Community Service Day

A day to celebrate service as one of the pillars of our Fraternity

by Stan Brown, Nebraska- UCLA '36 past president of the General Council

The very first fraternity to establish a single day to unite every chapter in a common cause was Phi Delta Theta. In 1955, I helped conceive the idea for Community Service Day, a day of united effort to be a positive force in the community. It was a tremendous success, and it may volunteer to commit to a service project at some-time during the month. Fewer and fewer chapter make that commitment, and fewer still take the time to inform General Headquarters or The Scroll. The Stan Brown Trophy, in the past given to the chapter with the best Community Service give chapters coverage in The Scroll. And it could become an important part of the fraternity experience to young chapter members. It could also have a significant impact on the community. Imagine nearly 10,000 undergraduates working just a few hours each over a weekend.

I am not saying that chapters should abandon their usual community service programs, but I am suggesting that for one designated day in April (Let's say the second Saturday), all chapters organize one community service project in which all members participate. This day would not be unlike USA Weekend Magazine's "Make a Difference Day," where more than 1400 Gannett publications cover more than 68,000 of their readers who go into the community and clean up neighborhoods, feed the hungry, and build and repair homes for the needy.

Chapters should send pictures and stories to The Scroll to be published in an article devoted Community Service Day. These stories could also be sent to local newspapers and university magazines.

I know this idea is not new to the chapters, but the need for it is still apparent. What must happen is a united effort between General Headquarters, the chapters, and the alumni to organize this program and make it successful again. The second Saturday in April should be set as the day for chapters to organize a project with their local service organizations. This would make community service a pillar in the structure of Phi Delta Theta once again.

Chapters can select any service project they wish. Projects vary from helping the Special Olympics, cleaning up parks, visiting the elderly in nursing homes, giving time to Habitat for Humanity, or playing with kids at the local Teen Center. The important things are that the project be local, that it be relevant to the community, and that every member of the chapter be part of it.

Remember, service is not philanthropy. Raising money is not the object. The goal instead is for members of Phi Delta Theta as an international brotherhood to go out into the community and donate time. This visibility alone would be enormous, irreplaceable public relations.

I hope the chapters and the General Fraternity take this message to heart. I firmly believe that most chapters understand the importance of service in fraternity life and practice service in some way every year. Community Service Day is merely an old idea that has a new opportunity to unite the Fraternity in its common commitment to service. It worked wonderfully in the past, and it can work again in the future.

earned the Fraternity great publicity. On that day, we could claim that thousands of undergraduates each worked for several hours helping the community. The program was so popular that it was adopted or mimicked by nearly every other national and international Greek organization. It is an enduring legacy of the Fraternity.

Now, Community Service Day has lost much of its past success and media attraction. Instead the Fraternity encourages a Community Service Month in April where chapters

Day project, is now given to a chapter with the best service project that took place at any time during the year. Although there are a few chapters who do make community service a fun and significant part of their operation, Community Service Day seems to have dwindled into an afterthought on the part of many chapters.

Community Service Day could still be a successful, important, and cherished part of Phi Delta Theta. It could still provide tremendous publicity, which is needed more today than ever before. It could still

From the Editor's Desk

The Scroll again received accolades, this time at the Annual National Interfraternity Conference-Association of Fraternity Advisers Conference in Washington, D.C. Dr. Larry Baratta's article on AIDS, which appeared in the summer 1992 issue, won first place in the National Interfraternity Foundation publications awards.

This article maturely and convincingly addressed one of the most important issues facing college men and our entire society: the AIDS epidemic. While the article was met with encouraging enthusiasm from the magazine's readers, I am pleased that it was also lauded by the NIF. Kudos from the interfraternity community is high praise, and it is encouragement to continue to address important issues like AIDS in the magazine.

I think the most important reason this article successfully communicated its message is its absence of preaching and bias. It merely presented a situation that could happen to anyone. Congratulations to Dr. Baratta.

One of America's most distinguished authors publishes his new novel, "Blue Calhoun"

by David Slatton

"I tell my students that roughly 95 percent of the human race is legally blind. You don't have to be in New York to realize that people simply don't see anything at any given moment but what they are hoping to see."

In the 30 years Reynolds Price, Duke '55, has published his novels, he has steadily established himself as one of America's most distinguished writers. His first novel, A Long and Happy Life, won the William Faulkner Foundation Award and has never been out of print. He wrote The Surface of the Earth in 1975, and it won the Lillian Smith Award. Price won the National Book Award in 1986 for Kate Vaiden, his most widely acclaimed and commercially successful novel. He has held Guggenheim and National Endowment for the Arts fellowships and, in 1988, became a member of the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters.

He has published volumes of short stories, poems, essays, translations, and plays, including his 1989 trilogy New Music which premiered at the Cleveland Play House. He is also the author of Clear Pictures, a memoir which was a finalist for a 1989 Pulitzer Prize. But it is as a novelist that he has earned the most recognition. He has written nine novels in that Southern tradition that most resembles Faulkner. His most recent novel, Blue Calhoun (Atheneum 1992), has been hailed as Price's best work.

Pat Conroy, author of Prince of Tides, said, "Blue Calhoun is a spectacular, wonderful novel. It is Reynolds Price's best, his masterpiece."

Reynolds Price was born in Macon, North Carolina, in 1933, the son of a door-to-door salesman. His mother, an orphan at a young age, was strong, compassionate, and like Price's father, relatively uneducated. Price describes his parents as loyal, affectionate, and entertaining, and "almost too lovable." They moved from place to place within a small rural area of North Carolina, exposing him to various schoolmarms who would prove to be influential in the development of his creative mind.

Occasionally, his novels pull characters from his early childhood, revealing his admiration and love for his early teachers. Perhaps this admiration fostered his own devotion to his teaching at Duke.

He attended Duke University and pledged Phi Delta Theta (Where, incidentally, William Styron, Duke '47, the author of The Confessions of Nat Turner and Sophie's Choice, was an undergraduate member). Price received his bachelor's degree in English in 1955. While at the university, he earned the attention of Eudora Welty who said, "What attracted me then to Reynolds is what attracts me now, what you can't help but feel: the power of his mind, his thoughts, his sympathy. Only a blind person could have missed the fact that in college he was a good writer already. And he has always advanced, grown. He is just one of our major writers."

Price then traveled to Merton College in Oxford, England, where he studied for three years as a Rhodes Scholar. Upon his return to the United States, he began teaching English literature and creative writing at Duke. He wrote A Long and Happy Life while he was teaching, and the critical acclaim that followed its publication in 1962 allowed him his dream to write as a full-time career, teaching only one course per semester at Duke University.

Price takes teaching seriously, however. It is his "serious hobby," one that provides him contact with the younger generation of writers and helps him give something back through the profession that cultivated and nurtured his talents as a youth. Duke students attest to the valuable knowledge and experience he provides in his classes. He offers the wisdom of 30 years of success as a published author and the friendly and comfortable classroom atmosphere in which he delivers that wisdom. It is no surprise that his classes are among the most popular at Duke.

Reynolds Price lives in a house in rural Durham County, North Carolina, set in acres of birches and firs. It is the same house he lived in when he collapsed in May 1984, during a neighbor's wedding. A pencil-thick tumor near his spine had caused his legs to stiffen. After three operations and watching the use of his legs deteriorate, Price was free of the cancer, but he was also a paraplegic.

Price says that cancer caused only one drastic change in his life: it gave him more time to devote to writing. Since his operations, he has been in one of his most prolific phases as a writer. Plays, novels, poems, essays all have come flowing from him as if the cancer unearthed some underground well of literary material. With his new word processor, he can now produce from 10 to 15 pages each day, and the pages need little, if any, revision.

His wheelchair has not confined him, however. Price still zooms about the Duke University campus with a fierce smile, talking to students and fellow faculty. There is no trace of bitterness for losing the use of his legs.

"When it happened to me, I had had a very full and able-bodied life for a long time, so it was not a gigantic trauma for me," he says.

"God knows I was sorry to lose the use of my legs, and it took me a very long time to get all the new skills and ways of living figured out. But I think it happened to me at a time in life when it was easier to absorb than it is in the case of so many men and women

Reynolds Price in his home in the rural area of Durham County, North Carolina.

"All narrative artists are very much involved in telling the only story we really want to hear, which is: History is the will of a just God who knows me."

The weeks during and following the surgery to his spine, Price was not so upbeat about this change that had occurred so suddenly in his life. He was shaken by his paralysis and worried about the future. Writing on Kate Vaiden and other projects came to a stop and reading anything more complex than a magazine took more concentration than he was willing to give.

"I was, at first, deeply stunned and then intent in every cell on healing and lasting. Only when a friend, uncoached by me, commissioned me to write a play for a group of young actors was I slowly able to guess that I was free again to focus my attention on something more than my own halved body and its secret inner guerrilla campaign to save what was left," he says.

After he finished that play, August Snow, he slowly began to put the finishing touches on Kate Vaiden, providing much needed therapy to his battered mind. Ironically, writing has become much easier for him now than before the cancer, perhaps because, in a subtle way, writing continually heals him.

REYNOLDS PRICE HAS BEEN hailed as the last of the modern disciples of Faulkner whose contemporaries are Robert Penn Warren, Eudora Welty, William Styron, and others. Today, Southern writers are again enjoying critical acclaim and success. It is not difficult to see that they have always occupied a special place in the American psyche and in the American literary landscape. Price thinks he lacks the masochistic trait that people expect in a Southern writer, and until recently, he has tried to avoid the label and the "pain and suffering" stereotypes that come with it. But he has come to accept the tag as a compliment.

"I used to think it was trivializing or condescending, but now I think it is a synonym for good," he says.

Price's novels are often tales of life in the South, about everyday people caught up in events that show them at their best or worse. They are the kind of gothic tales that take the special nuances of simple feeling and show them at their full force in characters that beg for the reader's sympathy. His stories are of families dealing with death, betrayal, murder, romance, and a host of problems that seem extraordinary.

His new book, Blue Calhoun (Atheneum 1992), is no exception. Bluford Calhoun (Blue for short), the main character, is the father of Mattie, his beloved, born-again Catholic daughter, and the husband of Myra, a woman of strength and generosity. The novel draws the reader irrepressibly into Blue's betrayal of his wife for the lovely Luna Absher, a girl barely older than his teenage daughter, and the ensuing destruction of Blue's family. The novel, like most of Price's work, develops from an everyday situation involving real people into a transcendental struggle with the moral questions confronting every person in the passage through life. Price's ally in this process is the South itself, which, according to him, imposes its own morality on its denizens.

"Blue is not a conventional believer," Price says about the protagonist. "But he was a profoundly moral person. At that time, the South was one of the most God-haunted regions on earth, and for him not to be moral — he'd have to be psychotic!"

Price illustrates the critical difference between moral beliefs and moral action. He plays out the familiar truism that the road to Hell is paved with good intentions. He says that the seeds of these themes come from his childhood.

"There were several instances in my extended family where men made these reckless runaways with other women," he explains. "My family was extraordinarily tolerant. Nobody thought that was the right thing to do. On the other hand, nobody thought 'that's the end of him, we'll never see him again.'"

"I think the main reason we all put up with those guys is because they were charmers, and their charm was primarily their command of language. They were good-looking. They really didn't mean to be malevolent, though they caused enormous amounts of pain. They were confused, self-absorbed charmers."

PRICE HAS RECENTLY FINISHED A TOUR through the United States promoting the new novel. His future plans include a collection of short stories due out next year, a play, and another novel. He has

"I think both my brother and I, who were the only children to survive infancy, have all our lives been handicapped by the fact that we seldom meet human beings as loyal, affectionate, or continuously amusing as our parents were."

REYNOLDS PRICE

received requests from many people on this past tour to write about his experiences with cancer, an idea he is entertaining.

"I've had people who have come up to me and said, 'I've just had surgery, just had radiation or chemotherapy, and I'm in a bad way, and for God's sake someday write a book that at least describes your own situation going through this.' Which I certainly intend to do."

Throughout the tumultuous changes in Price's life, he believes the writing process has actually gotten easier for him. Part of that ease has come with the technology of the word processor, but most of it comes from years of hard work and understanding the writing process. Price has compared his writing to rolling a live grenade into a room.

"I get some kind of fragmentary idea — which is what I think of as the live grenade. I say, 'It's going to be this man who meets a teen-age girl accidentally one day on Fayetteville Street in Raleigh, and it totally alters his life and the lives of everyone else he knows for the rest of his life.'

"OK, that's the grenade. Pull the pin out. Roll it into a room. Here they are, in the middle of Atkinson Music Company on Fayetteville Street on such and such an afternoon in 1956. She walks in the door. What happens next? And I watch the explosion go off, and I follow the bits and pieces where they fly.

"And if that sounds idiotically simple, frankly, I think for a person who's a born writer and who's writing virtually every day of his working life for more than 40 years now, it is sort of idiotically simple to do."

Price's work attempts to illuminate the mysteries of human relationships. It paints a picture of how people struggle with the big questions and come to understand, love, and hurt each other. The emotions of his characters are drawn from his own past, turning his own history into touching fiction.

"All narrative artists are very much involved in telling the only real story we really want to hear, which is: 'History is the will of a just God who knows me.' Now that either is or isn't true. I hope it is," he says.

The answer to that question humanity may never know, but we may be certain that Reynolds Price is working harder day and night to find it for all of us. He has as good a chance, if not better, than anyone.

An Excerpt From 'Blue Calhoun'

This starts with the happiest I ever was, though it brought down suffering on everybody near me. Short as it lasted and long ago, I've never laid it all out yet, not start to finish. But if I try and half succeed, you may wind up understanding things, choosing a better road for yourself and maybe not blaming the dead past but living for the here and now, each day a clean page. At least you'll see how certain things in my long life have gone down fast as one of those Japanese domino shows where two million pieces trip each other in hot succession and set off the unexpected jackpot — an exploding mountain or a rocket blast that hurls men farther than they've yet gone, to Neptune or worse.

The time I'll tell about ran its course when I was thirty five, then thirty six. Till then I'd lived a fairly normal life, if normal included some badly drunk years — and I think it does in America still. So honest to God, I doubt you need to know much about me before the latter half of that day when everything started streaking downhill. Of course I'll add the odd event that feels worth knowing or tells a good story. Stories are something I'm better at than life; and that one year was built like a story, whoever built it. It had a low start that stoked up fast to such a heat that hinges on doors were melting away; and pent up people were tearing loose and running for what looked like daylight till, at some weird invisible signal, everything started cooling again.

And everybody slowed to average speed and drew deep breaths to treat their burns and wonder if they could stand the sight of each other's faces from then till death or just for that day. Some said Yes; a few said No; and everybody thought I'd caused the wreck, which may have been true. Even my mother, a certified saint, called me out to the country house and said "Now, son, you've ruined two lives — your own blood child and the girl you claimed to love so strongly. How do you plan on living the rest of the time you've got with that on your mind, that blood on your hands?"

Blood was a figure of speech at the time, and she well knew it. I'd almost certainly killed four Germans in the Second War but nothing since. So I said what I believed was true, "Look, Mother. Nobody's dead." I was technically right.

But her deep blue eyes never flinched, and she said "Far worse than dead — far worse."

Then I saw that the thing I dreaded had happened. I'd badly harmed three worthwhile souls that trusted me; and I knew no way on Earth to mend them — not till your and my past months together, thirty years on. Know this first though (it's some of the worst you'll know about me) — I drove myself back home from Mother's that late spring night in a tardy frost with my face grinning each mile of the way. I could see it in the mirror, dark as it was. My body was still that pleased with the memory; it still is today. Maybe my mind and heart just figured I'd taken enough from God or fate, my family and the U.S. Infantry — not to mention the Nazis — to earn me some substantial relief and nourishment. Whatever, I flat-out gorged myself for twelve full months. So here much further on in time, I'm hoping to make my slim amends by telling this history that's all but true.

I'm Blue Calhoun as you well know; and wild as I've been, I still like the sound. The full name's Bluford and the middle name's August, but there can't be more than ten people left who know that much about me still — to the world I'm Blue and have always been. Except for the war and the times I was wild — and our hard time overseas just now — I've mostly stayed near my birthplace: a capital city, Raleigh, N.C. When I was a child, Raleigh called itself "The City of Oaks." But don't try to find an oak these days in the criminal mess that money and the chloroformed City Council have made from innocent fertile dirt and what grew in it.

I'm drifting already but here's the start. As I said, I'd climbed the sizable hill of my thirty fifth birthday — a rough time for men, the downhill side. I think I was sane; people from all walks of life assured me I was not bad to see. I'd been stone sober for nineteen months — the longest ever up to that point — and it turned out, I've stayed sober the rest of my life to this night now. I worked the best job I'd had in years; and to my knowledge, no part of my life was starved or frozen. I didn't stare off at sunsets and grieve. I thought I cherished my only spouse, born Myra Burns, a friend since childhood and your grandmother that you'd have prized.

We'd been married for fifteen years, and Myra had tried her absolute best. As you well know we had a daughter that I near worshiped named Madelyn (called Mattie or Matt from the day of her birth, according to how we felt at the moment). Matt was the finest influence on me of anybody yet. I owed her the world and was aiming to give it, minute by minute from here on out — upright kindness and every decent thought and act I could see she needed. But then that one day fell down on me from a clear spring sky, no word of warning. It tore the ground from under my feet, and everything round me shook the way a mad dog shakes a howling child.

Argo sails for America<sup>3</sup> in America's Cup

Stu Argo has a classic sailor's name and a bright future in the highly competitive world of professional sailing . . . and now he has a victory in the Holy Grail of yachting

The 1991 America's Cup was the closest contest in the history of the 141-year-old yachting event. In the second race, only two seconds separated America<sup>3</sup> from Italy's Il Moro di Venezia. Watching Captain Buddy Melges bring America<sup>3</sup> to victory was thrilling for the crews and spectators alike, but for Stu Argo Jr., Michigan State '85, Melges' port sail trimmer, it was also the pinnacle achievement in his young career as a professional sailor.

"The America's Cup is the ultimate in yachting," says Argo. "After you win that, you can't do much better."

The 4-1 victory over Italy solidified his place in the top level of professional sailing. But this past America's Cup was not his with Buddy Melges as the skipper. Although Heart of America placed eighth in the challenger series, Argo made a place for himself in the brotherhood of professional sailors. Melges would need him again on America<sup>3</sup> in 1991.

Stu Argo grew up in Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan, where he learned to sail on his father's boats on the Detroit River. With his father's encouragement, he entered the Bayview Yacht Club's Junior Sailing Program when he was just 11 years old.

"My dad started sailing in the early '50s," says Argo. "I got pretty good by sailing on my dad's friends' boats at the yacht club."

By the time Argo entered school at Michigan State University, he was ready to sail competitively for the university's Offshore Sailing Team. He competed in two Kennedy Cups at the Naval Academy in Annapolis. His experience sailing on the Great Lakes helped him earn the notice of the Heart of America team in 1985. But he believes his years of practice helped him more.

"Concentration separates the good from the great," Argo says. "Being able to watch for mistakes and help the rest of the crew . . . that comes with practice and experience."

Perhaps Argo's most thrilling moment came at the Canada Cup, a regatta between the United States and Canada held every three years on the Great Lakes. After three previous attempts at winning the regatta, Argo helped in a stunning come-from-behind victory. Down at one point three races to one in a best of seven event, the Americans struggled back, and in the final race, trailing more than 35 seconds, The U.S. battled the Canadians for 60 tacks before the U.S. finally sailed to an 11-second victory.

"I think that was my most thrilling moment as a sailor, to win that event after being down that far," says Argo.

Argo is currently competing on the world match racing circuit. He has just returned from Antibes, France and a second win at the Maxi Boat World Championships aboard the Matador<sup>2</sup>. With the success he has had, he admits he is committed to sailing as a career.

"I've been doing this since 1985, and I'd like to continue as long as I can. Some of these guys are sailing well into their sixties," Argo says. "I think coaching is a challenge, and I might take that up again in the future."

As for advice to any potential sailors, Argo suggests hard work.

"Study hard. It's tough to get to the top level, because these guys do it for so many years. There's very little turnover," he says. "But sail with the best people you can."

Stu Argo has certainly done that.

Phi Delta Theta Founders Gateway and Plaza unveiled at University of Akron

A CEREMONIAL PRESENTATION. Ohio Epsilon alumni and University of Akron dignitaries at the gateway.

On October 10, 1992, Dr. Peggy Gordon Elliott, president of the University of Akron, hosted a ceremony unveiling the Phi Delta Theta Founders Memorial Gateway and Plaza at the University of Akron. Among the many Akron Phis in attendance were Paul E. Martin, Akron '35, president of the UA Foundation and one of the driving forces behind the project; Robert A. Biggs, Georgia Southern '76, executive vice president of the General Fraternity; and Gregory Soska, Ashland '90, the Fraternity's director of alumni services.

The gateway was part of a project to beautify the University of Akron campus. Sixteen Ohio Epsilon alumni donated the funds for the plaza and gateway and for the restructuring of the entire university common that extends the length of the campus.

The gateway is similar in design to the Phi Delta Theta Founders Gateway at Miami University which was donated to Miami by the Fraternity in honor of Phi Delta Theta's 125th anniversary.

After the ceremonies, the group adjourned to the Ohio Epsilon chapter house where the dedication of the Ohio Epsilon gateway and Martin Place was performed. Paul Martin donated a gift to erect another gateway and a promenade, this one adjacent to the chapter house. The gift also provided a fund for the permanent maintenance of the landscape of the chapter property. Roger Read presided during this dedication, and Brother Martin gave an inspirational speech about his fraternity experience and the influence of Phi Delta Theta on his life.

The previous evening,

TWO GARDNER WINNERS. Paul Martin and Richard Wright hold the Gardner Award.

Martin received the Raymond L. Gardner Award at a ceremony at the Ohio Epsilon chapter house. This marked the first occasion that two Phis from the same pledge class have received this honor. W. Richard Wright, Akron '35, received the Gardner Award in 1984.

Last November, nearly 20 alumni gathered to hold a roast in honor of Dick Maxwell, Ohio State '64, to raise money for Creative Living, a residential project for quadriplegics. Maxwell, who became quadriplegic after a football injury in college, directs the project and works as the assistant director of disability services at Ohio State University. The highlight of the evening was the return of "Mom" Sandberg, Ohio Zeta's housemother of 24 years. Ohio Zeta alumni are encouraged to write her at: 2815 Teague Ave., P.O. # Lee Falke, county prosecutor, retires after 28 years

After 28 years of being Montgomery County Prosecutor, Lee Falke, Ohio State '52, is retiring. The Dayton, Ohio, native leaves behind a legacy that will be difficult to match.

Having won seven consecutive elections, Falke was the pride of the Democratic Party in Montgomery County, but his retirement is sad news for both sides of the partisan fence. As county prosecutor, Falke had a reputation for ignoring party lines, even hiring Republican attorneys in his office.

