

Watch The Scroll for a story on the plaque and for a cut of the plaque itself. In the meantime, make your plans to acquire one.

ARIZONA ALPHA

The idea for a World War Two Arizona Alpha reunion (classes of '39, '40 and '41) was born a year and a half ago when Omer Donahoe ('39), Oscar Davis ('37) and wives were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Benz ('37) at their summer home on the North Carolina coast.

It was decided that Homecoming Weekend of 1983 would be an appropriate time to assemble in Tucson and that Omer Donahoe would assume the primary responsibilities of carrying it through.

Anson Lisk ('39), a Tucson resident, was enlisted to coordinate details and be an 'on-site' manager. Postal and telephone contacts were made by many of the interested parties and like Topsy the idea took hold and grew with considerable enthusiasm.

Current home addresses involved fifteen states. Further, most of the brothers had little or no contact with one another in over 40 years.

The nationally known Arizona Inn, a classic country inn, was chosen to act as a sort of headquarters and where eventually 50 out of town guests had room accommodations.

Luncheon on Saturday Nov. 5 was held at the Inn and was attended by between 90 and 100 people. Although this luncheon was primarily for our WW Two group, we were pleased to have an Arizona Alpha alumnus, Frank S. Walker ('23) Bond #13, join the party. That evening a private bus took those attending to the University of Arizona vs University of Washington football game. Refreshments were served at the Inn after the game.

On Sunday, Nov. 6 the entire reunion party was cordially invited by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Donau ('38) to a cocktail-luncheon affair at their lovely new home at the Tubac Valley Country Club, 30 miles south of Tucson. This was as someone said, "the icing on a cake which had no lumps"—certainly one of the most memorable gatherings of our lives.—William Taylor Harper ('38)

MARYLAND ALPHA

Maryland Alpha Phis initiated in the period of 1932-1942 held their first annual reunion on Oct. 18-19, 1983.

Seventeen brothers enjoyed fellowship and "catch-up" at Martingham Inn on the beautiful Miles River in St. Michaels, MD. Some had not seen each other in 30 to 35 years. Regrets were received from ten Phis.

A general consensus determined that a "Bigger and Better" reunion will be held in October, 1984 at the same place.

Attendees from Maryland, New York,

OKLAHOMA ALPHA

Donald S. Kennedy (Arizona '23), was selected from 110,000 eligible Phi alumni across the United States and Canada as being the winner of the coveted Raymond L. Gardner "Phi of the Year" Award for 1982.

Once again, a Phi nominated from Oklahoma Alpha has received this award. In 1980, Brother W.F. "Bill" Martin received the Gardner Award. Oklahoma Alpha is proud to be part of the winners of the 1980 and 1982 Gardner Awards.

On Sept. 24, 1983, following the OU-Tulsa football game, Brother Kennedy was presented the award at the Phi Delt house by Jack Cozier, province president for Nu Province. Many Phi Delt alumni and friends were in attendance at the reception to witness the presentation of the prestigious award. The Gardner award is given on the basis of outstanding service to Phi Delta Theta, activities in the community, and involvement in higher education.

Some of Brother Kennedy's many accomplishments to Phi Delta Theta include the establishment of the Arizona Alpha and Oklahoma Beta chapters. Kennedy also helped the Oklahoma Alpha

PALM BEACH COUNTY

We had our Annual Summer Rush event this year at the Palm Beach Shores Private Beach Pavilion, thanks to Town Mayor Guy H. Hill (Emory '68).

We had some fast action volleyball during the afternoon. Ron Rountree (South Florida '71) provided most of the fast action and was joined by many active brothers and rushees.

Some of the alumni who brushed up on their rushing techniques included Carl and Marito Shellhouse (Miami-Ohio '37) and Dean and Jean Barclay (Pittsburgh '41). Once the volleyball scores were settled the masses set their sights on promptly consuming the hamburgers and trimmings which were provided by the Alumni Association.

We finished the day's activities by awarding our first Annual Scholarship. Last year, as president, Robert Schuemann (Valparaiso '71) solicited funds for a scholarship program. We received generous contributions from area alumni and at this year's Palm Beach County Alumni Association's Rush event we awarded our scholarship to Eugene F. Sole (Florida '84). Congratulations Brother Sole!

This year we plan to supplement the fund by charging $12 per person for lunch at our monthly luncheon meeting. (Three dollars goes to the scholarship fund). We meet at the Sailfish Club in Palm Beach on the 4th Tuesday of each month at 12:15. Hope to see a good attendance at our monthly luncheon not only so you can fraternize with your Brothers but so we can build up the scholarship fund.—Dale Hedrick

Bob Zimmerman, president of the local Phi Delta Theta chapter at the University of Pennsylvania, attended the party along with several other members of the Pennsylvania Zeta Chapter.

Following the affair, President McKinley commented, "This has been our finest affair to date; and, is a most encouraging sign for the future of our Alumni Club."

ST. PETERSBURG

The St. Petersburg Beach, Florida, Alumni Club converged on the Bath Club in North Redington Beach for its annual officers installation banquet. Installed subsequent to their previous election were: president—Howard Stoops (Purdue); vice president—Robert Green (Duke); secretary—Richard Davis (Union); treasurer—William Askew (DePauw); chaplain—Norman Beardsley (Colgate); historian—John Stambaugh (LSU); reporter—Dean Hoffman (Dickinson); warden—Fred Houser (North Carolina).

The Alumni Club's past president, brother Dean Hoffman, II conducted the ceremonial procedure assisted by outgoing president Charles Morgan (Georgia Tech).

Discussions, during the dinner, among the attending brothers and their ladies, culminated in the consensus that the forthcoming annual golf & tennis sojourn will be held 9 & 10 December 1983 at the Plantation Inn Resort at Crystal River, Florida, and the forthcoming Yuletide Dinner will be held at the Pass-A-Grille Yacht Club at St. Petersburg Beach, Florida, on the evening of 30 December 1983.

At the conclusion of our get-together, a rousing applause was tendered to brother Richard Davis as a compliment for his efforts in arranging the function.—Dean Hoffman, II

SANTA CLARA VALLEY

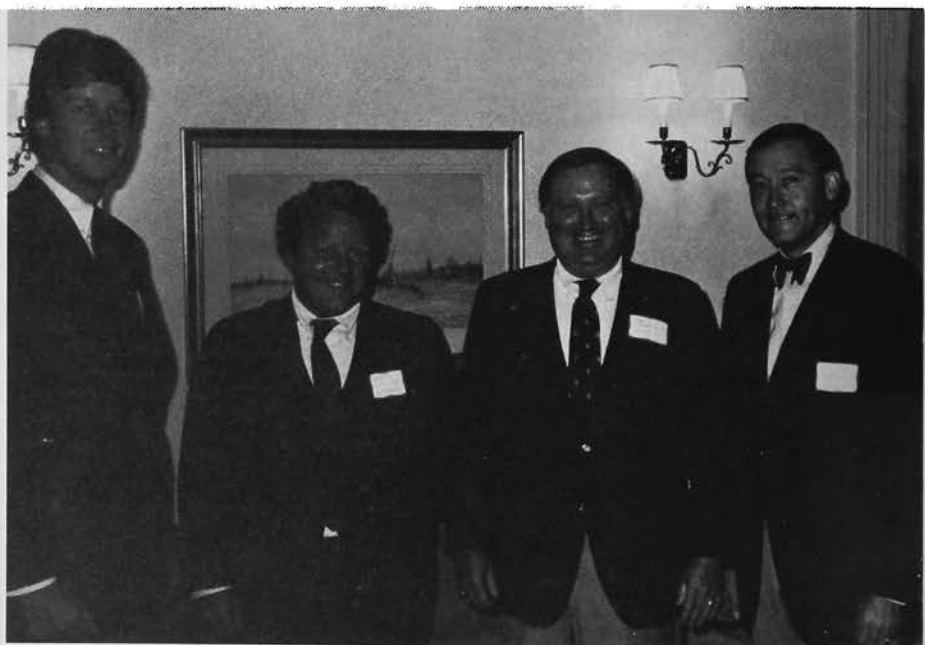

The mighty Phi Alums crashed onto the football field this year with cleats sparkling, only to lose to the undergrads. In all the hustle and bustle, the score was unfortunately lost. We plan on recruiting next year to definitely tilt the odds.

Thanks go out to Mike Paoletti and Paul Parenti who prepared our annual Christmas Party. The turnout was very good with everyone in high spirits.

We extend our invitation to all interested to join us for lunch on the 2nd Thursday of the month at the Sainte Clair Club at 12:00; just ask for the Dick Irion party. During a visit to New York, 12-year old Kenny Cribb obtained a post card with a picture of the Statue of Liberty to send to his good friend, George Crow. Commenting on the beauty and meaning of the Statue of Liberty and on the freedom enjoyed by the citizens of this country, he concluded by writing, "When I am grown, I want to live in Washington, D.C., and I want to work for the President of the United States."

T. Kenneth Cribb, Jr., (Washington & Lee '70) doesn't live right in Washington, but his apartment in an Arlington, VA., high rise commands a magnificent view of the Capitol. And, he works for the President of the United States!

Cribb's official title is Assistant Counselor to the President, working directly with Counselor to the President Edwin Meese III.

At the beginning of the Reagan Administration, Cribb served as Assistant Director, Office of Cabinet Affairs, and Staff Assistant to the President. Earlier, during the transition, he took leave of the law firm of Dewey, Ballantine, Bushby, Palmer and Wood to serve as Deputy Director of Legal and Administrative Group, Office of Executive Management.

Most recently Cribb has been appointed by the President to membership on the Council of the Administrative Conference of the United States.

From 1971 to 1977 Cribb was National Director of the Intercollegiate Studies Institute. Also, he served as consultant to the Heritage Foundation.

A native of Spartanburg, S.C., Cribb was educated in the Spartanburg City Schools. During his high school years he became interested in student government, was a Student Council member all three years and was Senior Class President, as well as being Lt. Governor, Carolinas District of Key Clubs. During his junior year he had been Student Council parliamentarian and clerk of the Boys State Senate. He was a member of the National Honor Society his junior and senior years.

As a high school junior Cribb was invited to participate in the Freedom Week program of the Sertoma Club of Spartanburg where he delivered an inspiring address on the subject, "What Freedom Means to Me." Subsequently the club's program won an award from the Freedom Foundation.

Cribb is a Cum Laude graduate of Washington & Lee University, and he received his last degree in 1980 from the University of Virginia where he was elected to Moot Court. At W & L he was very active in Phi Delta Theta and in Young Republicans.

Cribb accompanied the President to Japan and Korea aboard Air Force One last November, but generally his efforts are confined to his White House office. Twenty-three years after he expressed his aspirations on a post card to his junior high classmate, Ken Cribb thoroughly enjoys being in Washington and working for the President of the United States.

Gettysburg was 8-1 while Puget Sound was 9-1 and won the Evergreen Conference.

At center are Don Adamic (British Columbia '85), Mark Eberhard (Ashland '85), who has started every game for the past two years, and Robert Lewis (Gettysburg '86).

Linebackers include Dave Gretskey (Gettysburg '84), Miguel Yanges (Gettysburg '86) and Chris Bingham (Willamette '86).

The defensive backfield is especially strong paced by Murray McDonough (Lawrence '84), a Kodak NCAA Division III All-American. Other selections include Teel Bruner (Centre '86), an All-CAC selection who boasts a 4 pt. grade average; Kerry Skaggs (Lawrence '86); Paul Carter (Lawrence '84); Sean Stokes (Lawrence '86); Vince Trtan (Ripon '84); and Dave Gervenak (Ripon '84). These six backs had a total of 16 interceptions.

Rounding out the defensive backfield are Ron Bigler (Wabash '85), who had 44 tackles and three interceptions; Richie Padgett (Hanover '85), who had 100 tackles, six deflected passes and one interception; and Brian Barr (Gettysburg '86).

Robin Bell Named Phi of the Year

BY WILLIAM R. RICHARDSON
Director of Alumni Services

Robin A. Bell (Ohio State '28), nominated by the Central Ohio Alumni Club, has been selected to receive the Raymond L. Gardner Award as "Phi of the Year" for 1983. Harbaugh Miller (Pittsburgh '23) and William C. Whitlow (Westminster '40) have been named runners-up for the award.

The award was established by the Seattle Alumni Club in honor of Raymond L. Gardner (Washington '18). He was a Seattle civic and business leader who served as chapter adviser for Washington Alpha, province president and, finally, a member of the General Council from 1952 to 1956, when he retired due to ill health.

The award is given annually to an alumnus for his contribution to Phi Delta Theta, higher education and community life and honors those alumni who have brought prestige to the Fraternity through their activities.

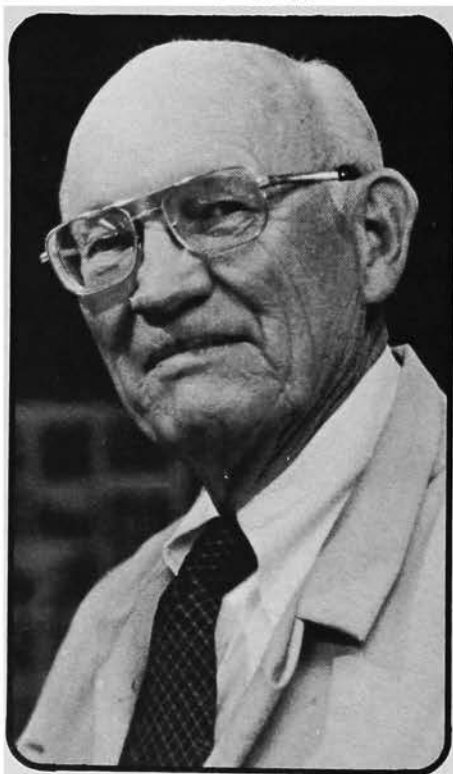

Robin A. Bell, has been widely recognized as a businessman, athlete, author, and artist. A devoted family man, the key to Bell's success can be attributed to his vigorous personal schedule and his humanistic management style. Always on the move, he attributes his success to his belief that "Anything can be accomplished by good hard work and belief in oneself." This conviction carries over in his leadership as well. A great motivator, his amiable personality and optimistic manner has allowed him to lead many an organization to new levels of greatness.

Bell first arrived on the Ohio State campus in 1924. In those days, athletic scholarships were nonexistent so the university arranged for a financial sponsorship by a Columbus Phi businessman, Guy Bowman. Brother Bowman later expressed his hope that Robin would become a member of his fraternity. Shortly thereafter, Robin pledged and was elected pledge class president.

Throughout the remainder of his college years, Bell served Ohio Zeta well, being elected as house manager, steward, and treasurer. He also established himself as a scholar, athlete, and leader. Besides earning six varsity letters in football and basketball, during which time he was named captain of the basketball team and also selected to several All Big Ten Conference and national teams, Bell served as sophomore class president, president of one academic honorary as well as maintaining membership in two other honorary organizations.

Shortly after graduation, Bell's business transferred him from Columbus and away from his chapter. Twenty-five years later, he returned to find the chapter on the brink of financial collapse. By adopting the same sound management and financial principles that he had learned in the business world, Bell was able to turn the entire situation around.

ROBIN BELL

Since then, the chapter has enjoyed a rich heritage, and Bell's interest has remained keen. He has been a member of the chapter's house corporation for the past 27 years, serving as its president for 10 of those years. Working extensively with the chapter members, he continually assists them in applying sound management practices to the Fraternity's operation.

Bell's belief in the fraternity system has also led him to an extensive involvement with other Greek-letter organizations. A dedicated proponent of instilling sound management principles in the running of Greek organizations, he has been recognized as a national authority on this subject.

Bell's ideas on fraternity management were so successful that in 1971, Ohio State University asked him to publish his ideas on this subject. Robin Bell's book, Instant Executives, was then published and, to this day, is recognized as the single most authoritative source for fraternity chapter management. This deep commitment to fraternity life has resulted in his receipt of numerous awards among which are "The Fraternity Man of the Year" in 1975 by the Ohio State University's Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic Association.

Robin Bell's interest is not limited entirely to undergraduate fraternity members. He is an avid supporter of the Central Ohio Alumni Club's functions and has been involved in the organization of many of its activities. These contributions, along with his activities in higher education and community affairs resulted in the club's honoring Bell with its highest award in 1983, the Central Ohio Alumnus of the Year Award.

Bell's commitment to youth runs far beyond the boundaries of his fraternity involvement. A great supporter of higher education, he has directed most of his efforts in

Phi Plays Key King Ranch Role

Stephen Justus "Tio" Kleberg (Texas Tech '69) is not your typical "tall in the saddle" type cowboy. He is a solid 5-foot-7-inch Texan who does stand "tall," though, in the future of the world-famous King Ranch of South Texas.

Tio (Spanish for "uncle") is, at 38, the senior male Kleberg on the ranch and manager of its Texas division. His great-grandfather married the youngest daughter of Richard King, who founded the ranch in the 1850s. Since 1886, the year after King died, a Kleberg has run the ranch. In 1974, there were two male Klebergs who were older than Tio, but so many changes have taken place since then that he is now the "senior" Kleberg.

Very few people who live in the Southwest have not heard of the King Ranch. Texas Monthly magazine recently described it as "the most famous ranch in America." Its four divisions cover 825,000 acres, an area much larger than the state of Rhode Island. Over 2,000 miles of fencing are required to hold the 60,000 head of cattle on the ranch.

In addition, there are over 2,700 oil and gas wells on the property, more than have been drilled in Saudi Arabia. There are also 350 windmills. The ranch developed the first American beef breed of cattle (Santa Gertrudis) and went international in the 1950s with purchases of over eight million acres around the world.

Tio grew up on the ranch. He spent his summers there, beginning in 1955 when he was 9 years old, up until the time he was a junior in high school in 1963 and had to attend reserve officers basic training for the U.S. Army. During those eight years, he worked with horses and cattle extensively and learned many of the aspects of the ranch.

In 1964, he graduated from high school after attending four years at Texas Military Institute in San Antonio. He enrolled at Texas Tech in August 1964. Outside the classroom at Tech, two important events took place, he said. First, he pledged and was initiated into Texas Epsilon. He would later become its president his senior year. Secondly, he met Janell Gerald of Fort Worth at the university. They were married June 21, 1969.

Today, his family is very much a part of the ranch. He and Janell have three children, Chris, 13, Adrian, 11, and Jay, 6. "Fortunately, all enjoy living on the ranch and working with the cattle and horses," Tio said. "Janell is active in showing cutting horses in competition, as well as working cattle with me."

He recalled his fraternity years at Texas Tech and compared them with the challenges of assuming responsibility at the King Ranch. "I had the good experience of being chosen president of the fraternity while I was at Tech and, believe it or not, it is a little frightening when you are asked to do a job and really wonder whether you are prepared for it," he said.

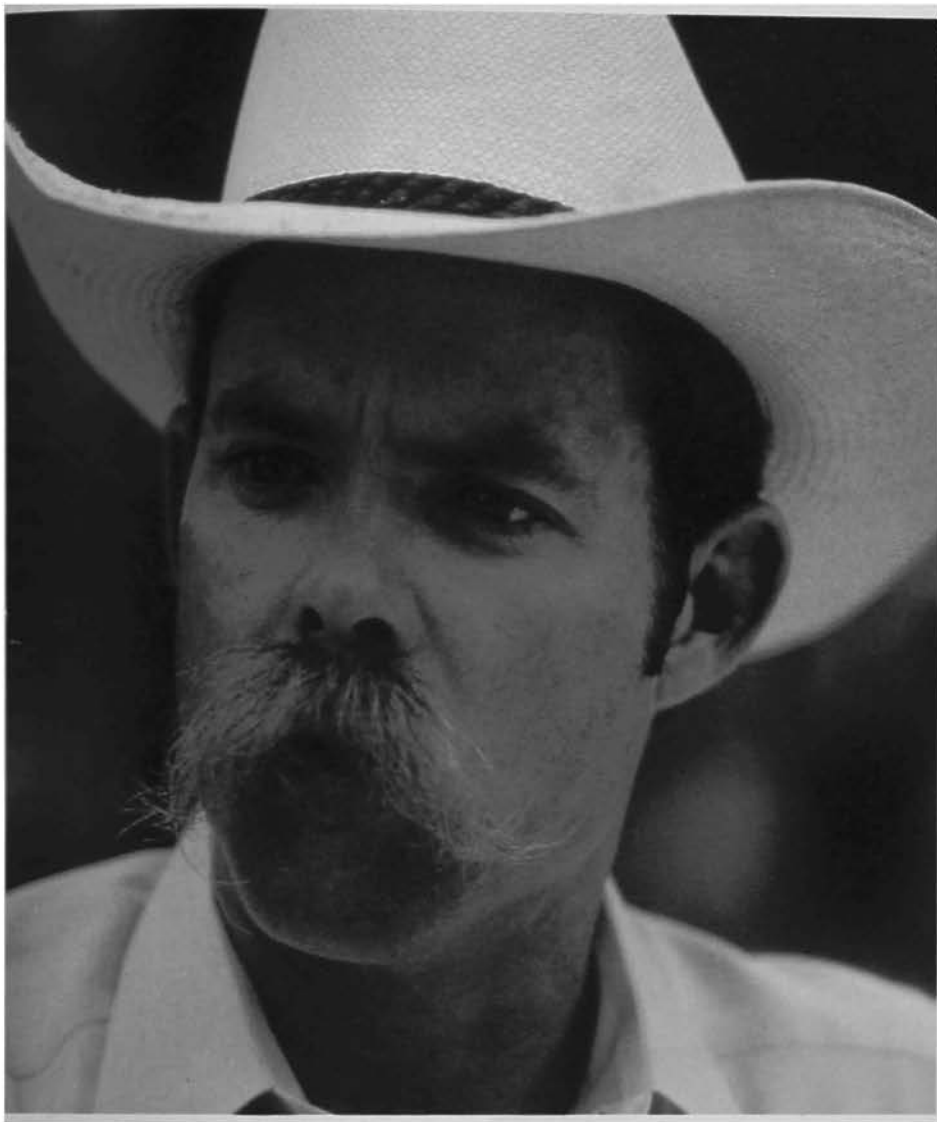

"This is the same feeling I had when I assumed my responsibility with the King Ranch. Some of the knowledge I gained as a member of Phi Delta Theta has benefited me in my life as it exists today. For instance, I learned that no one individual can do his or her job alone. Quality of work is dependent upon the quality of people working with leadership. While in the fraternity, I learned the importance of the community around me as well as the burden of leadership and responsibility."

In August of 1969, he received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Army and attended the basic officers course at Fort Eustis, VA. Upon completion of the course, he received orders to report to Fort Bliss, El Paso, where he served as the battalion transportation officer for six months. The remainder of his tour there he was the Aide de Camp to Commanding General R. D. Cassidy. He was discharged on June 30, 1971, and drove to Kingsville where he had previously arranged for employment with King Ranch on July 1.

"My father's uncle, Robert J.

STEPHEN JUSTUS "TIO" KLEBERG

Kleberg Jr., advised me to work directly with my father and do what he said," Tio recalled. "From July 1971 until my father passed away in 1979, I did just that. I followed his instructions and guidance and tried to learn everything he had from his 40 years of experience with the land and livestock."

Bob Kleberg passed away in 1974 and Tio's father died five years later, leaving a void in the management of the South Texas cattle operations. That void has now been filled.

"I was never really told what to do," Tio said. "I was just eager to learn and saw areas that needed someone's personal attention, and I made these my responsibilities. As a result of this knowledge and experience gained from my father, I assumed the responsibility as an officer of King Ranch, as well as a director, and I am currently responsible for the South Texas farming and ranching and quarter horse operations for the ranch."

It was in the quarter horse management that Tio demonstrated he had the courage and vision of the earlier generation of Klebergs.

Each foreman controlled his own quarter horse breeding program. But Tio didn't feel the horses were good enough, so he centralized the whole breeding operation and spent $125,000 to buy Mr. San Peppy, a prize stallion now worth $4 million, in order to add his blood to the line.

This was not a popular move—plus the fact that changing a breeding program can be a serious risk. According to Texas Monthly, Tio has now been "vindicated," and

"the King Ranch quarter horses are today the envy of the business."

In 1980 he was named as a "Distinguished Agriculture Alumnus" of Texas Tech in recognition of his accomplishments and contributions to agri-business.

What of the future? "I visualize agricultural change with technology as well as the resources we have available," he stated. "I see an increase in production from the land through better range management and increasing production in our farm land due to better varieties of plants.

"The ground work and research are being done today for the experimentation of mariculture (shrimp and fish farming). The possibility of solar energy projects and a bright future for animal genetic research is foreseeable."

Again he recalled his fraternity experience. "While I was going through pledgship, someone told me I would never achieve the status of an active member," Tio said. "This attitude was decisive in my working hard for something I wanted and yet was told I could never achieve. This molded me as an individual to realize that through life we are faced with many problems, but one must remember that anything worthwhile is worth working for.

"I have a personal mind and attitude that there is an answer to every problem as long as we are willing to dedicate ourselves and not be afraid of knowing the answer. The results may not be as we want, but if we work for it, we will get results." ■

Broadcasting Pioneer Still Active

Thomas Howard Augustine Lewis (Union '26) was once described as a genius in getting things done in the communications industry.

Some might question that but no one would argue the fact that he has had a big impact in broadcasting and film making in this country over the past five decades.

His career credits include early radio broadcasting, advertising, audience research, film making and television production. In the middle of all that he found time to found and be the first commanding officer of the Armed Forces Radio Service during World War II.

With all that behind him he considers his present work on the Charismatic Renewal in this country and in Europe the "best, most satisfying part of my life so far." He does television appearances and speaking engagements across the country and in Europe, notably in Denmark, where he has spoken on three cross-country tours.

His book Fire Over Denmark has just been completed and is an account of his travels there.

Charismatic Renewal

A lay leader in the Roman Catholic Church, Lewis was named a Sovereign Knight of Malta by Pope Pius XII, and, in 1973, was invested as Chevalier in the Military and Hospitaller Order of Saint Lazarus of Jerusalem, an ecumenical order founded in 1098 A.D. The Charismatic Renewal involves all Christian churches. When he is not involved in this he spends much of his spare time working with drug abuse prevention and rehabilitation centers.

Colonel Lewis holds many citations and awards, including the Legion of Merit, the Order of the British Empire, the Pacific Pioneer Broadcasters Award, and the Christopher Award for excellence in television production. The American Forces Radio and Television Service has named their annual Military Broadcasters Award, the "Colonel Tom Lewis Award."

He won international acclaim in April, 1967, when his television film "The Search", was the only American film to receive the UNDA-International Award at the 10th annual film festival in Monte Carlo. "The Search" was subsequently translated into six languages for distribution in foreign nations.

Other credits include "The Loretta Young Show", which Lewis created, produced and wrote. The series, which subsequently ran for nine years on NBC, is the longest running dramatic anthology on television. Lewis also produced the MGM film, "Cause for Alarm," the RKO-General series, "Song of the Ages", and Screen Guild Theatre on radio. He is an author and former advertising executive with Young and Rubicam in New York.

Early Life

Now residing in Ojai, CA, Colonel Lewis was born in Troy, N.Y., the youngest of six children. His father was a police sergeant and all the boys had jobs from their earliest memory. "We actually had less money than any of our relatives but we felt rich and secure because of strong family ties and the unquestionable integrity of our parents," he said.

Lewis worked two years to get entrance money to Union College and supported himself while there collecting installments on Singer sewing machines. He began his career in communications with radio station WGY in Schenectady as a writer and announcer. Then he became program manager of the Cleveland Division of the National Broadcasting Company.

From there he was offered a job as a writer-producer in the radio department of Young and Rubicam, Inc. He was promoted each year until he became head of production, an officer and a stockholder in the company, and a member of the six-man executive committee that ran worldwide Young and Rubicam.

The company radio shows, many of which Lewis originated, were "The Aldrich Family", "Kate Smith Hour", "Abbott and Costello", "The Dinah Shore Show", "The Silver Theatre", "Fred Allen", "Jack Benny" and, when Burns and Allen had worn out their stand-up comedy routine Lewis developed a situation comedy format for Lever Brothers Company and thereby a new life for them in radio and TV.

Other clients included General Foods, Gulf Oil Co., and Bristol-Myers.

He is credited with developing "The Screen Guild Theatre" for Gulf Oil. The project earned funds to build the Motion Picture Relief Fund Home and Hospital.

During this period he also

AWARD: Col. Lewis was awarded the Director's Award from the American Forces Radio and Television Service who also named their annual Military Broadcasters Award, the "Colonel Tom Lewis Award."

became vice-president of Audience Research, Inc., a subsidiary company to Y&R, developed by George Gallup to obtain box-office measurements of motion picture stars and stories. "It was a very interesting operation, which made me some lasting friends, like David Selznick," Lewis said.

When the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, Lewis became Colonel Lewis. He was then induced to help launch the globe-encompassing Armed Forces Radio Services.

After The War

After the War he returned to Y&R for a year. Radio was fading. TV promised a new future. He turned down the presidency of two of the three major TV networks and organized a company to sell gyroscopes for the new guided missiles. He joined with Frank Griffin and Winston, the New York land investor. The group then built Huntridge Village, Huntridge Theatre and Huntridge Shopping Center outside Las Vegas.

He adapted Larry Marcus' suspense radio play "Cause for Alarm," bought it for motion pictures, and sold it to Dore Schary at MGM, producing it on a tight television pattern budget and schedule. After this he organized Lewislair Enterprises, Inc. and Lewislair Films, Inc. This is where he helped develop the long-running Loretta Young Show.

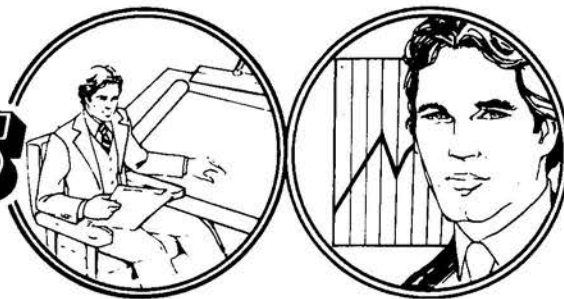

SOVEREIGN KNIGHT OF MALTA: Col. Lewis was named a Sovereign Knight of Malta by Pope Pius XII and, in 1973, was invested as Chevalier in the Military and Hospitaller Order of Saint Lazarus of Jerusalem.

The Los Angeles Film Teachers Association honored him April 15, 1983 "For valuable contributions to Hollywood's Halcyon Years." At a dinner given Nov. 16, 1983 in Washington, D.C., Colonel Lewis received a "Pioneer in Armed Forces Broadcasting award given by the National Guard Army United States.

Lewis married Loretta Young on July 31, 1940. They have one son, Christopher Paul, born Aug. 1, 1944. ■

ALUMNI NEWS

FRANKLIN

Hillview Country Club was the site for Indiana Delta's First Annual Appreciation and Recognition night which was held the evening of May 12. Approximately 80 undergraduates and alumni and their guests enjoyed the activity which was planned and coordinated by the house council and the officers of the alumni club.

The evening was planned in an effort to improve the relationship between the current active chapter and pledges, and Alumni who live in the Johnson and surrounding county area. Dave Hicks, president of the house council, acted as M.C. for the evening. "A huge success" was his description of the event. "From the feedback we will no doubt plan to do it again," he added.

The evening speaker was introduced by Lyman Snyder. Mr. Tommy Mont, athletic director at DePauw University, is a widely known humorist. He was well received by those in attendance.

Special Senior Recognition awards were presented by Dr. Jim Pease, vice president of the alumni club. Those graduating Phi's receiving the gifts were Tom Timmons, Crawfordsville; Steve Melgard, Franklin; Mike Patterson, Bargersville; Gary Evans, Ft. Wayne; and Joe Johnston, Greensburg.

A special house report was given by Doug Quick president of the house. The Alumni in attendance were impressed by his very positive report on pledging, community projects, campus honors, and especially the grade point average for 1982-83. Indiana Delta posted the highest GPA on campus for fraternities and all but one sorority for both semesters.

The house council and the alumni club are hoping to see the event attended by an even larger group next year. With Alumni constituting almost 50% of those in attendance, it would appear the activity should grow in interest and participation.

The following brothers are currently serving as club officers: Rob Schafstall, president; Dr. Jim Pease, vice-president; Lyman Benner, secretary-treasurer; and Dave Denslaw, reporter.—Lyman Benner

NORTHERN NEVADA

1984 started with several Northern Nevada Alumni attending the Tri-Province Conference held at Cal Davis. Those that attended sincerely thank all of the Phis there who made this a very memorable occasion and those who didn't attend sure wish they had. The alumni club has already started to make plans to assist the undergraduate host of next year's conference at the University of Nevada Reno.

Club President Mark Elston was recently promoted within the Dean Witter organization and accepted a position in Las Vegas. We all will miss Mark's enthusiasm and his leadership, but we are sure that he will be very instrumental in establishing an alumni club in Southern Nevada.

The alumni were well represented at our annual Founders Day Banquet that we held in conjunction with the undergraduates of Nevada Alpha. Among the numerous highlights was the initiation into the Golden Legion of Brother Robert M. Schroeder (Alabama '37). Past President of the General Council Stan Brown conducted the ceremony. This was especially meaningful to both brothers, Schroeder and Brown, because they were undergraduates together at the same time at Cal Gamma (UCLA). A special award was presented to Dr. Winthrop G. Dale, (Idaho '46), who continues to be an outstanding example of why men join Phi Delta Theta. Dr. Dale's contributions go largely unheralded because of his unselfish personality and dedication, however, everyone that is involved with Phi Delta Theta in this area knows how instrumental he was in establishing the alumni club and the chapter at the University of Nevada Reno.

Events being planned for the coming months included establishing a golf tournament for the undergraduates and alumni, our now nearly annual baseball trip to San Francisco and several barbecues and parties.

Events for the coming year include the Founder's Day Banquet in Lincoln, scheduled for Thursday, March 15. A bus will be chartered for the trip from Omaha, and details will be mailed out regarding the time, place and cost of the event.

An outing to the horse races is tentatively scheduled for late May. Following that in June will be an alumni-active summer rush party, with a golf tournament tentatively scheduled for late July. Details for these events will be sent out in a mailing in early May.—David L. Eberhart

ST. PETERSBURG BEACH

The St. Petersburg Beach, Florida Alumni Club's annual golf and tennis sojourn continues to be a gala event and was held this year ('83) at the Plantation Golf and Tennis Resort, Crystal River, Florida.

Upon arrival Friday evening, the brothers and their ladies enjoyed a cocktail hour prior to a group dinner overlooking the waterfront. Taking advantage of the typical Florida weather, the mixed team golf tournament began with 18 holes on Saturday and concluded with 18 holes on Sunday. Award winners relating to the various trophy categories were brothers Walt Beers (and Dorothy), Fink (Amy), Grafft (Billie), Hoffman (Lib) and Leimbach (Doris).

Most disappointing to the assembled brothers was the cancellation of the much-heralded singles match between brothers Cherry and Vogelbacker, as well as the mixed doubles match between Cherry and his spouse (Jeanne) and Vogelbacker and his spouse (Kate). It is alleged that brother Cherry has been "burning the candle at both ends" and was in need of recuperation.

Subsequent to the conclusion of the Saturday golf round, another cocktail hour was granted our group as sponsored by the Rebel Yell Brigade, a degenerate group who on some occasions has been known to have a detrimental influence on various members of Phi Delta Theta. Noteworthy, during this cocktail hour, was the songfest initiated by our group which drowned out the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha, who were lodged "down the road a piece." However, all was favorably resolved by a toast on behalf of all "Greeks."

At the conclusion of our "shindig," a resolution was offered to express appreciation for the excellent arrangements for this successful gathering to brother Lew Grafft and his committee.—Dean Hoffman

TEXAS BETA

The Texas Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta was the first fraternity founded at the University of Texas, opening its doors on the first day of class in 1883.

To celebrate the first hundred years of its existence the chapter arranged for a jubilant weekend of festivities for alumni from all over the state and country, the active chapter and their parents. The reunion brought back over 800 alumni from as far back as 1922.

The chapter's centennial celebration coincided with the University of Texas' centennial and was held the weekend of September 30 and October 1, 1983.

The weekend began with a black tie dinner dance Friday evening at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Austin. The unprecedented gala event featured the Ed Gerlach orchestra from Houston, The Freedom Band from Jackson, Miss., and the world-famous Four Tops. Nostalgic items including chapter pictures, scrapbooks, and composites were displayed throughout the ballroom.

The guests began arriving at 7 p.m. and were entertained by the big band sound of the Ed Gerlach orchestra for about an hour. After dinner, speeches were made by Hugh Robertson, active president of the chapter; George Merriweather III (Texas '41), the chapter adviser whose invaluable support played a key role in making the evening a success; Gordon Wynne Jr. (Texas '55), the chapter alumni coordinator, and Malcom Cooper (Texas '61). Long-time house-mother Lucy Ward and porter Alonzo Harrison, who has been with the chapter for 31 years, were also introduced and received special honors.

After another short set by the Ed Gerlach orchestra warmed up the crowd, the Four Tops began and the dance floor was packed with Phis and their dates. Throughout the evening the Freedom Band performed until the wee hours of the morning.

Saturday afternoon a pre-game meeting of Alumni was held at the Phi Delt house before the Texas vs. Rice game at Memorial Stadium. After the game alumni and actives returned to the house for more entertainment from the Freedom Band.

The reunion brought back many memories for the Phis, young and old alike, and provided them a chance to meet each other and share a bond much steeped in tradition. Phis who had not seen each other in years were able to get re-acquainted and stories of rush, pledgeship and life at the house filled the air. A celebration long to be remembered, it was a very special way of concluding one century of friendship and brotherhood and beginning another.

TEXAS BETA: Chapter Adviser George Merriweather (Texas '42) greets guests at Texas Beta's Centennial celebration held in Austin.