"I always hired the best attorneys available. It's always been my philosophy that our job was first to serve the people and second is a rare approach that is unique in this era of mud-slinging partisanship. Perhaps this is the reason voters often changed party affiliation just to vote for Falke.

Falke became a public servant when politics still had an untarnished sense of respectability. The 62-year-old Democrat first started as an assistant prosecutor straight out of Ohio State University's law school. He was an athlete at the University of Dayton, and he turned down a Class-A contract with the Chicago Cubs to finish college. He pledged Phi Delta Theta as a law student at Ohio State. The Fraternity offered him support, encouragement, and a social life, things important even for an upperclassman, he says.

"I was not a traditional pledge like most Greeks. I pledged at a much older age, but I enjoyed my time at the chapter," says Falke.

Perhaps his most dramatic case was the kidnapping-murder of Dayton businessman, Lester C. Emoff in 1975. The crime caused so much publicity that the trial had to be moved out of town.

Just as important to Falke though, is the civil case he brought against Dayton Power & Light for raising utility rates on residents to pay for unnecessary modifications

Class of '51 Lafayette Phis hold reunion

of a DP&L coal generator. He prides himself on using the prosecutor's office more for serving the public good than for getting headlines.

Falke has a true belief in the democratic process and a dedication to public service that seems out of place in the present political climate. His hero is John F. Kennedy, who he says "inspired more people to enter public service than anyone has since."

Falke is concerned about what he sees as a decline in interest in public service among the younger generation. Although he admits that the abuses of politicians in the past three decades have disillusioned the public, he still sees public service as a noble profession. For the past 28 years, Falke has also seen it as his duty.

It is no surprise that on September 23 hundreds of Dayton citizens attended a ceremonial dinner to formally bid farewell to Brother Falke. Four hundred city and state officials, local civic leaders, residents, and friends attended a tribute held in his honor. Walter Rice, the federal District Court Judge who had worked as Falke's assistant, was the master of ceremonies. Dayton Mayor Clay Dixon; Ohio State senator, Neal Zimmers; Jim Brogan, judge Ohio Court of Appeals, and other top Dayton officials, many of them indebted to Falke, attended to pay tribute to a man who played a significant part in their careers.

Falke received 12 awards from as varied organizations as the Sheriff's Office and the Public Defender's Commission. Mayor Dixon pronounced that day "Lee Falke Day." The Ohio Senate offered a resolution, a "Salute to One of Ohio's Finest Citizens." The National Organization for Victim Assistance gave him its "Resolution of Honor."

Finkbeiner youngest legislator in the state of Washington

The winds of political change that swept the nation this past November put many new faces into national and state government, but few as new or as young as 23-year-old William Finkbeiner Jr., Whitman '91. Finkbeiner won the state congressional seat in Washington's 45th District. With the help of his family and his campaign manager, Brek Lawson, Whitman '90, Finkbeiner geared up an intense campaign in Seattle's conservative East Side to defeat a Republican candidate who had been chairman of the 45th District Republicans.

Finkbeiner won handily, getting 57% of the vote in a district that had elected Republican state representatives for 10 years.

"I'm really excited . . . I still can't believe we won," said Finkbeiner only two days after the election.

Finkbeiner got his first taste of politics as a page in the Washington State Legislature when he was in high school. Now, he's the youngest legislator in the state.

"Hard work won it for us. Going door-to-door, taking the time to draft personal mailings, and standing out on the highway with signs during rush hour waving at drivers—that's what did it," he said.

He also attributes the success of the campaign to the support of his family and the volunteers who worked to promote him in the community. Finkbeiner's father, William Sr., is a Phi alumnus from Washington State University's class of 1967, and he helped financially support the campaign to elect his son.

Finkbeiner also gives a lot of credit to his chapter brother and campaign manager, Brek Lawson. Lawson is looking forward to two years of work in Washington's state capital of Olympia as Finkbeiner's chief aide.

"I'm getting more and more excited about the prospect of working in Olympia and developing the responsibilities of the state legislator position," Lawson said. "We are looking at creating citizen committees, a constituents data base, and other ways to develop more interaction between citizens and their state reps."

Beating the rush recession

How five chapters improved their rush in spite of the odds against them

While the rush recession has hurt chapters of many fraternities on campuses across North America, a few chapters of Phi Delta Theta prepared to do battle with the effects of the economy and declining student enrollment. Using their own skills and wits and armed with the new rush materials from General Headquarters, a few rush chairmen produced some of the best rush efforts by their chapters in recent memory.

How did they do it? Well, here are five chapters that experienced dramatic results in their rush performance and the reasons for their successes:

❶ Kansas Delta at Wichita State University pledged 28 Phikeias, up from last year's 17. "We really pitched the advantages of Greek life at a commuter school like WSU to the rushees . . . the social and brotherhood aspect, the scholarship program, and our new house," says Erik Pray, Kansas Delta's rush chairman. "Our biggest problem at a school like this, though, is guys dropping out after they pledge, so we really concentrated on getting quality as well as quantity. The average high school GPA of our Phikeias is 3.2."

❷ Ohio Theta at the University of Cincinnati pledged 26, up 20% from last year. The chapter recruited more men than any other chapter on campus. "We had been using the same theme for five years, but the new Standard for Brotherhood campaign from Headquarters really excited the members about rush. We used more advertising, held a workshop with the videos, and the brothers really rushed hard," says John Stahl, Ohio Theta's rush chairman.

❸ Tennessee Delta at Tennessee Tech pledged 31 Phikeias, the best rush performance on campus and one that doubled the size of the chapter. "We have our freshmen run a pre-rush function for non-Greeks, and that prepares our younger guys for rush. It also gives initial contact to the guys we want," says Greg Martin, Tennessee

Delta's rush chairman. "We wanted 40 this year. There's just so much more you can do as a chapter when you have more members. I hope we can pledge 20 guys in the spring."

As these examples show, preparation, motivation, and self-promotion are often the keys to a successful rush. Many chapters that face adversity in rush rationalize their failure by making arguments against recruiting a larger pledge class. To succeed in rush, however, a chapter must make a commitment to increase its size, and then it must prepare, motivate, and promote.

Rushees pledge a fraternity because of the members. If the members do not work at meeting freshmen and rushing them one-on-one, a chapter cannot succeed, even by promoting a great social life and a beautiful house. It takes careful planning and encouragement to motivate members to rush, but the five chapters described here have at least that one thing in common.

Kansas Delta builds a new house

Fund-raising continues on the Wichita State alumni's $1.4 million housing campaign

by Clark Jackson

With the financial support and organization of the Kansas Delta alumni, a new 15,000-square-foot house has just recently been completed for the Wichita State Phis. The amazing dedication and perseverance of these alumni shows what it takes to complete a project like this.

In 1984, the alumni of the Kansas Delta Chapter evaluated the chapter house's remodeling needs and concluded that the chapter could no longer afford to maintain the deteriorating facility. The chapter house had been lived in by hundreds of men and the wear-and-tear showed. An alumni-driven Housing Committee was established to solve the problem.

The committee asked architect, Maury Breidenthal, Kansas '72, for advice. He suggested that contractor, Bill Veatch, Wichita State '77, and his father, survey the house and offer another opinion. They came to the same conclusion as Breidenthal: "Tear it down."

Building a new house obviously takes money, and the committee knew that it would have to come from the alumni. Using the North Dakota Alpha housing project's method of setting up a tax-exempt Education Foundation, the alumni solicited tax-deductible donations from the more than 900 alumni of Kansas Delta and the former local Phi Upsilon Sigma chapter that preceded Phi Delta Theta at Wichita State. But creating the Education Foundation and getting IRS approval became difficult.

In the meantime, Kansas Alpha concluded a building program using the Educa-

Finance Committee reworked the eight-year-old budget for a 40-man house, and the campaign goal became $1.4 million dollars.

Through the university, the alumni learned of a piece of property adjacent to sorority row and on the university's northern edge. It was the perfect location tion Foundation approach. Their $2.6 million campaign was headed by Monte Johnson. Johnson was a former Wichitaian and close friend to many Kansas Delta alumni. He and Bill Hess, Kansas '69, a Kansas City attorney, helped the Housing Committee develop the Education Foundation.

The Housing Committee was then reorganized with the help of Bob Geist, Wichita State '63. Subcommittees were established to do specific tasks. The

with an old 1900s farmhouse built on two acres of land. Located in a middle-income single-family neighborhood that had since been developed, the property was re-zonable for fraternity use.

Maury Breidenthal was hired to design and build a traditional fraternity house that required minimal maintenance. Specifications for educational space were also required by the use of the Education Foundation funds being raised.

The new chapter house pays tribute to Kansas Delta's Phi Sig heritage. A Phi Sig room, plaques, and marker will remind the chapter of the local fraternity that preceded it. This dedication won the support of the Phi Sig alumni.

Phi Sigs Joe Korst, Bob McGrath, Elbie McNeil, Buck Alley, Thornton Anderson, Dick George, Dean Hargrove, Gino Paluzzi, and Garner Shriver helped the effort. More than half of the funds raised came from Phi Sig alumni.

Other Wichita-area Phis such as Jordan Haines, Kansas '49; Scott Ritchie, Kansas '54; Williard Walpole, Southern Methodist '41; Wes Sowers, Purdue '26, and Phil May, Lawrence '57, have helped in the project. Frank Priest, Kansas '53, is working with Maury Breidenthal as the interior decorator.

The house is nearly complete, but fundraising continues for the project. The Education Foundation will provide scholarships to Wichita State students in the name of the fraternity, and the fund will be administrated through the University's Endowment Association. The Foundation will provide a maintenance fund to assist in maintaining the facility.

Not only will the alumni provide the chapter with a fraternity house, but they will provide a way to insure its maintenance for the next century.

General Council appoints nine new province presidents

Like any other new administration, the 1992-94 General Council began making appointments as soon as the members were elected at the General Convention in Arlington, Virginia.

The Council recently made nine province president appointments. These appointments were approved by the chapters in each of the respective provinces. The new presidents will join the ranks of the 42 province presidents in the General Fraternity who provide valuable guidance to the undergraduate chapters of Phi Delta Theta.

The presidents will make several visits to the chapters in their provinces over the academic year. In addition, they appoint chapter advisers, act as the spokesman for the Fraternity in the area, investigate possible expansion opportunities in the province, and perform other duties as the General Council may dictate.

The new province presidents will be attending an orientation program during the General Officers Conference in February to familiarize themselves with the workings of the General Fraternity and the demands of their new position.

In Alpha South province, (New York, New Jersey, and Massachusetts), Chris Hartwyk, Western Maryland '82, former New Jersey Alpha chapter adviser, succeeded Joe Belanger as president. Hartwyk was a 1992 Leadership College faculty member, and he currently practices law in the state of New Jersey.

Former chapter consultant, Conrad F. Thiede, Colgate '90, was appointed president of a newly aligned Beta province. The province now consists of New York Alpha, New York Zeta, New York Eta, and New York Iota. Brother Thiede is a restaurant manager in Hamilton, New York.

Robert J. Page, North Carolina '51, was appointed president of the Delta South province. The province now includes North Carolina Alpha, North Carolina Beta, and North Carolina Delta. Page, an attorney in Chapel Hill, served on the North Carolina Beta house corporation.

Curtis Boecking, Oklahoma '79, a third generation Phi and former Oklahoma Alpha house corporation member, has been appointed president of Nu province. The province includes chapters in Oklahoma and Arkansas. Brother Boecking is a real estate investor. He lives in Oklahoma City.

The new Sigma North province president is Mike Scarlatelli, GMI '76. The former Michigan Delta chapter adviser, succeeds Larry Carr. Scarlatelli is an engineer for General Motors. He and his family live in Rochester Hills, Michigan.

Joseph D. Hunter, Clemson '79, was appointed the new Epsilon East province president. He served as the South Carolina Gamma chapter adviser for six years.

Hunter lives in Clemson and is in manufacturing management with the Michelin Tire Company.

Another former chapter consultant, P. Glen Smith, Tennessee Tech '78, was appointed province president. Smith will preside over the chapters in Phi province. He was the former colony coordinator for Missouri Epsilon, and after the chapter was installed, he was appointed chapter adviser. He has served as president of the Memphis, Tennessee Alumni Club and the Springfield, Missouri Alumni Club. Smith has attended nine General Conventions.

Mark Williams, Colorado College '82, is the new president of Xi province which includes chapters in Colorado and Nebraska. He is a Denver-area attorney with the law firm of Ireland, Stapleton, Prior, and Pascoe.

John "Bo" Bowen, Mississippi '70, was appointed president of the newly aligned Theta East province. The province now includes Mississippi Alpha, Alabama Alpha, and Alabama Beta. Bowen played varsity football for Ole Miss, and he earned his degree in business administration. He currently owns an insurance agency in Jackson, Mississippi.

Dreiling retires, Almacy begins first tour

New chapter consultant joins GHQ staff

After two years, Kevin R. Dreiling, Wichita State '90, will be retiring from the chapter consultant position. Dreiling, who earned his degree in business management and real estate & land use economics, will be returning to Wichita, Kansas, and entering a career in the commercial real estate industry.

"After I relax for a couple of weeks, I'm going to be deciding where I want to live and go on from there. I know I am going to be in commercial real estate," he says.

Dreiling finished his two-year tour in December, 1992, visiting more than 120 chapters in the United States and Canada.

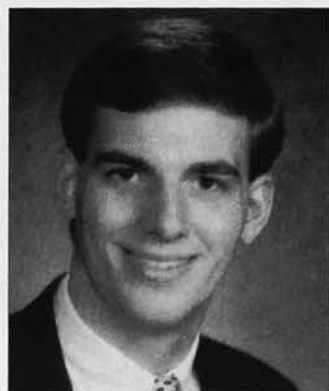

Succeeding Dreiling is J. David Almacy, Widener '92, who earned his degree in business management and marketing. He was involved in student government and was a staff writer for the campus newspaper, The Dome. Almacy performed in several theatre productions and was vice president of the local chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, the national recognition society in dramatics. He was also founder and chairman of the campus' chapter of College Republicans, and he worked for the Republican National Committee in Washington, D.C. in the summer of 1992.

Almacy was also involved in the community, serving in the local Big Brother program and the Widener University Student Services Committee.

Almacy served his chapter as librarian, secretary, and president. He also attended the 1992 General Convention in Arlington, Virginia.

As a new chapter

1993 Golden Legionnaires

* Indicates alumnus' address is unknown. Information regarding these alumni should be sent to General Headquarters, 2 South Campus Avenue, Oxford, Ohio 45056.

Alumni initiated in 1942-43 are eligible for the Golden Legion

Every year the General Fraternity honors those men who celebrate their fiftieth year of membership in Phi Delta Theta. The very presence of these Golden Legionnaires represents not only the long lasting bond of brotherhood, but the dedication of these alumni to the Fraternity.

The 1992 Golden Legionnaires were initiated between July 1, 1942 and June 30, 1943, during the Second World War. Some of them later served in the military, as the U.S. became increasingly involved in the conflicts in Europe and in the Pacific.

Throughout the coming year, many chapters and alumni clubs will hold ceremonies honoring these men. Usually these ceremonies are conducted during a Founders Day celebration in the spring. Each Golden Legionnaire will receive an embossed certificate and a Golden Legion pin recognizing his 50 years as a Phi. Golden Legionnaires who do not receive an embossed certificate at a ceremony will receive one in the mail from the General Headquarters.

This program is graciously sponsored by the Phi Delta Theta Foundation.

A special presentation was made during the General Convention honoring the Foundation Award recipients.

Seventy-five outstanding undergraduate Phis were nominated by 65 chapters to receive the Phi Delta Theta Foundation's 1992 scholarships. Robert P. Schmid, Texas Tech '93, won the $2,500 Arthur R. Priest Award. The Priest Award goes to the nominee judged to be the best all-around candidate. Philip J. Morgan, Nebraska at Kearney '93, was named the first recipient of the $2,500 Robert J. Miller Leadership Award.

Seventeen men received named scholarships ranging in value from $1,000 to $2,000. A named scholarship was presented for the first time this year by the Oregon Alpha Golden Legionnaires.

The Educational Foundation also presented $2,000 awards to 19 men from the Foundation's general scholarship funds. One of those awards was presented in memory of J. Don Mason, Miami (Ohio) '35, a former trustee of the Foundation who passed away last year.

Several recipients of these awards were at the 1992 General Convention and the 1992 Leadership College and were recognized by the Phis at those events.

Gifts to the Foundation earmarked for the scholarship program are always welcome. The goals of the Foundation trustees include expanding the scholarship program so that additional outstanding nominees can be honored each year.

Morgan wins first Miller Award

Philip J. Morgan, Nebraska (Kearney) '93, has the honor of being named the first recipient of the Educational Foundation's Robert J. Miller Leadership Award. The $2,500 award is presented annually to the brother who is judged to have demonstrated the most outstanding leadership in his chapter. The award honors Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50, executive vice president, emeritus, of the Fraternity and current president of the Phi Delta Theta Foundation.

Nebraska Beta brothers describe Morgan as hard working and dedicated with a broad smile and a quick sense of humor. He is currently president of the chapter, but he has also served as vice president of his pledge class, chaplain, IFC representative, alumni secretary, and rush chairman. While serving as alumni secretary, he co-chaired the chapter's highly successful 25th anniversary celebration and published an excellent alumni newsletter.

Brother Morgan is studying business administration with an emphasis on accounting and finance. His minor is information systems. His g.p.a. is an impressive 3.815 on a 4.0 scale.

Patrick McTee, the Nebraska at Kearney IFC advisor, describes Morgan as an extremely able leader.

"Phil is well respected by his peers . . . he is truly one of our outstanding leaders," says McTee.

Besides his active leadership in the chapter and the IFC, Morgan is a member of the Order of Omega, SPURS, Phi Beta Lambda, the Student Alumni Board, and Mortar Board. He has also served as vice president of Mantor House Government.

Philip J. Morgan receives the first Robert J. Miller Leadership Award from Bob Miller at the General Convention.

Morgan received an ROTC Award of Merit for Excellence in Academic Studies, a Chancellor's Scholarship, and an Order of Omega Outstanding Academic Achievement award. He has been named to the Dean's List four semesters.

Brother Morgan also makes time for community service. He is very involved with the Big Buddy program, and he conducted a fundraiser for Toys for Tots, a program which finds, repairs, and makes toys for children. He participated in the Crete Cares program by distributing food to the unfortunate during his Christmas break at home in Crete, Nebraska. He has held leadership positions in both the Crete High School and the Kearney High School Business Competition Days. He played an instrumental role in Operation Tree Plant, a program which planted trees and cleaned up a local park.

Fritz Behring, South Dakota '88, the Nebraska Beta chapter adviser, believes Brother Morgan truly represents the qualities of Phi Delta Theta and calls him "one of the most outstanding student leaders I have encountered."

Phil Morgan can now add the first Robert J. Miller Leadership Award to his already remarkable resume.

Schmid wins Arthur R. Priest Award

Robert Preston Schmid, Texas Tech '93, was honored as the recipient of the 1991-1992 Arthur R. Priest Scholarship at the awards banquet during the 1992 Leadership College while his proud Phi father, James C. Schmid, Texas Tech '67, looked on. The $2,500 award from the Educational Foundation will help finance his senior year at Texas Tech University where he has earned a 3.767 grade point average as a biology major.

"Rob is one of the most outstanding young men I have worked with in the past 30 years of advising Texas Epsilon," said Bill Dean, former editor of The Scroll.

Brother Schmid has served Texas Epsilon as vice president of his pledge class, the chapter's scholarship chairman, the recording secretary, and the awards chairman. He earned a 4.0 g.p.a. and received the "Best Pledge" award his first semester. He has received the chapter's Highest Scholarship Achievement Award every semester since he pledged.

Last spring, he was named the Outstanding Honor Student in the Texas Tech Department of Biological Sciences. He also was named the Texas Tech Greek Junior of the Year. Schmid has been on the Dean's List three times and the President's List twice. He also has been named to the National Dean's list and received scholarships from the Texas Tech IFC, the A.R.C.S. Foundation, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Texas Tech Dads & Moms Association. Four times he has been honored with a Texas Tech University scholarship.

Schmid is a member of the Texas Tech Student Senate, the Arts and Sciences Ambassadors and serves as president of the local chapter of Order of Omega. He is involved with the Campus Crusade for Christ and the All-Greek Bible Study. He is a member of many honor societies including Phi Eta Sigma Freshman Honorary, Lambda Sigma Sophomore Honorary, Cardinal Key Junior Honorary, Omicron Delta Kappa Leadership Honorary, Golden Key, and Alpha Epsilon Delta Pre-Health Honorary.

Schmid has also served the Lubbock community in the Lubbock Canned Food Drive, the "Second Helping" program to feed the homeless, and the Lubbock High School's baseball tournament to benefit the Little League.

Dr. Michael D. Shonrock, associate dean of students, describes Rob as "a skilled, knowledgeable, confident, and committed student leader who is respected by his peers."

Perhaps the best and most convincing praise comes from Texas Epsilon's chapter leaders, who said, "Rob has been a leader since day one as a freshman . . . His involvement in Texas Epsilon and the Lubbock community exemplifies everything Phi Delta Theta stands for, and it is an honor to be associated with him . . . Rob Schmid is a leader, a scholar, a strong Christian, and most of all, the best friend a brother could have."

Mike Timlin, a relief pitcher for the Toronto Blue Jays, got everyone's boyhood dream: to be on the mound for the final out of a World Series victory

by David Slatton

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to be on the mound during the final out of the World Series as your team, victorious, stormed the field and surrounded you, yelling and high-fiving with triumph? Mike Timlin, Southwestern '87, relief pitcher for the Toronto Blue Jays, knows that feeling very well. In fact, it's still fresh in his memory.

After the ninth inning heroics of Atlanta's Otis Nixon in the sixth game of the 1992 World Series, the last thing Timlin wanted to see again was Nixon at the plate with two runners on, but that's who he faced with two outs in the eleventh inning. Toronto led 4-3.

"I just thought 'go out and do your job.' I knew there was a possibility that [Nixon] would bunt, because he's so quick," says Timlin.

"I basically have two fastballs, a straight fastball and a sneaker. I didn't want to throw the sneaker, because he might get behind it and pull it into left field, so I pitched straight at him. He fouled one off then hit the bunt. The ball just kind of hopped into my glove, and I threw it to Joe (Carter, Toronto's first baseman)."

So, after making the final play of the game in the World Series, how did Timlin feel?

"I was actually sort of relieved," he says.

This was not Timlin's debut performance in the Series. He got an inning's worth of play in the fifth game in Toronto when he faced Deion Sanders, Terry Pendleton, and David Justice, a rough lineup for a 27-year-old relief pitcher in his second year.

"I was sent in after the game was lost in the seventh inning. I was nervous, but at that point I just thought I should concentrate on my job," he says. He pitched a fly-out and two ground-outs.

He says that he wasn't as thrilled with winning the Series as the older veterans who have been in the game

the final play

long enough to understand how rare a victory in the Fall Classic is. Timlin nearly went to the World Series as a rookie in 1991, but Toronto lost a close American League Championship to the Minnesota Twins.