TEXAS BETA: Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bell arrive for the dance celebrating Texas Beta's Centennial celebration.

Hibbett Diary Provides 'Engaging' Glimpse

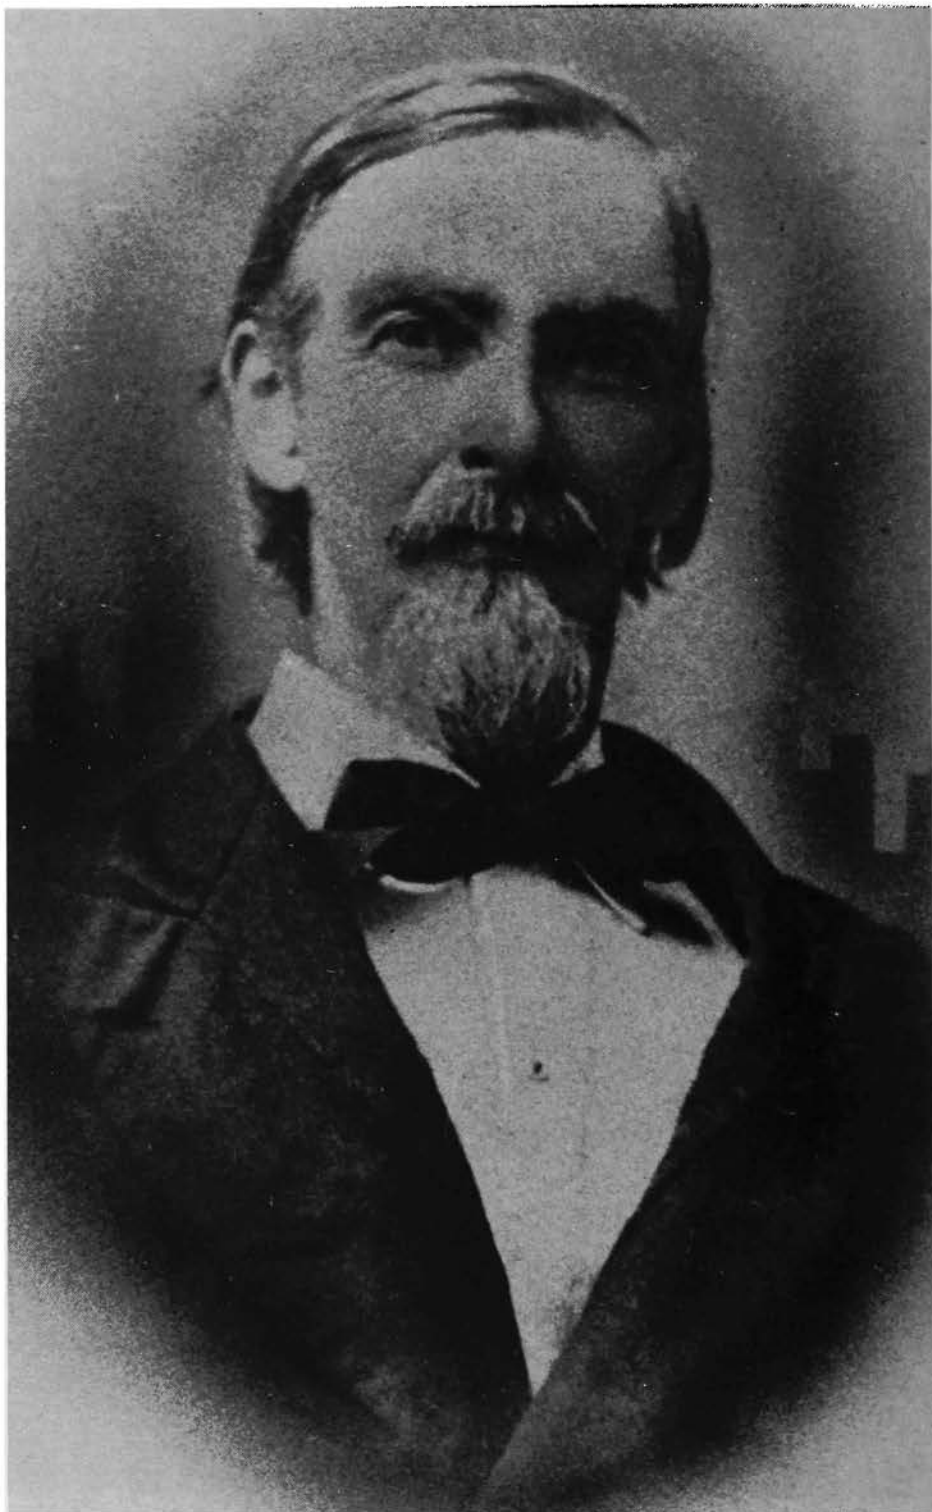

By William Pratt
Professor of English, Miami University

1984 may mean the year of Big Brother to fans of George Orwell, but to alumni of Miami University in Ohio, it marks the 175th anniversary of the founding of their college. And among the events that will help them bring back some of their early history is the publishing of the diary of Theophilus Cannon Hibbett, a native of Tennessee who attended Miami from 1851 to 1854 and kept a readable daily record of his college life. This diary, recently unearthed and given to Miami by a member of the Hibbett family, is amazingly legible for all its 130 years of preservation (penmanship was an art in those days), and, newly edited and annotated for publication, it provides an engaging glimpse into the history of higher education in the United States, not just of Miami alone.

In the present century—mostly after World War II, when all of American higher education, stimulated by the GI Bill and a post-war “baby boom,” grew by leaps and bounds—Miami has become a major university, now numbering over 15,000 students on four campuses, but at the time Hibbett went there, Miami was one of a hardy band of small liberal arts colleges across the country, where the American university system was nurtured, and where one of its most vital institutions, the college fraternity, was born. Miami came to be known as the “Mother of Fraternities,” because three of the first national fraternities were founded there in the period before the Civil War—the original “Miami Triad,” of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi. T.C. Hibbett happened to go to Miami shortly after the second of them, Phi Delta Theta, was founded, having been recruited by one of the founders, Robert Morrison, who had gone down to central Tennessee after his graduation from Miami to become principal of a preparatory school called Poplar Grove Academy. We can read in Walter B. Palmer's History of Phi Delta Theta (page 51) that Morrison was for a time an influential teacher, and that “One of his pupils was T.C. Hibbett, whom he induced to attend Miami and join Phi Delta Theta.” Among the interesting additional facts we learn from Hibbett's diary is that

THEOPHILUS CANNON HIBBETT

Morrison accompanied Hibbett on his first trip to Miami in the summer of 1851, no doubt proud of his pupil, who was so well prepared for college that when he was examined by his professors, he was promptly advanced to the sophomore class, enabling him to complete his degree in three years instead of the usual four, and to graduate among the top scholars in his class, delivering one of the speeches at the commencement of 1854.

Difficult Curriculum

Studying had to be taken seriously in those days, for there was only one route to a Bachelor of Arts degree, and that was by mastering the three principal subjects of the Classical Humanities curriculum which set the standard at American colleges: Greek, Latin, and Mathematics. Hibbett was such a diligent scholar that he not only did well in these tough subjects, but also took two modern languages, French and German, as electives, while leading an active life in the extracurricular activities that were most popular on campus, namely, the literary societies and the college fraternities. In his senior year, he also found time to write an Oxford column for the local newspaper, the Hamilton Intelligencer, and to serve as sublibrarian to the Greek professor, Charles Elliott, who lived near him in the North Dorm, now named Elliott Hall. There is a shield-shaped plaque on the brick exterior of Elliott Hall today which proclaims that Phi Delta Theta was founded in 1848 in one of the dormitory rooms, and since Professor Elliott himself became an honorary member of the fraternity, we can guess that dormitory life and fraternity life were practically synonymous in those early days, as the Hibbett diary indeed confirms.

T.C. Hibbett (who, understandably, went only by his initials) had the good fortune to arrive at Miami in the peak years of its early promise, when future national leaders such as Benjamin Harrison, who became the 22nd President of the United States, and David Swing, who won renown as a preacher in Chicago (both of them Phi Delta Thetas), were among the few hundred students on campus, and though he was not destined to bring fame to his alma mater as they would do, he was the chronicler who was destined to leave behind the liveliest account of daily life at Old Miami. Not that he had such a high purpose in mind when he started his diary in the fall of 1851, soon after arriving on campus. He was simply acting on the suggestion of his father that he keep a record of his youth, "the most important as well as interesting portion of the short span allotted to man," as he tells himself philosophically on the first page of the diary, and he kept it up, so it seems, primarily for his own amusement. Probably no one else ever saw the diary during his lifetime; he was only twenty when he graduated from Miami in 1854, and he must have put the diary away with his college memories, because when his obituary was published at the time of his death in 1918, at the age of 84, there was no mention of his Miami degree. It was a fortunate accident that a later member of the family was a trained librarian, who recognized that the diary gave a valuable account of the early history of the university, and through her generosity the diary came to Miami, and can now be read as a brief but vivid picture of a pioneer American college in the mid-nineteenth century.

Intimate Record

What the Hibbett diary offers is an intimate personal record of one college student's experience, yet it is typical enough to show, in the late twentieth century, just how much higher education has changed over the past century and a half, and descriptive enough to let a modern reader relive the experience in all its immediacy, its youthful idealism, and its often infectious humor. If it is hard to imagine what life at a pioneer college on the frontier was really like, through the diary it comes to life again, and there is much about that life that is appealing.

Traveling to college itself was an adventure, for it took at least five days for Hibbett to make his way from the family farm southeast of Nashville to the Miami campus, which consisted then of just three brick buildings in the woods of southwestern Ohio. One can drive the distance today in about six hours by car, but as he describes the journey by railroad, stagecoach, and steamboat through "the inarable wilds of Kentucky," it must have been an exhausting trip then—no wonder Hibbett chose not to go home for Christmas, but stayed in the dormitory when the other students departed, spending his time boning up on his Latin and Greek, or writing a speech for his literary society. Some of the most colorful passages in the diary tell of these journeys to and from college. Each time T.C. Hibbett went back and forth, he went at least part of the way by steamboat, the speediest and most convenient form of long-distance travel available in the period before the Civil War, when there were few railroads, and stagecoaches were a slow and uncomfortable alternative. On his first journey home, in the summer of 1852, he took the steamboat all the way from Cincinnati to Nashville, a week's journey that involved creeping through fog on the Ohio River, battling mosquitoes, and running aground in the shallow Cumberland River, where he was forced to get off one boat and wait for a smaller one to come along, meanwhile hearing hair-raising stories about cholera epidemics on the river and steamboat explosions in which many people were drowned. Though steamboat travel could be trying, it could also be exciting, providing the sort of unexpected adventures for which today's airplane flights seem a relatively tame equivalent.

Hibbett may have been directed to Miami by his teacher, Robert Morrison, but he found plenty of other students from his region at college when he got there. The "Hibbett accepted the invitation to join the Phis, who were then so large (about 20 members!) that they had split into two chapters, the Alphas and the Betas, so that they could meet more conveniently in the dormitory rooms."

diary mentions classmates from Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, and Mississippi, and gives the impression that the student body, in the decade before the Civil War, was about evenly divided between North and South. There seems to have been surprisingly little sectional rivalry, however, for the diary shows the young men at Miami forming strong bonds of brotherhood that cut across sectional lines, joining them together into literary societies first and college fraternities second. Hibbett joined the Union Literary Society in his first year and Phi Delta Theta fraternity in his second year, and the rivalries that developed between the Union, Erodolphian, and Eccritean Societies, and between the Betas, Phis, and Dekes were much more fierce than any sectional differences the students of Old Miami might have felt. The diary is especially revealing in the account it gives of the interplay between debating societies and fraternities, at the time when both were going strong on the college campus. In time, the debating societies would fade away and the fraternities would flourish, but when Hibbett was at Miami, both were going strong, and he played a central role in each, and clearly enjoyed the opportunities for friendly argument and sociable conversation which each afforded.

Literary Society

In the Union Literary Society, Hibbett participated actively throughout his three years, serving as Recording Secretary in his second year and as Corresponding Secretary in his last year, and he noted in his diary the weekly topics of debate that he and his classmates argued vigorously with each other. The educational issues that provoked spirited discussion in the 1850's have been resolved long ago: "Should the education of the sexes be separate?"; "Should the dead languages receive the attention they now do in our colleges?" But political questions of that day sound somewhat closer to home: "Is the Union endangered by Roman Catholicism?"; "Should the United States intervene on behalf of Hungary?" And racial discrimination was as controversial then as it is now: "Has the Indian been treated worse than the white man?"; "Should free Negroes be permitted to settle in the state?" None of these questions were settled, of course, by the college debating society, but it was customary for speakers to be heard on both sides of the question, and then for a vote to be taken of the members to decide whether the Affirmative or the Negative had won. Hibbett took part in these weekly debates with enthusiasm, but he reserved his greatest interest for the annual Exhibition, held each December at the end of the fall term, a public speaking event that drew a large audience from Oxford and the surrounding towns. In one of his most extended narratives in the diary, he gives a humorous blow-by-blow account of the Union Literary Exhibition of 1853, when Hibbett and five other speakers nervously took the stand, to the accompaniment of a brass band, and, having written and memorized their speeches ahead of time, alternately diverted or bored the audience—which he estimated at about a thousand people—for more than three hours. It was in many respects the high point of his whole college career, although he had the further honor of giving one of the Commencement addresses for his graduating class in June of 1854.

As for the college fraternities, Hibbett entered Miami in the period when they were outlawed, as a result of the notorious Snowball Rebellion of 1848, when on a cold winter evening a group of college boys, most of them Beta Theta Pis and Alpha Delta Phis (the first two fraternities at Miami) had rolled a huge snowball against the doors of the only classroom building and sealed it shut. They did get a holiday from classes, all right, but it turned out to be permanent, when the faculty expelled all the pranksters and declared the fraternities illegal. Though Hibbett had been brought to Miami by Robert Morrison, and was friendly with the Phi Delta Thetas from the time he arrived on campus, he declined their invitation to join in his first year, on the ground that he did not wish to have anything to do with "Secret Societies," preferring instead to help set up a mock-fraternity, with a constitution and makeshift pins, intended to shame the sub rosa fraternities that were still defying the official ban. But President William C. Anderson, who later became an honorary Phi Delta Theta along with Professor Elliott, decided that it was time to grant official recognition to the fraternities again at the Commencement of 1852, and so in the fall of his second year, Hibbett accepted the invitation to join the Phis, who were then so large (about 20 members!) that they had split into two chapters, the Alphas and the Betas, so that they could meet more conveniently in the dormitory rooms. Hibbett was initiated into the Beta chapter, but was granted permission to transfer to the Alpha chapter, where most of his closest friends were. He was elected Secretary of the reunited chapters in the spring of 1853, and next fall became President, noting in his diary that Phi Delta Theta sent one of its new initiates to start a chapter at Austin College in Texas during the time he was President, an indication that the fraternity was fast moving from local to national status. The purpose of the college fraternity in those early days was partly social and partly intellectual, for sometimes Hibbett composed speeches to be given at a fraternity meeting, just as he did for the literary society, but it was also a potent political force on campus, as we gather when we read that the Phis were accused of controlling elections in the Union Literary Society, being attacked by their main rivals, the Betas. Between the lines of the diary, it can be detected that the fraternities were gaining strength over the literary societies even then, although in Hibbett's college years both were equally indispensable to the kind of education he sought, which was social, moral, and intellectual, a blend of learning, discussion, and friendship. Today's reader of the diary cannot help feeling some regret that the social function of the fraternity eventually came to dominate over all the others, leading to the unfortunate conflict between intellectual and social life which has so often marred the later history of American college fraternities.

Close Relationships

A further side of college life which emerges appealingly from the diary is the very close friendship between the faculty and the students at Old Miami. After all, there were only seven professors and about two hundred students on campus in Hibbett's day, and all lived in close proximity. As one of the measures to restore order after the Snowball Rebellion, President Anderson had the sensible idea of moving Professor Elliott and his wife into the dormitory, insuring that the faculty and students would be in even closer touch. Professor and Mrs. Elliott often entertained students at tea in their rooms, and Hibbett remarks that they were gracious hosts. President Anderson himself would conduct the obligatory chapel service that started every classroom day, and Professor Robert H. Bishop, Jr. (another honorary Phi!) was put in charge of keeping the students' money safe while they were in college. Thus the students and professors shared not only the classroom but the rest of college life, and the diary is ample witness to the respect and affection they felt for each other. Hibbett notes that "Old Bobby" Bishop was his favorite professor, with whom he frequently exchanged books and magazines, and he sometimes argued religious questions with President Anderson. One of the more touching moments of the diary came at his parting with the president after commencement in the summer of 1854, when, he says, Dr. Anderson was "perfectly childish" in his tearful reluctance to say goodbye to the students and leave Miami, just five years after he had come to restore confidence and build enrollment in the university. Whatever gains in Miami's size and stature may have been made in the century and a half since the diary was written, some of the friendly relations between faculty and students has inevitably been lost, though there can of course be notable exceptions even in today's larger and more impersonal university climate.

"Today's reader of the diary cannot help feeling some regret that the social function of the fraternity eventually came to dominate over all the others, leading to the unfortunate conflict between intellectual and social life..."

Hibbett's roommates during his three years at college were from towns near Oxford, and one of them left his mark on the town later on. This was his last "roomy," James R. Patterson of Hamilton, Ohio, who was a brother Phi in college, and went on to become a highly successful businessman, maintaining homes in Louisiana and Ohio, and building a fine house near the university which he called "Glenwilde," today known as Patterson Place, for a while the home of the President of Western College for Women, but, now that Western has been merged with Miami, the headquarters of the Western College Alumnae Association. The street in front of the house also bears the name of Patterson Avenue. James Patterson served as a trustee of Miami for many years, was a generous patron of the library, and was awarded an honorary degree by his alma mater in 1912, the year before his death.

Other Points of Interest

The diary has many other points of interest, such as the relations between the Oxford Female Seminary, then the only girls' school in town, and the all-male college. Hibbett's diary mentions that there were ladies present at morning chapel—on one occasion causing the sermon to be disrupted by a barking dog, which had jumped down from the lap of its mistress and could not be silenced, forcing President Anderson to dismiss the audience with the request that no more dogs be brought to chapel—and he refers to feminine presence at other public ceremonies, such as the annual Exhibitions of the literary societies and the Commencements. Judging from the fact that the daughter of the President of the Oxford Female Seminary, Caroline Scott, married future President Benjamin Harrison soon after his graduation in 1852, we can guess that the relations between the boys' and girls' colleges were warm and friendly. We can also gather that religion was a strong influence on college life in the 1850's, since all the early presidents of Miami were Presbyterian ministers, and since the diary mentions such a surge of revivalism on campus that the boys not only went to chapel every morning, but to prayer meetings at other times of the day, and to church two or three times on Sunday. Many of Hibbett's classmates were preparing for the ministry, and he attended one sermon at the Old School Presbyterian Church on "the obligation of Christians to become ministers in preference to other professions." Of his closest friends at Miami, David Swing was already an ordained minister, Robert Morrison left teaching to become a minister during Hibbett's college days, and a former classmate wrote letters to him from Princeton Divinity School. Though Hibbett himself did not think seriously of a religious vocation, he was probably typical of the college student of his time in reading the Bible daily and being concerned with religious questions as much as with academic studies while on campus.

Hibbett's education was a liberal one, even by today's standards, for while studying two ancient languages and two modern languages, as well as mathematics and some elementary science, he read prodigiously on his own in the literary classics as well as the best-sellers of the day. His reading included the complete works of his favorite living author, Washington Irving, volume after volume of English history and biography, the poetry of Byron and the satires of Swift, new novels such as Dicken's David Copperfield and Harriet Beecher Stowe's sensational Uncle Tom's Cabin, and the current issues of Knickerbocker's Magazine, which his father sent him from home. At his graduation, his roommate and his classmates showed their respect for his learning by giving him the works of Shakespeare, Byron, and Macaulay. The evidence of a lively and inquiring mind is on every page of the diary, clear proof that the old-fashioned Liberal Arts education was by no means limited to ancient studies.

"More than any other quality, it is Hibbett's loyalty and affection for his alma mater that still serve to link the Miami graduate of 1854 with the Miami graduate of 1984 despite all the changes that have taken place..."

Hibbett was not only good at penmanship, but at writing in a graceful and intelligent style. The diary is a pleasure to read because it contains a variety of forms, from light verse to passages of "purple prose" (his account of a sunrise seen from the dormitory window is a particularly extravagant piece of rhetoric), and though his style is formal by today's standards, his reflective moods and sometimes hilarious humor go far beyond the exercises of today's English Composition courses—courses unnecessary in his day, since he had the weekly competition of the literary societies to keep his mind always actively shaping ideas into words. That he did not use his writing skill after college seems a pity, but he had other responsibilities to attend to at home and elsewhere.

Later Life

We know little about his later life, except that he went to Cumberland Law School in Tennessee and was admitted to the bar, but his law practice seems to have ended with the Civil War. He volunteered and served in the Confederate Army, being captured at the battle of Fort Donelson, not far from his hometown of Smyrna, Tennessee, in 1862. He was exchanged after a few months as a prisoner of war in Illinois, and rose to the rank of Captain and Provost-Marshal in Bate's Division of the Army of Tennessee. When he returned home after the war, he served as a civil engineer and as Justice of the Peace, though his obituary makes no mention of these occupations, merely praising his reputation as a farmer, a Mason, and "a devout member of the Presbyterian Church." Although his obituary is silent about the Miami connection, his affection for his Alma Mater is evident on every page of the diary, particularly at the end, where he mused to himself, as he waited for the stagecoach to start him on his homeward journey from Ohio to Tennessee, "I regretted leaving Oxford very much, as I never expect to see it again." Leaving Miami, he said, was "like parting from a band of brothers," and his continued affection for the school was shown some thirty years later, when, in 1887, he wrote a letter to his "kindly remembered preceptor," Professor Bishop, to say that he had received a catalogue of the newly re-opened Miami University (the college closed for twelve years after the Civil War, when funds and enrollment ran out), and to express his still-warm feeling for the place where he had spent many happy days: "I am so glad to know that the University still lives and I sincerely hope she may more than regain her former status among the first colleges of the land." He notes in this same letter that he is still in correspondence with Robert Morrison, who had met him at the steamboat dock in Louisville on his last voyage home from college, and who had become a Presbyterian minister in Missouri afterwards. More than any other quality, it is Hibbett's loyalty and affection for his alma mater that still serve to link the Miami graduate of 1854 with the Miami graduate of 1984, despite all the changes that have taken place in the hundred and thirty years since the diary was written. ■

Florida Alpha Flag Team Finishes Second

Playing in an exhibition game at the Sugar Bowl in front of 40,000 spectators may have been a sweet reward for coach Jimmy Collins and his Phi Delta Theta flag football team. But finishing second in the nation at the Sugar Bowl Collegiate Classic in New Orleans in late December was the meat-and-potatoes for the University of Florida Phis.

Led by brother Collins, the Phi Delt breezed through campus competition to represent Florida at the national tourney for the second straight year.

After finishing third out of a 50-school format the year before, the Phi Delt was looking to knock off defending champ University of New Orleans this year. But after blowing past the University of Mississippi 35-12, Georgia College 33-0, Townsend State 28-6, the University of Iowa 35-6, and pulling out a 50-48 decision over Mississippi State in the semifinals, Florida was defeated by the champs, 20-8.

To Collins and his teammates, finishing second was a bit of a let-down initially, especially since they finished third the year before and had lost only one starter.

"If you would have told me before the game that they (New Orleans) would have scored only 20 points," said Collins, "I would have said we are national champs. No one had held us to under 28 points all season."

With a stiff defense, UNO held UF scoreless at the half. After two scores to take a 14-0 lead at half, UNO held on to the 20-8 victory. Still, the team was satisfied with the trip and their spectacular season.

"That trip was one of the greatest experiences of my life," said Collins, whose team battled freezing temperatures, iced-over fields, and cramped quarters at the tournament. "The closeness of being together for a whole week, everyone pulling for each other was great. It was the most fun I've ever had."

On the field, the Phi Delt were led by All-America quarterback Marty Dickinson and Chris Swindell, named the 1983 Defensive MVP. Both graduating seniors, Collins said he owes the team's success over the years to Dickinson and Swindell.

"They gave 100 percent in every practice and that carried over to some of the younger guys," said Collins. "I honestly believe that the only reason Marty was in school was because of football."

Others named to the All-America team this year were receiver Tom Gwinn, rusher Jaime Meehan and 1984 Defensive MVP Mike Shimer.

Phi Delt—which practiced three days a week, two hours a day since school began—capped their season with an exhibition game versus New Orleans before the Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl between Auburn and Michigan. All the members on the team received satin jackets, hats, and a ferry trip down the Mississippi River.

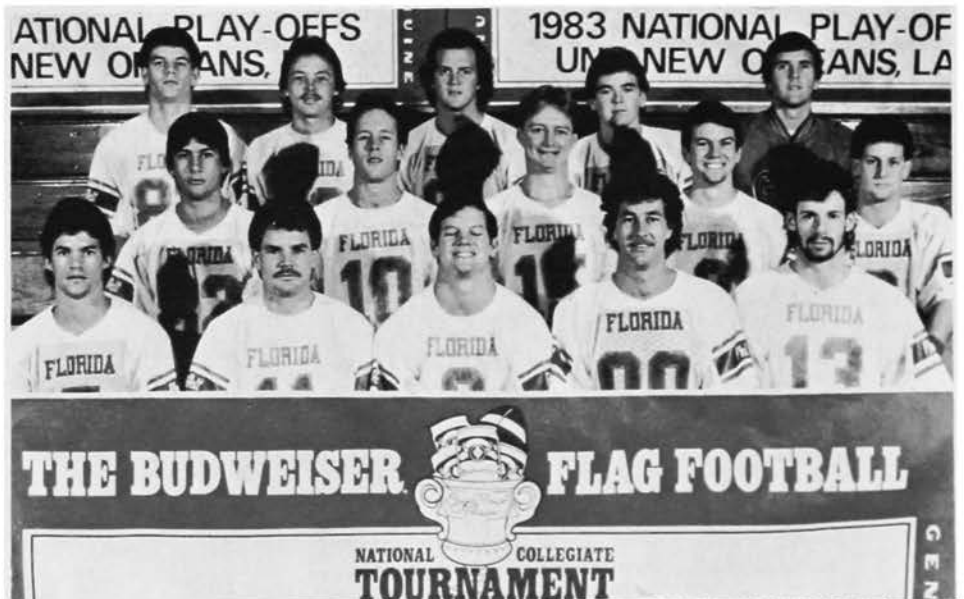

But the satin jackets aren't the best thing that the Florida Phis received from their flag football endeavors. It's the recognition that Phi Delt has garnered campus-wide that stands out, according to Collins.

"Whenever anybody brings up flag football at UF, the first name they mention is us," he said. "No one has come close to beating us."

Collins also believes the team has helped make the Florida Alpha Phi Delt the second-largest fraternity—with 159 active members—on the UF campus.

"People come through rush and say, 'I've heard so much about your football team and I wanted to look at your house,'" said Collins. "It's good for the house."

Unanimous Selections Pace Cagers

Three of the top five 1983-84 members of the All-Phi basketball team were unanimous selections of the board. These included Detlef Schrempf (Washington-Seattle '86), Tim Mullen (Virginia '85) and Howard Cohn (Lawrence '84).

The other two members were Carlos Gilyard (Willamette '84) and Doug Stough (Centre '84). Gilyard is a repeat selection from last year and Stough is a newcomer to the team.

Schrempf is destined to be one of the all-time greats in Phi Delta Theta basketball history. In 28 games this year he scored 450 points for a 16.2 scoring average plus 205 rebounds and 86 assists for the PAC-10 champions. His top game was 34 points against USC, 27 against UCLA, and 26 against Washington State. He was named District 8 "Player of the Year" and was selected to the All-PAC 10 team.

Mullen, a three-year regular with the Cavaliers, helped spark their drive to the final four before losing to Houston. In 25 games he scored 114 points for a 4.5 average. His top games were 15 against Georgia Tech and 12 against number one ranked North Carolina. His career high was 23 points last year against Duke.

Cohn moves up from last year's second team. He was team captain for Lawrence and named the "Most Valuable Player". He was an All-Midwest selection. In 22 games he scored 386 points for a 17.5 average plus 196 rebounds for an 8.9 average. He was fourth in the Midwest Conference in scoring and seventh in rebounding.

Gilyard is a repeat selection from last year as well as an All-Midwest Conference choice the past two years. Serving as team captain he led the Northwest Conference in rebounding and was an All-Tournament team selection at both the John Lewis Classic and the Chico State Tournament.

Completing the first five is Stough, Centre captain of the 10-0 College Athletic Conference champions. He was his team's leading scorer with 335 points for a 13.4 average plus 101 rebounds and 62 assists.

The second team is paced by a trio of unanimous choices. They are Charles Anderson (SMU '84), Craig McAtee (DePauw '85) and Coby DeVary (Centre '86). The other two are Mark Mitchell (Hanover '84) and Tom Cowens (Centre '85).

Anderson was the Mustang's number six player the past two years. SMU lost by a single point to eventual NCAA Champion Georgetown in the playoffs. In Southwest Conference play he hit three of six shots in the last 57 seconds in a 60-59 loss to nationally ranked Houston.

APPOINTMENTS - MEETINGS - ANNOUNCEMENTS

Issues Highlight Officers Meet

A thorough discussion of fraternity issues and concerns highlighted the Feb. 18-19 meeting of the General Officers on the campus of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

Dr. Charles Wicks, president of the General Council, presided over the two-day meeting that began at 8:30 a.m., Feb. 18 with the reading of the Bond by John Srofe, president of Zeta Province.

A panel consisting of Council members Fr. David Turner and Billy Stitt along with John Harding, Rho North Province president, discussed "pre-initiation" rituals. Considerable concern was expressed over the use of pre-initiation rituals by chapters. The feeling was that this practice could diminish the importance of the initiation ritual itself.

Stan Brown, housing commissioner, led a panel consisting of Alan Glover, George Notaras and Rusty Richardson on the importance of insurance. Richardson covered liability insurance. He pointed out that 58 chapters do not have proper insurance at this time.

Following the discussion it was generally agreed that the general fraternity should investigate the purchase of a general policy that would include liability and comprehensive coverage for all chapters.

Bob Miller, executive vice president, presented a "State of the Fraternity" report in which he first reviewed the job responsibilities of each of the paid staff. He discussed the acquisition of a new computer system for general headquarters and covered the upcoming General Convention in New Orleans.

Tal Bray, reporter of the GC, reported on recent actions of the NIC and Fr. Turner reported on the fraternity's position regarding the use of alcohol.

Beginning in the afternoon session and continuing on Sunday morning the officers discussed a variety of topics. Consideration was given to constructing a uniform pledge education program but the general feeling was that this would not allow for individual chapter differences.

The overall consensus was that general headquarters provides a basic framework for all chapters to build a pledge program around in its pledgemaster's manual. The problem is getting chapter officers to use that material.

A second topic included how to effect a better program of expansion. The Survey Commission reported that it was developing two manuals for use in colony development. One is for the use of undergraduates in the colony. The other is for the use of alumni. A suggestion was made that consideration be given to designating a paid staff member at headquarters to work specifically on expansion. The general consensus was that the fraternity needs a more thorough and more professional approach to presentations to potential colony groups and universities being considered for expansion.

The officers spent considerable time discussing how to obtain more involvement and participation in the General Convention in New Orleans. It was urged that the Convention be promoted more beginning immediately by direct mail to the chapters.

The Chapter Officers and Advisers Conferences were also discussed with each province president reporting on the ones already conducted and those yet to be conducted.

The delegates also discussed "anti-fraternity" feelings on college campuses and an "anti-fraternity" feeling among various chapters. It was pointed out that the board of trustees at Colby College in Maine recently voted to abolish the fraternity and sorority system on that campus.

It was emphasized that our chapters need to do a better job of selling the positive things that they do to counteract some of the negative images projected. The point was made that chapter members need to get involved in campus activities, including student senate and campus media. Programs in alcohol awareness and anti-hazing would also help demonstrate the responsibility of fraternities.

Province presidents were urged to do a better job of communicating with these chapters as to how the general fraternity operates so they would have a better understanding of how the headquarters staff operates and why there is a need for reports, paperwork, etc.

Brown reported on the work of the Housing Commission. He promised a packet of information related to good insurance coverage. He also discussed a survey to be sent to Housing Corporations of all chapters.

Computer Software Added

General Council members, meeting in Oxford on Feb. 16-17, agreed to spend $38,000 to purchase software equipment for the new general headquarters computer.

The Council also gave tentative approval to add a fifth consultant to the headquarters staff. They Bob Fitzpatrick, Gamma South province president, reported on the meetings of the advisory board to the nominating committee of the convention. The following brothers have indicated their intention to have their names placed in nomination for election to the General Council: Bob Dinkel, Tal Bray, Bill Stitt, Fr. David Turner, Frank Abernathy, John Srofe, and Dan Stewart.

Dick Galloway, Palmer Fund trustee, reported on the activities of the Palmer Fund. He expressed satisfaction with the state of the fund. The fund has $2,027,000 in assets. Fifty-three loans have been made at the present time to 48 chapters with seven loans pending. Loans out at the present time stand at $1.5 million. The interest rate is 6% and the trustees recently raised the loan limits to $75,000 for a first loan and $50,000 for second loans.

Each province president was given an opportunity to briefly discuss developments in his province during the latter stages of the afternoon meeting on Saturday and the morning meeting on Sunday. ■ asked Bob Biggs, director of chapter services, to prepare a cost estimate and a complete job description on the new position.

A proposed May installation for a new colony at Western Ontario was approved during the meeting. A second installation at Southwestern Louisiana was put on hold.

As usual, a considerable amount of the Council's time was spent reviewing problem chapters and the work of the province presidents. Province president vacancies exist in Gamma North (PA), Pi North (Western Vancouver and British Columbia) and Sigma South (northern Ohio).

While reviewing various policies the Council agreed to up the amount of the current chapter treasurer's bond from $2500 to $10,000 effective with the new biennium.

The Council heard reports on the Scroll from Bill Dean, editor, and the COACs from Biggs. A good portion of the meeting was spent finalizing plans with Bob Miller, executive vice president, for the 1984 General Convention in New Orleans.

Present were members Dr. Charles Wicks, president; Fr. David Turner, Billy Stitt and Tal Bray. Others in attendance were Miller, Biggs, Dean, Rusty Richardson, director of alumni services and consultants John Clark, Chris Johnston, Jim Hizer and Chris Schrader. ■

Justice James Dolliver (Swarthmore '49), Washington state Supreme Court Chief Justice, recently honored John Pilcher (Puget Sound '84) for his work as Associated Student Body President during the past year. The honor came at a dinner banquet held on campus.

A survey conducted by the Student Organization Development Center at the University of Minnesota has refuted the notion that Greek students come from "wealthy" backgrounds and do not have to work while in college. The study found that the typical student in a fraternity or sorority has the same needs as most of the students at Minnesota and have to supplement their educational costs by working part-time.

Sixteen chapters from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana were represented at a February Chapter Officer and Advisers Conference hosted by the University of Texas at Arlington. A leading motivational film titled "What You are Is..." narrated by Dr. Morris Massey was the highlight of the conference. GC Reporter Tal Bray represented the Council at the meeting.

Carl Vail III (Emory '84) has served this past year as president of the Western Regional Interfraternity Conference. He was elected in April, 1983.

Lester Wallace (Northwestern '84), a junior at Stanford University, is working on a very interesting internship at Honeywell's subsidiary Synertek Inc., a semiconductor manufacturer located in California's famous Silicon Valley.

WALLACE At Synertek, Lester was assigned to complete the design of a tiny semiconductor integrated circuit (IC) using Synertek's unique Cell Library. Until recently, this IC design process could only be done by a design engineer with many years' experience, and the typical timeframe was 35 weeks. Using Synertek's new Cell Library technology, Lester was able to finish the chip in half the time.

Lester said he enjoyed the design challenge immensely and looks forward to working with a new Synertek engineer to see a different chip through its production.

Lester will be staying at Synertek part-time as he enters his senior year at Stanford. He does so with a gpa of 3.3 and is completing a double-major in History and Electrical Engineering.

GHQ VISIT: Walter J. Stoessel, Jr. (Stanford '41) is shown through General Headquarters by Bob Biggs, director of chapter services. Stoessel, ambassador to Russia from 1974-76, was on the Miami campus on Feb. 15 to deliver the 1984 Finch Lecture, entitled, "U.S.-Soviet Relations: Backgrounds and Prospects." He indicated in his lecture that, while it was too soon to tell what effect Konstantin Chernenko's selection as head of the Soviet Union will have on U.S. relations, there is hope for improvement. He was recently named assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Four Canadian Phis Honored

Four Canadian Phi Deltas have been awarded scholarships by the Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation. Each received $1,000.

The winners include Stephen Harold McMurdo (British Columbia '85), Paul J. Alpern (Alberta '85), David Daniel MacKay (Manitoba '85) and Gregory Bruni (Western Ontario '85).

McMurdo spent three years in the Faculty of Commerce at British Columbia and is now in his first year of law school. Alpern is in his second year at Alberta in the Faculty of Commerce. MacKay pursues his degree at Manitoba in the Faculty of Science. Bruni is in his third year of Honours Psychology at Western Ontario. He is one of the founding brothers that reactivated Ontario Beta.

*In the spring of 1983, under the leadership of Greg Hahn ('83) and Jim Vander Schaaf ('84), the Phi Deltas at the University of Wisconsin decided to implement a Greek Alcohol Survey as one of its community service projects. Phi Deltas working with other concerned Greek students and a representative of the Dean of Students Office, formed survey questions and distributed the survey to over 700 Greeks. The purpose of the survey was three fold: 1—to promote Greek awareness of Alcohol issues and problems, 2—to provide the Dean of Students Office with information about Greek drinking problems and patterns that might serve as a basis for creating programming and 3—to help IFC and Panhellenic deal with alcohol related issues.