"I enjoyed the victory, but not as much as the veterans like Joe Carter and Dave Winfield. They really deserved the credit for the success of this ball club and the [World Series] victory," he says. "I feel blessed just to be part of this."

Timlin was raised in Midland, Texas, in the western part of the state "about five hours drive from Austin," he explains. He pitched for three years at Southwestern University before he was drafted by Toronto as a junior. He jumped at the chance to play in the major leagues, forgoing his pursuit of a college degree.

"Toronto sent scouts out, and they saw me pitching. The team picked me up in the fifth round in 1987. The scouts saw that I had what it takes to play pro ball," he says. "Numbers aren't so much important; a lot of guys had better numbers than me, but it's the way you handle yourself in a game that scouts look at more."

In 1992, Timlin pitched 26 games, compiling a 4.12 ERA and seven saves. His performance was good enough in 1991 to encourage Toronto to protect him, keeping rights to him for this past season. Timlin expects he will be kept on the roster for 1993, although negotiations won't begin for some time.

In 1991, Timlin's performance started talk about his possible Rookie of the Year honors. Early on in the season his name was mentioned as a top candidate, until Timlin was put on the disabled list.

Timlin says he would like to finish his college education sometime in the future, perhaps getting a degree in physical therapy. Right now, though, he is making a decent living in Toronto. Last year his contract was worth $222,000, and he says he expects a higher paycheck for next season. He recently married and purchased a condo in Florida. Obviously, he would like to continue playing baseball as long as he possibly can.

"I'd like to play as long as I can; I think everyone wants to have a long career — 10 years or more.

"I want to stay here. I think every guy likes to stay with the club he came into the league with, but now they trade so much . . . if I play for another team, I'd like to return to Texas, maybe play for the Rangers," he says.

His career goals are modest, just as he is. Timlin is quick to give others credit and to avoid the ego that often comes from making a living at the top of professional sports. He believes that his presence in professional baseball is not his right, but more of an honor. In that vein, he pays continuous homage to his bread and butter: the Toronto fans.

"I'd like to influence some of the younger players, and try to get rid of some of the bad image players have" he says. "You know, I stop and give out as many autographs as I can. I want to build a better relationship between the players and fans."

Although the length of the average career in professional baseball is longer than in most sports, Timlin is preparing for the inevitable future when he will leave major league baseball.

"When I leave, I'll probably play a lot of golf," he says laughing. "I am investing what I can now, so I can live a life with my family."

Timlin remembers his Fraternity life at Southwestern fondly. He keeps in close contact with several Fraternity brothers. In fact one of his pledge brothers, Greg Proctor, was a groomsman at his recent wedding, and his big brother, Mike Cavers, attended the ceremony.

"I pledged as a sophomore. I enjoyed it. Every day was an adventure with those guys," he says.

Now, everyday is an adventure for Mike Timlin in major league baseball.

"I'm just grateful to be in this organization, playing this game," he says.

► Tim Thorpe, GMI EMI, ponders questions in an Alpha chapter meeting during the 1992 Leadership College.

Five hundred undergraduate Phi Deltis from British Columbia to Florida from Arizona to Vermont all flocked to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, the birthplace of Phi Delta Theta, to attend one of the most popular and important events in the Fraternity: Leadership College.

Hundreds of chapter leaders arrived by plane at Cincinnati International Airport and were transported by van 50 miles North to Oxford. Others drove to Old Miami and into a melee of college men registering, moving into rooms, and talking excitedly in the halls about the days ahead. "What chapter are you from?" became the most often asked question of the day.

There is probably no more exciting nor important program in the Fraternity than the Leadership College. The five-day event takes undergraduate leaders on a roller coaster tour of some of the most critical issues in the Greek community. The list has become a litany to chapter leaders: hazing, sexual assault, risk management, membership recruitment. To the student leaders who come to the College frustrated with these issues, the seminars and individual discussions that take place during these few days are not only inspirational, they are educational.

The faculty are usually Phi Delt alumni who are experts in their fields. College administrators, attorneys, medical practitioners, and a variety of other professionals graciously give their valuable time to share their expertise with the younger generation.

Perhaps the most valuable time spent at the Leadership College is the time late at night when the undergraduates talk excitedly about different topics in the residence halls. After the seminars are over, many faculty students at the University of Mississippi, illustrated the idea of individual impact with a story at a general session before the 500 participants of the College.

One beautiful morning a man was studying the ocean shore to see what damage the previous night's storm had done. In the distance, he noticed a boy picking starfish off the beach and throwing them into the water. The man watched as the boy moved toward him, continually repeating his task. The old man was amused. There were hundreds of starfish on the shore and millions in the ocean. When the boy was close enough the man shouted "Why do you bother? It won't make a difference!" The boy looked up at the man, held up the starfish he had just picked up and said, "It makes a difference to this one." With that he threw the starfish into the water and went about his mission.

At the opening session, Art Hoge, Westminster '74, dean of the Leadership College, shared his belief that "The Fraternity has the opportunity to be the third most positive influence in a man's life . . . we should be right behind his family and his faith."

In keeping with that belief, the Leadership College embarked on a five-day mission to help these student leaders make better decisions for themselves and their chapters. When it comes to making decisions about risk management, sexual assault, or hazing, how we respond to the moment of truth is more important than establishing policies. With that in mind, many of the seminars addressed the importance of the individual decision.

The 1992 Leadership College approached leadership development in two ways. The first was a discussion of the issues that face Phi Delta Theta. This cultivated an awareness of the problems facing the Fraternity and some strategies to deal with them. The second approach was to provide the participants with the leadership skills to accomplish goals in the chapter. This gave the students the needed ammunition to fight for their own objectives.

Participants were assigned to chapters. Each chapter had an adviser who facilitated discussion on a variety of members and undergraduates stay up to discuss fraternity issues into the early morning. Sharing stories and ideas is really what the Leadership College is all about.

The 1992 Leadership College delivered the theme "Building Our Brotherhood — We Can Make A Difference." Emphasizing that individual decisions and action impact those around us, the Leadership College set about teaching the participants ways to take their new knowledge back to their chapters.

topics. Chapter meetings were held two and three times each day, and students could discuss anything they wished.

During the rest of the day, educational sessions were offered on a variety of topics from chapter organization to multiculturalism. Each day opened with a general session which all 500 students attended, and several other general sessions were held during the week.

Sparky Reardon presented a general session on Thursday morning. He discussed the differences between today's college student and college students of the 1950s. Sparky contrasted the world of Beaver Cleaver to the 1990s world of drug abuse, AIDS, and risk management. Today's students often come from single-parent families, are dependent on financial assistance to attend college, and are more concerned about finding work after school. Although it may seem that the brotherhood of Phi Delta Theta is needed now more than ever, Sparky emphasized that the Fraternity must change to meet the needs of today's students.

At a general session on Thursday evening, the Reverend Brad Hall, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in Palm Desert, California, challenged the College with a discussion of values and ethics. He discussed the implications of individual decisions and their impact on people. He left the participants with the understanding that it is these seemingly insignificant decisions that either build or destroy the fabric of society.

Self-esteem was subject during the Friday morning general session by Bill Doran, Westminster '78. The focus of the presentation recognized the Fraternity's role in supporting a member's attitude about himself. The discussion likened a person with high self-esteem to a poker player with a lot of chips. That poker player will take risks that somebody with few chips would be unwilling to take. The same is true for someone with high self-esteem. He will extend himself and take risks that may enhance his life, whereas someone with low self-esteem will avoid risks and become increasingly insecure. The discussion challenged the Fraternity to be a place where brothers are supported and encouraged in their daily endeavors.

On Friday evening, Rich Pirrotta, Penn State '87, hosted a discussion session about membership education that was reminiscent of Phil Donahue's show. The format fielded questions and comments from the floor to a panel of undergraduates and alumni. The discussion dealt with hazing, member education, apathy, personal development, and other issues.

Ron Garon, Tampa '80, chapter adviser for Florida Theta and Florida Beta, gave the last general session presentation on Saturday evening. The presentation provided strategies for the students to integrate the ideas learned at the College into the operations of their chapters. Ron explained that the act of leadership is an act of personal growth. The very act of implementing these points makes us examine ourselves and learn what we do well and do not do well. The effect is that we help ourselves by helping each other.

After that session, hundreds of undergraduate Phi watched and participated in the initiation of several Phikeias who had attended the College. More than any other event at the five-day College, the presentation of one of the most cherished ceremonies of the Fraternity served as a reminder to these student leaders that Phi Delta Theta has an obligation to be a positive influence in the development of college men.

Perhaps next year's Leadership College will be attended by the hundreds of young leaders who were inspired by this year's participants to return to Old Miami and learn new ways to make Phi Delta Theta an even better fraternity.

Phis on Stamps — Part I

Benjamin Harrison graces U.S. postage more than any other Phi

By Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50
executive vice president emeritus

When I was a lad, I became interested in postage stamps. Initially, my collection was limited to what could be found in the trash cans of local businesses, meaning United States editions supplemented by an occasional issue from Canada.

In due time, I became a bona fide stamp collector, and the whole world became my cup of tea. Today I am living proof that kids who collect stamps learn something about geography and history. I knew about Bosnia and Herzegovina fifty-five years ago, long before those two words made headline news during the recent developments in what was once Yugoslavia.

Later I learned that I had become a philatelist. That meant that I had mastered such terms as perforated, coil, plate-number block, topical collector, etc.

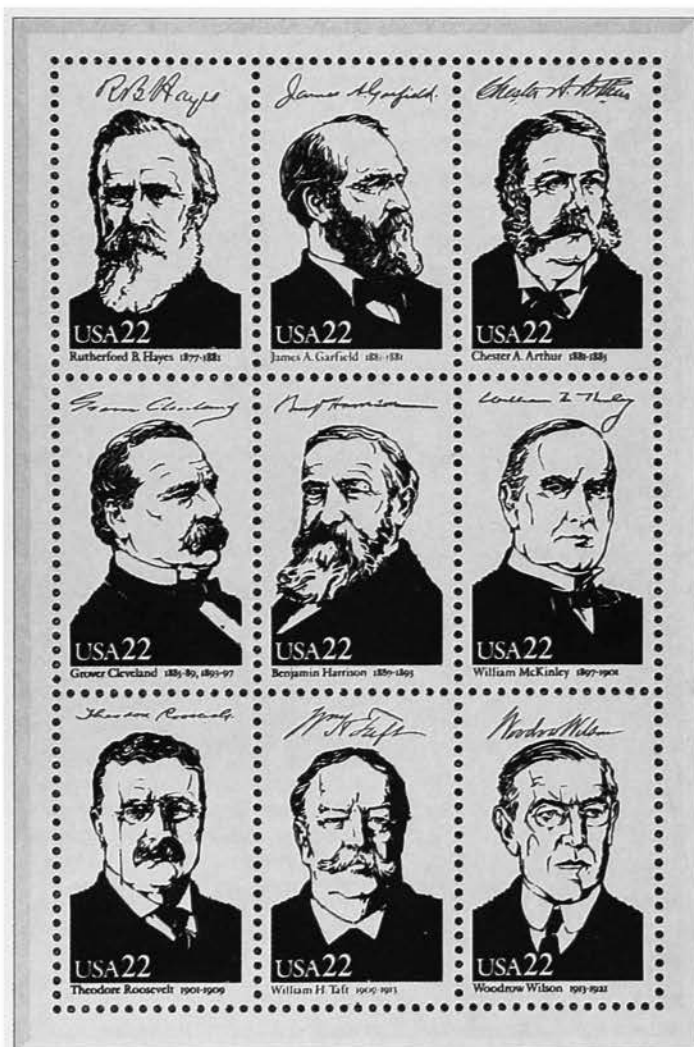

A topical collector is one who collects stamps on a given topic — it's just as simple as that. Shortly after joining the General Headquarters staff, I decided I wanted to be a collector of Phis on stamps. I am sure this particular topical society has a limited membership, and, of course, there are not many stamps to be collected. I don't profess to be an authority on this subject, but perhaps I can report on the stamps of the United States which have displayed the likeness of a member of Phi Delta Theta.

You've already guessed that the most frequently pictured Phi is President Benjamin Harrison, Miami 1852, who first appeared on the 13¢ stamp in the ordinary issue (as opposed to commemorative and other special issues) of 1902-3. To add historical and educational interest to the series, the name of the person whose portrait is presented appears on each stamp (not a common practice in earlier issues), and the years of birth and death as well. Of the sixteen stamps in the issue, only eight picture presidents. The Harrison stamp was issued on November 18, 1902.

During the next twenty years, there was a preponderance of stamps featuring George Washington and Benjamin Franklin. Then, in 1922-23 an ordinary issue of twenty-one stamps was unveiled with ten presidents included. Additional stamps of the same design were added in later years. A new 13¢ Harrison stamp was placed on sale January 11, 1926, primarily for use in prepaying postage on parcels.

In 1938, the U.S. Postal Service introduced a set of ordinary postage stamps, properly known as the Presidential Series, to replace the issue of 1922-23. Incorporated in the designs are likenesses of all presidents from Washington to Coolidge "arranged in accordance with their tenure of office." Thus the bust of Harrison appears on the 24¢ stamp, facing to the right with 1889-1893 printed below his name. This has always bothered me because everyone knows Brother Ben was the twenty-third president while Grover Cleveland both preceded and succeeded him in office. Cleveland appears on the 22¢ stamp. The 23¢ issue has been omitted — a mistake, in my opinion.

Presidential Series, 1938. Harrison ended up on the 24¢ stamp even though he was the 23rd president.

The stamp first carried mail on December 2.

Many commemorative stamps and sixteen years later, the little village of Oxford, Ohio, experienced its day in the sun, philatelically speaking. The occasion was the first day of issue for a new 12¢ Harrison stamp. (Typically, a site is selected for the "first day of issue" of a new stamp. The stamp is not available in any other post office until the following day.)

The red-letter day was June 6, 1959. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield presided over the activities of the day and spoke at Miami University's 150th Anniversary. The General Headquarters prepared a special first-day cover that was made available to members who placed advance orders. The post office representative who arrived early to plan the events was housed in the General Headquarters building as a guest of the Fraternity. A local newspaper story erroneously reported that Harrison "was a founder of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity."

Liberty Series, 1954-61.

Known as the Liberty Series, these stamps were printed to replace the Presidential Series. Only seven presidents were featured in this set of twenty-six stamps.

In honor of the 1986 International Philatelic Exposition in Chicago, the post office issued four miniature sheets depicting the portraits of nine presidents on each sheet. In the middle of the third sheet is our own Ben Harrison holding down the twenty-third slot where he belongs. The first day of issue was May 22. The sheets were designated Ameripex '86.

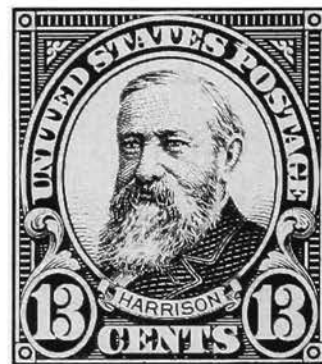

Finally, a word about the man. Benjamin Harrison, born August 20, 1833, at North Bend, near Cincinnati, Ohio, was the grandson of William Henry Harrison of Virginia - the ninth President of the United States. (The first President Harrison appears on only three stamps, two of them in conjunction with his grandson.) He graduated from Miami University, where he was initiated into Phi Delta Theta on November 15, 1850, by the Ohio Alpha chapter, which he later served as president.

He became a very capable lawyer and served with distinction in the Civil War, including such battles as Kennesaw Mountain, Peachtree Creek and Nashville. After service in the U.S. Senate, he was nominated by the Republican Party for the Presidency in 1888 and defeated Grover Cleveland. He lost his bid for a second term to the man he had defeated four years earlier.

He returned to Indianapolis, Indiana, where he became active in Phi Delta Theta activities and served as president of the local alumni club. He died on March 13, 1901.

A later article will bring word of other Phis who have been honored by the philatelic profession.

Ordinary issue, 1922-23.

From the Editor's Desk

It still happens. In the past two months the Fraternity staff and volunteers dealt with six different hazing incidents. The activities ranged from the shocking to the seemingly harmless, but in one important aspect they were similar: The chapter members believed the activities were necessary for a good pledge program and that they posed no danger to the Phikeias.

Like many Phis initiated during the '70s, Sparky Reardon believed the same thing, but years as a college administrator changed his mind. He discovered that hazing in all its forms serves only one purpose: to replace individuality with blind allegiance.

With his newly distorted sense of right and wrong, the member passes hazing on to the next generation with loyal fervor. Even some alumni who admit they hated being hazed, still believe it is necessary to build unity.

Before you make the assumption that hazing is harmless and important to the development of a good member, read this issue's article by Sparky Reardon.

C o n f r o n t i n g HAZING

Despite our best efforts to regulate the practice out of existence, hazing continues. How can we be rid of this tradition? By Sparky Reardon

A N E

It is difficult to pinpoint exactly when hazing became a part of the American fraternity tradition. Some say the practice came from European university students who, during the 18th century, brought the tradition with them to Harvard and William & Mary. Some blame students at the military schools at Annapolis and West Point who may have carried hazing to public schools. It is certain, however, that our Founders did not practice it. But whatever its origin, hazing has become one of the darkest traditions in Greek life. It is our most ugly and most visible blemish, and it is the flaw most pointed to by critics of the Greek community.

As an undergraduate, I experienced hazing firsthand, and throughout my years as a university administrator at the University of Mississippi, I have dealt with a number of hazing incidents in fraternities. But I'll never forget my first incident as an administrator.

I remember clearly to this day how desperate Rick, a freshman pledge, sounded when he called me one afternoon in the first week of February, 1986. In my profession you learn to read a student's tone and choice of words, and Rick sounded like he needed help. I told him to come by my office immediately.

I had known Rick since before he participated in rush. He was an eager freshman, and he had received bids from his choice of fraternities the previous fall. He was a good student and had applied for membership in the freshman academic honoraries. He was also a fine athlete who had thrown numerous touchdown passes and won the Pledge League championships in November.

"Can I shut the door?" he asked when he finally arrived.

I nodded and waved him to a chair. He looked exhausted and very troubled, and he avoided my inquisitive stare. When he finally raised his head and faced me, his eyes filled with tears.

"I want to drop my pledge," he said. "I don't want to be in a fraternity. I'm thinking about transferring schools."

I was shocked. Rick had been one of the most popular freshmen on our campus. But from his appearance, the time of the year, his tone of desperation, and knowing what I knew about his fraternity, I guessed.

"Rick, are you being hazed?"

He looked at me and nodded. I think he was surprised I apparently knew what was going on.

"It's been going on since the middle of the semester," he confessed. "And I didn't think anything of it at first. But this last week, it's gotten a lot worse."

Rick told me that the actives and some young alumni he didn't know had gathered the pledges late one night for pledge activities. He rattled off a list of things the pledges were forced to do. The list included eating dog and cat food, performing long sessions of calisthenics, being deprived of sleep, and being forcing to remain in cramped positions for long periods of time.

"I'm a better man than to have this happen to me," he said.

I asked if he would cooperate with the University by giving the administration details of the hazing practices of his chapter. He agreed.

Immediately, the University launched an investigation into the matter. Rick told us most of what we needed to know, but in order to prepare for a campus judicial hearing, it was necessary to have a full investigation.

My first hazing investigation lasted one full week. Two other members of my staff and a representative from the fraternity's headquarters conducted 57 hours of interviews. We questioned pledges, actives, and alumni.

After dozens of interviews, I was getting kind of sick and tired of hearing the lurid details of "bows and toes" (where pledges are forced to support themselves on their elbows and toes on the floor for long periods of time), of eating mixtures of pet food and sardines, of paddling, of hanging pledges over doors, of verbal abuse and endless other moronic acts of "inspiration."

I'll never forget interviewing Lee, one of the pledges of the chapter. Lee told the review board something we hadn't heard before. He described one common activity where the pledges performed pushups in puddles of urine provided by the active members.

"Sometimes," Lee told us, "they come by and push your face in it."

I was incredulous.

"Lee, how in the world could you let somebody do that to you?" I asked.

"Because that's what pledges are supposed to do," he replied, as if my question had been absent-minded. This unanticipated response made me so angry that my ears went hot, and I had to bite my tongue and grip the arms of my chair. Not only had this hazing dehumanized these young men, it had brainwashed them into believing the abuse was good for them. This was my first experience with how hazing perpetuates itself.

When the board interviewed the chapter officers, we heard the infamous litany of excuses that for so long has been used to justify hazing: "it builds unity," "it makes them men," "it's tradition," "it was done to me," ad nauseam. The men saying these things, men who were abusing and letting their future brothers be abused, were the best that this fraternity had to offer. They were the leaders. I wondered about these men who would one day be in business and raising children.

What do you replace hazing with?

Once a chapter decides that hazing should be removed from the pledge program, the most common quandary is "What do we do instead?" The pledge period is seen as a test or obstacle that the Phikeia must pass in order to earn initiation. If the "teeth" of the program are removed, how can the Phikeia prove himself worthy of membership?

Since the goal of any good pledge program is to create quality members, pledge activities should cultivate a Phikeia's self-confidence and teach him how to be a contributing member of the chapter.

With that in mind, a pledge program should contain assignments or events that foster leadership, scholarship skills, service, values, and teamwork. Community service projects are multipurpose, because they promote values, require teamwork, initiative, and organizational skills. Requiring the Phikeias to be a member of a chapter committee or another campus organization also teaches leadership and prepares the Phikeia for chapter leadership. A good set of scholarship requirements also provides a challenging, but necessary, hurdle for the Phikeias before initiation.

Other activities like sports, retreats, brotherhood events, speakers at the chapter, workshops on study skills, and other campus events can be fun, educational, and will bring the Phikeias together.

There is also a series of exercises published by William Pfeiffer and John Jones called Handbook of Structured Experiences for Human Relations Training. This series of booklets (available in any university library) provides detailed exercises which deal with a variety of issues, including teamwork, confrontational skills, and relationship building. Many of these exercises are perfect for developing interpersonal skills.

Other ideas for creating a challenging pledge program can be obtained through your campus Greek advisor or through General Headquarters. ■

"Didn't you know hazing is morally wrong?" I asked Chuck, the chapter president. I had known Chuck through the Interfraternity Council and from working with his chapter on several projects. He evaded the question.

"Nobody got hurt. We keep everything under control. The pledges didn't mind doing it. In fact, they wanted to," he explained with the bravado of someone who doesn't realize he is in serious trouble.

I knew it pointless to press him further. By not answering my question, he had answered it.

The alumni didn't understand what the uproar was about. When it became apparent the University would severely discipline the chapter, a group of them came to the University armed with the same empty justification that the actives had used. The alumni also reminded the administration of the support the fraternity had given the University over the years. But it fell on deaf ears. The problems with the press, irate parents, the faculty, and other student organizations, which had manifested because of this one incident, outweighed the years of alumni support. The members were obviously wrong, and they needed more than a slap on the wrist.