Over the summer and throughout the fall the survey results were processed and analyzed and a final report was written in November. In January the Greek Alcohol Survey report was distributed to executive officers of each fraternity and sorority. A meeting was then held to discuss the report and alcohol issues and problems in general. Further meetings are planned and all are very optimistic that programming aimed toward helping Greeks deal with alcohol issues and problems will be implemented.

*Colorado Beta Phi at Colorado College made a big contribution to the school's alumni fund drive called "Dialogue." Phi Delt Ryan Cunningham was the student chairman of the event, putting in over 60 hours of alumni relations. The Phi Deltas, as a student organization, put in over 1,800 hours. The next closest organization had 900 hours.

PHI IN JAPAN: Jerry Leishman (Puget Sound '84) recently spent a month in the Orient as part of a business project that sent students to the far east to study Japanese management techniques.

NEW IDEAS

*The Utah Alpha chapter has developed a procedure to reduce the common problem of high accounts receivable. With guidance from their chapter adviser, Tom Arnett, they have written up a membership contract. This legal document can be used in a court of law if a member does not fulfill his financial obligations or abide by the Bond of the fraternity, a very effective method in reducing account receivables.

*Utah Alpha has instituted a formal coat and tie monthly meeting and dinner for all brothers. This event also includes the addition of a guest speaker. The speakers vary in topics ranging from fraternity life and experiences to scholarship improvement. In the month of March, Major Wayne Lamb spoke on motivation and the importance of goal and objective setting.

*The men of Pennsylvania Eta, Lehigh University, have purchased a personal computer for their chapter house library. Currently, the chapter officers are forming files for permanent computer records. Routine correspondence, pledge programs, social function reports and other works are added by officers, greatly adding to consistency in chapter operations. Soon the chapter house terminal will be linked to the University's central computer as well as to the campus fraternity cooperative suppliers office.

*The men of Pennsylvania Iota at the University of Pittsburgh have been meeting for Sunday evening dinners weekly at the chapter house. Brothers take turns cooking meals and all chapter members pay a nominal fee from which profits go toward a chapter house building fund.

OHIO IOTA: Greg Thompson, president of Ohio Iota, holds a cake the chapter purchased from the Easter Seal Society for $90. It was offered by adviser Ted Preston (Ohio '34).

NIFC Adopts Alcohol Edict

The National Interfraternity Conference Inc. of which Phi Delta Theta is a member passed a "Resolution on Alcohol" at its Dec. 3 House of Delegates meeting in Kansas City.

The resolution stated that the following policies be adopted and be recommended for member organizations:

1—That the possession, use, sale and/or consumption of alcoholic beverages on the premises of any chapter or at any entertainment or function of any chapter shall be in compliance with all applicable laws.

2—That moderation be encouraged during lawful consumption, and that chapters develop and support programs and those groups and organizations seeking to educate chapter members on alcohol awareness.

3—That open parties, meaning those with unrestricted access, where structured around the sale or consumption of alcoholic beverages shall be prohibited.

4—That non-alcoholic rush shall be actively promoted on all campuses.

5—That there shall be no open solicitation or encouragement of alcoholic consumption by contest or promotions in any chapter.

NEWSFRONTS

Two members of Texas Epsilon at Texas Tech have been elected to major leadership positions on the Interfraternity Council and a third has been selected to the top leadership post on campus. Dan Pope ('85) has been elected IFC president and Stuart Miller ('85) has been selected as IFC rush chairman. Jim Noble ('85) was recently elected president of the Student Association.

Work on New Fraternity Directory Underway

Work on the Phi Delta Theta Alumni Directory is well under way. In August all alumni will receive a brief questionnaire with a follow-up request to be sent one month later. The prompt return of these questionnaires is essential so that the information in the directory will be current and complete.

The completed questionnaires as well as a list of all alumni who do not respond to either mailing will be turned over to the publisher for telephone follow up.

Alumni will then be contacted directly by the Harris Publishing Company to verify information and to see whether they wish to purchase a directory. Alumni with current addresses who have not responded to the questionnaires and are not reached by phone by the Harris representatives, will appear in the directory with the information provided by alumni records.

Alumni will be listed alphabetically, geographically, and by chapter. Each listing will contain name, class year, chapter, residence address and phone number, and business or professional information when available.

If you have not received your questionnaire by mid-September or if you do not wish to be listed in the directory, please notify Rusty Richardson, director of alumni services, in writing at Box 151, Oxford, OH 45056

VISIT FROM THE PRESIDENT: Dr. Charles Wicks, president of the General Council, visited the Texas Tech campus in February to be the featured speaker at a Leadership Conference. Greeting him are Eddie Broussard (Texas Tech '84), chapter president, and Chris Taylor (Texas Tech '85), vice president.

DAVID D. BANTA LIBRARY

Henry B. Bass, (Missouri '19). The First 75 Years... D.C. Bass & Sons Construction Company, 1893-1968. Oklahoma City, 1969. 114 pp. Given by author's daughter, Mrs. Guy L. Berry.

This book traces the first 75 years of the D.C. Bass & Sons Construction Company, founded in 1893 by Dan C. Bass, Sr. Its partners and workers have wandered the Middle West from the mesquite covered banks of the Rio Grande to the mud flats of the Red River of the North and from the Rocky Mountains to the banks of the Father of Waters and shores of Lake Michigan. Through war and peace, booms and depressions, floods and droughts, tornadoes, blizzards and sut storms, they have endeavored to do their bit in the upbuilding of our nation. Their philosophy is, we have no ambition to be the biggest. We only want to be the best.

The book contains pictures of some of the beautiful buildings constructed by the company.

William G. Crook, M.D. (Univ. of the South '37). The Yeast Connection... 280 pp. Given by the author.

If you feel sick all over, this book could change your life. The yeast germ, Candida albicans, normally lives on your mucous membranes. Although it sometimes causes vaginitis, mouth infections and skin rashes, candida is usually a "friendly critter."

Yet, dramatic new discoveries show that toxins from usually harmless yeasts can make you sick "all over." Yeast-connected illness occurs especially in people who:

- (1) Have taken antibiotics and birth control pills.
- (2) Crave sweets and yeast-containing foods and beverages.
- (3) Feel bad on damp days and in moldy places.
- (4) Are bothered by chemical odors and tobacco smoke.

This book is written for the public and the professional. It will help relieve much unnecessary suffering.

Odie B. Faulk, Dear Everybody, the Life of Henry B. "Heinie" Bass (Missouri '19). Oklahoma: Western Heritage Books, Inc., 1982. 406 pp. Given by author.

Dear Everybody describes the life of Henry B. Bass, who headed the D.C. Bass & Sons Construction Co. founded by his father in 1893. Bass wrote a "Dear Everybody" letter once a month from early 1945 until his death in early 1975, a period of precisely 30 years, and sent it to a host of relatives and friends in Oklahoma, throughout the United States and around the world. The letters gave Heinie a chance to voice his opinions and recount his many experiences.

Bass was an admirer of Lincoln and owned a collection of Lincoln poems and correspondence, believed to be the world's largest. He patterned his life after Lincoln and his thoughts and mannerisms were much like the great American.

Dollars Are Up - Numbers Are Down

Robert J. Miller
Executive Vice President

There is good news and there is bad news. The good news is that the previous record for contributions to Phi Delta Theta in one solicitation year has been shattered. The bad news is that the number of persons sharing in the new record declined significantly.

A total of 9,258 Phis and friends of Phi Delta Theta contributed a grand total of $412,899 during the 1983 calendar year, for an average gift of $44.60. This represents a total dollar increase of $41,767 over the 1982 record and a total donor decrease of 731. The average gift increased $4.65.

The financial gain can be attributed to increased generosity on the part of the typical donor, plus significant contributions by several individuals, including memorial and estate gifts. The decrease in the beginning of the year and the program continued to fall behind as the year progressed, resulting in the cancellation of one specialized mailing. Even so, the drive was judged to be successful.

Levels of Giving

The Founders Club recognizes those individuals who contribute $10,000 or more within a period of ten years. Council Associates are recognized for gifts of $1,000 or more. In addition, recognition is given for gifts of $500-999.99 (President's Panel), $250-499.99 (Argent Association), $100-249.99 (Sword and Shield Society), $50-99.99 (Helmet Society) and $25-49.99 (Azure Association).

We are pleased to recognize Brother Malcolm Myers (Penn State '21), who is the Fraternity's newest lifetime member of the Founders Club. Additional gifts, which would have qualified the donors for membership in this club, were made by two current members. Also, numerous contributions were received to establish memorial scholarships in the names of Albert J. Gavlak (Case '22) and Robert P. Ufer, (Michigan '43), both past advisers of their respective chapters.

Contributions Well Spent

Money contributed to the Loyalty Fund is retained by the Fraternity for operating expenses. It helps pay daily maintenance costs of the General Headquarters building, including the expense of supporting a crew of chapter consultants. These young men visit chapters on a regular basis throughout the year, making multiple visits to chapters with special problems. It also assists with the travel costs of the volunteer workers who serve as province presidents, commissioners and general officers. With this kind of alumni support, the General Fraternity continues to operate as an efficient organization without the necessity of increasing pledge fees, initiation fees and charges to chapters for the General Convention and miscellaneous supplies. Canadian funds are held for similar purposes and are expended in Canada.

Gifts to the Educational Foundation on the other hand, are invested and the income utilized for scholarships which have been well documented, most recently in the fall issue of The Scroll. As a result of the 1983 fundraising campaign, the trustees of the foundation have announced that one scholarship, the Priest Award, will be given in the amount of $2,000 and, in addition, there will be 31 awards of $1,500 each awarded to persons who excel in scholarship, chapter service, campus activities and community involvement. Similarly, the education fund trustees aiding the Ohio State University's athletic program and has served on the University's Athletic Council, the Athletic Council's Scholarship Committee, the Ohio State University Golf Courses Greens Committee, and has contributed a number of his art works to the program. Robin is also a member of the University's President's Club, a retired board member of the Student Loan Foundation, and a guest speaker in the Commerce College's Executive Development Program.

COMMUNITY SERVICE: Each year Phi Delta chapters contribute thousands of man hours and thousands of dollars to a wide variety of community service projects such as this one at Oklahoma Gamma.

Like all other areas of Robin Bell's life, he has been a leader of the civic activities in which he has become involved. His civic involvements include the Central Ohio Junior Achievement, "Camp Enterprise", sponsored by the Rotary Club, the Buckeye Boys Ranch, the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, the Columbus Development Committee, the Central Ohio Chapters of the American Cancer Society, and the Heart Association.

While his involvement in numerous fraternity, higher education, and community activities have all been an integral part of Robin Bell's life, no discussion about Robin Bell would be complete without mentioning his business accomplishments. Essentially, Bell worked for one company from his entrance into the labor force in 1928 until his retirement in 1974. Hired as a design engineer by the Columbus Heating and Ventilating Company, he developed several patents in the heating and ventilation area. After serving on the War Production Board during World War II, Bell returned to Columbus and became president of the company he was so instrumental in developing.

Robin Bell, the businessman, artist, athlete, author, and lecturer, continues to unselfishly donate his time and energies to exemplify the teachings of the Bond.

Whitlow

William C. Whitlow has been a vital member of Phi Delta Theta, Westminster College and the Fulton, MO. community for over four decades.

His fraternity service has included 25 years as chapter adviser, an equal period on the chapter house corporation, province president, convention code committee member and survey commission member.

He has been a member of the Fulton City Council twice and has served in numerous other civic and charitable organizations. He has been a member of the Fulton Board of Associates for over 40 years.

Whitlow has also served as a trustee for Westminster and is a life member of the alumni council. In 1981 he was presented the award of merit by Westminster.

Miller

Harbaugh Miller, a Pittsburgh

attorney, is a former province president, alumni coordinator, house corporation officer and an Educational Foundation trustee.

He was also instrumental in the rechartering of Pennsylvania Iota in 1971.

He served 22 years as a trustee for Pittsburgh and has served as president of its Alumni Association. He has also been active in Pittsburgh civic affairs serving on the board of the Community Chest and two different boys clubs. He has been listed in Who's Who in America and was given the Distinguished Alumnus Award for the Pittsburgh Graduate School of Business. He was also named Man of the Year in law from the Junior Chamber of Commerce. ■

Council Honors Outstanding Phis

Legion of Merit medals were awarded to Emmett J. Junge (Nebraska '26), Dr. Clem Bininger (Centre '31) and Dr. John Davis, Jr. (Washburn '38) while Legion of Honor designations were given to Walter E. Havighurst (Ohio Wesleyan '23) and Robert J. Miller (New Mexico '50) at the Grand Banquet of the New Orleans Convention this summer.

Making the presentations on behalf of the General Council was Dr. Charles E. Wicks, president. The following excerpts are taken from the presentations by Wicks.

Emmett Junge

From the time he was an undergraduate, his qualities of leadership, his devotion to the fraternity, his pleasing personality and his quick and comprehending mind, caused the fraternity to be eager to pass him into service when he became an alumnus. Always enthusiastic and a genius at organization, he has been a moving spirit with any project or group with which he has been associated, whether it be the local alumni club, chapter, regional meeting, commissions or general council.

This distinguished Phi no doubt holds the record for attendance at biennial conventions of Phi Delta Theta—26 in number—his first at Estes Park, Colorado, in 1932. Initiated by the Nebraska Alpha chapter as Bond #338 on February 17, 1924, he has served Phi Delta Theta as chapter adviser, president of Mu Province (1932-38) and in 1938 was elected to the general council, where he served as reporter from 1940-42; treasurer 1942-46 and was elected president at the centennial convention in Oxford in 1948.

One might suspect that with all his fraternity work, this Phi would have little time for business. However, although now retired, he has been associated in executive positions in the business world (where he was referred to as a demon for work and accomplishment), later becoming the safety director of his city, the position from which he retired. He has also been active over the years in various civic organizations.

During his many years of service to Phi Delta Theta, this brother has had the support of his lovely wife, Edith, a Kappa Kappa Gamma.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we present the Legion of Merit Award to Brother Emmett J. Junge.

Dr. Clem Bininger

This member of Phi Delta Theta won first honors in high school and at college while taking part in football, basketball and track and serving as president, treasurer and house manager of Phi Delta Theta, president of the interfraternity conference and the student body. Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership society, granted his first scholarship for graduate study and Phi Beta Kappa elected him to alumni membership. An honor student at Princeton University, he earned Master of Divinity and Master of Theology degrees from the seminary and a Master of Arts in Philosophy from the university. In 1945 a Doctor of Divinity degree came from his alma mater, Centre. He has been awarded a number of honorary degrees.

He has served as pastor of Florida's largest congregation of the Presbyterian church, where he is a recognized leader. He has held many important appointments in the organization of his church, as well as numerous civic bodies and social agencies. Since retiring from this pastorate in 1982, after 50 years of ministry, he has been called upon nearly every week to serve as interim or guest minister in churches throughout the United States.

Since his initiation into the Kentucky Alpha-Delta chapter at Centre College as Bond #259, on February 29, 1928, this distinguished member has served his fraternity not only at the undergraduate level but as president of Mu Province (1954-56), at that time incorporating Kansas and Missouri; member-at-large of the general council (1954-56); reporter (1956-60) and was elected president in 1960.

Dinkel Elected Council President

Bob Dinkel (Alberta '53) was elected the new president of the General Council at the 65th Biennial Convention in hot and humid New Orleans, June 21-24. He is the second Canadian to serve as a G.C. president. The first was George E. Housser (McGill '06).

Other members elected to the new Council included holdovers Tal Bray (South Florida '65), Bill Stitt (Mississippi '54) and David Turner (Minnesota '70) along with newcomer Frank Abernathy (Richmond '60).

Despite the distractions of the near-by French Quarter and the attraction of the World's Fair, the Convention sessions were well attended and productive.

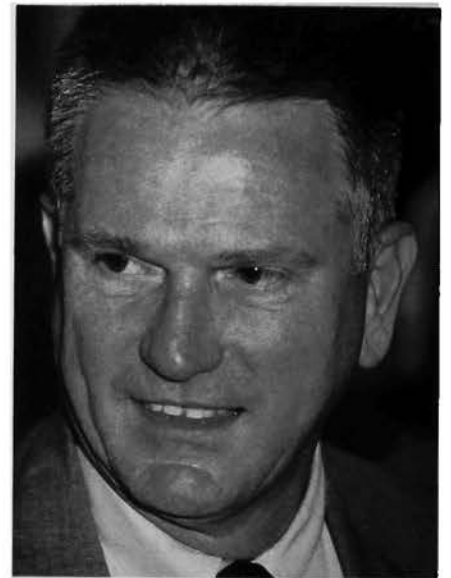

One of the most dramatic sessions, if not the highlight of the Convention, featured a stirring condemnation of hazing presented by Dave Westol, vice president of Theta Chi.

Westol, an assistant prosecuting attorney for Kalamazoo County, Michigan, presented a hypothetical hazing incident which resulted in the death of a Phi Delta pledge entitled "Phi Delta Theta on Trial."

The chapter president was indicted for manslaughter and Westol held the audience spell-bound for an hour and a half with his presentation of the details of the incident and of the trial itself.

Emmett J. Junge (Nebraska '26), Dr. Clem Bininger (Centre '31) and Dr. John Davis, Jr. (Washburn '38) were awarded the Legion of Merit Award by the General Council at the Grand Banquet while Dr. Walter Havighurst (Ohio Wesleyan '23) and Robert J. Miller (New Mexico '50) were given the Legion of Honor medals. The presentation to Miller was a well-guarded secret.

Top chapter awards went to Texas Tech (Harvard Trophy), General Motors Institute (Founders Trophy), Hanover (Kansas City Trophy) and British Columbia (Housser Trophy).

General Officers Meeting

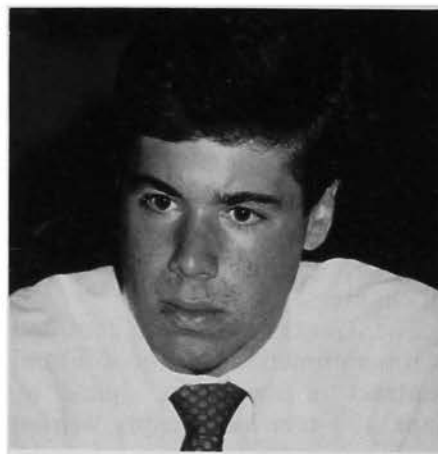

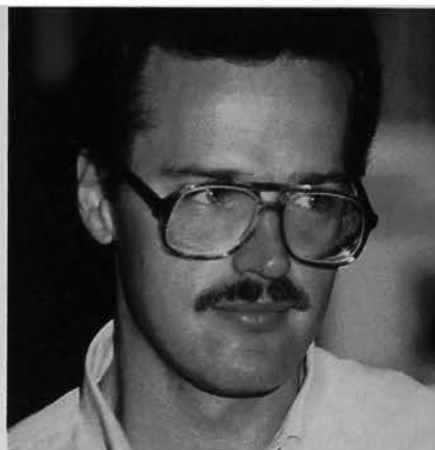

The General Officers met prior to the opening of the Convention and heard Stan Brown, housing commissioner, report that his committee had recommended that the James R. Faver Company be selected to write a comprehensive insurance policy that would cover all chapters.

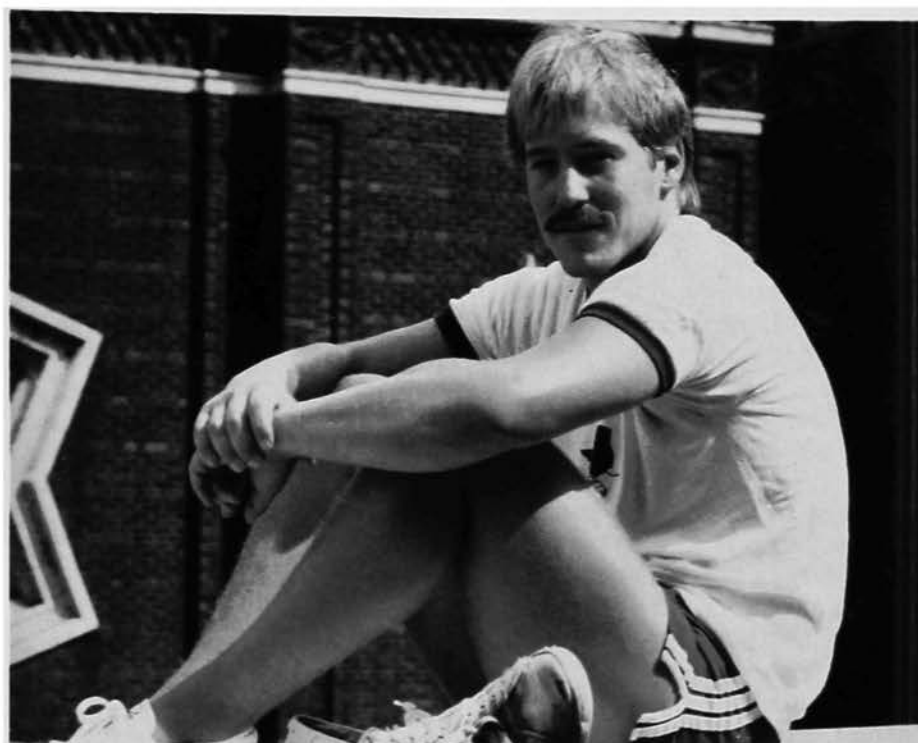

The General Council accepted that recommendation and a formal contract is due to be signed by Sept. 1. Faver has already written comprehensive programs for five general fraternities.

The insurance will cover all chapters at less cost where chapters are currently adequately insured. It will cover those chapters who currently do not have adequate coverage or those who have no coverage at all. It will also cover all chapters who do not fall under the normal "own house and property" status.

The policy will cover alcohol, hazing and discrimination incidents where chapter advisers, general officers, etc. are only accountable "by association" and not the actual guilty party or participant.

FACES OF THE CONVENTION: While there were plenty of serious discussions and meetings at the New Orleans Convention, there was also plenty of time for fun and relaxation. Delegates spent plenty of time in the French Quarter and at the World's Fair as well as just relaxing around the pool at the Fairmont Hotel. The ladies had a full schedule of activities that included a demonstration of New Orleans cooking.

Those chapters who do not wish to be covered will have to certify in writing that they do not want the coverage and produce proof of adequate insurance.

Council members Bray and Dinkel discussed the activities of the Council during the biennium and passed out a written report on the subject. Dinkel also announced that past president Bruce Thompson had been appointed Legal Commissioner to guide the GC in matters that could end up in litigation.

Rusty Richardson, director of alumni affairs, reported to the group on the new in-house computer system being used by the fraternity at general headquarters. He indicated that the system should enable the headquarters staff to be more efficient and productive in working with chapters and province presidents.

Miller, executive vice president, discussed matters related to the Convention and additional Convention up-dates were given by Council members Turner and Bray.

Traditional Opening

Opening ceremonies on Thursday afternoon consisted of introductions of past presidents, past council members and current council members highlighted by an opening address from President Charles Wicks (Willamette '47).

Present were past presidents Dr. Clem Biningner (Centre '31), 1960-62; Sam Phillips McKenzie (Georgia '45), 1962-64; Stan Brown (Nebraska-UCLA '36), 1966-68; Dr. John D. Millett (DePauw '33), 1972-74; Lothar Vasholz (Colorado '52), 1974-76; Doug Phillips (New Mexico '49), 1976-78; T. Glen Cary (Texas Tech '56), 1978-

80; and Bruce Thompson (Minnesota '49), 1980-82.

Hal Minnich (Akron '24), a member of the Council from 1974-78, was also introduced along with members of the present Council.

Binger gave the invocation followed by the singing of The Star Spangled Banner and O'Canada.

President's Address

In his brief address Wicks first admonished the delegates to enjoy New Orleans but to be present for all sessions. He also thanked the paid staff and all volunteer workers of the fraternity for their support during the past biennium.

He pointed out that during the biennium the fraternity had added seven new chapters, eight new colonies, a director of alumni services, a fifth chapter consultant, a new housing commissioner, and an in-house computer. He also pointed out that the Council had attempted to get more advisers to attend the Convention and he asked all chapter advisers present to stand.

Wicks reflected on a recently completed two month trip to China where he saw the ruins of many ancient castles. "A great fraternity, like a great castle, is hard to build," he said. "It takes pride, achievement and excellence. The material we work with in building a great fraternity is the members."

He noted that the strength of a great fraternity lies on its foundation and he stated that Phi Delta Theta was built on a sound foundation, based on the three cardinal principles of the founders.

"Excellence is not an accident," he said. "It requires high standards, commitment by all brothers and strong leadership. We constantly have to fight apathy."

On his China trip Wicks noted that he saw many decaying castles that had become soft and caved in.

PUBLICATIONS AWARDS: Scott Armstrong (Ohio State '85), whose chapter won the Best Alumni Newsletter award, and Mark Noles (Oklahoma State '86), whose chapter won the award for the Best Brochure, are congratulated by Bill Dean, Editor.

ST. LOUIS TROPHY: Chris Helmrath (Miami-Ohio '85) holds the St. Louis Trophy won by his chapter and is congratulated by Tom Holling representing the St. Louis Alumni Club. Tim Shinn (Chicago '85) received the runner-up award for his chapter.

"I have also seen decaying chapters in our fraternity," he said. "In many cases the chapter's social programs have become counter-productive. The chapter has lost sight of our principles. It wants no assistance from alumni or the general fraternity."

"I am glad to see what I feel is a trend to return to the traditional values of our fraternity by many of our chapters. The chapters with the problems seem to have forgotten about those traditions."

He concluded by urging those chapter delegates and alumni present to use the same approach of master builders in the past. "If we seal our foundation with those time-honored principles we can remain strong for years to come," he concluded.

A slide presentation put together by Fr. Turner that previewed the Convention concluded the session.

Friday Morning

The Friday morning session opened with the traditional roll call and the reading of a proclamation from Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards who declared the week to be "Phi Delta Theta Week in Louisiana." Later, Jim Brown (SMU '58), secretary of state, officially welcomed the delegates.

The rest of the session consisted of a series of committee reports. Alan Okun, (Ohio '74) chairman of the credentials committee, reported that there were 34 delinquent chapters and that his committee would attempt to meet with the delegates of those chapters throughout the day.

Alan Glover, (Nevada '72) chairman of the committee on procedure, moved that the convention adopt Robert's Rules of Order, the agenda as printed in the program and limit speeches for General Council nominees to 10 minutes, five to be allocated to the first speaker and the other five for seconding speeches. The motion carried.

Cary, chairman of the survey commission, reported that the fraternity began the biennium with three colonies and then established eight more during the period. Seven of those have been installed while four remain. "This is the largest growth during a biennium from the colony system in the history of the fraternity," Cary stated.

The convention was then recessed for the remainder of the morning to allow delegates to participate in a program under the direction of Fr. Turner entitled "Leadership: A Challenge for Brotherhood." The delegates were divided into four groups for leadership discussions while the chapter advisers in attendance went into their own session.

free, citing the large amount of government regulation of business. "Business is regulated because of irresponsible action on the part of business itself and on the part of politicians," he stated.

The Phillips executive emphasized the fact that the economic system in this country works. He pointed out that while we have only five percent of the world's population we produce thirty percent of the world's gross national product. Our farmers not only feed everyone in this country but one of ten throughout the world.

He compared our system with that of the Soviets, one that is highly controlled. "The Soviet Union has never been able to feed even its own people," he said.

"Why does our system work so well," he asked. "It works because it encourages diversity—it is open. There is no one right way to be successful in this country. If you don't believe that look at the personal computer business. The open marketplace works. Choice is what political and economic freedom is all about."

He quoted Time Magazine which once stated: "For all of its blemishes and flaws our economic system has created the most creative and dynamic force to be found for free ambitious individuals."

Martin, who was named "Phi of the Year" in 1980, acknowledged that there are abuses in our economic system. But he also criticized politicians who believe that the best way to win votes is to lambast business and push for more regulation.

He reflected on the life of his father who came to this country as an immigrant with $3 in his pocket. He was a farm laborer in Kansas for a time and then he got into the grain business—buying, storing and selling grain. He worked long hours to improve and build his business.

"I didn't think much about it then," Martin said. "Now I realize my father was building a part of

Middleton Named Priest Winner

Michael Lance Middleton (Southwestern-Texas '84) was awarded the Arthur R. Priest Award as the outstanding undergraduate member of the fraternity in ceremonies this summer at the New Orleans Convention.

The award carries with it a $2,000 scholarship for the 1984-85 academic year. Middleton has a 3.83 grade point average on a four-point scale at Southwestern. He is a double major in biology and chemistry and is a member of Alpha Chi honor society.

In the past three years he has never enrolled in less than 16 semester hours and the last two he has carried 18 and 19 hours of work and made A's in every course save one.

"He is a personable young man of the highest character who exhibits much more maturity of judgment and emotional stability than most of his fellows," John Score, professor of religion and philosophy and Texas Gamma chapter adviser.

In his chapter he has been chorister, secretary and vice president. He is presiding officer of the executive council and the discipline committee.

On campus he is a member of the student senate, the university symphonic band, Blue Key honor society and Mu Psi Chi honorary. He is a National Eagle Scout Association member as well as an American Accordionist Association member. He was Texas state accordion champion in 1982-83 and again in 1983-84. He has performed at numerous community events.

"Pledging Phi Delta Theta was one of the most important decisions I ever made," he said. "I feel it is important for the undergraduate to remain active and participate in as many facets of campus and community life as possible for a better development of the true person.

"The Arthur R. Priest award is an honor which I most humbly accept in recognition of versatility and high achievement. I believe these are the qualities that true Phi Deltas exhibit. When I pledged in 1982, I decided that I would make it the focal point of my activities and campus life."

"It has been my home where every brother is important to me in different ways. I am indebted to them for their support. I can honestly say that I love my brothers.

"On the international scale, I am highly honored to be selected as the most outstanding undergraduate Phi of the year. I can assure anyone that I will support, remain active and do my best to honor the Bond of Phi Delta Theta—my fraternity for life."

The Priest winner entertained convention delegates and guests in New Orleans with his accordion music prior to the opening of each session.

According to Larry Augustus, chapter president, and David Holland, awards chairman, "Mike is an achiever in a very big way, but perhaps even more important, he is a fine brother. He exemplifies the Bond's lofty ideals of friendship, sound learning and rectitude, providing in his daily life a model for Phikeias, younger chapter members, and indeed, all of us." ■

Ontario Beta Chapter Re-Installed

BY GRANT S. SIMONS
(Western Ontario '85)

Perhaps the true spirit of Phi Delta Theta is expressed most effectively by brothers who dedicate themselves to the passing on of the teachings of the bond. Brothers George Clark and Dr. Kenneth Hardy both alumni of the University of Western Ontario and alumni of Ontario Beta possess this spirit.

Originally installed on Nov. 10, 1962 (in London, Ontario) Ontario Beta survived until the early seventies when a fire destroyed the fraternity house. This burden proved disastrous for the brothers at that time and Ontario Beta disbanded.

Early in 1983 brothers Clark and Hardy planned the re-establishment of Ontario Beta and with much hard work this resulted in colony status being granted to 13 undergraduates of U.W.O. on March 14, 1983. This began a difficult journey to initiation into the bond of Phi Delta Theta. Through a trip to Miami University, and a colony retreat in August the colony was able to define its goals for the upcoming school year.

The colony purchased a six bedroom home in September and much renovation has been carried out. Further the colony firmly established itself among the Greek system at U.W.O. by having a brother elected as president of the inter fraternity council, and among the London population through successful community service and social events.

The University of Western Ontario is one of the finest universities in Canada. Established in 1878 it has grown to a current population of 18,000 students. It is well known and respected for its prestigious business, law, engineering, and medical schools. There are currently nine fraternities and 3 sororities on campus.

On May 6, 1984, almost 14 months after colonization, 25 colony brothers were initiated into Phi Delta Theta. The initiation ceremonies were held on campus in the University Club. The initiation was carried out by Robert J. Miller, executive vice president; Robert S. Dinkel, treasurer of the General Council; Robert A. Biggs, director of chapter services; Robert G. Richardson, president of Beta Province; James C. Holmes, president of Sigma North Province; George Clark, chapter adviser; and Dr. Kenneth Hardy, chapter adviser. Joining the initiation ceremonies were brothers from Ontario Alpha (the colonies big brother chapter), Manitoba Alpha, and Michigan Delta.

Following the initiation exercises, a luncheon was held at the club. Speeches were given by Robert Dinkel, Paul Oakley (past president of Ontario Alpha), and Grant Simons (President of Ontario Beta). Letters of congratulation were received from chapter consultants Christopher Schrader, John Clark Jr., James N. Hizer, and Christopher Johnston, as well as Nova Scotia Alpha, New York Alpha, Michigan Epsilon, and Manitoba Alpha. Brothers Clark and Hardy were called upon to speak after being presented with original paintings of the chapter home for their hard work and dedication.

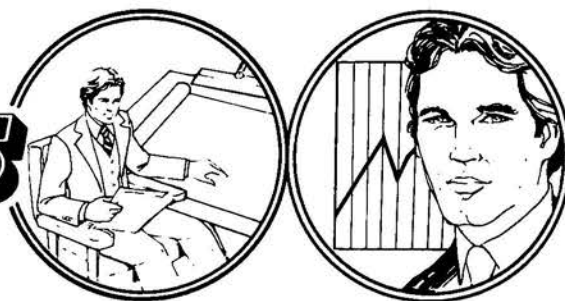

The installation activities were held that afternoon at Welsley-Knox United Church the site of the installation of the original members of Ontario Beta. The installation was conducted by Robert Dinkel, with brothers Miller, Richardson, Holmes, Clark, Hardy and James Carrie portraying the immortal six. The brothers then joined in a memorable rendition of 'Tell me why she wears his pin'. The charter of Ontario Beta was formally returned to Simons and the other undergraduates by Dinkel.

Following installation a reception was held back at the University Club for the new Phis, family, friends, and alumni.

The newly initiated brothers of Ontario Beta are in order of bond number; Douglas R. Marshall, Scott G. Clark, Stephen J. Miller, Gregory J. Bruni, Grant S. Simons, Trevor S. Juniper, Peter F. Allen, Charles E. Frosst, Andrew Cornell, Michael A. Moore, Bruce A. Powell, Gareth S. Seltzer, Donald J. Creighton, Scott Davidson, Richard T. Matthews, Jefferson J. Chappleau, Gord Muirhead, Robert N. Baron, David Olson, Paul E. Stratford, John B. Andersen, Pierre D. Zabel, Edward A. Martin, John M. Taylor, and James D. Dale. ■

Directory Questionnaire Mailed

All alumni should have received a request for the essential information required to assure complete data in the new alumni directory tentatively scheduled for release in the spring, 1985.

Publication of the directory will be handled by Harris Publishing Company of White Plains, New York. This company is the sole authorized agent for the production and marketing of the directory, and assumes all financial obligation, including the compilation, editing, billing and distribution of the volume and will cover its costs through individual book sales to alumni only. This plan will assure the publication of a professionally compiled volume.

During the next several months alumni will be contacted by telephone for verification of the information to be printed in the directory. At that time, and at that time only, they will be asked if they wish to purchase a copy. The number of directories printed will be based on the number of advance orders received via the phone calls.

Alumni who have not returned their questionnaires and are not reached by telephone by the Harris firm will be listed in the directory with the address, if current, provided by alumni records. If you have not received your questionnaire or you do not wish to appear in the directory, please notify Rusty Richardson, director of alumni affairs, Box 151, Oxford, OH 45056.

RECENT ADDITIONS TO THE

DAVID D. BANTA LIBRARY

Henry B. Bass (Missouri '19). Building For A Rugged Individualist. Oklahoma City; Semco Color Press, 1961. 120 pp. Given by author's daughter.

"On the evening of April 20, 1944, Bertie and I had been visiting with Claud and Mildred Nicholson. Our way home took us near the big sandstone house, and as we passed, I noticed the outside lights were burning and several cars were in the driveway. I said nothing to Bertie, but I knew.

As we walked into our house the telephone was ringing. It was my brother Harry calling from Dallas. Joe Champlin had just called him. Enid had lost her first citizen, and I had lost a true friend.

H. H. Champlin belonged to that group of men known as rugged individuals, all too few of who are left. Born of a generation that knew nothing but to work and strive to better one's lot through one's own efforts, he was the outstanding example of a self-made man in my own life."

Building For A Rugged Individualist is not intended to be a biography, or an autobiography. The book is a recital of the dealings and personal memories of one who is proud of the privilege of calling H. H. Champlin a friend.

Ritter Collett (Ohio U. '42). Straight Arrow, 1981, 159 pp. Landfall Press, Inc., Dayton, Ohio. Given by author.

In Collett's book, Straight Arrow, he tells the story of Art Schlichter, the All-American athlete with an All-American personality.

He was the sensational high school quarterback who was going to influence Woody Hayes to swallow his longtime opposition to the passing game at Ohio State.

He was the throw-back in this era of specialized athletic talents, a 12-letter man who made All-Ohio as a football and basketball standout in his prep career.

He suffered his first defeat ever as a starting quarterback in his Ohio State debut, intercepted five times by Penn State as 86,000 stunned Buckeye partisans watched.

He came close to winning the Heisman trophy as a sophomore and was rated the favorite going into his junior year, but Ohio State bombed on every one of its national TV appearances and he paid the price.

He is a farm boy with a million dollar future as a pro athlete, but he wants none of the Broadway Joe Namath lifestyle.

As he started his senior year at OSU, his passing yardage totals were nearly twice the former record...and he was 700-plus yards ahead of two-time Heisman winner Archie Griffin in total yardage gained.