Despite the hollow arguments and threats from the chapter's alumni, the University disbanded the fraternity for a period of one year. The house was emptied. Members directly involved with the hazing activities were expelled from the chapter. There were no parties, no rush events, no activities at all.

I felt empty and betrayed at the end of the investigation. The kids we had punished had sat in my office and worked with me on many projects. They had assured me that they didn't haze. Maybe I had given these young men too much credit. I was frustrated by the alumni, and I sympathized with the freshmen who would miss out on a year of their fraternity experience. I felt sorry for Lee who had no greater expectations of pledging than to do pushups in puddles of urine. But I had great admiration for Rick who had the values, the courage, and the foresight to step forward and stop what he knew was wrong. He remains my close friend to this day.

I remember my experiences in my chapter when I was an undergraduate. I was hazed. Almost nightly at dinner at the fraternity house, my fellow Phikeias and I were forced to pour iced tea down the front of our pants. We were forced to perform the traditional olive races. And we were paddled.

Later, after I was initiated, I hazed. I made my friends do calisthenics with wads of tobacco in their mouths. I fought with a good friend one night, because I had made him eat off the floor.

My attitudes toward hazing changed when I saw my best friend being hazed by the worst active in the chapter. After that night, we stopped having a "hell night."

My negative feelings about hazing were reinforced when I began work in student affairs. Since working in this job, I have visited pledges in the hospital who have been hazed to the point that they suffered from "post traumatic stress syndrome," commonly seen in rape victims. A good friend of mine buried her son after he drank himself to death during a hazing activity. It amazes me how many lives are affected by this useless and harmful tradition.

Despite the fact that every fraternity and sorority has passed policies forbidding hazing, the practice continues. Greek regulation against hazing started in the early 1900s, and most states now have laws prohibiting hazing. Some speculate that a majority of our chapters hold some sort of hazing activity despite the rules and continued education against it.

In the past two months alone, there have been several disciplinary incidents involving hazing in chapters of Phi Delta Theta. These incidents range from harmless but idiotic to cruel and inhumane. In one recent incident, Phikeias were forced to drink alcohol, eat chili, mayonnaise, and dog biscuits, do pushups, line up and receive verbal and physical abuse from the actives, and subjected to sleep deprivation during a traditional "hell week."

"I have seen some pretty ridiculous things since I've worked for General Headquarters," said Abe Cross, the Fraternity's director of chapter services. "I think hazing continues despite our best efforts to curb it, because there is a lack of understanding of what hazing is."

Many young college men believe that hazing is a tradition. When they pledge they expect the stereotypes they have of fraternities to be true. Many active members are not creative or compassionate enough to prove this new generation of fraternity men wrong. Since they themselves were hazed, the actives feel that the new pledges deserve the same punishment. Many psychologists have told me that this cycle of hazing is similar to domestic abuse where the abused eventually become the abusers.

Amazingly, some chapters that haze really believe that their activities do not qualify as hazing. Some anger and accusations have been directed at General Headquarters from chapters that believe that the definition of hazing is too ambiguous.

"As a practical matter it is virtually impossible to list every activity that qualifies as hazing," says Cross. "You need to take a very philosophical approach and ask 'What is the purpose of this activity? How does it make a Phikeia a better brother?'"

Many chapters justify hazing by saying that there must be some hurdle, some challenge, some obstacle that pledges must overcome to "earn" initiation. Instead of creating educational obstacles that support and encourage the Phikeias, hazing chapters create barriers, confusing demands, and mental games that are designed to discourage Phikeias from succeeding.

"In their view it is a rite of passage," says Cross. "We need to get face to face with our members and talk about it. We need dialogue to come to any understanding of the problem and its solution."

To eliminate hazing a chapter must first come to a philosophical agreement regarding the purpose of the pledge program. Is the purpose to subjugate the pledges and make them servants to clean the house, run errands, and fear the actives? Or is the purpose to create an environment where the Phikeias learn about the Fraternity so that they become the next generation of chapter and campus leaders?

"Chapters have to realize that they are in the business of creating men who will later be the leaders of the chapter," says Cross. "You don't want an angry, humiliated member running your chapter. You should want someone who's capable, loyal, and confident."

Perhaps this is the most compelling argument against hazing in all its forms. Hazing doesn't make good pledges, it makes terrible members.

Rick and his family came to visit me not long ago. He is doing very well in his consulting company. Since the hazing incident, Rick and I have rarely spoken about his fraternity. The investigating team guaranteed Rick's anonymity, and he and I agreed not to discuss the incident after the investigation.

During his visit, we talked about his job and his two young sons. He told me that he had taken them by the chapter house.

"We visited the house, and I showed them my room," he said. "I told them how tough it was being president of the chapter. I can't wait for them to get to college and pledge. The chapter is so much better since my day."

I knew he felt proud that he had played a big part in making a positive change in the chapter. Seeing him reinforced my belief that we had done the right thing, and it made me feel better knowing he still believed in the value of the Greek system.

I wondered about Lee, though. Did he have children? Did he want them to join a fraternity when they went to college? Did he still have faith in the Greek system? I wondered if he retained any sense of loyalty to his fraternity or to the University after what had been done to him. Hazing can make terrible alumni too.

California Zeta celebrates 25 years

Alumni attend Silver Anniversary celebration

by Will Hardy

On October 10, 1992, alumni gathered at Sportsman's Lodge in Studio City to celebrate the 25th anniversary of California Zeta. Nearly 250 Phis and guests came to the celebration. The seven Brothers of Phi Sigma Tau, the local fraternity that petitioned Phi Delta Theta, and twelve of the first roasting several brothers as well as the preceding skit.

Jim Burra, '67, shared memories of his years in Phi Sigma Tau, which was founded in 1959—just one year after San Fernando Valley State College (the college later became Cal State Northridge). He related how seven members of Phi Sigma Tau attended the 1966 General Convention at Grand second-generation Phi, signing the Bond at Cal Nu.

After he presented the Silver Legionnaires, Brother Gilson spoke at length about the current state of the Fraternity and the challenges facing Phi Delta Theta.

Rob Nathanson then conducted a moving ceremony honoring the Brothers who had entered the Chapter Grand. Kjell

Master of ceremonies and Alumni Committee chairman, Mitch Lane, compared 1967 college life to the present. He then assumed his alter-ego, Juliette Childless, in a hilarious after-dinner skit in which (s)he profusely apologized for having ruined the dessert. Brother Scott Herriott, a stand-up comedian by trade, then did a short comedy routine

Bahama Island to receive the Cal Zeta charter on April 22, 1967. He emphasized that while a new generation of Cal Zeta Phis continues the tradition, all the Brothers share similar fraternity experiences.

General Council Reporter Stan Gilson, '70, introduced and awarded the Silver Legion to 28 alumni. Silver Legionnaire, Ron Bell, '67, announced that his son, Ken, had become Cal Zeta's first Seeger, chapter adviser, then introduced Rod Menzel, the chapter president, who gave a report on the state of the chapter. Mitch Lane listed the many awards Cal Zeta has received from the General Fraternity over the years.

Several national victims rights groups have praised the bill and Ramstad's leadership in sponsoring it.

Indiana University football legend Howard Brown honored at Indiana Alpha

by Ritter Collett

The Indiana University Hall of Fame display refers to Howard Brown, Indiana '47, as "Mr. Indiana." But somehow the memory of the Indiana University football legend and decorated World War II combat veteran faded from the Indiana Alpha chapter.

But that was corrected with an impressive ceremony at the chapter house on October 27, 1992, establishing the Howard Brown Memorial Trophy. The trophy will be awarded annually to an underclassman on the Phi Cycling Team competing in the famed Little 500, an annual collegiate bike race at IU.

A portrait of Brown sketched by Rita Bomba, the artist who draws the University's Hall of Fame portraits, was hung prominently in the chapter house during the ceremony.

Basketball coach Bob Knight agreed to speak at the ceremony, but a schedule change prevented his attendance. Instead, he wrote a touching letter which was attached to Brown's portrait.

Bill Armstrong, the longtime director of the IU Foundation, and a man who knew Brown, recalled the Big Lineman's dedication to the University.

"We never went to a football game that Howard didn't say 'this will be a great day for Indiana,' and he meant it," Armstrong said.

Kit Klingelhofer, IU sports information director, recalled "stopping by every day to say hello to Howard and get a dose of his infectious good nature."

Robert A. Biggs, Georgia Southern '76, executive vice president, attended the event from General Headquarters in Oxford, Ohio. Biggs mentioned an amazing coincidence, "This is one day short of being the 50th anniversary of Brother Brown's initiation, October 28, 1942."

Brown's wife, Dixie, and son, Ted, attended the ceremony. Douglas M. Wilson, Miami (OH) '67, the University's vice president for university relations, and

Howard Brown.

Jim Kneisley, chairman of the chapter's house corporation, were also present. Ron Johnson, another rider in the early 1980s came up from Tampa for the ceremony.

Brown came to IU from Dayton, Ohio, in the fall of 1942 and played on the varsity football team his freshman year.

He signed up with the U.S. Army later that school year when the U.S. entered World War II. He served in France and Belgium, earning three purple hearts.

On his return to campus in 1945, he was the "most valuable player" of Indiana's only unbeaten football team. That year Indiana won the Big Ten title with a 9-0-1 record under Coach Bo McMillin.

Brown captained the 1946 and 1947 Indiana teams and then followed Coach McMillin to Detroit where he played three years for the Lions.

Brown returned to Indiana in 1952 as a freshman coach. He served under five different head coaches until his fatal heart attack in 1975.

To preserve Brown's memory and reinvigorate the lagging Phi cycling team, Ritter Collett, Ohio '42, the longtime sports editor of the Dayton Daily News and a friend of Brown, wanted to establish this trophy and scholarship award to encourage undergraduate interest in Indiana Alpha's cycling program.

After Phi Delta Theta suffered a dismal finish in the 1992 Little 500, several former riders were anxious to do something to restore pride and support for the program.

Past cycling team members Peter Tatersfield, Jim Gurbach, Jim Host, Greg Smith, and David Pritchett, who now coaches the team, organized the project and raised funds for a $250 annual grant to be awarded to the trophy-winner. A plaque listing all of the winners will be displayed in the chapter house.

Smith, one of the heroes of the 1982 Little 500 victory, said, "These kids need the kind of support we had in our day." ■

GHQ plans first alumni conference

The very first Alumni Academy has been set for May 21-23, 1993, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. The weekend event was planned as an educational and networking program for the officers of Phi Delta Theta's alumni clubs.

The three-day event will include a golf outing, a tour of General Headquarters and of the historic Miami campus, a banquet, and educational sessions on a variety of topics of interest to alumni clubs. The sessions include alumni/undergraduate relations, publications & communications, club development & maintenance, and alumni programming. Delegates will have opportunities to share ideas and experiences about a variety of issues.

The faculty includes George Lankow, Florida '60, Dr. Bill Dean, Texas Tech '60; Fred Green, Toronto '30; Doug Wilson, Miami (OH) '64; Jim Holmes, Ohio Wesleyan-Arizona '51; Bob Deloian, Arizona State '66; Glen Cary, Texas Tech '56, and Dr. Richard Wright, Akron '35. The Academy is an excellent opportunity for alumni club officers to meet, discuss common difficulties, share insights, and learn more about developing and running a successful alumni club.

Greg Soska, the director of alumni services at General Headquarters, is encouraged by the Academy's program.

"Every member learns early on that Phi Delta Theta is a Fraternity for life. We are trying to cultivate that feeling in our alumni, and the Academy demonstrates our commitment to an alumnus' development," Soska said.

Clubs are encouraged to send as many delegates as they wish. The General Fraternity will absorb the costs of room, board, and registration for one delegate from each recognized club. Registration and travel information has already been sent to all alumni clubs. Delegates should return their completed registration forms to General Headquarters by March 31. Prepare for an exciting and rewarding experience! ■

Ft. Lauderdale

On November 21, 1992, the Phi Delta Theta Alumni Club of the Fort Lauderdale, Florida Area, Inc. had their annual Fall party at the beautiful waterfront home of Mike Metcalf, Arkansas '68, and his wife, Diana.

More than 100 Phis, their wives, and guests were treated to entertainment and a full course of dining, including hors d'oeuvres, beef, baked ham, stir fry chicken with vegetables, pasta, and pastries.

On December 22, 1992, the club made Christmas a little more enjoyable for kids at the Florida Ocean Sciences Institute (FOSI), the club's community service project.

The club provided food and gifts for the more than 40 kids at the annual FOSI Christmas Party. Each of them received a personalized gift from Santa (played by Harry Schaefer, Purdue '64).

According to Jack McQuestion, executive director of FOSI, this was the first time many of the kids in the FOSI program have ever received a Christmas gift.

The club adopted FOSI as its community service project in 1987. FOSI is a not-for-profit program that uses a marine-oriented approach to rehabilitate teenage offenders between the ages of 15 to 18. The Fort Lauderdale Alumni Club has helped raise over $350,000 since 1987.

Montgomery

The recently organized Montgomery (Ala.) Alumni Club met on October 22, 1992, and more than 50 Phis, wives, and guests enjoyed an evening

President Doug Yaeger, Pittsburgh '76, presided, and Howard Womsley, Dickinson '57, performed the invocation. A moment of silence was dedicated to Bob Heister, Upsilon province president, gave a report of the chapters in his province.

Brother Ralph Gilbert closed the luncheon with the songs of Phi Delta Theta.

The Annual Golf Outing will be held on Wednesday, June 9, 1993, at the Champion Lakes Gold Club in Bolivar, Pennsylvania. Contact Bill Wrenshall at 412.644.5503 for more information.

Last year's outing had 48 golfers in attendance: 19 Phi Deltas and 29 guests. Our oldest golfer was Howard G. Womsley, 87, father of J. Howard Womsley, Dickinson '57. Our long distance golfers were Jim Stopford, and Chuck McDonald.

Rick Ban, Ohio '72, had low gross of 78 for the Phi Deltas, and John Means had low gross of 80 for the guests. Chuck McDonald had low net of 70 for Phis, and Bob Maloney had low net of 69 for guests.

Roger Tessaro, guest of Doug Yaeger, Pitt '76, had the longest drive, and Dave Treusch, guest of Doug Yaeger, had closest to the pin on #3. Mike Ricketts, son-in-law of Bill Wrenshall, Washington & Jefferson '41, had closest to the pin on #7. Richard Orr, guest of Bob Mather, Kent State '65, had closest to the pin on #11. Jim Stopford, our Ohio traveler, had closest to the pin on #14.

John Harris, son of George Harris, Pitt '52, had longest putt on #9 and

Palm Beach

The Palm Beach Area Alumni Club of Phi Delta Theta was founded in 1953. The club presently has 51 active members who live in Martin, Palm Beach, and surrounding counties. These brothers were initiated between 1923 and 1989 and attended 30 different colleges in 15 states.

The club's annual Holiday Party was held on Friday, December 11, 1992, at the Bonnette Hunting Legions, and the club will install its new officers. The club is currently conducting a membership drive. Discount tickets to the Founders Day Dinner will be given to dues-paying members. Anyone interested in attending can contact Barry Balmuth at 407.659.7500.

Pittsburgh

The Pittsburgh Alumni Club held its traditional Christmas Luncheon at the Gateway Center Club in

Jerry was overwhelmed when chapter members visited him and his wife, Nancy, at the Ohio University Inn during last October's Homecoming. Jerry will remember that occasion for many years to come!

The club has given contributions to the Phi Delta Theta Foundation in memory of Brother Dick Davis, Union '35, and Dick Raymond, Florida '35, who recently entered the Chapter Grand. Since the members of the club are from different chapters across the United States, the members believe gifts to the Foundation rather than individual chapters will better serve the future of the entire Fraternity.

Toronto

The Alumni Club of Toronto will be sponsoring an alumni event at a Toronto Blue Jays baseball game. The Blue Jays will be playing the Detroit Tigers on Thursday evening, May 13. Interested alumni should call Ray Westcott at 416.488.2792 or Barry Godden at 440.4208.

Tucson

Three new inductees were welcomed into the Jack B. Dowd Arizona Alpha Hall of Fame this fall during Homecoming Weekend. They are: Joseph S. Robbins '49, Kurt E. Storch '50, and John O. Franklin '59. These men were selected for their distinguished professional and civic achievements, as well as their dedication to the University of Arizona and Phi Delta Theta. A two-sport letterman at the University of Arizona, Brother Storch had been looking forward to this special day since his stroke and surgery this past year. We are all encouraged to see his great progress.

The fantastic Homecoming Weekend also saw the University of Arizona Wildcats upset the University of Washington Huskies! The Tucson Alumni Club, along with the Arizona Alpha Chapter and house corporation, set up a double-sized tent on the University of Arizona Mall that became a hub of

The catered barbecue chicken even attracted the Phi Delts from Seattle!

This honor is dedicated to the memory of J. B. O'Dowd, who passed into the Chapter Grand in 1983. He left a legacy of distinction, including earning the University of Arizona Alumni Service Award and the Outstanding Phi Delta Theta Alumni Award.

The 1993 Hall of Fame Luncheon is scheduled for Sunday, November 7 at the Smuggler's Inn. Nomination forms for this year's inductees are included in the spring issue of the Phi Wrangler, the alumni newsletter. For more information, please contact Tom Beaham at 602/795-9730 or club president, Jay Anderson at 602.290.9700.

The 1993 Founders Day Luncheon in Tucson was coordinated with the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club, which allowed both clubs' members to meet Dr. Robert B. Deloian, Arizona State '66. General Council member-at-large. He talked about the General Fraternity and his Arizona heritage. Robert W. King was master of ceremonies.

Omega province president, George S. Grady and Alpha West province president, J. Fred Green recommended an alumni recognition program for Phis celebrating 55, 60, 65, 70, and 75 years of their initiation. After attending the 1992 Tucson Founders Day and seeing four alumni recognized for seventy or more years of being a Phi, they recommended a formal program to the General Council.

Recognizing these "elder statesmen" was the idea of club vice president, Jerry "Flame" Felmley, Illinois '54. With the help of Green Valley Alumni Club president, Jerry Stahmer, Colorado '42, we honored these four brothers, and Brother Felmley gave each one a framed and matted photograph of the ceremony.

Members of the alumni club continue to work closely with the chapter at University of Arizona by participating in the Alumni Advisory Committee, chaired by chapter adviser, Steven V. Ledbetter, Arizona '76. Sanford England and Rob LaMaster will be assisting the rush chairman with workshops this semester to identify and develop better recruitment techniques.

Valley of the Sun

The club has started a newsletter with information about the club and its members called The Chapter Room.

Several new members have joined, including Richard Hollenbeck, Bill Blair, A. D. Jacobson, Dudley Greer, Scott Cain, Gil Greulich, Mike Perry, Bob Bosserman, and Bill Beal.

The club awarded $100 to Rob Kroha, an undergraduate at the Arizona Beta chapter, for the most improved GPA. Chris Paolucci also received $100 for earning a 4.0 GPA, the best in the chapter. The club hopes to offer an award to a Phikeia next semester.

The club's annual Founders Day will be held March 5 at Monti's La Casa

Vieja. Silver, Golden, and Diamond Legionnaires will be inducted.

Valparaiso

This new club is establishing itself to serve the alumni in the Valparaiso area as well as the Indiana Iota chapter. Alumni and undergraduates met for the first time January 27. The club is looking for all brothers interested in joining or helping the undergraduate chapter. Alumni should contact the Indiana Iota alumni secretary, John Fjellman, at 219.464.0190.

Wichita

The final event of 1992 for the Wichita Alumni Club was held in September at the construction site of the new chapter house for Kansas Delta. Those in attendance got a chance to see the construction at its current stage. We want to thank Buck Alley, our general contractor, and Clark Jackson, project chairman, for providing tours of the new facility.

The club's Board of Directors is planning the calendar of events for 1993. Our annual Founders Day celebration is traditionally the first event of each year. The club will hold this event March 30 in the new Kansas Delta chapter house. It will be a great opportunity for the Wichita-area alumni to see the completed project.

At Founders Day, we will present our fourth annual "Phi of the Year," award and our second annual "Outstanding Phikeia Scholarship" to a pledge from one of the Kansas chapters. The club will also honor several Silver, Gold, and Diamond Legionnaires.

Our 1993 events are still in the planning stage. Our annual golf tournament will be held in June with the date and location to be decided. In the fall, we will have at least two events including our annual social mixer, which is free to dues-paying members.

The Kansas Delta chapter has asked for our alumni club to support their growing philanthropy event for ALS called the "Dullea Classic." We have been asked to co-sponsor this event along with other community businesses and organizations. This year the chapter wants to organize a golf tournament to raise additional funds for ALS. We will assist them by promoting this tournament through our membership. Look for more information in the mail later this spring.

We welcome Kevin Dreiling, former chapter consultant, back to Wichita. Kevin has been away for two years, and we hope to call on him to assist our alumni club and local chapter.

Any Wichita-area Phis who are not receiving our newsletter should contact Lonnie Glen at 316.524.6786. We know there are many recent graduates moving into Wichita who are not on our mailing list. The club will give you a chance to meet community leaders, and it will keep you involved in Phi Delta Theta. Last year we had 115 members and our goal this year is to attain 130.

Miller receives NIC Gold Medal

NIC president, Robert Marchman, presents the Gold Medal to Bob Miller.

Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50, the president of the Phi Delta Theta Foundation, was awarded the National Interfraternity Conference Gold Medal December 5, 1992, at the annual meeting of NIC in Washington, D.C. The Gold Medal is the highest honor given by the NIC, and it recognizes lifelong achievement in the service of men's college fraternities. Three Phis have been past recipients of the Gold Medal. William R. Bayes, Ohio Wesleyan '01, received it in 1951, George S. Ward, Illinois '10, received the medal in 1961, and John D. Millett, DePauw '33, earned the honor in 1976.

The prestigious award is given on the basis of distinguished service to fraternity youth, lifelong service to the fraternity movement, efforts to raise fraternity standards, time and energy spent in the promotion of education, and representing the goal of all fraternities to promote service and education.

Brother Miller was hired by Paul C. Beam as a traveling secretary in 1951. He served Phi Delta Theta as its executive vice president from 1955 until 1991 when he retired. He has served the Foundation as its president for the past nine years.

He has been recognized as a leader in interfraternal, professional, and civic activities. He served as the president of the Fraternity Executives Association, president of the Edgewater Conference, and has been recognized by Blue Key, Phi Delta Kappa, Order of Omega, Omicron Delta Kappa, and Theta Chi and Tau Kappa Epsilon general fraternities.

He is a member of Rotary, which he served as district governor in 1978-79. He recently led a Rotary International expedition to South Africa.

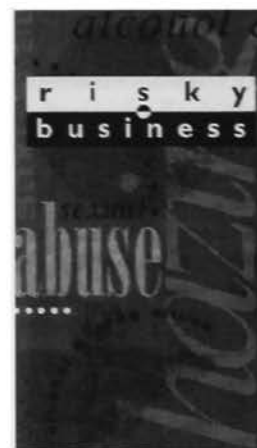

Brother Miller received the Legion of Honor, Phi Delta Theta's highest award, at the 1984 General Convention in New Orleans.

On receiving the Gold Medal, Brother Miller said, "Being awarded the NIC Gold Medal is a clear indication that old age is rapidly approaching—but I'm pleased to receive it, just the same." ■

Fraternity produces educational video on risk management

Phi Delta Theta became part of a consortium of fraternities and sororities (including ΣΧ, ΔΧ, ΖΤΑ, ΔΓ, ΚΚΓ, ΑΟΠ, ΣΦΕ, ΑΞΔ, ΑΦ) to produce a risk management video called Risky Business. The 12-minute video discusses the risk management problems facing Greeks, including hazing, sexual assault, and alcohol consumption, and addresses the need for personal responsibility.

The video comes with a facilitator's guide. The Fraternity's province presidents and chapter consultants will use the

General Officers Conference successful

Officers meet to discuss undergraduate issues

More than 80 province presidents, commissioners, Council members, trustees, and General Headquarters staff attended the 1993 General Officers Conference in Panama City, Florida. The weekend event was held February 19 – 21.

The annual conference is sponsored, in part, by the Educational Foundation. It provides education and training for the volunteer officers regarding undergraduate issues.

On Friday, Jim Hoppe, scholarship commissioner, offered a seminar on scholarship programming, Rusty Richardson, director of business affairs, presented the new Crisis Management Program.

On Saturday, several educational sessions offered information on campus issues. National Interfraternity Conference representative, Jeff Cufaude, gave a presentation on membership recruitment strategies in the '90s. Jim Favor of James R. Favor, Inc., the Fraternity's insurance broker, presented a seminar on risk management and the Fraternity's liability insurance program.

Scott Mietchen, Tau South province president, facilitated a discussion with the general officers about working with chapters that are deling with a crisis.

Leadership College Ambassadors Kevin Dull, Eastern Washington, Colin Reilly, Rutgers, Tim Norris, Vermont, and Chris Kuffner, GMI-EMI, attended the conference as well. On Saturday afternoon they addressed undergraduate issues and fielded questions during a panel discussion.

The chapter consultants addressed the general officers regarding their experiences with the problems and successes of the chapters they have visited. Rush, hazing, and financial management headed the list of concerns the consultants observed in chapters over the past year. The consultants also noticed a decline in risk management violations regarding alcohol.

The banquet on Saturday evening was highlighted by recognition of George Atwell's entry into the Phi Delta Theta Foundation's Founders Club giving level.

"To know that a Phi Delt undergraduate will benefit with a scholarship, or that someone can attend Leadership College because of this gift is reward enough," he said.

The evening closed by honoring J. Fred Green, Toronto '30, Alpha North province president, as the Fraternity's first Padian. Conceptualized by Brother Green, the award honors Brothers celebrating five-year anniversaries past the Golden Legion. Green celebrates the 65th anniversary of his initiation. ■

New Phikeia Manual available

The new Manual of Phi Delta Theta is now available to chapters. The new hardback, 150-page 31st edition was unveiled at the General Officers Conference.

Material was added to the newest edition including a chapter on risk management and a new chapter on scholarship. The Code of Phi Delta Theta was also added as an appendix to the Manual.

The principle members involved with this project were: Scott Mietchen, Tau South province president, Dr. Ed Whipple, General Council president; Martin Taylor, assistant director of chapter services, Jim Hoppe, scholarship commissioner, and David Slatton, director of communications and editor of The Scroll.

The Manual is revised every two years after the Biennial Convention. The next revision will be in 1994.

The staff is now starting to develop a model Phikeia Education Program as the second phase of the membership education project. ■

Ontario Epsilon founded at Carleton Phi Delta Theta adds one more Canadian chapter

The Ontario Epsilon chapter at Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario, was installed November 21, 1992, making it the eleventh chapter of Phi Delta Theta in Canada! The 36 brothers were proud to add their numbers to the Fraternity with the most chapters in Canada.

Carleton University celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1992. Formed in 1942, Carleton offered World War II veterans the chance for an education. Its main purpose was to offer programs in journalism and public affairs to students who would likely pursue careers in the nation's capital of Ottawa.

The campus occupies 62 hectares nestled between the historic Rediau Canal and the Rideau River. Nearly thirty buildings grace the site, and each is easily accessible by Carleton's five kilometers of underground tunnels. Undergraduate programs range from disciplines in the arts, social sciences, engineering, and natural sciences. Total enrollment for the 1992-93 academic year is 21,891 students with 1,663 students living in campus housing.

Carleton benefits from its location in Canada's capital. It is close to the National Art Gallery and several other museums, and in the winter, the university is right next door to the world's longest skating rink. Carleton also uses the Federal archives, receives research grants, and obtains joint research projects with the government.

Ottawa cultivates high technology. The Ottawa Valley is sometimes called Telecom Valley or Silicon Valley North. Research projects and technical opportunities with companies in Ottawa attract students interested in engineering and computer science.

Establishing a chapter was the brainchild of three men: Eric Perron, Craig Meier, and Donald Fraser Jr., a Phi from Toronto who wanted to start an interest group in Ottawa. Fraser contacted Alpha West Province President Fred Green and Alpha East Province President Rob McInnes. With the support of these men and General Headquarters, Perron, Meier, and Fraser recruited enough men to be inducted as the Ontario Epsilon colony on March 10, 1991.

The group held several successful fundraisers, charity events, and social functions. The colony became popular and respected by campus community.

The colony's progress wavered during a difficult rush period. An emerging Greek system struggled to promote itself and faced much adversity in rush. By the end of summer 1991, the colony had been reduced to eight members.

The colony rebounded with an excellent August, 1991 retreat, hosted by the colony adviser, Don Fraser, and Doug North, Ontario Delta chapter adviser. The colony coordinated two rush programs with the help of Brother Scott MacDonald that were the most successful of all the fraternities in Ottawa. The colony's bike-a-thon to benefit ALS research was also very successful.

Initiation activities began on November 20, 1992, at 7:00 P.M., in the Gloucester Community Centre. The initiation team was Tony Ambrose, treasurer of the General Council; W. R. (Rusty) Richardson, director of business affairs; Rob McInnes; Don Halpeny, Texas Omicron chapter adviser; Eric Castledine; Rick Leblanc, and Don Fraser. The initiation ceremony was attended by over 40 brothers and alumni from several Canadian chapters.

Following their return to the house on 33 Stevenson wearing their new badges, the members heard stories from the large contingent of Vermont Alpha Phis who had been delayed by Canadian and U.S. customs officials. They had been subjected to a bizarre search and interrogation over the ritual equipment that they brought for the initiation ceremony. The brothers fortunately managed to convince the officials that they were not a cult without revealing the nature of the equipment!

On Saturday, the installation ceremony was held at the Chateau Laurier Hotel in downtown Ottawa, one of the most magnificent old hotels in Canada. Tony Ambrose, Rusty Richardson, Rob McInnes, Don Fraser, Don Halpenny, Sanjay Sodha, John Carson, Jeff Specht, and Rick Leblanc performed the ceremony. Tony Ambrose presented the charter to President Tony Robillard and past president, Eric Perron.

The reception and banquet at the Chateau Laurier were lavish. The Canadian and U.S. national anthems were sung at the beginning of the banquet, the visiting U.S. brothers singing Oh, Canada with as much vigor as their Canadian brothers.

The banquet ended with a slide show and the singing of Phi Delt songs.

Dinner was followed by a dance co-hosted by AOII at the Congress Centre. The sorority had been installed that same day.

The chapter thanks the brothers who helped purchase the new ritual equipment. Thanks also to Fred Green, the General Headquarters staff, the installation committee, and Don Fraser. ■

Illinois Alpha reinstated at Northwestern

A new chapter continues a rich tradition

It began on a drive through Indiana. Mike Kuzniewicz, Duncan Rolph, and Scott Goldstein were returning to Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, after visiting friends at Miami University's 1991 Homecoming weekend. They discussed the coming winter rush and the commitment and stress of pledgship, when one of them joked that Duncan Rolph should start his own fraternity in order to avoid pledging. That joke sparked a serious conversation.

Scott Goldstein, who worked for Northwestern Greek advisor and Phi Delta Theta scholarship commissioner, Jim Hoppe, McMaster '87, told the men about Phi Delta Theta's interest in reestablishing its chapter at Northwestern. The chapter had been suspended for disciplinary problems in 1990.

The discussion that began in Mike Kuzniewicz's car led to the reinstatement of Illinois Alpha more than a year later. But it came at the end of a year of hard work and hope and countless moments of self-doubt.

When the three men returned to Northwestern, Scott arranged for Duncan to meet with Jim Hoppe, and the two discussed the possibility of reestablishing the chapter. The requirements for chapter status and reclaiming the chapter house, which was renovated by the university and slated for student housing, seemed daunting. But Duncan, Scott, and Mike formed an interest group, enlisted other men from their residence hall, and joined forces with a previous interest group which had made an ill-fated attempt to recolonize the year before.

The expanded group

With help from General Headquarters, local alumni, and the university administration, the colony eventually achieved that goal as well.

The members moved into their beautiful house this past autumn. After making improvements to it, the colony established rules for its maintenance. Guided by chapter adviser, Chad Lilly, Matthew Potter, Duncan Rolph, Bill Rosanna, Sajjad Roshanali, Kimo Sanderson, Dave Scalzo, Dan Schwarzlose, Rob Slater, Greg Stelzer, Vitaly Vishnitsky, and Nadim Zayed.

At the reinstallation luncheon on November 14, Anthony Ambrose, Kentucky '67, General Council treasurer, presented the charter to President Duncan Rolph. Duncan was then honored with the first William E. Racine Leadership Award, and Greg Stelzer earned the first James C. Hoppe Scholarship Award. Northwestern dignitaries attended the luncheon, including the vice president for student affairs, the university provost, the director of housing, the assistant dean of students, and the women's fraternity advisor. Alumni, panhellenic officers, Illinois Beta chapter members, and friends and family were guests as well.

The first fraternity in the state of Illinois, Illinois Alpha has rich history at Northwestern, a university with a strong Greek tradition. The new chapter can only hope to equal the achievements of its past. But thanks to the support and guidance of the alumni, the university administration, and the General Headquarters staff, the members have a head start on making Illinois Alpha better than it has ever been. ■ held a series of pre-rush meetings at various locations around campus, where they met former chapter adviser, Jim Siegel, Miami '88, province president, Brad Belcaster, Tampa '85, and alumnus Bill Racine, Northwestern '66, all dedicated to helping the group achieve its goal. The group organized a very successful winter rush, pledging enough men to be installed as a colony on January 25, 1992.

Reclaiming the house from the University was the group's next objective.

Drew Satherlie, the colony began to rival the chapters on campus.

The Illinois Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Theta was finally reinstated at Northwestern University on November 13, 1992. Initiated were: Kevin Adrian, Rohit Agrawal, Dick Bell, Tim Bhattacharyya, Venugopal Botla, Sean Craig, Michael Fackler, Scott Goldstein, Greg Golla, Jeremy Graf, Kevin Henretta, Bryson Hull, Hugh Jedwill, Brian Kavanaugh, Michael Kuzniewicz, Eric Laro,

The Graduate Educational Adviser: providing scholarship programming in the chapter

By Steve Scott

From the time we are Phikeias we learn that Phi Delta Theta is a fraternity for life. Like most young graduates, you probably aren't really sure how that concept works after college. For me, the Fraternity became an immediate advantage when I headed to UCLA School of Dentistry. Belonging to one of the largest international fraternities meant that, in all probability, there would be a chapter at my new school. It also meant that, unlike many of my grad school peers, I had a head start on making friends on a new campus.

Later, I learned about the Graduate Educational Adviser Program. It piqued my interest because it offered a unique opportunity to become involved with the Fraternity as a graduate student. After all, I'm not a 20-year-old sophomore anymore. However, after four years of rush events, chapter meetings, social functions, and committee meetings, I knew a thing or two about being Greek. Most importantly, I had learned that it is entirely possible to balance a successful academic career and the demands of fraternity life.

The GEA lives in the chapter house but should not be mistaken for some modern-day housemother. If that had been the case, I wouldn't have been interested. It's not in my nature to be a policeman or the parent of forty collegians. And if I were an undergraduate, I certainly couldn't live with a guy like that seven days a week. Instead, my job is to serve as a live-in adviser. I'm the not-so-old guy who is always available to lend the occasional word of advice and provide academic assistance.

The official job description states that the GEA serves as a counselor and adviser of the chapter. He focuses on creating and organizing chapter educational programs and scholarship programs. I develop and implement programs on everything from leadership skills to alcohol awareness. I advise the scholarship chairman, go to chapter meetings, conduct workshops, and counsel individuals on their college careers and their future careers after college.

Simply put, I am the person who has already had to deal with many of the academic and college-life challenges that some undergraduate Brothers may be facing for the first time; and I am living proof that those challenges can be met successfully. I'm also conveniently located in the chapter house every day of the week.

The GEA program offers a number of very real benefits to the graduate student. In exchange for serving the chapter (officially 12 - 15 hours a week), I receive room and board from the chapter's house corporation and a $1,000 scholarship from the Phi Delta Theta Foundation to assist me in my graduate education.

Right now you're probably asking yourself, "Gosh, how can I become a GEA?" Very simple, my friend. The first thing you want to do is contact the director of chapter services at General Headquarters (513.523.6345). He will send you additional information and the official application. You should also contact the house corporation and the chapter at the university you will be attending. Together, these three groups will determine whether you meet the qualifications or not. Once that is settled, General Headquarters will send you a written training program to get you started.

If an undergraduate chapter is looking for someone to live in the house to provide scholarship programming, career counseling, and other guidance, a GEA is a great way to fill that need. Chapters interested in such a resource should call General Headquarters at the same number or talk to their province president.

There are many ways to stay involved with Phi Delta Theta after college. You may want to join an alumni club, or become a chapter adviser, a volunteer officer, or even just be a supportive alumnus. However, if you are pursuing your education in a graduate program, you should definitely look at the Graduate Education Adviser Program. Like me, you may find it to be an exceptional way to stay involved with the Fraternity and help support your continuing education. ■

Coughlin wins drag racing championship

By Rob Pasquinucci

When Ohio Mu Phi Delt, Jeg Coughlin, returned to Ashland University after a customary weekend of drag racing this past fall, he was wearing more than his customary grin. Coughlin had just been crowned World Super Gas champion after the quarterfinal race in California, winning with the fourth highest point total in the history of the circuit.

Jeg is the youngest member of a well-known racing family. His father, Jeg Sr., raced professionally for three decades and now owns Jeg's Automotive in Columbus. The company sells racing products out of its three stores and through mail order catalogs. Coughlin's three older brothers also drag race.

Coughlin's race class is one that requires competitors to reach the finish line in as close to 9.90 seconds as possible. To be successful requires a lot of preparation and very quick reflexes.

In the cockpit of his canary yellow 1927 Ford Roadster, at the starting line, Coughlin releases a button on his steering wheel when the yellow light appears on the traditional drag racing Christmas tree. A computer in Coughlin's dragster applies reverse and forward gears, creating torque but no forward motion. The computer releases the car forward at a preset time which corresponds to the green light on the tree. All Coughlin needs to do from that point forward is hold on and drive safely to the finish line.

What contributes to his success? Coughlin attributes his team's success to a combination of driver, car, and luck.

"In our case, it's 60 percent driver, 20 percent car, and 20 percent luck," Coughlin said.

For Coughlin, traveling is one of the most interesting aspects of the sport. The family travels to races in two motorhomes, each member taking turns driving to the various meets around the United States.

Coughlin plans on continuing his work at the family business after he graduates from Ashland this May. Even though racing is thrilling and fun, Coughlin also says it is a lot of work.

"Working and racing are one in the same, when I hang up my helmet on Sunday night, I put my driving gloves on for Monday," Coughlin said.

Coughlin continues to race, and he hopes to be first to repeat a world championship this year. If he does, the Brothers at Ohio Mu can expect to see an even bigger smile on his face. ■

Breaking through racial barriers is never easy for an African-American going through rush, but for one Phi it proved more difficult than he imagined By Shelton M. Shepard

Diversity is a new buzzword in the Greek community these days. The fact that minorities are an ever-growing segment of the student population has led to a natural debate about ethnic sensitivity and multiculturalism.

Whether they believe in diversity as an issue of survival or of morality, most Greeks think that all they must do to pledge minorities is offer them a bid. But pledging a traditionally white fraternity is a complicated issue for minorities, especially African-Americans, as I discovered when I went through rush at North Carolina State, a university with a strong Southern tradition.

As a young black man from Selma, a small, rural town in North Carolina, I was beginning what some people say are the best years of a person's life. Like most freshmen, the fear of being considered a small fish in a big pond caused some anxiety for me, but fortunately, I made friends fairly quickly.

Because I was African-American, I gave little consideration to joining one of the many predominantly white fraternities on campus. I had always thought of myself as a student leader, and I wanted to be involved in campus organizations. When the time came, I thought I would seek membership into one of the black fraternities on campus.

During those first days on campus I heard many stories about parties, hazing rituals, and other events at the fraternities. The image did not appeal to me, but, occasionally, I was invited to attend parties at these fraternities. I refused the invitations, because the white fraternities, because many of the members were friends I had met through my residence hall and contacts through student organizations. My friends encouraged me to think about joining, and I began to reconsider. At the very least, I groups were predominantly white. The thought of being the only minority in a fraternity made me uncomfortable. Since the black fraternities only recruited sophomores and upperclassmen, I deferred from participating in any rush events.

At the beginning of my sophomore year, I eventually reconsidered and began going to events at the thought, I should go through rush and see for myself what these groups are about.

At the same time I participated in several interest meetings of the African-American fraternities on campus. The process was very different from fraternity rush. Rushees had to prove themselves worthy of membership through a personal interview process. The interviews were conducted secretly or underground. I was instructed by the members to tell no one about my involvement in this process.

Many times during the interviews, I felt as if I had to prove my "blackness." Any sensitivity I showed towards non African-Americans was not received favorably. During one interview, I said that I would not discontinue my relationships with my non-black friends and by no means would I start selecting my friends based on race. This one statement, I was told later, ruined my chances to be a member of the black fraternity.

Rushing the other fraternities proved just as trying to my racial sensibilities. On one occasion, members of a particular fraternity admitted that a few of their brothers were racist, but approved extending me a bid because I was different from their view of the typical African-American. I did not fit the stereotype that these members had of blacks. They were surprised that I wasn't some militant black man who wanted to start a revolution. They saw me as one of those "agreeable blacks," a real version of Theo Huxtable or Carlton Banks, someone who wouldn't challenge their racial ideas and values and would readily embrace a "white" philosophy. I turned down their invitation to join. I could not find it within myself to pledge a fraternity that was so narrow-minded. Where the black fraternity insisted on my devotion to all things black at the exclusion of all others, the white fraternities hoped I would reject my racial heritage for an acceptance of theirs. The color lines were clearly drawn.

There is a certain amount of natural intimidation and discomfort that people feel during rush. But walking into a fraternity house where I was the only minority only added to the tension. And I felt this at nearly every chapter I visited. It took a great amount of self-confidence to continue participating in the rush process, and I still found myself constantly wondering what the members were thinking and if I had any chance of receiving a bid. No matter how friendly the members seemed, I was always skeptical of their intentions.

During my freshman year, I had developed some close friendships with many of the members of Delta chapter, and on the surface their fraternity seemed fairly open to diversity. I decided that if I was going to pledge anywhere, it would be here. After rushing for two semesters and living in the chapter house during the summer, I still had not received a bid from the Deltas, and my interest dropped. I followed the advice of one of my friends in the chapter who encouraged me to rush other chapters to ensure that I would receive bids. Someone told me later that I had not received a bid because members in the chapter didn't want blacks in their fraternity.

I accepted an invitation to join Phi Delt after rush my sophomore year. I had many friends at North Carolina Delta, and my race, although a topic of seemingly great importance elsewhere, was not an issue there. I have no regrets about my decision.

Before I decided to pledge Phi Delta Theta, a tremendous amount of soul-searching took place. I was unsure whether I would be able to endure the criticism as I walked across campus wearing my fraternity letters. The thought of being considered a token or just another minority trying to assimilate into the white establishment irritated me. I often found myself defending why I chose to pledge Phi Delta Theta instead of a black fraternity. Describing the Fraternity to my friends and family at home became a common routine. Even now, it is difficult for them to understand my reasons for pledging a white fraternity.

The racial diversity at my chapter may not exist at every chapter. Ethnic or racial minorities constitute about 12% of the total membership. This percentage includes Jews, African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Hispanics, and Indians.

Diversity alone doesn't make this situation ideal. Often it can create friction if everyone is not careful to maintain a conscious level of cultural sensitivity. One day it disturbed me to hear one of my Brothers making negative comments about interracial couples at a fraternity function.

It is nearly impossible to have all members a large group have the same opinions about diversity and racial equality. But a group can come to an agreement about the importance of a general appreciation and understanding of other cultures. Recognizing and not fearing these differences between people is the important thing.

It was difficult for me to go through rush, facing racism in many subtle and direct ways. Some attitudes I expected, and some I did not. Deciding to pledge was a bigger decision for me than it would have been had I been white. It took more work, more patience, and more careful consideration. African-Americans usually avoid general fraternity rush for a variety of reasons, but mostly I suppose, because of distinct cultural differences. Black fraternities are more aware and more concerned with providing racial support and identity to their members.

The issue of diversity is very complex. Every chapter must determine for itself the degree to which it will implement strategies to diversify. It will take more than offering open arms to minorities. These overtures are not enough to overcome the suspicion created by years of racial conflict in the United States. It will take an honest effort by the members of the Fraternity to be sensitive and accepting of cultural and racial differences. Often that means watching insensitive language, mannerisms, attitudes, and behavior that has been taught since childhood. And that is more difficult than it seems.

Questioning cultural values and reevaluating behavior is a continuous process. Being culturally sensitive is not something members can acquire and demonstrate just during the two weeks of formal rush.

Although going through rush tested my resolve, I don't regret joining Phi Delt. It continues to be a good experience for me. The chapter possesses a unique composition of individuals that makes the brotherhood very special. I just wish it had been easier for me to go through rush and pledge. ☐

The Canadian Scholarship Foundation Awards

Eight outstanding Canadian Phis receive scholarships

By Robert S. McInnes

In November, 1992, the Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation awarded eight scholarships to undergraduate Phis from chapters across Canada. Since its founding in 1974, the Foundation has now awarded a total of 81 scholarships. These scholarships amount to a total of $75,000. Individuals representing each of the 11 Canadian chapters have won a scholarship.

The eight scholarships came to $7,700, which is $2,200 more in scholarships than was given last year. The directors attribute this increase in awards to more gifts and larger donations to the Foundation over the past year. The Foundation hopes this trend will continue.