He's a 22-year-old nationally recognized sports celebrity who doesn't smoke, drink or use drugs...who respects and obeys his parents.

Ritter Collett (Ohio U. '42). Super Stripes, 1982, 223 pp. Landfall Press, Inc., Dayton, Ohio. Given by author.

In Super Stripes, Collett's fourth book, he writes about a man, who for 50 years, has dominated and influenced the game of football like no other through his standards, his ideas and his alumni. He is Paul Brown, whose Cincinnati Bengals represent the fourth major phase of his remarkable career.

This book is also the story of these Bengals and how they made it to the top on the strengths of a veteran quarterback and a supporting cast of veteran players and some sensational rookies.

There were many heartbreaks and frustrations along the way from expansion team to the Super Bowl achievement as players failed to perform to expectations or were lost by injury.

This is the story of their finest season and the long years which led up to it, and of the people who made it possible.

Paul Brown's coaching story begins at a small mid-America high school in Massillon, Ohio, goes on to a brief but astounding success at Ohio State, and the post-war founding of the mighty dynasty called the Cleveland Browns. In 1968 the Bengals came upon the scene.

This is a unique and inspiring story of the man and his teams.

Ritter Collett has been sports editor of the Dayton (Ohio) Journal Herald for more than 35 years, covering all the major sports events in season.

From baseball to basketball, from football to the Olympics, from World Series to Super Bowl, Collett has been in the press box covering the big games of our times. He has reported on the great, the near great and the would-be great.

Collett is the author of countless sports columns. His first two books were about the Cincinnati Reds—a history of baseball's oldest franchise and an in-depth report of baseball's team of the 1970's.

Paul Humann, (Wichita State '61), Reef Creatures. Miami; Ocean Realm Publishing Corp., 1982. 80 pp. Given by author.

Reef Creatures is Brother Humann's second edition to the Banta Library.

Written in layman terms, Reef Creatures is designed to teach by visual impact, identification of marine invertebrates and simplify a basic understanding of this major animal Phyla. In the beginning, it was felt the major market would be scuba divers. However, a surprising response has been received from educators who want to use the book in introductory biology courses.

It is interesting to note that Brother Humann's inspiration to write this book came from another Kansas Delta Phi, Dr. Timothy L. O'Brien.

Fred Charles Ikle (Chicago '47). How Nations Negotiate. New York; Harper &

Row Publishers, 1964 and 1976. 274 pp. Given by author.

"States have negotiated since the beginning of history—as they have fought wars. Compared with the changes in methods of warfare, however, the methods of negotiation have remained much the same. Of course, negotiation and war are not mutually exclusive. States can live in peace without negotiating at all, they may start to fight while they are negotiating, and if their leaders are prudent, they will continue to negotiate even though they are at war.

Although negotiation has happily been more prevalent in the relations of states than war, it has never been studied with the same incisiveness. From antiquity on, the strategies and tactics of the battlefield have been analyzed more systematically and with greater precision than the strategies and tactics of diplomacy.

...Democratic governments are required to negotiate on two fronts: with their adversaries, to reduce potential sources of disastrous violence; and with each other, to eliminate divergence among them and to build on their deep common interests. Precisely at the time when negotiations with adversaries have become more ambitious and more far-reaching in scope, diplomatic efforts among friends have to remain particularly vigorous.

We cannot build useful agreements with our ideological opponents if we fail to maintain the bonds that unite us with other democracies."

The Honorable Brother Ikle continues to serve in Washington as the Undersecretary of Defense.

John D. Millett (DePauw '33). Conflict in Higher Education. Jossey-Bass Inc., Publishers, San Francisco and Jossey-Bass Limited, London, 1984. 272 pp. Given by author.

This book provides a balanced and comprehensive analysis of the troubled relationship between state governments and institutions of higher education. Using extensive findings from research conducted in twenty-five states by Millett and his associates, the book (1) documents the current degree of state regulation of public colleges and universities; (2) clarifies the main areas of state concern; (3) shows how these concerns often conflict with institutions' goals and desire to be independent; (4) points out specific areas of conflict between state governments and institutions; and (5) suggests ways to reduce conflict, improve cooperation, and reconcile the interests of the two.

Millett analyzes the conflicts that arise when state higher education executives must regulate or reduce programs, set enrollment sizes, or limit institutional expansion—while college administration debate the need for such regulation and protect their right to plan their own programs and future growth. He assesses the impact of state regulation on all types of institutions—two-year and four-year colleges, research universities, and professional and vocational schools. He evaluates the main kinds of state government agencies that regulate higher education, fully describing their organization, responsibilities, staffing, and working arrangements with academic leaders.

Millett includes an in-depth discussion of two major sources of conflict between state and institution; first, over how to clearly define the purpose or mission of diverse types of institutions and to regulate instructional and research programs accordingly; and second, the different institutions, so that faculty aspirations, student interests, and institutional ambitions are not undermined. Millett also offers detailed information about the financing of higher education, examines key issues concerning external constraints on academic freedom, and points out problems likely to arise in the immediate future, along with recommendations for their solution. This book is an important source of insight and information for all college and university administrators, members of governing boards, and state higher education officials.

The Banta Memorial Library is very proud to add to its collection a set of eight novels from the late Jonathan Latimer (Knox '29). Mr. Latimer was a mystery writer, author of 20 screen plays, script writer for the "Perry Mason" television series and an ex-Chicago newspaper man. His first book, Murder and the Madhouse, was published in 1935 and became a best seller. It was followed by a series of mystery novels, including Sinners and Shrouds, published in 1955.

The eight novels which have been added to the library are: Headed for a Hearse, The Lady in the Morgue, The Dead Don't Care, Red Gardenias, Soloman's Vineyard, Dark Memory, Black Is the Fashion for Dying, Sinners and Shrouds.

The library is especially grateful to Brother Murray S. Smith for the generous contribution of these novels.

Thomas L. Nolan, Jr. (Illinois '57). Retire Easy: The Bluebook of Retirement Planning. Manitowoc, WI; Natural Press, 1982. 275 pp. Given by author.

With a simple soft cover book, Thomas L. Nolan, Jr., an investment adviser in Mequon, has opened the door to retirement planning.

The reader is treated to succinct explanations of everything from dividend reinvestment programs to degree days in retirement regions around the country.

Along the way, we are exposed to Nolan's philosophies, country store to stock exchange floor.

He explains the origin of the bull and bear symbols for up and down markets (the bear attacks by striking paws downward; the bull by bringing its horns upward) and even introduces the "Pawnbroker index."

Chapter headings include: life insurance, individual retirement accounts, real estate, bonds, all-savers certificates, collectibles, and partnership investing. Appendix A includes a comprehensive glossary, and Appendix B includes excerpts from the 1981 tax law. Nolan plans to update the 1982-'83 edition as needed.

Throughout the book, Nolan offers some practical, front-end advice on everything from setting aside a percentage of your income, to how to use credit cards correctly.

Brother Nolan's book comes highly recommended as an important source to help you make better retirement decisions today.

O. Charles Olson, M.D. (Wisconsin '34). Prevention of Football Injuries. Philadelphia; Lee & Febiger, 1971. 118 pp. Given by author.

Every person in coaching today should have a sound understanding of sports medicine and a working knowledge of the most current thinking of doctors relative to sports-associated injuries and disabilities. We know so much more today about the cause and treatment of athletic injuries that it becomes an inescapable responsibility for every coach, every team physician, and every trainer to keep himself informed on the most recent advances in this area of medicine. While no coach should pretend either to diagnose or to administer treatment, he should know enough to take the maximum precautions for his players to avoid injuries.

Dr. O. Charles Olson has made a contribution to the field of sports medicine with the publication of this book. The fact that three of his sons were fine athletes has no doubt deepened his interest in this particular field of inquiry and, as a result, has offered all those involved with athletics a chance to gain some insights and a body of practical knowledge about the health of the athlete.

Dr. Olson writes with a layman in mind to such an extent that it is not necessary to have a medical degree to understand it. At the same time, the book is technically detailed enough to be meaningful to physicians.

Dr. Olson's book is a valuable contribution to the field of athletics in general and sports medicine.

Robert L. Steed (Mercer '58). Lucid Intervals. Macon, GA; Mercer University Press, 1983. 141 pp. Given by author.

"This book is terrific!", says popular columnist Lewis Grizzard. Novelist Pat Conroy calls it "simply wonderful." What they are talking about is Bob Steed's new collection titled Lucid Intervals, a book published by Mercer University Press and illustrated by 15 hilarious line drawings by well-known cartoonist Jack Davis.

Although he is by profession a lawyer, Bob Steed is one of Atlanta's liveliest writers. When his occasionally published columns appear in their customary spot on the Constitution's op-ed page, readers are convulsed with laughter and are outraged at yet another display of audacity.

Brought together in Lucid Intervals are more than 35 of the most memorable pieces of these zestful commentaries on life's passing parade, ones in which he answers such burning questions as: Can a doctor who lists his home telephone number be trusted? Is jogging really good for you? Are automakers misanthropic? Are designer labels on the way in/out?

Making the collection even funnier are the drawings of Jack Davis, the avid University of Georgia Bulldog fan whose work regularly enlivens Mad magazine, National Lampoon, Time, and TV Guide.

Lucid Intervals is Steed's second book. The first, Willard Lives!, was published in 1981.

William Styron, Jr. (Davidson '46). Sophie's Choice. New York; Bantam Books, 1980. 626 pp.

This is the story of the extraordinary Sophie, a haunting young woman of endless passion and vibrant joy, of quiet tenderness and hidden desperation. It sweeps us into her loves, her fears, her sorrow, and back through a past that Sophie alone survived... until we reach, finally, the electrifying, terrible secret... Sophie's Choice.

Styron's other novels include Lie Down in Darkness (1951), The Long March (1952), Set This House on Fire (1960), and The Confessions of Nat Turner (1967), for which he won the Pulitzer Prize.

This stunning No. 1 best seller has since been made into a major motion picture.

ALUMNI NEWS

ATLANTA

The Atlanta Alumni Club of Phi Delta Theta held their annual Founder's Day banquet at Lanier Plaza on the evening of April 18. The highlight of the evening was the address by United States Senator Sam Nunn (D) GA (Georgia Tech '65), ranking Democrat on the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

Senator Nunn made an outstanding and inspirational address on national defense in relation to current world affairs. He emphasized the influence that Phi Delta Theta had had on his life and political career. Brother Nunn is from an outstanding Phi Delta Theta family from Perry, Georgia. His uncle George Nunn received his Golden Legion from Atlanta Alumni Club several years ago. Nunn's brother-in-law, Jean Mori (Georgia Tech '58), was the brunt of several funny Phi Delts stories.

Brother Howell E. Adams, Jr., (Vanderbilt '53), the Raymond Gardner Award winner in 1981, inducted the following brothers into the Golden Legion: Robert F. Brooks (Georgia Alpha of Conyers), Joseph Dixon (Syracuse '27 of Rome), William T. Castle (Atlanta '37), Sims Garrett (Emory '34 of Marietta), J. Reed Horne (Georgia '37 of Atlanta), Frank McCall, Jr. (Auburn '37 of Moultrie and Sea Island), John L. Newton (Davidson '35 of Atlanta), Ellis H. Rece (Dennison '22, retired Dean of Students of Emory University in Atlanta), Charles D. Shepherd (University of Georgia '37 of Bartoe, Florida), and William C. Burnett (U.N.C. '30 of Atlanta).

It was a sad duty of John B. Jackson, Jr., (Georgia Tech '45), to report that the following brothers had passed into the Chapter Grand in the past year: Edward A. Lee (Virginia 1930), James P. Hanner (Emory 1923) and D. Finley McRae (Georgia Tech 1927).

Joseph F. Switzer (Virginia '77), awarded the following trophies: Frank Carter Award for All Around Excellence to Georgia Delta at Georgia Tech. The Ward Wight Trophy for Scholarship awarded to Georgia Beta at Emory. The Michael Irby Award for the outstanding undergraduate in the province was awarded to Mike Harris of Georgia Delta at Georgia Tech.

The new officers for the coming year are as follows: G. Nolan Bearden (Georgia Tech '28), president; C. Duncan Beard

BOISE

Fifty-eight Phis and their ladies from the Boise Alumni Club, including six Actives from Idaho Alpha Chapter attended the Annual Founders Day Banquet, held on March 15, 1984 at Mamma's Italian Restaurant in Boise, Idaho.

Guest speaker for the evening was Brother Gary F. Sherlock (Idaho '67) Publisher of The Idaho Statesman, Idaho's leading newspaper. Brother Sherlock presented an amusing and witty insight into the problems and pitfalls of managing a large metropolitan newspaper owned by an Eastern "liberal" Chain in an "Ultra-Conservative" State such as Idaho.

Three of our brothers, Robert H. Brailsford, Ralph Q. Claycomb, and Robert A. Williams (all Idaho '37) were initiated into the Golden Legion of Phi Delta Theta.

The Boise Alumni Club was formally chartered by the General Council on May 8, 1929, although the Club existed informally since shortly after World War I. The Club area includes the Treasure Valley surrounding Metropolitan Boise, and much of Southwest Idaho.—John McMahon

BOSTON

The recently reorganized Boston Alumni Club would like to announce that its next alumni function will be held on September 20, 1984 at the Weston Golf Club in Weston, Massachusetts. This activity will last from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. and all alumni living in the Boston area are cordially invited to attend. If you have any questions about further upcoming club activities or if you would like to make reservations for the September function, please contact Joseph P. Belanger at 617 654-3079.

EDMONTON

The Edmonton alumni Club celebrated Founders Day with another successful formal stag March 16, 1984 at the Edmonton Petroleum Club.

Eighty-seven Phis enjoyed an excellent meal, an entertaining speech by John Wilson (Alberta '53) and... Mogy's joke.

Wilson was joined at the head table by special guest and General Council Treasurer Judge Robert S. Dinkel, ageless Chapter Adviser Don Matheson, M.C. Frank Gibson, and outgoing Chapter President Barry Garbowski.

Special thanks go to featured speaker John Wilson who traveled all the way from Vancouver to enlighten us with his eloquence.

Fifty year Phi Duncan Marshall (Alberta '34) was honoured as were all 25 year Phis.

A very large contingent of gentlemen reconvened at the chapter house after the banquet to reminisce, and tell lies until the wee hours.

DES MOINES: Golden Legion recipients John D. Baldrige (Missouri '35) and Clyde H. Hayward (Iowa Wesleyan '35) are congratulated by Scott Crowley, who performed the ceremony at the Des Moines Founders Day banquet.

Many thanks to all those who contributed time and effort to the fine event and may we see many more of you out next year. Cheers!—T. A. (Tom) Farnell

LOUISIANA BETA

Joseph D. Martin (Tulane '36) and Robert T. Erie (Illinois '36) were inducted into the Golden Legion at the Louisiana Beta Founders Day dinner on March 18 in Baton Rouge. Jake Marino (LSU '69), president of Theta West Province, served as master of ceremonies.

NASHVILLE

March 21st the Nashville Alumni Club observed Founder's Day with a banquet at the University Club on Vanderbilt University's campus. It was one of the best attended Founder's Day Banquets and with good reason. We were honored to have Brother Robert J. Headquarters.

Another exciting development discussed at the meeting was the renovation of the Chapter House at Vanderbilt. Brother Peter Calandruccio (Vanderbilt '74) displayed his architectural renderings for the proposed renovation. Brother William Webb (Vanderbilt '74) is leading a $100,000 fund raising effort which was well on its way with $25,000 already pledged or given prior to the evening's formal announcement. All Vanderbilt Phi alumni will be given a chance to help refurbish a fine fraternity house which has received little attention and much use over its 20+ years of existence.

An impressive Golden Legion ceremony, presided over by Bob Miller honored the following Brothers eligible to receive their Golden Legion certificate this year: Edwin M. Bond, Jr., Dr. William G. Kennon, Jr., White Hall Morrison, Jr., and Overton Thompson, Jr. Those eligible but unable to attend were Samuel L. Halter, William D. Hardeman, Jr., Vernon Hutton, Jr., and Dr. Henry W. Scott, Jr.

The active chapter at Vanderbilt made annual presentations after a state-of-the-chapter report by President Jim Johnson. Best pledge award went to Scott Rodgers, Best Senior to Bito Teague, and the John Medart Sportsmanship Award went to David Simpson. Officers for next fall were introduced by upcoming President Pen Caldwell; Vice President—William McFadden, Treasurer—Phillip Watts, Secretary—Chandley Howell, Social Chairman—Pat McGee, Rush Chairman—Greg Curran and Rick O'Brian, House Manager—John Murfee, and Pledge Trainer—Dan Cushing.

The evening was capped off by the presentation by Sydney F. Keeble, Jr. (Vanderbilt '49), president of the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce, of a Gold Record to Bob Miller, signifying the "Key to the City".—John Eason

ORANGE COUNTY

The annual Founders Day observance of the Orange County Alumni Club was held on March 15, 1984 at the Officers Club at the U.S. Marine Corps Air Station (Helicopter) in Tustin, CA.

Highlight of the evening was the Golden Legion ceremony officiated by Don Stewart, Omicron South Province President. Active members from University of California-Irvine and UCLA participated in the ceremony.

Golden Legion awards were presented to Donald MacLean (UCLA '36), Dick Variel (UCLA '37), John Wells (UCLA '37) and Frank Rhodes (Alabama '37).

About 60 brothers attended from many chapters and everyone seemed to enjoy the opportunity to relive and discuss experiences and benefits of Phi Delta Theta—John Wells

PALM BEACH COUNTY

With nearly 100 Phis in attendance with wives and sweethearts, the 1984 Founders Day banquet of the Palm Beach County Alumni Club was a smash success.

Another record was established when Hank Massey, Jr. was installed as president to become the first father-son combination to serve as presidents of the club. His father, Harry, was president some years earlier.

One of the highlights was the conferring of the Golden Legion on four brothers: John Manchester (Rhode Island '37), Edward Jenkins (Mississippi '34), Francis Browne (Ohio Wesleyan '36) and John R. Riley (Butler '36).

In the club, an international tradition has been carried on for several years. Namely, only one office out of five major offices is elected each year. The outgoing president departs the circles, the other four move up to a different office each year.

It was generally said that Dale Hedrick, who just finished his term as president, was considered to have had a very superior year in leading the club.

It was like old times to hear the fraternity whistle so many times during the evening. Paul Bennett saw to it that all the great standards of Phi Delta Theta, through its long history, were sung and enjoyed throughout the evening.

The Sailfish Club in Palm Beach has become the traditional site for the Founders Day banquet, and there is no more superior cuisine in all the Palm Beaches where superb dining is a way of life.

PHILADELPHIA

Sam Bookbinder explained and analyzed each of the various oysters before tasting; and, Charles Silio, a local wine expert did likewise with the wines.

Mayor H. McKinley, president of the Philadelphia group, stated, "The attendance at Bookbinders was the best to date for our club; and, we are all looking forward to a tremendously successful and enjoyable fall gathering at the exclusive Merion Cricket Club located on Philadelphia's fashionable Main Line"

The Annual Christmas Seasonal Dinner/Dance of the St. Petersburg Beach Alumni Club was held Friday Dec. 30, 1983 at the newly-renovated Pass-A-Grille Yacht Club and the overflow crowd of brothers, their ladies and their guests enjoyed an excellent dinner preceded by a typical Phi Delt period of "attitude adjustment." Following the dinner was an interlude of dancing and conversation (much of which centered around our then forthcoming Founders' Day banquet with its prestigious golden legion ceremonial).

At such time as all involved agreed to retire, a toast was raised to brother F. Holmes Houser and his committee for their efforts in making the affair worthy of the brotherhood.—Dean Hoffman, II

WICHITA

The Wichita Phi Delta Theta Alumni Association held their annual observance of Founder's Day on Wednesday, March 28, 1984. The Wichita Club hosted the meeting in which approximately 60 alumni from the Wichita area attended. In addition to the alumni there was also representatives from each of the five active chapters in the State of Kansas.

As has been our tradition over the past several years we installed the new officers and board of directors at this meeting. The ceremonial gavel was passed to the new President, A. Scott Ritchie III (Kansas '80).

During our meeting we also inducted into the Golden Legion three alumni, Alfred J. Sowden, (Northwestern '36), Vernon A. Stroberg (Washburn '36, and Willard Horchem, Nebraska '36). Unfortunately none of these men were able to attend the formal ceremony.

We are proud of the fact that the Wichita Alumni Association has dedicated itself to assisting our state's active chapters with their rush programs. It was in this dedication that we created the new alumni office of rush coordinator. It will be the rush coordinator's job to insure that all prospective rushees in the Wichita area are given the opportunity to visit the Phi Delt chapter at the college of his choice. We have supplied our alumni group of 360 with the rush coordinator's phone number and address and have asked them to supply him with names and addresses of any prospective rushee.

The Wichita Alumni Association has continued to grow. Since our organization five years ago we have increased the attendance at our Founder's Day dinner from 35 alumni to last year's high of 65. We will also be holding our third annual golf tournament this fall. Another new project is on our books for the upcoming year. This new project will be the first annual Wichita Area Alumni Miami Triad. We have been in the process of meeting with the Beta Theta Pi Alumni and the Sigma Chi Alumni and both groups are enthusiastic about the prospect of having an Alumni Miami Triad.

HONORARIUMS: Accepting honorariums as former trustees of the Washington Phikeia Corporation are Mrs. John F. Woodfin (for her deceased husband), Robert J. Behnke, William F. Calderhead, Patrick L. Goodfellow and Arthur T. Lee.

Schaefer, Stockstad New Province Presidents

Two new province presidents—Weldon E. Schaefer (Texas Tech '59) for Gamma North and Richard B. Stockstad (Puget Sound '70) for Pi North—have recently been appointed by the General Council and approved by the chapters involved.

Gamma North includes the chapters in Northeastern Pennsylvania and Pi North covers British Columbia and western Washington.

Schaefer received a B.S. and an M.S. from Texas Tech and then began studies toward the Ph.D. in surface chemistry at Lehigh until an active duty assignment in the air force placed him at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, CO.

While there he completed his Ph.D. at the University of Denver in physical ceramics.

He was employed by the Carborundum Co. in Niagara Falls, NY from 1968 to 1976 as manager of new products and technical branch. He moved to Ho-Ho-Kus, NJ for a short while before founding Schaefer Industries, Inc., a manufacturer of industrial ceramics, located in Allentown, PA, in 1979.

He has been active in the Bethlehem Rotary Club, the American Ceramic Society where he served as past chairman of the Lehigh Valley Section, the National Institute of Ceramic Engineers and the local youth soccer program.

He and his wife Bonnie reside in Bethlehem. They have one son, Nick, a student at Widener University.

Stockstad served Phi Delta Theta as a chapter consultant in 1970-72 following his graduation from the University of Puget Sound. Later, he served as adviser to the Washington Delta chapter (1975-81).

He currently serves as the director of alumni relations at the University of Puget Sound, a position which he has held for the past 4½ years. Prior to coming to UPS, he worked for six years in sales and STOCKSTAD marketing in the Seattle area, including stints with Simpson Timber Company and the Park Broadcasting Company.

Stockstad currently resides in Tacoma, WA. where he is active in Kiwanis, Toastmasters and First Lutheran Church. He and his wife Barbara have three children. ■

America. Times have changed since those days, but the opportunity is still there."

Before Martin's presentation, Oliver Samuel (Kansas '46) presented the Religious Life Award to Wisconsin Alpha at the University of Wisconsin. Second runner-up was Utah while first runner-up was Texas Tech.

Phillips presented certificates to chapters winning The Sound Learning Award and The Scholarship Award for finishing first on their campuses.

Friday Afternoon

The leadership discussion groups and the chapter advisers workshop continued throughout the afternoon and the Convention held a brief late afternoon session. At that session Laird McGregor (Denison '51), chairman of the Education Foundation, reported that the Fund has experienced a 94% increase in donations and a 180% increase in contributors during the biennium. He also noted that the amount of the scholarships given and the number given had risen by 30%.

Dr. Millett, chairman of the Code Committee, introduced the changes to be voted on later in the convention. The session was then adjourned leaving the delegates the evening free to visit The World's Fair.

Saturday Morning

Prior to the nominating speeches for the General Council, Dr. Millett, chairman of the Code Committee, asked the Convention to vote to change Section 42, paragraph 2 of the Code. A motion was made and seconded as well as an amendment. Both passed with the result being that "upon the first ballot, if more than four persons receive in excess of 50 percent of the total vote cast, the four persons receiving the highest number of votes shall be thereupon elected to the General Council."

Dinkel was elected by acclamation following a nomination speech by Brown and seconding speeches by John Worsham (Texas

'51) and Mike Dinkel (British Columbia '85), Dinkel's son.

Frank Abernathy (Richmond '60) was nominated by Cary with seconding speeches being made by Brian Dunn (Cornell '77), Randy Haran (Southwest Texas State '85), Chip Hoke (Richmond '84), Rob McInnes (Dalhousie '85), Steve Byers (Cornell '85) and Eric Koivisto (California-Davis '85).

Bray was nominated by Dr. Binger with seconding speeches being made by Sparky Reardon (Mississippi '72) and Jim McCarthy (Tampa '86).

John Srofe (Miami-Ohio '55) was nominated by John Budak (Minnesota '57). Seconding speeches were made by Dick Galloway (Akron '63) and Chris Heimarth (Miami-Ohio '85).

Don Stewart (USC '55) was nominated by Thompson. His seconding speeches were made by Don DuShane (Oregon '65), Bill Friedman (California-Northridge '86) and Craig Leopold (San Diego '85).

Stitt's name was placed in nomination by Dr. Millett and seconding speeches were given by Samuel and Arthur J. Waldrop (Mississippi '85).

Fr. Turner was nominated by Tom Fletcher (Illinois '85). Seconding speeches were given by Time Daniels (Wisconsin '85) and Charlie Meyer (DePauw '85).

While the votes were being counted, members from LSU conducted a model chapter opening and closing. In between, members from Ole Miss conducted a model initiation ceremony. In that ceremony Jimmie Allen (Mississippi '87) was initiated.

Saturday Afternoon

Before the Westol presentation the Convention made several changes to the Code. The first change to Section 98 changed the wording of the present section dealing with House Rules. It outlawed the use of liquor and all gambling in the chapter house where such use or presence is contrary to the rules and regulations of the college or university where the chapter is located.

The second change made it clear in Section 113.1 that members who are financially delinquent or scholastically delinquent (as defined in Section 149) cannot be elected to office or continue in office.

The Convention also added Pledgemaster to the list of officers in Section 113 and defined the duties of the Pledgemaster by adding the definition to Section 121.1.

Grand Banquet

The Grand Banquet was highlighted by awards to the top chapters and the Legion of Merit and Legion of Honor presentations. A Golden Legion ceremony, conducted by Vasholz, inducted Joseph Hopkins (Tulane '38) into the Golden Legion.

Following the award presentations Wicks inducted the new General Council. The evening was concluded by a dramatic slide presentation of the activity and faces of the Convention entitled "The Creative Conclusion."

Final Session

The final session of the Convention was conducted on Sunday morning and featured the traditional Memorial Ceremony in honor of those Phis who had served the fraternity and died during the biennium.

Conducted by Thomson and Fr. In a bit of unfinished business the Convention adopted a change of Section 120 of the Code that allowed chapter financial records to be audited by "other qualified accountants" instead of just certified public accountants. It also allowed for an "audit, compilation, or review" instead of an audit.

Dunn, community service chairman, made a brief report urging chapters to participate in (1) major charitable activities, (2) direct service projects and (3) on-going service efforts.

The report of the resolutions committee was given by Budak and Fred Mischler (Cincinnati '85). The report adopted by the Convention thanked the headquarters staff; Mr. and Mrs. Merrit Lane, who hosted the New Orleans Alumni Club reception for the general officers; the city; the governor and the state; the Fairmont Hotel; Dr. Wicks and members of the outgoing General Council; Dave Westol; and Mr. Powell, who participated in the leadership training workshops; as well as Jerri Miller and the women who put together the ladies program.

Tom Wilby (Virginia '85) presented Dr. Wicks with a set of Jef-

erson cups from Virginia and Wicks expressed his appreciation to the entire Convention. Dinkel, who presided at the session, adjourned the session at 9:30 a.m. ■

Since 1948, he has served as chaplain of the biennial convention.

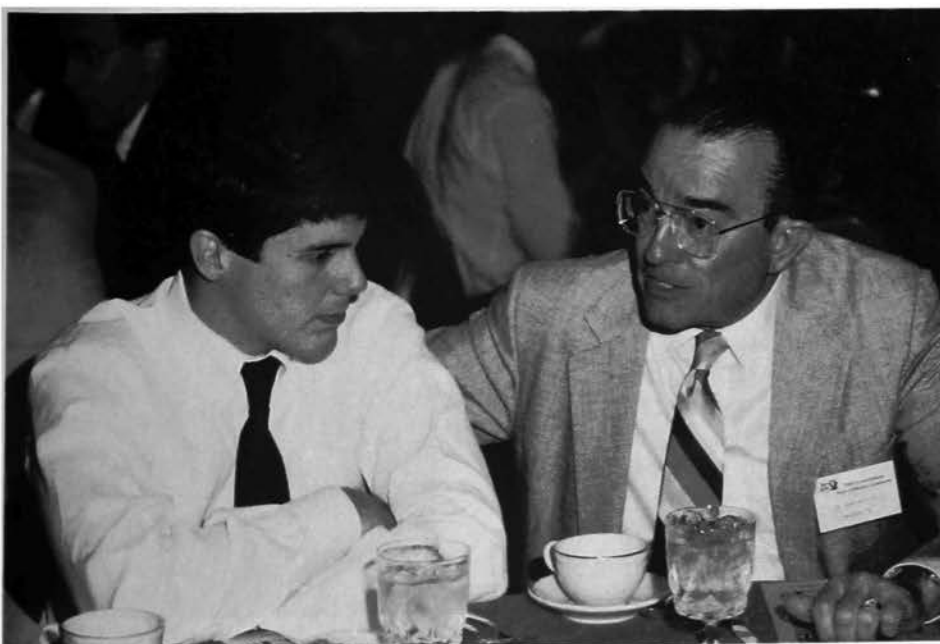

In 1956, a new trophy, known as the Spiritual Life Award, (more recently designated the Religious Life Award), was donated by this Phi and his wife. It is presented to the chapter of Phi Delta Theta whose members, individually and in group projects, best seek to develop on their campus the high type of moral character and service contemplated in the bond.

This Phi and his wife have been in regular attendance at the biennial conventions, always making sure their world travels do not conflict with the convention dates.

They are the parents of a Phi son and two daughters. A grandson is also a member of Phi Delta Theta. We present brother Clem E. Bininger the Legion of Merit Award.

Dr. John Davis, Jr.

Initiated as Bond #377 by the Kansas Beta chapter at Washburn University on April 14, 1935, this Phi's profession might be somewhat misleading when we review his service to Phi Delta Theta. An optometrist by profession, he has given unselfishly of his time and energy since the early 1940s in gathering and making available information on the sports world to The Scroll. Under the editorship of the late brother Hayward S. Biggers, he started making all-star team selections of Phis which were carried in the section then known as "Athletic Hits and Misses." This service has continued through to the present editorship of brother Bill Dean where All-Phi teams are selected in the various sports. In 1946, this brother was named to the editorial board of The Scroll and has contributed many hours serving on the All-Phi board and the Harmon-Rice Award committee, currently as chairman.

In addition, he has been a member of the Olympic committee on training site selection for women's track and was head coach for the United States women's team which won over the Russians in 1968. He has also been recognized nationally and internationally for his leadership in physical fitness.

In 1969, he was named "Phi of the Year" by his fraternity and "National Optometrist of the Year" by his professional association.

A setback in 1970, when an auto accident made it necessary for him to be "flat on his back" for 16 weeks, and another health situation in 1975, did not inhibit his supplying The Scroll with information on athletes and athletics.

This brother's statistical mind can bring forth figures on athletic records more accurately than a computer.

He has attended a number of conventions where his wealth of information on the sports world and his vigor and enthusiasm for getting the most out of life impresses all with whom he comes in contact.

He and his wife are the parents of three daughters, Jody, Mary and Dr. Barbara, who, with their families, comprise this most unique and interesting family.

Dr. Walter Havighurst

As author, co-author or editor, this Phi has been responsible for more than three dozen books of fiction, biography and regional history. Ranked among the outstanding current writers of regional literature in America, he is now an emeritus research professor of English at Miami University, after a 41-year career as active teacher with that institution.

Author of more than 36 books, most dealing with American experience, the third edition of The Miami Years, a history of Miami University which was originally published in 1959, has just been released. With his late wife, he has also written books for teen-age readers.

To commemorate the 125th anniversary of the founding of Phi Delta Theta, this brother was persuaded by the General Council, under the presidency of brother John D. Millett, to undertake the task of writing a history, spanning the period from 1848 to 1973. A quote from brother Millett concerning the history indicates "it is more than a readable account of some of the important events in Phi Delta Theta." The author "has provided us with a history of higher education in the United States, seen from the particular perspective of a college fraternity." We are indebted to him "for his contribution to our greater understanding of the events and persons who have helped to communicate and perpetuate our commitment to friendship, sound learning and rectitude."

Born November 28, 1901, at Appleton, Wisconsin, where his father was a member of the faculty at Lawrence College, he attended Ohio Wesleyan University two years, received the A. B. degree from the University of Denver in 1924 and the S. T. B. degree from Boston University in 1926. He attended Kings College of the University of London 1926-27 and received a Master's degree from Columbia University in 1928. He holds four honorary degrees.

While a student at Ohio Wesleyan University, he was initiated into membership in Phi Delta Theta as Bond #387 on February 21, 1920. He served as president of Zeta Province from 1942-1944 and as chapter adviser for the Ohio Alpha chapter from 1944-1948. Since 1971, he has served as librarian for the David D. Banta Memorial Library. He has given freely of his time and knowledge of Phi Delta Theta history and lore to give founders day speeches. In addition, he assists with the orientation and indoctrination of new chapter consultants, who stand in awe of this man who so graciously, and with enthusiasm and excitement, conveys to them the true meaning of Phi Delta Theta.

It is with a great deal of honor and pleasure that we present the Legion of Honor award to brother Walter E. Havighurst.

Robert J. Miller

As brothers in Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, we continually proclaim to each other and to the world around us that "we enjoy life by the help and society of others." The Legion of Honor award, as has been evident with the recipients thus far, is designed to help us recognize those who give of themselves so completely that each of us may experience that enjoyment of life.

In the fall of 1947, when he pledged Phi Delta Theta, our honored brother spoke these words which set the stage for every Phi: "I will strive to transmit the fraternity to those who may follow after, not only not less, but greater than it was transmitted to me." Some men may see these words as simply a goal expressed but never pursued; others take these words with great seriousness of purpose.

In looking back over the past 37 years since that pledging ceremony took place, the brother we honor tonight has become recognized throughout the Greek World as one of the top professionals among fraternity executives. He has been active in the National Interfraternity Conference and has served as the president of the Fraternity Executives Association, in addition to having spent several years on its executive committee.

He has established a reputation for honesty and frankness in the way he has administered the affairs of Phi Delta Theta during his 33 years of service to our brotherhood. This does not mean that everyone has liked everything he has done—but they have respected him for the manner in which he has done it. We must all remember that he has guided the Fraternity through its darkest days in the 1960's and 1970's when all Greek-Letter organizations suffered from campus unrest and declining interest. Now that the situation has improved considerably, he, and others like him in other fraternities and sororities, should be recognized for the strong leadership they demonstrated.

Our Legion of Honor recipient grew up in Mansfield, Ohio, and while still a senior in high school there, he was sworn into service in the United States Air Force. He was called to active duty six months later. Following two years of service, he entered Heidelberg College and later transferred to the University of New Mexico where Phi Delta Theta had been established a year earlier.

He was initiated as Bond No. 50 on February 15, 1948, and went on to serve as Chapter President for two terms. As an undergraduate, he attended both the centennial convention at Oxford in 1948 and the Chicago Convention in 1950.

After receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1950, he stayed on at New Mexico for graduate work. While in the graduate program, he met his wife. They have two Phi sons, one from Clemson University, class of 1976, an architect in Atlanta, and the other, a graduate of the University of Arkansas, soon to be a graduate student at Miami University.

After a year's work in the graduate program he joined the Phi Delta Theta headquarters staff as a field secretary and was named assistant executive secretary in 1953. Upon the death of Paul C. Beam on July 6, 1955, he became acting executive secretary, and was named executive secretary on August 17 of that year. In 1971, that position was renamed executive vice president.

At the time he joined Phi Delta Theta's staff, he completed work at Miami University to satisfy requirements for the Master of Arts degree from New Mexico. He also holds the Master of Business Administration from Florida Atlantic University.

In addition to his extraordinary work for Phi Delta Theta and for the fraternity world as a whole, he has been a leader in local community affairs. He served for 10 years on the community hospital board, has served as president of that board, and has been chairman of the community chest. He has been active in his local church, has helped establish Rotary International in his town, and in this organization he has served as president and district governor. He has served as the president of his city's "Federation of Clubs", and in 1968 was named "Citizen of the Year" in his city. He is a certified "Association Executive" in the American Society of Association Executives and is currently president of the Cincinnati Association Executives. He has also received the Outstanding Service Citation from Theta Chi Fraternity.

For over 25 years, he has served as a member of the troupe committee for the Boy Scouts of America and is a member of "Order of the Arrow." He is a past director of the University of New Mexico Alumni Association, and is a member of the Order of Symposiarchs of America. He is a member of Blue Key and of Phi Delta Kappa professional fraternity.

Phi Delta Theta is indeed fortunate to have the benefit of his strong leadership. As president of the General Council, it gives me great pleasure to present the Legion of Honor award to Robert J. ("Bob") Miller. ■