The 1992 winners demonstrated outstanding scholastic achievement and a high level of leadership in their chapters, institutions, and communities. Each winner receives a certificate as well as a cash award. Each recipient's name will be engraved on the Canadian Foundation plaques that hang in every Canadian chapter house. The plaques list all previous scholarship winners.

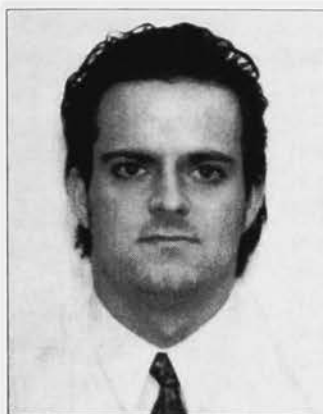

Of the recipients, Christopher White, Jason Greenlees, Christopher Hays, and

Sean Ulmer received larger awards, because these men demonstrated outstanding leadership in campus activities as well as achievement in scholarship.

Christopher White is in his second year of study at Dalhousie. He is pursuing a combined bachelor of arts degree in political science and philosophy. He maintains a grade point average in the upper tier of his class. He has been the financial vice president for the student union and has played on the soccer and hockey teams. He is the chapter's awards chairman and is active on the social committee.

Jason Greenlees is pursuing a degree in commerce at McGill University, where his cumulative GPA is 3.04. He remains active in his chapter's extensive community service program, and he tutors students in calculus. He has also been a member of McGill's varsity football team since 1989.

Matthew Bennett has been Ontario Beta's rush chairman and the Phikeia philanthropy chairman. He stays very involved on campus as an Orientation Leader and as a representative of the Business Council and the Activities Council. In his third year of an Honours Political Science program, Matthew

Trevor Clarke
York

Carleton

Sean Ulmer
Alberta

John Munnis
British Columbia

received recognition for the highest first-class standing in political science.

Christopher Hays has demonstrated his involvement at McMaster University as a senate nominee, athlete in intramural sports, and participant in the student walk home assistance team program. His grades earned him a spot on the dean's honour list. He maintains an A average in molecular biology. He serves the chapter as assistant treasurer and plans to run for an executive position next year.

Trevor Clarke is enrolled in the honours English program at York University where he received a university Merit Award in 1991. He has been a teacher's aid at a nearby elementary school and has worked as a volunteer at St. Michael's Hospital. He has served in the chapter's big brother program and as a member of the social committee.

André Tang is pursuing an engineering degree at Carleton University where he is a photographer with the school newspaper. He received a university entrance scholarship and currently maintains an A average. André is the chapter's historian and is very involved in the martial arts, diving, sailing, skiing and sky diving.

Sean Ulmer, an accounting major in his third year at the University of Alberta, received a university scholarship as a freshman and earned the dean's list. He is the chapter's treasurer and has held the position of awards chairman. He served as a student-at-large on the Administration Board of the Student Union.

John Munnis is currently enrolled at the University of British Columbia, and he has an 83% average in Asian studies. He is on the dean's honour list and has been the chapter's scholarship chairman and philanthropy chairman. John is also an avid golfer, skier, and hiker.

The Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation congratulates these undergraduate leaders for their achievement in scholarship, in chapter leadership, and in campus involvement.

The Foundation would also like to thank those Phis who made gifts in 1992. These gifts made this year's scholarships possible. The Foundation encourages all Canadian alumni to make tax-deductible donations to help the Foundation continue rewarding future Canadian leaders like these young men.

Gifts may be sent to The Canadian Scholarship Foundation, % Box 248, Station O, Toronto, Ontario, M4A 2N3.

The 1992-93 All

The 1992 All Phi Football Team will long be remembered for its 21 unanimous selections, more than any previous honorary team.

The offensive backfield highlights the board's selections. Four-time All Mt. Ranier Conference senior running back, Gary McCurdy, Puget Sound, leads the charge with 4,036 career rushing yards, 52 career touchdowns, and 316 career points, sealing his place in Phi Delta Theta's career honor roll. Ronnie Hermann, DePauw, a junior First Team All Intercollegiate Athletic Conference selection has 831 yards of total offense and six touchdowns. Junior, Scott Isphording, Hanover, directs the team at quarterback. He passed for 3,098 yards and 24 touchdowns this season, and he rushed for five more TDs. Wide-receiver Chris Wieseham, Wabash, a First Team All ICAC choice with 1,549 all-purpose yards and nine touchdowns, rounds out the backfield. This group will rank right behind the Associate Press All America team of 1948 when Phis made up three-fourths of that backfield with Ray Evans of Kansas, Bob Chappius of Michigan and Doak Walker of SMU.

Several of the honorary offensive lineman earned all conference honors this year. At center is First Team All Ohio Valley choice Brandon Norman, Southeast Missouri State. Tyler Gilbreath, DePauw, an All ICAC performer; Chris Fragakis, Pennsylvania; Mike Thiel, Ripon, named to the All Midwest Conference Second Team; and Val St. Germain, McGill, an All Conference selection, make up the rest of the interior line. Ed Lamm, Lawrence, an All Midwest Conference choice with 1,682 career reception yards and Damon Klesa, Hanover, an All ICAC selection with 733 reception yards, are super players at the split end position.

The honorary defensive line is led by Rich Zdrojewski, Case Western Reserve, an All North Coast choice who led the conference with 12 sacks this season; Dave Munoz, Lawrence, a Second Team All Midwest Conference performer; John Keen, Washington (St. Louis), who was a Second Team All UAA at tackle and defensive end, very

Tasker, Elliott compete in the Super Bowl

Two Phis had the honor of playing in Super Bowl XXVI in Pasadena January 31. Steve Tasker, Northwestern '86, has played for the Buffalo Bills on special teams and as a wide receiver for six years. He was the first player Marv Levy hired when Levy was asked to be head coach at Buffalo. Tasker's performance proved that Levy's choice was no fluke. He blocked a punt on Dallas' first possession in the Super Bowl. Tasker became the first special teams player to earn MVP of the Pro Bowl. In his third consecutive appearance in the event, he blocked a field goal with the game tied, helping the AFC narrowly defeat the NFC in overtime.

Linn Elliott, Texas Tech '91, the place kicker for the Dallas Cowboys, played a great game for the Cowboys in their 52-17 rout of Buffalo. The 1990 - '91 All Phi kicker scored six extra points and a field goal in the game. Not bad for a rookie.

Baltimore Oriole Cal Ripken Jr. wins the 1992 Lou Gehrig Memorial Award

By Ritter Collett

The only man to ever mount a serious challenge to the durability record of the famed Iron Horse of the New York Yankees is the 38th winner of Phi Delta Theta's Lou Gehrig Memorial Award.

Cal Ripken Jr., the classy shortstop of the Baltimore Orioles has run his consecutive game streak to 1,735, the closest any major leaguer has come to the 2,130-game record of Gehrig in his 1925 - '39 span.

"Our selection panel was unanimous in recognizing Ripken's great off-field community involvement as well as his consistently fine on-field play," said Robert A. Biggs, executive vice president of the Fraternity.

Ripken's reaction to the award offers a clue as to how he will deal with the media and public pressure as he gets closer to the day in the 1995 season when he can top the once considered unassailable record.

"I'm honored that the Fraternity voted me this award," he said. "But my emphasis has never been on Lou Gehrig's record. In fact, I deliberately try to keep Gehrig and the record out of my thinking."

"Playing every day has always been a matter of personal pride," he continued. "I started my career with the thought of being involved in the game every day to help the Orioles win. I appreciate the recognition I have gotten for my trying to be a good citizen."

Ripken is well aware that the media is paying attention to his durability and his pace against Gehrig.

"Since I've gone past the 1,000 mark in consecutive games, people have been talking about the Gehrig record," he said. "When people want to talk to me about it, my response is the same. I'm not thinking about Lou Gehrig. Fans send me magazine articles and old clippings of Gehrig, but I file it all away."

"If the day comes when I set the record, then I'll want to know more about Lou Gehrig. If it comes to pass, it will be source of pride and satisfaction."

Knowing what luck is involved in avoiding injuries, it's still a long way off."

Aside from the possibility of the Gehrig record, Ripken's considerable offensive and defensive skills have him on course for a Hall of Fame career.

His batting average (.277), career home runs (273) and RBIs (1,014) are well above average for a shortstop. As a defensive standout, he has won two Golden Gloves. He has been selected to the American League All Star team every year in the past 10 years.

But it is his off-season schedule that has earned him humanitarian and civic awards. His interest in service was awakened at an early age.

"When I came up to the Orioles, I observed what Eddie Murray, Ken Singleton and Al Bumbry, among others, were doing in the way of getting involved in things," he said. "They were making appearances and going out in public. I realized early on that ball players are role models whether we want to be or not.

"I think my first year I got involved in making tickets available to inner-city kids, and I'm still involved with that through the Because We Care program. Eddie has stayed with it even though he's left the Orioles."

The pride and joy of Cal and wife Kelly is the Cal Ripken Jr. Learning Center, a project they launched in 1989 with a $250,000 contribution. It's an adult literacy program operated by the city of Baltimore.

He is also involved in Mayor Kurt Schmoke's The City That Reads campaign.

At the end of the 1991 season, Cal and Kelly put on a baseball memorabilia show that raised another $200,000 for the Learning Center. Cal's brother, Billy, who plays second base alongside him, and their father, Cal Ripken Sr., the Baltimore third base coach, got involved as well. Kirby Puckett of the Twins, and Eddie Murray, Glenn Davis, and Gregg Olson of the Orioles made guest appearances.

His interest in children is reflected in his being associated with the University of Maryland Hospital's Schock Trauma Center, the Johns Hopkins' Childrens Center and the Hartford Center, a day care center for retarded citizens.

In prior years he has been honorary chairman of the March of Dimes, Christmas Seals and American Lung Association's anti-smoking drive.

"There comes a time when you have to step back and say you can't respond to every request," he says. "It's a sign of maturity to concentrate on where you think you can do the most good. That's why our efforts in literacy give us the great satisfaction they do."

Cal is wary of talking about the future, because it frequently brings him back to conversation about his chance of erasing Gehrig's record.

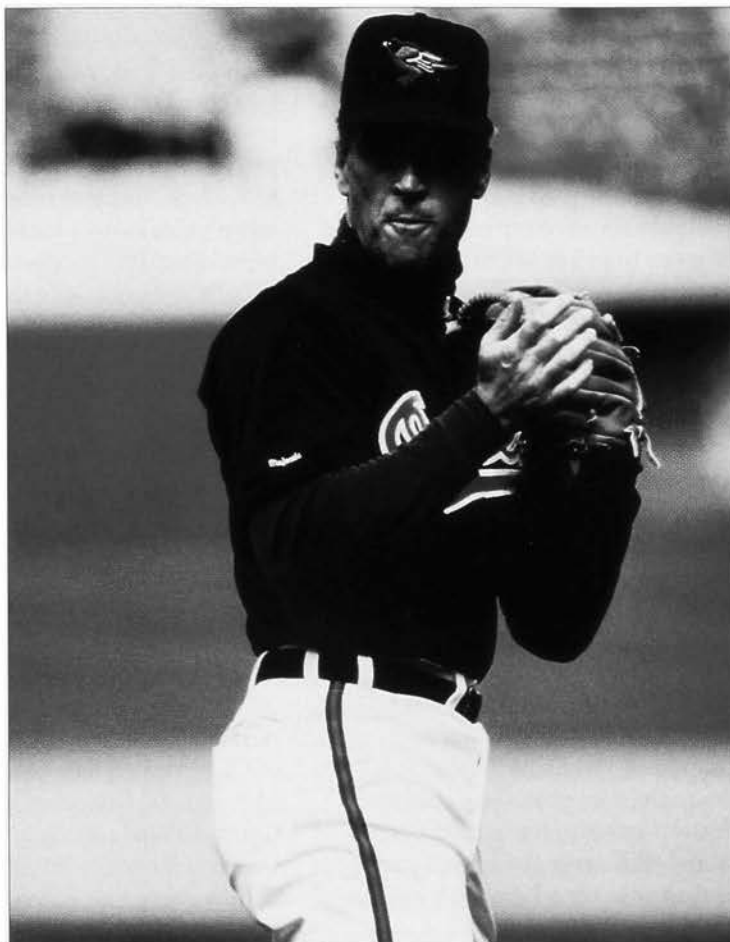

"I have a very carefully supervised off-season conditioning program," he explained. "As you get older, you have to work harder. There's no such thing as letting yourself get out of shape.

"I've been very fortunate to avoid injuries. That's my goal—staying healthy. I'd like to get back into a World Series again. We were in one in 1983, and that was a long time ago. I'll have more of an appreciation when we do it again."

He was presented the Roberto Clemente humanitarian award during the All Star Game activities last season.

The presentation of the Gehrig Award will be early in the 1993 season in the new stadium, Oriole Park at Camden Yard.

The 1990-92 Biennial Report

Phi Delta Theta continues to grow and prosper in the 1990s

by Robert A. Biggs, executive vice president

Making strides

Phi Delta Theta International Fraternity continues to prosper, and the General Fraternity is making great strides to ensure a bright future. In the past biennium, 6,338 individuals were initiated for a total of more than 188,000 since our Fraternity was founded in 1848 at Miami University. We also have 184 active chapters and the prospects for continued growth are encouraging.

The principal objectives of our Fraternity as articulated in the Bond are as relevant today as they were in 1848. These objectives, "the cultivation of friendship among its members; the acquirement individually of a high standard of mental culture, and the attainment personally of a high standard of morality," continue to impact the mission and purpose of every member and chapter of Phi Delta Theta. It is through these objectives that the Fraternity volunteers and professional staff serve the undergraduate and alumni members with a sense of challenge and reward.

You can be proud of your Fraternity knowing that Phi Delta Theta continues to be a leader in the fraternity world. We are constantly doing our best in order to ensure a great fraternal experience that provides the undergraduate members with friendships and leadership skills that will last a lifetime. Indeed, the future is bright for our Fraternity!

Chapter Services

A significant amount of time and money is dedicated to providing services and products to the undergraduate members. Our front-line contact with the chapters is our visitation program. Each chapter receives at least one visit each year from a General Headquarters chapter consultant and usually two visits a year are made by the province president. Approximately 85% of all chapters receive two or more visits from a Headquarters representative. A consultant visit usually occurs over a three-day period of time during which this Brother interviews each chapter officer, discussing responsibilities, objectives, and new ideas. The consultants employed by the Fraternity receive extensive training and have terrific support from the other General Headquarters staff members. The chapter services staff during the past biennium has been under the direction of Norman E. Allen, Pacific '88, and Abraham L. Cross, Tampa '88. They have been assisted over the past two years by Assistant Director of Chapter Services Martin M. Taylor, Marshall '89, Chapter Consultants Conrad Thiede, Colgate '90, Lenis Dawson, Franklin '90, Edward Dunayevich, Cal. Riverside '90, Charles Pride, Western Kentucky '89, Kevin R. Dreiling, Wichita '90, J. Marc Hopper, McMaster '91, W. Patrick Lay, Centre '91, Sean Keefer, South Carolina '91, and Joseph Edward, New Mexico '91.

Phi Delta Theta is a volunteer-driven association. Our high position in the interfraternity world would not have been possible without the dedication of our chapter advisers, house corporation officers, alumni club officers, province presidents, and many other General Fraternity volunteers. These individuals contribute their time and energy to the Fraternity, for which we are all extremely grateful.

The 1990s have challenged all Greek organizations. We are currently facing a decline in undergraduate members. This "rush recession" is the result of several factors, including fewer incoming students, changing student demographics, deferred rush, financial constraints of rising higher education costs, etc. However, Phi Delta Theta has responded to this challenge with the development of a new marketing campaign, "The Standard for Brotherhood," which includes new recruitment brochures, workshop and seminar materials, and two new videotapes. We are very pleased with this effort and credit this new program to David C. Slatton, Whitman '90, the director of communications at General Headquarters. Recent statistics indicate that pledging was up slightly from 1990-91 (total 4,027) to 1991-92 (total 4,035). The number of initiates was also up during the same period from 3,145 to 3,193. The initiation ratio of 79% continues to receive close attention from members of the Headquarters staff and Fraternity volunteers. Membership recruitment remains a top priority in Phi Delta Theta as it is the lifeblood of our chapters. Our future depends upon this very important issue.

We are very pleased with the work of the Survey Commission as 12 new chapters were chartered this past biennium. Phi Delta Theta is now represented at York University, S.U.N.Y.-Oneonta, Eastern Washington University, the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, Cameron University, the University of North Texas, Mississippi State University, Portland State University, S.U.N.Y.-Buffalo, Sam Houston State University, Southeast Missouri State University, and Washington College. Our Fraternity also returned to Willamette University and the University of Pittsburgh during the past two years. The Fraternity continues to grow well into the current biennium as new chapters were established at Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario, and we returned to Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois, this past fall. All alumni and undergraduates are strongly encouraged to suggest prospective campuses worthy of consideration for a Phi Delta Theta chapter.

Alumni Services

This past biennium, a major change in General Headquarters personnel was made in the area of alumni services. Longtime director of alumni services, William R. (Rusty) Richardson, Tampa '80, assumed a new position of director of business affairs. To succeed Rusty, Gregory J. Soska, Ashland '90, was named to the alumni services position. Brother Soska will devote his full attention to the needs and services of alumni. He has already developed an informative alumni club newsletter, visited over 20 alumni clubs, and helped with the establishment of new clubs. He is currently launching an expansion of the Golden Legion program for recognition of Phis who have been members for 55, 60, 65, 70 and 75 years. Brother Soska is also planning the very first Alumni Academy to be held at Miami University in May, 1993, for alumni club officers. The conference will provide an opportunity for club officers to exchange and learn new techniques for alumni club programming. We expect great achievements in this important area over the next few years, and alumni are encouraged to contact Brother Soska with input and suggestions.

Communications

Brother David C. Slatton was employed as full-time editor and has worked diligently, not only on magazine related issues, but on communication efforts as well. The Scroll is published four times a year with an average of 81,000 copies mailed each issue. This past year The Scroll received interfraternity recognition from the College Fraternity Editors Association. It earned awards for best cover design and merit recognition for feature articles. The article about AIDS written by Dr. Larry Baratta, Tampa '81, in the summer '92 issue, received top honors from the National Interfraternity Foundation in its 1992 student life awards.

In addition to the recruitment materials developed by Brother Slatton, he also spent considerable

The Budget

These are projected budgetary figures for the next two years. Operation income refers to pledge and initiation fees as well as interest and dividend income from the Fraternity's investments.

Expenses

- Operations ($1,764,800)

time on a new Manual of Phi Delta Theta. We are also grateful for the efforts of Brothers Edward G. Whipple, James C. Hoppe, M. Scott Mietchen, and Martin M. Taylor as they assisted with the major revision of the manual. The new hardbound edition is now available to all chapters, Phikeias, and alumni.

Another important communication service developed over the past two years is our educational videotape program. The General Headquarters now provides more than 15 educational videotapes for loan to chapters regarding many different issues such as risk management and health education. Chapters interested in the videotape library program should contact the assistant director of chapter services, Martin M. Taylor, at General Headquarters.

Financial Affairs

The Fraternity has been financially stable over the past two years. The combined operating budget of the Fraternity in the areas of administrative, education, meeting and conference management, magazine management, and risk management operations has averaged $2.5 million for the past two years. The Fraternity's financial position continued to remain strong during 1990 - '92. The graphs above provide a better illustration of the Fraternity's projected income and expenses for the 1992 - '94 biennium.

It should be noted that in addition to the financial operations of the General Fraternity, other financial operations are separate, but important to us. These separate financial operations include the Educational Foundation which is a 501(C)(3) tax-exempt organization; the Walter B. Palmer Foundation, which provides loans for chapter housing needs; the Frank J. R. Mitchell Scroll Endowment Fund, which provides investment income for the magazine expenses; and the Canadian Scholarship Foundation, which provides scholarships for our Canadian members. The work of the trustees of these funds is sincerely appreciated, because these funds provide so many valuable grants, scholarships, and loans. Special appreciation is extended to the Educational Foundation, as well as all alumni who have supported it over the years. It is through these grants that many of our educational programs and services have been made possible. These grants support, in addition to scholarships, the chapter consultant program, province president program, General Officers Conference, Scholarship Commissioner activities, General Convention, the Banta Library and the Leadership College. The College is an annual four-day management and leadership program for about 600 Phi Delta Theta student members. Without the support of the alumni and the Educational Foundation, this valuable program could not have been made possible. Thank you to all who have faithfully supported the Phi Delta Theta Foundation!

Risk Management

One of the more challenging areas in the fraternity world today is insurance and risk management. Our program continues to mature and is today considered one of the best. On average, our insurance premiums for liability and property coverages have now exceeded $800,000 per year. We continue to strengthen and define the risk management program. The program was recently revised to provide for chapter house inspections by licensed individuals to ensure the safety of our undergraduates.

The insurance broker for Phi Delta Theta is the James R. Favor Company in Aurora, Colorado. Primary coverages are provided for by Lloyds of London. Policy limits are $6 million for each covered entity and individuals (subject to aggregated limits). All alumni volunteers are fully protected to the extent they act on behalf of the Fraternity in a lawful manner. A base rate of $80.00 per man is the premium paid by undergraduates in 1992. A self-insured retention of $100,000 is also in effect. Anyone having questions on the insurance and risk management programs should contact Rusty Richardson at General Headquarters. He continues to do an excellent job in this important area.

Pete Lyon publishes his autobiography

Twists of Fate*, by F. D. Lyon, UCLA '28, Evanston Publishing Inc., Evanston, IL. 1993. 256 pages. $14.95

Francis D. "Pete" Lyon, UCLA '28, the Academy Award-winning film editor, director, and producer has written an autobiographical story of his experiences in the competitive and colorful world of Hollywood. Lyon's book, Twists of Fate, describes in loving detail the people, the events, and the skill that went into building his outstanding career.

Lyon directed or edited such films as Body and Soul, The Great Locomotive Chase, The Cult of the Cobra, The Bob Mathias Story, and The Oklahoman. He was associated with many of Hollywood's early legends like Ingrid Bergman, David Selznick, Walt Disney, Leslie Howard, H. G. Wells, Laurence Olivier, and Vivian Leigh.

Twists of Fate is an important educational tool, a document of the early days of the motion picture industry. It is also an entertaining bit of literature, describing intimate moments with the famous actors, actresses, and directors of Lyon's time.

In the book, Lyon points to his fraternity experience at UCLA as one of his critical twists of fate.

"The elements that I believe helped me to be prepared when the long-sought twist of fate offering me a feature directing opportunity finally appeared, would include my extracurricular activities at UCLA, such as athletics, associations, and my fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, which afforded profitable training in meeting, mixing, competing with, and sometimes speaking before many people of various interests and backgrounds," he writes.

The book has been praised by many people in the film industry for its insight and cleverness. Another alumnus and Academy Award-winning director and producer, Robert Wise, Franklin '36, said "It is a rare treat to find personal reminiscences skillfully combined with a history of our business and information on the nuts and bolts of editing, directing, and producing. I really enjoyed it."

Brother Lyon has generously agreed to donate all profits from the sale of this book to the Phi Delta Theta Foundation.

Lodestone* by Russell Jack Smith, Miami (OH) '37, Bartleby Press, Silver Spring, MD. 1993. 234 pages. $9.95

This, the third novel by Brother Smith, is a chronicle of a young man's journey to adulthood through the years of The Great Depression and World War II. The book is a colorful account of a young journalist who struggles with the many issues that faced young people during the 1930s and '40s. There are several references to college life, and it is obvious that Brother Smith's college days at Miami heavily influenced the writing of this book. He dedicated the novel to several of his college professors, including Walter Havighurst, Ohio Wesleyan '23.

Brother Smith spent ten years teaching English literature at Cornell University, Williams

College, and Wells College. After his experience with intelligence work during World War II, he joined the CIA, where he eventually became the deputy director of intelligence. He has written several other books, including The Secret War and Singapore Chance.

Arthur C. Clarke: The Authorized Biography* by Neil McAleer, New Mexico '64, Contemporary Books, Chicago, IL. 1992. 430 pages, hardbound. $25.00

Brother McAleer is the author of several books, including, Earthlove, a science fiction novel, and The Omni Space Almanac, which won the 1988 Robert S. Ball Award.

In this biography, McAleer documents the life experiences of Arthur Clarke, one of the most influential writers and scientists of the twentieth century. He is most remembered for his award-winning novel and screenplay 2001: A Space Odyssey. Through interviews with Clarke and people close to him, McAleer skillfully reveals the man behind the legend.

A Corner of Time* by John L. Kirkhoff, Butler '46, Guild Craft, Indianapolis, IN. 1992. 116 pages. $15.95

This is Kirkhoff's first novel. It autobiographical, describing the coming of World War II in a small Indiana town and the bitter rivalry between two of the town's boys. Even though the war scatters them across the globe, their boyhood animosity extends beyond the war to a surprising final conclusion.

Phis on stamps: part II

Famous alumni grace U.S. postage By Robert J. Miller, executive vice president emeritus

Brother Benjamin Harrison, Miami '52, may be the Phi most frequently pictured on United States postage stamps, but the Fraternity has a respectable sampling of other brothers who have received the honor at least once.

It happened to William Allen White, Kansas '90, when he was selected to be included in the Famous American series. He was one of America's best-known small-town editors. He worked on several Kansas newspapers before returning to his hometown, where he became known as "The Sage of Emporia."

The central highlight of the stamp is a portrait of Brother White arranged in an oval frame against a background of colonial design. At the base of the portrait is shown a closed book, scroll, quill pen, and inkwell, the symbols of authors. The stamp was first placed on sale at Emporia, Kansas, on July 31, 1948. The Famous American series was unveiled in 1940 with the printing of 35 stamps, issued in seven groups of five stamps each, recognizing authors, poets, educators, scientists, composers, artists, and inventors.

On June 8, 1966, in Spring Green, Wisconsin, the postal service first issued a stamp honoring Frank Lloyd Wright, Wisconsin '89. The stamp was reissued in 1968 in booklet form. This stamp was a part of the Prominent American series (1965-1975) which replaced the Liberty series. The persons honored by this regular issue contributed to many professions. Wright, whose clean lines revolutionized architecture and made it functional rather than decorative, is portrayed on the 2¢ stamp from a photograph made in 1952 by Blackstone-Shelburne of New York. In the background is a detail of his famous Guggenheim Memorial Museum.

Although his likeness does not appear on the stamp, Brother Wright was honored again in 1982 when his Fallingwater Structure in Mill Run, Pennsylvania, appeared in the American Architecture series. This luxury retreat cantilevered over a waterfall, demonstrates Wright's belief that a building should harmonize with its surroundings. The stamp, appearing on the same pane with three stamps honoring other architects, was released in Washington, D.C., on September 30.

Current policy of the United States Postal Service requires that a person be deceased a minimum of ten years before his likeness may appear on a postage stamp. The sole exception permits a stamp honoring a deceased U. S. president to be issued on or after the next anniversary of his birth. Even so, it is claimed that living persons have, indeed, been represented on stamps. It is alleged, for example, that the photograph which was used to print the 1888 farming scene on the 2¢ Trans-Mississippi stamp is a person by the name of Evana Nybakken. Simi-

Lou Gehrig appeared on a U.S. postage stamp in 1989. He is the most recent Phi to be so honored.

William Allen White, the famous journalist and author, was included in the Famous American Series of 1940.

Architect Frank Lloyd Wright appeared on a stamp as part of the Prominent American Series in 1966. His famous Guggenheim Museum appears in the background.

Miller's Meanderings

larly, it is claimed that a living person, Samuel P. Hege, is seated on the driver's right in the 4¢ Pan-American stamp of 1901. Other examples have been cited in the intervening years.

This leads us to our claim that Brother Neil Armstrong, Purdue '55, is in fact, the astronaut on the 10¢ Moon Landing stamp issued September 9, 1969. Before Apollo 11 was launched, an engraved master dye was prepared, and the dye accompanied the astronauts in the space module for the lunar landing. The words at the bottom of the stamp read, "First Man on the Moon," so the astronaut is, indeed, Neil Armstrong even though his facial features are not recognizable.

No doubt, some philatelists will claim that Neil Armstrong is featured again on the Space Achievement commemorative stamps of 1981, which, among several space adventures, reproduces an Apollo astronaut on the moon. In addition, the $2.40 Moon Landing stamp, commemorating the 20th anniversary of the event, issued on July 20, 1989, features two astronauts (Armstrong and Aldrin) raising the flag on the lunar surface.

Many stamps have been issued to commemorate space achievements, and all it takes is a little imagination to see one or more of our Phi Delta Theta astronauts in the postal presentations. Perhaps readers of this article will have some suggestions.

The Postal Service announced the American Sports series in 1981. Among the memorable giants of professional sports was our own Henry Louis "Lou" Gehrig, Columbia '25, of the New York Yankees, who was chosen for the 25¢ stamp issued at Cooperstown,

New York, on June 10, 1989. His portrait is the main feature of the stamp. A reduced sketch of Gehrig, swinging a bat, appears in the foreground.

Although a Phi was not pictured on the stamp, it is important to call attention to the Gardening-Horticulture commemorative stamp issued in 1958. This special stamp saw its first day of use on the 100th anniversary of the birth of Liberty Hyde Bailey, Michigan State '82, a noted horticulturist and world-famous botanist, explorer, teacher, and author. Considerable pressure had been exerted to have the likeness of Brother Bailey appear on the stamp, but all efforts failed because Brother Bailey had died only three years earlier.

The American Folk Art series should also be of interest to Phis. A part of this series, the Pueblo Indian Art commemoratives, first issued in Sante Fe on April 13, 1977, features the art work of Ford Ruthling, New Mexico '55. Each of the four semi-jumbo-sized stamps shows a bowl from one of the pottery-producing Pueblos: Zia, Acoma and San Ildefonso in New Mexico and Hopi in Arizona.

Although the title of the two articles in this series is "Phis on Stamps," research has been limited to United States postage stamps. It is a certainty that Neil Armstrong's likeness has appeared on the stamps of several other countries (e.g. the Federal Republic of Cameroon "Return to Earth" issue of 1969) as has Lou Gehrig (e.g. the Ras al Khaime 1971 set of eight stamps marking "USA - Japan Baseball Friendship"). Perhaps other Phis have been so honored. The writer will welcome information concerning such stamps from Phi philatelists. ■

How can you improve rush, alumni relations & save money? ... pledge legacies

by Arby Dickert

General Council member-at-large

Why is it so difficult for a legacy to get a bid from some of our chapters? If you are an alumnus with a college-age son, this question goes through your mind more than once in the fall. But for many chapters the answer is simple: chapters are autonomous and the members alone decide who joins. No amount of alumni pressure can change that, and often alumni pressure only serves to make the situation worse—marking the legacy as someone who assumes he will get a bid. This is certain to ruin any rushee's chances on many campuses.

Generational misunderstanding between alumni and the chapter leadership obscures the chapter's vision of the real issues regarding legacies, however. Certainly there is damage done to alumni relations when a legacy is not given consideration, but the chapter may also be damaging its own recruiting efforts.

Chapters that ignore legacies may be missing out on one of the best recruiting opportunities during rush. Look at the trends. On many college campuses, the number of men rushing college fraternities is decreasing. And many of the men looking to join are doing so merely for the social life. Quality rushees are becoming fewer and fewer.

By identifying legacies—relatives of all fraternity alumni—a chapter can make its recruiting efforts much easier. Studies show that the sons and daughters of Greek alumni are often sold on the Greek system before they ever set foot on the college campus. Legacies will often choose to rush the same organization as their parents due to loyalty and curiosity.

What this means to the chapter is that most of the hard work of trying to sell the benefits of joining the chapter is already done. All the chapter members have to do is treat the legacy with the same amount of friendliness and respect as other rushees and the chapter is almost assured of a new member.

Legacies from other fraternities are also excellent candidates. The other fraternities may treat their legacies with the same short sightedness that many of our chapters are guilty of. Alumni recommendations are laughed at, and no one asks the legacy over for rush.

These legacies of other fraternities (LOOFs) have decided that they don't fit in with the elitist jerks from their dad's fraternity and are looking around for another one to join.

From an alumnus' perspective, the only thing worse than his son not joining his own fraternity is not joining a fraternity at all. So he will probably encourage his son to look at the other groups on campus.

So what does the LOOF do? He goes in search of a group he feels more comfortable with. He brings his roommate along. Often, he'll hide the fact that he is a LOOF because he doesn't want to be embarrassed twice.

Once he pledges, he will probably have the backing from his dad, who by this time is pleased his son pledged a fraternity whether it was his or not. When I say backing, I don't just mean emotional backing, but financial backing as well.

The father of a legacy or a LOOF is more willing to help bankroll the dues, participate in parent's weekends, serve on the house corporation, and fund house improvements.

Rush is a major item of any chapter's budget. Chapters spend a lot of money to attract new members, but do chapter leaders take the time to figure out if the chapter is getting its money's worth? Divide the rush budget by the number of Phikeias and compare this figure with a member's dues payments over four years and it is easy to see that it takes time for a chapter to get a return on its investment.

I know it's blasphemy to compare a fraternity to a business, but the facts are that rush is expensive.

A lengthy legacy: Arkansas Alpha has a tradition with the Suffridge family. Bufford '62, and his three undergraduate sons, J. B., Phillip and Calvin are all members.

What does this all have to do with legacies? Legacies are cheap. They cost less to rush, they cost less to sell, and they are more likely to pay their house bills.

In sales and marketing, people figured out a long time ago that it is much easier to sell someone on a product or a concept if they already are a customer. It's called repeat business. It's called brand loyalty. The legacy business in rush is repeat business—the easiest business to get.

So how do you improve rush, better alumni relations, and save money in rush? ■

FURROW

Sam Furrow's face carried a look of embarrassed surprise as he weaved through the crowd of standing, applauding Phis to receive the Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year plaque from executive vice president Bob Biggs. The 60 Undergraduate members and alumni who attended this special Knoxville Founders Day cheered and clapped as he took the podium. Sam Furrow, Tennessee '63, is Tennessee Gamma's Bond #1, and everyone here knows him.

"I really appreciate this Fraternity. You get out of it what you put into it. I've put a lot into it, and I've gotten it all back. The Fraternity has given me my wife, my friends, my employees, and my business relationships. It has been a blessing, and it will be a blessing to you," he said looking directly to a few undergraduates in the front.

His wife, Ann, stands by his side, beaming. Some say she has as much to do with Sam's winning this honor as he does. An Alpha Delta Pi alumna, she is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Tennessee and a dedicated and visible member of the Knoxville community.

However, no one disagrees that Sam Furrow deserves this, the highest honor in the Fraternity. He is a hard-working, dedicated, and loyal alumnus of the University of Tennessee and Phi Delta Theta. The annual award is given to an alumnus who exemplifies the Bond and who is recognized for achievements in the community, higher education, and the Fraternity. He is eminently qualified in all categories.

Furrow is the former province president of Eta South and former chapter adviser of the Tennessee Gamma chapter. He was instrumental in helping the chapter with its $400,000 campaign in 1990 to purchase a new house. Now he serves as the Knoxville Alumni Club's president.

He is also a dedicated contributor to the Knoxville community. He has lived here all his adult life, and one would be hard-pressed to find someone in the community who hasn't heard of him or doesn't know him personally. He is always shaking hands with someone and saying hello. Among his friends are Lamar Alexander, the former UT president and Secretary of Education under George Bush. He believes deeply in the importance of higher education.

"I see higher education as a finishing process, a preparation of a person for a lifetime of service in whatever profession he chooses. It is a very important developmental phase in a person's life," he says.

He also sees fraternities as an essential part of the educational process, providing needed social, leadership, and service-related education.

"A fraternity environment really provides leadership and at times a spiritual education you often cannot get in a classroom," he says.

An auctioneer by profession, Furrow has a commanding voice. He donates his talents frequently to the Red Cross, United Way, Boy Scouts, Junior Achievement, American Heart Association, Boy's Club, and other community organizations. His rapid-fire auctioneering raises thousands of charitable dollars each year. He was chairman of the 1990 Knoxville United Way campaign which raised $5.8 million. Furrow firmly believes in the value of giving to the community.

"As an alumnus, I am more interested in whether a chapter has done community service than whether they have won athletic or scholarship awards," he says.

"When I see a chapter doing service, I think 'That is a win-win-win situation.' It's a win for the chapter, for the individual members, and for the recipients. Service makes better members, and it follows you after college. The alumni who were at the Knoxville Founders Day are also community leaders who support many service organizations."

Furrow owns the Knoxville Mercedes-Benz dealership, Furrow Auction Co., Furrow Machinery Corp., and Prime Real Estate. Many of his employees and business associates are Phis, and he often associates the Fraternity with his success as a businessman.

"The wonderful thing about the Fraternity is that it has shaped my entire life in one way or another,"

he says. "Every day I am touched by my Phi Delt relationships. It is truly a Fraternity for life."

A member of ROTC at UT, Furrow was disenchanted with fraternities because of hazing and excessive drinking associated with the system. He and some of his close friends formed a Phi Delt colony with the purpose of dealing with these shortcomings. With the guidance of his mentor, Elden Wright, West Virginia '54, Furrow helped establish a successful and award-winning chapter. His participation reaffirmed his belief that fraternities could have a positive influence on student development. He believes this is even more true for today's students.

"In today's society where people have a need for instant gratification, a fraternity might slow you down and give you reason to establish relationships during those formative college years," he says.

As a Phi alumnus in the sales business, he has concrete advice for undergraduates in this time of increasing rush competition.

"As in any sales situation, I would look at a rushee's needs and show him how Phi Delta Theta could meet those needs. A fraternity is not for everybody. Rush is not so much of a sales job as it is conveying how a fraternity meets the needs of the rushee, and rush hasn't changed that much over the years. There is still a need for fraternities," he says.

He also has a strong opinion about the legacy issue. His son recently pledged another fraternity at Vanderbilt University.

"I see now, at this stage in my life, the value of having continuity of family members in the Fraternity. I don't think that chapters should be required to initiate all legacies, but I think they should be given the opportunity to pledge, and if inadequacies arise during the pledge program, then [the chapter] shouldn't initiate them."

Pete Lyon's twists of fate

Not many people know the feeling of hearing their name at the end of "And the winner is ..." at the Academy Awards, but Pete Lyon does.

In 1948, Francis L. "Pete" Lyon, UCLA '28, won the film-editing Oscar for Body and Soul, one of the premier boxing movies of all time. Since that time, Pete Lyon has become a fixture in Hollywood, editing and directing films that have since become classics in the motion

chance on a young singer named Bing Crosby.

After Lyon left film, he worked on such television series as "Perry Mason", "Death Valley Days," and "Zane Grey Theater." He is now retired and lives in Green Valley, AZ.

A former province president, Lyon loves Phi Delta Theta and credits the Fraternity with preparing him for his film career. Profits from the sale of his book will go to the Phi Delta Theta Foundation. ■

Bixby faces cancer

One of the Fraternity's most famous alumni, Bill Bixby, California '56, is bravely facing a battle with cancer. The veteran television actor and director entered the UCLA Medical Center to undergo experimental drug treatment of prostate cancer in early February.

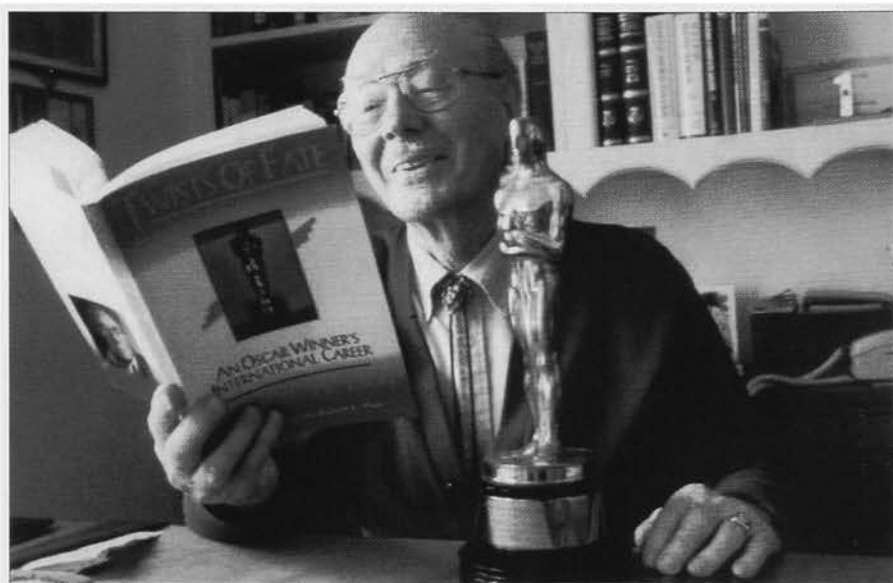

Bixby, best known for his work on "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" and "The Incredible Hulk," now directs "Blossom," a sitcom on NBC. He also recently directed a TV movie for Roseanne Arnold called "Graceland." ■

To ensure that the award itself made its way to the deserving recipient, Educational Foundation trustee, Jim Holmes, Ohio Wesleyan-Arizona '51, hosted a special presentation for Brother Smith at his Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, residence. Brothers Holmes and Smith are close friends and neighbors.

Smith, former CEO of General Motors, still serves on the auto maker's board of directors. ■

GM's Roger Smith receives award

Tornados may have prevented General Motors director, Roger B. Smith, Michigan '47, from attending the 1992 Convention, but he received Phi Delta Theta's Nance-

picture industry.

He has worked with some of Hollywood's greatest directors, producers, and film stars, including Walt Disney, Max Sennett, W. C. Fields, Leslie Howard, John Wayne, and many others. He edited Ingrid Bergman's first American film, Intermezzo.

His new book, Twists of Fate (Evanston Publishing, $14.95) chronicles his illustrious career and the history of one of the great periods of film-making. During his career, he edited or directed such films as The Great Locomotive Chase, The Bob Mathias Story, The Cult of the Cobra, and The Oklahoman. Lyon edited two films for W. C. Fields, and he convinced Max Sennett to take a

Honoring a great American artist

Fletcher Benton, Miami (OH) '50, is one of the most successful living artists in America. His sculpture has recently been compiled in a retrospective by reknown art historian Edward Lucie-Smith, and his fame has earned him a commission by the city of Cologne, Germany, to build an outdoor piece 80 feet tall. Despite his world-wide doctorate of fine arts.

"I really love this University and the Fraternity. I'm going to pay a lot more attention to both in the future," he says.

Benton attended Miami when most of the chapter was made up of World War II veterans. A veteran of the Navy himself, Benton describes the members then as "more mature and disciplined" for having fought in the war.

In college, he switched his major from pre-med to art because of his difficulties with severe dyslexia. After he graduated, he moved to San Francisco to try to make it on his own as an artist.

His international fame as a sculptor started in the late 1960s with the popularity of kinetic sculpture. A movement largely started in Western Europe, the kinetic movement had few American representatives aside from Benton. Almost by default, he was launched into the international art scene.

Although he insisted his kinetic pieces were really paintings, not sculpture, he earned a reputation as a fine craftsman and was categorized by the art community as a sculptor. It is a label he has grown to accept over the years, but he insists that painting will always be his first love.

Benton's newfound fame led to professorships at San Jose State University and the San Francisco Art Institute, and his close ties to the academic community give him a deeper appreciation of Miami University's doctoral conferral.

"It is something that is indescribable. I've been in academia for 22 years, and when this happens to you, it's just incredible," he says.

Unlike most of the art establishment, Benton does not believe that art is grounded in intellectualism, nor does he believe that the goal of an artist is to make money and earn critical acclaim.

"I don't think artists ever arrive. Students always ask me 'what do you have to do to make it?' as if there is some path one follows to get to financial security. Money isn't what makes it in the art world.

"There is a propensity in an artist to live on the edge. Personally, I don't want to be secure. I don't want the complacency of security," he says.

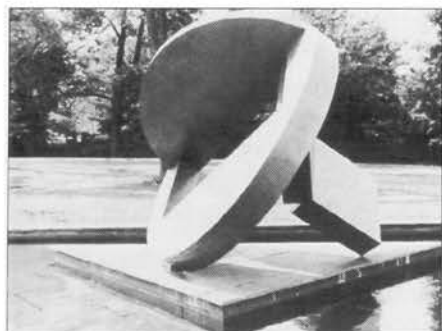

Proving his belief in this philosophy, Benton abandoned his work with kinetic art in 1974. His bread and butter gone, he concentrated on his new fascination with true sculpture. His work became very geometric and resembled the work of Russian constructionists like Kandinsky with whom he has so strongly identified.

Series pieces like Steel Watercolors, the Alphabet series, and The Folded Circle series, gained critical acclaim, and Benton established himself once again as a versatile artist.

Benton's fame has not led the art intelligentsia to embrace him, however. He has raised hackles among critics and collectors with his pronouncement that "art is not an intellectual process."

"Painting or sculpture should be done on an instinctive level, at a child's level, not at a contrived, thought-out level," he says. "I don't think there have been many great paintings done based on hatred or love or any strong emotional or intellectual concept."

Benton advocates art for the common man and condemns critics who confuse the meaning of art by intellectualizing it. This resistance to over-examination is perhaps part of the appeal of his work. ■ recognition and success, Benton defies the pensive artist-with-an-ego stereotype. He has a blue-collar love for hard work and an irreverent distaste for art critics.

Benton recently returned to his alma mater from his home in San Francisco to receive an honorary

Purdue chapter turns 100, renovates house

Indiana Theta is celebrating its centennial with a $1.5 million campaign to renovate and expand the current chapter house.

The history of the current facility is interesting enough to earn the attention of the Wabash Valley Trust for Historical Preservation, which recognized the chapter last fall with a Historical Preservation Plaque in a ceremony at the Tippecanoe County Courthouse.

Before the current house was built, the chapter's founders rented four rooms in downtown Lafayette. In 1903, after living in three consecutive rented houses, property was purchased at the present location, 503 State Street, but construction didn't start on the house until 1909. It is the oldest fraternity house in Indiana and one of the oldest in the U.S. The house was designed by Brother Elmer E. Dunlap, Illinois '97, and the construction was supervised by Brother W. F. Stillwell, DePauw '77.

In 1958, an addition was constructed to increase house capacity and provide a new kitchen and dining room. The original six stately pillars were left intact, but in 1976 these were replaced.

During the 1980s, it was apparent that years of wear and tear made a major renovation necessary to bring the house in compliance with current building and safety codes. Architectural plans were prepared, and the capital campaign was started in 1990. Alumni have pledged approximately $500,000 to date.

To avoid being condemned because of code violations, renovation began in May, 1992. Phase I included smoke detectors, sprinklers, new water, fire and sewer lines, new windows, wiring, heating system, removal of asbestos and tile insulation. The doors and walls of the original house were reconfigured to enlarge the chapter room, create a living room, add a library, new rest room, and laundry facilities. To finance this, the house corporation obtained a $680,000 construction loan.

Approximately 60% of study and sleeping accommodations are in the 1958 addition. Phase II renovation of these and the kitchen and dining facilities is estimated at $600,000. How much of this will be completed this summer depends on the success of the current campaign. Alumni may send gifts to the campaign office at P.O. Box 2385, West Lafayette, IN 47906, phone: 317-743-8778.

Indiana Theta's most famous alumnus, Neil Armstrong '55, is co-and former president of the Indiana Theta Alumni Board, Alfred McAllister, '24, were also key supporters of the University and Indiana Theta. McAllister established a $100,000 scholarship fund for the chapter.

Indiana Theta Phis are encouraged to attend the chapter's 100th Birthday Party during Purdue's Homecoming Weekend October 15-17, 1993. ■

Georgia mover and shaker and Georgia Delta alumnus, Raymond Riddle, will be heading the $1.6 billion National Service Industries.

Raymond Riddle takes 'outstanding opportunity'

After a 34-year banking career, D. Raymond Riddle, Georgia Tech '55, one of Georgia's banking giants, has taken his common-sense business style to lead the Fortune 500 firm, National Service Industries.

The 59-year-old Riddle became president and CEO of NSI on January 1. He was formerly the president of Wachovia Bank. Riddle called his career change "an outstanding opportunity for me to do something totally different from anything I've ever done before."

NSI is a diversified manufacturing and service company with annual revenues of more than $1.6 billion and 20,000 employees. The conglomerate has operations in six industries: lighting equipment, uniform rentals, specialty chemicals, envelopes, insulation, and marketing services. NSI's operations extend to all 50 states, Canada, and Western Europe.

Riddle, who said his obvious objective at NSI is "to maximize shareholders' value over time," added that he also feels a strong commitment to the company's huge work force.

Riddle said he will "constantly rethink our strategy and direction. You do that by having smart people around you and sharing their ideas."

"The great thing about this company is that it has very good cash flow and very little debt," he says.

At the end of fiscal 1992, NSI's cash reserve was $110 million and its long-term debt was only 7.7 percent of total capitalization.

"This allows the company to be anything it wants to be," he said.

Riddle says he will make decisions at NSI the same way he made them at Wachovia: conservatively. "Both companies are methodical about assessing risk and understanding what the pluses and minuses of transaction are," he says. "From that standpoint, I don't expect any differences in the way I might look at opportunity."

One intangible element of NSI that Riddle plans to evaluate is the company's culture. "Culture is the way things are done. The way you communicate internally—the subtleties of interaction. You can only find out how culture works when you are actually a part of the process."

Riddle stresses the importance of communicating with people and recognizing mistakes.

"I have found that in managing a business, when you make a mistake, it's important to recognize that mistake and change your course of action."

"You have to know what your skills are," he adds. "I find those things that I don't do well, and then put someone close to me that knows how to handle those problems. If you want to be the best, then that requires you to use all other people's talents that you can find. That's the way I approach this opportunity at NSI."

"It's critical to create a business atmosphere where everyone knows his part on the team, and how much you depend on him. If you surround yourself with good people and you have a level playing field with an honest management dialogue, the people will motivate themselves."

Riddle said his experience at Georgia Tech helped prepare him for the business world. "I learned how to get along with all walks of life, from highly-intelligent, scientific-type people to good ole playboys who stayed out all night."

In 1990, Brother Riddle served on the steering committee that raised $1.25 million to renovate the Georgia Delta chapter house.

"I was very close to the Fraternity," he says. "I made a lot of friends at Phi Delta Theta."

Riddle also chairs the Human Resources Committee for the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games, and oversees all employee hiring and compensation policies.

Riddle says he feels no pressure about becoming the president and CEO of one of the largest industrial corporations in the world. "It's only pressure when you don't know how to deal with it." ■

Spearheaded by Jan Vail and Roger Sicotte, the club contacted area alumni through our club newsletter, "The Golden Gate Phi."

The banquet was held at Schroeder's Restaurant, the oldest restaurant in downtown San Francisco. The affair brought together several generations of Phis. The most senior alumnus to attend was Harold "Hal" Coop, North Dakota '18, who at the ripe age of 95, showed the younger members in attendance that there's no slowing down with age.

Master of ceremonies, Dennis Steinkamp, introduced club officers and guests, including province president, Alan Glover, who updated us on the General Fraternity. Spokesmen for the undergraduate chapters then gave reports.

Signaled by the candle-lighting ceremony, the 30 Golden Legionnaires were each escorted by an undergraduate sponsor. These gentlemen received congratulations from the club officers and a pin signifying their 50 years of membership. Hearty applause greeted the newest inductees into the Golden Legion.

The San Francisco Bay Area Alumni Club, chartered in May 1886, is the oldest alumni club on the Pacific Coast. Its revitalization three years ago has been a success story. Bay Area Phis should meet us at Schroeder's for lunch, the first Friday of each month at 1PM.

Florida Lambda installed at Ringling

by Sean Brennan

The Florida Lambda chapter of Phi Delta Theta was formally installed as the 228th chapter on Saturday, January 30, at the Old Asolo Theater on the grounds of the John and Mable Ringling Museum in Sarasota, Florida. The chapter is the first national or international Greek organization on campus. Arby Dickert Jr., Clemson '78, member-at-large of the General Council, directed the ceremonies. On Friday, January 29, 26 colony members and 20 honorary initiates signed the Bond.

The Florida Lambda chapter started as Alpha Sigma Beta in 1975, a local fraternity whose letters stood for Art Students Brotherhood. It has been Ringling's first and only fraternity. The founding president of Alpha Sigma Beta was William Sillesky.

After interviewing many national fraternities, Alpha Sigma Beta became an interest group of Phi Delta Theta. A petition for colony status was unanimously approved by the General Council on April 26, 1991, and a few months later, Alpha Sigma Beta became the Florida Lambda Colony of Phi Delta Theta under the presidency of Brett Circe.

Many Phis from around the state attended the ceremony including Ed Hopper, Chi South province president; Ken Carle, colony adviser; and Sean Keefer, chapter consultant.

On Friday, January 29, 1993, Phi Delta Theta initiated 46 members into the brotherhood of Phi Delta Theta; 26 undergraduates and 20 alumni at the First Baptist Church in downtown Sarasota.

First on campus. The new Phis at Ringling School of Art & Design celebrate.

Of the honorary initiates, three fathers of the undergraduate members signed the Bond, namely, Jeffery Circe, Charles Moshowitz, and Barry Sporn.

Several current faculty and administrators of Ringling were also initiated, including the dean of students, Dan Cormany; the executive vice president, Frank Countryman; the chair of the Illustration Department, Regan Dunnick; the president of the institution, Dr. Arland F. Christ-Janer; and former president, Dr. Robert E. Perkins. There have only been three presidents in the history of Ringling, and having two of them initiated was very special.

A Phikeia more than 40 years ago, Col. Albert Richard Haney was called off to World War II before his initiation. His dream was fulfilled as he was initiated with the members of Florida Lambda.

The undergraduate initiates were: Cory Barker, Tom Barrett, Sean Brennan, Jason Brunt, David Ciommo, Brett Circe, Ted Cormier, Alex Cruz, Lee Edwards, Dennis Freil, Jim Grove, William Hebert, Justice Mitchell, Ryan Moskowicz, Aaron Norrie, Eric Pairitz, Daniel Ruke, Kay Sawyer, Dave Sport, Sherman E. Whited II, and Jason Yanofsky.

On Saturday morning the brothers, school officials, family, and friends attended the installation ceremony at the Old Asolo Theater. A re-enactment of the founding of Phi Delta Theta was presented by the installation team: director of chapter services, Abe Cross, Tampa '88; Florida Beta chapter adviser, Ron Garon, Tampa '80; province president, Ed Hopper, Akron '65; Dick Creps, Ohio '44; and Paul Evans,

On Campus

Maryland '79. The members then stood, faced the crowd, and sang songs of Phi Delta Theta. Arby Dickert then presented the charter to chapter president, Jay Sawyer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Brenton Reef Restaurant. Brother Sawyer addressed the packed house and introduced speeches by Ken Carle, Dan Cormany, Dr. Arland F. Christ-Janer, and William Sillesky. Following their speeches, Arby Dickert challenged the members to involve themselves in the school and the community. He closed by saying the ceremony was one of the most memorable he had ever attended.

Ringling School of Art & Design was founded on October 2, 1931, by circus mogul John Ringling, one of the partners of the world-famous Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus. The school is located in beautiful Sarasota, Florida, which is famous for its white sand beaches.

Ringling's enrollment is approximately 740 students. The school offers a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree with five majors: computer graphics, fine arts, graphic design, illustration, and interior design. Photography is offered as minor. Ringling is fully accredited by the National Association of Schools of Art and Design and Southern Association of Colleges and Universities. Ringling has been ranked the top "up and coming" Art and Design School in the nation for the second consecutive year.

Over the past few years, Ringling has been recognized as a forerunner in the world of visual arts, because of its acquisition of "Wavefront" computer technology and its tight relationship with Disney Studios in Orlando. The students at Ringling has received numerous awards from local, state, regional, and national contests and exhibits.

Ringling is also host to many world famous artists and designers such as Wendall Minor, president of the Society of Illustrators (NYC) Ringling Graduate; Paul Scher, Kit Hinrichs, and Woody Pirtle, all working for Pentagram Studios; George Pierson, Creative Director of HBO Ringling Graduate; and even world renowned photographer, Annie Liebowitz.

The campus consists of eight academic buildings, totalling more than 35 studios for painting, sculpture, computer labs, photography, woodworking, and lectures. Administrative offices, the Student Life Center, the library, cafeteria, four residence halls, and a campus store make up the rest of the campus.

The school and our members are particularly proud of the Office of Student Life. It offers a wide variety of programs and opportunities for each student to grow socially and academically. A part-time counselor is also available to students.

The counselor and the Ringling Residence Hall staff play a key role in shaping every student on the campus. Four Resident Assistants are Phi Deltas. The Student Life Office earned statewide recognition for its environmental Spring Break trip to one of Florida's State parks.

The 1992-93 school year has been very successful for Florida Lambda with a total of 20 men pledging.

The brothers of Florida Lambda are very involved the school and the community. Four brothers are Resident Assistants. A Phi is president of the Campus Activities Board. Phis have started a hospital project, painting murals in the children's ward of Sarasota Memorial Hospital. We have been summer Resident Assistants, Orientation Leaders, Ringling Volunteers, members of the Residence Hall Council, recipients of the Outstanding Emerging Student Leader Award, participants in the environmental Spring Break, and Big Brothers for the school.

We have been involved with Adopt-A-Highway, the restoration of the Ringling Towers (a historic landmark in Sarasota), the Pelican Man Bird Sanctuary, Mote Marine Aquarium, Gulf Coast World of Science, and Habitat for Humanity. We have conducted nearly 1,000 hours of community service.

Florida Lambda gives special thanks to Carolyn Hayworth, director of development in the Office of Institutional Advancement. Thanks also to: Ken Carle; Dan Cormany; Al McFadden; Lee De Leito and the Sarasota Alumni Club; Tal Bray, past president of the General Council; William Sillesky and the founding fathers of Alpha Sigma Beta who attended. ■

Tennessee Epsilon chartered

by Michael Choate

The Tennessee Epsilon colony was installed as the 227th chapter of Phi Delta Theta on Saturday, January 23, at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga.

Robert A. Biggs, executive vice president; Martin Taylor, assistant director of chapter services, and Arby Dickert, General Council member-at-large, directed the ceremony on Friday, initiating 34 men.

The colony began as an interest group in January of 1991. Officers were elected one week prior to the start of the Gulf War. The seven members that began the interest group worked quickly to attain colony status, and on October 6, 1991, the interest group was installed as the Tennessee Epsilon colony.

Shortly after the colony was installed, the members acquired a house in the upscale Fortwood neighborhood formerly owned by Phi Kappa Alpha. The Fortwood neighborhood association opposed the new colony moving to the neighborhood, and they put pressure on city officials to deny a change in zoning that would allow the colony to live in the house. The debate lasted a year. Two months prior to the chapter's installation, city officials granted the zoning requirements necessary for the colony to remain in the house.

Smoke detectors rang out at 4:30 AM February 22, 1992, alerting the members living in the house of a fire. Fast action enabled the members to extinguish the fire, but not before it caused $10,000.00 in damage.

The difficult transition from interest group to chapter didn't rest solely on the shoulders of the members. Tom Fortune, Florida '83, a former chapter consultant, helped as the first chapter adviser. Jim Partlowe, Tampa '85, became the second chapter adviser when Fortune moved to Florida, and he guided the further development of the chapter.

The colony also received great assistance from province president, Judge Gary R. Wade, Tennessee '70. Judge Wade helped form the Tennessee Epsilon Housing Corporation, and he inspired the existing chapters in the province to lend guidance and support.

The initiation ceremony was held at the All Saints Academy on Friday, January 22, 1993, at 7:00 PM.

On Saturday at noon in Patten Chapel, Robert A. Biggs presented

Brad Beltz, the chapter president, with the charter. Following the installation ceremony, the men gathered at a reception held at the Chattanooga Choo-Choo. Arby Dickert, the keynote speaker for the afternoon, gave an entertaining address, after which several awards were presented. Keith Luckman earned an award for highest GPA in proudly around campus by the eight men who are currently participating in the Phikeia program.

Recent officer elections placed Roland Smith in the office of president, and Kirk Mabry as vice president. These two members will lead the Brothers to ensure the prosperity of the Tennessee Epsilon chapter. ■ the chapter. Roland Smith received "brother of the year" for his continuous hard work and dedication to the chapter. Brad Bennet was awarded Phikeia of the Year and Mac Goeltz earned highest Phikeia GPA.

Chattanooga, Tennessee, the home of the Tennessee Epsilon chapter, was a key city during the Civil War. The city lies on both banks of the Moccasin Bend of the Tennessee River. Chattanooga hosts several famous landmarks, the most famous being the Chattanooga Choo-Choo.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga attracts mostly commuter students. The school offers a number of undergraduate degrees and various graduate studies for its 8,500 students. In 1964, the University joined the Tennessee college system.

Steve Stewart, Westminster '92, was hired as the new assistant director of chapter services. Stewart has worked for General Headquarters as a chapter consultant for a year. In his new position he will be in charge of expansion of the

Steve Stewart

Phis facilitate UIFI

Two Phis served as session coordinators for the National Interfraternity Conference's Undergraduate Interfraternity Institute.

Abe Cross

Abe Cross, Tampa '88, director of chapter services at General Headquarters, and Jim Hoppe, McMaster '90, the Fraternity's scholarship commissioner, both coordinated sessions in Indianapolis.

The program brings fraternity and sorority undergraduate leaders from across the United States into a unified program of leadership education. Rush, cultural differences, group dynamics, and confrontations skills are some of the topics discussed.

"The Institute identifies problems associated with Greek life and helps the students develop strategies to resolve them," says Cross. ■

Fire & life safety loans

Realizing the importance of improved fire and life safety measures in chapter houses, the General Council, on the recommendation of the Housing Commission, will now authorize loans of up to $5,000 to house corporations for specific fire and life safety improvements. The terms of the loans cannot exceed three years and the interest rates are 4%. The funds will be available through the Walter B. Palmer Foundation.

W. R. (Rusty) Richardson, director of business affairs and staff liaison to the Housing

Rusty Richardson

Commission, says the purpose of the loans is to encourage increased safety of chapter facilities.

"The goal of this program is to have the safest fraternity houses in the Greek world," says Richardson. "Every chapter house will have state of the art fire detection equipment to promote life safety."

The program comes as part of a renewed emphasis on the Fraternity's risk management policies, which address housing as well as alcohol.

"As part of a risk management inspection program, we identified these areas as ways to improve the safety of our members in houses" says Richardson. "These loans will help chapters that need to upgrade safety but lack the funds to do so." ■

Three chapter consultants retire

Three of Phi Delta Theta's most visible employees have retired from their positions as chapter consultants. W. Patrick Lay, Centre '90; J. Marc Hopper, McMaster '90, and Sean F. Keefer, South Carolina '90, left staff May 28 after traveling to chapters across the U.S. and Canada for the past two years. Each of them visited undergraduate leaders at approximately 120 chapters.

Brother Lay returned to his home town of Lexington, Kentucky. He will be working in the investment and securities industry.

Marc Hopper returned to his home in Hamilton, Ontario, where he will be relaxing before starting a job search.

Brother Hopper said, "I honestly hope I made a noticeable impact in the chapters over the past two years. I hope I left undergraduates with the understanding that consultants are hired to help them not to act as investigators."

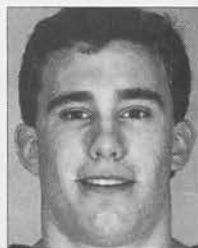

Sean Keefer will be moving to Nashville, Tennessee, to pursue a music career. "I want to be in a position to help the Fraternity in the future," he said. Brother Keefer will be returning to Oxford for the 1993 Leadership College.

General Headquarters has hired four new consultants who will be profiled in the next issue. ■

Phi Delta Theta Foundation

1992 Campaign

By Robert J. Miller
President of the Foundation

As Phi Delta Theta's Educational Foundation has matured (it was authorized by the 1960 Convention), the need to adjust donor levels to reflect cumulative giving has increased as well. At a 1992 meeting of the Board of Trustees, new associations were established at the $25,000, $20,000, and $15,000 levels honoring Founders Robert Morrison, John McMillan Wilson, and Ardivan Walker Rodgers respectively. In doing so, it was necessary to rename the associations at the $7,500 and $5,000 levels, and these were designated the Robert Thompson Drake and Andrew Watts Rogers Associations accordingly. The complete list of giving levels appears on the next page.

Significant gifts during 1992 provided for the creation of three new named funds. Brother Maurice E. Shaffer, Dickinson '30, a longtime member of the Founders Club, made a $50,000 gift to establish a fund in his name. Following graduation from Dickinson College, Brother Shaffer entered the University of Pittsburgh Law School, where he received a degree in 1934. He was admitted to practice before the Common Pleas Court of Dauphin County as well as the Pennsylvania Superior and Supreme Courts and the United States Supreme Court. He was a member of the firm of Shaffer, Calkins and Balaban in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, until his retirement. Maurie and his wife,

Maurice Shaffer

Dorothea, divide their time between a winter home in Boca Raton, Florida, and a summer retreat in Lewisberry, Pennsylvania, where they host the annual Central Pennsylvania Alumni Club picnic.

Brother Arthur C. Musselman, Gettysburg '28, established a $35,000 fund to make scholarship grants available for qualified candidates at his alma mater. A native of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, Brother Musselman attended local schools and graduated from Gettysburg College in 1928, following which he received a master's degree from national high-school championship in 1951. He served with distinction during World War II, entering the United States Army as a captain and being discharged as a colonel. He and his wife, Margaret, moved to Florida in 1961 to enjoy retirement, but he soon resumed teaching his favorite subject in several area high schools until 1972.

The writer presented Founders

Club recognition to Brother Musselman at his home in early January. He entered the Chapter Grand two months later.

The Watson E. Slabaugh, Case Western Reserve '29, Memorial Fund was made possible by gifts from his many friends and especially through the generosity of his family. For many years, Watty was active in community affairs including Rotary, United Community Service, YMCA, Home Builders Club, Woodland Club, and Phi Delta Theta. His unique source of energy and enthusiasm was a catalytic force behind the Mansfield Alumni Club. He was instrumental in the organization and success of annual rush parties which were held for graduating seniors who were departing for colleges and universities where Phi Delta Theta chapters were located. He remained an avid tennis player all his life.

These gifts bring the total of endowed named funds to 23.

Watson Slabaugh

Founders Club recognition has been granted posthumously to former Foundation trustee James M. Collins, Southern Methodist '37. Following his graduation from SMU, he earned MBA degrees from Northwestern University and Harvard University. Not only was he president of the Texas Delta chapter as an undergraduate, but he

Trustees establish new giving levels

At a 1992 meeting, the Foundation trustees adjusted the giving levels. Here are the new levels, amounts, and number of alumni in each level. The number of members in each level reflects cumulative giving, regardless of whether a gift was received in 1992.

During the 1992 solicitation campaign, 340 members were added to various giving levels, and the Foundation received gifts from 514 first-time donors. The number of alumni who have given gifts totaling less than $100 is 19,786. The number of living alumni who have contributed at least once to the Foundation is 32,875.

career as a Representative in the United States Congress. Within one year of his appointment as a trustee of the Foundation, his career came to an untimely end.

Brother Milo E. Chelovitz, Akron '60, graduated with a bachelor of arts and mathematics. He went on to a very successful business career and, in the process, produced two sons, Eric J. and Christopher M., who were initiated into Phi Delta Theta by the chapter at Bowling Green State University. As a statement of his belief in the fraternal system and his love for Phi Delta Theta, he elected to become a member of the Founders Club during the past year. He has long been associated with the Akron Alumni Club and has been a loyal supporter of the Ohio Epsilon chapter, where he played a prominent role in the recent renovation of the chapter house. He is vice president of Cap Gemini America Company, a member of the Cap Gemini Sogeti Group, one of the world's largest professional software services firms.

In a move toward the establishment of a named fund, Brother

Charles W. Poore, South Dakota '61, advanced to the Founders Club level during the past year. Chuck has served the Fraternity for more than 16 years as a province president, assisting the chapters in Nebraska and South Dakota during most of his tenure. He also has served on numerous committees at the international level. He and his wife, Kathy, have been regular participants in General Conventions and various Fraternity conferences. They are the parents of one daughter and two Phi sons, Christopher and Gregory. ■

Planning for Phi Delta Theta's future

The Foundation trustees are pleased to recognize those members and friends of the Fraternity who are interested in planned giving. A planned gift is a contribution for the future, a long-term commitment of financial support (see below).

These gifts, like bequests, trusts, and life insurance policies, offer tax advantages to the donor and make it possible to offer a greater gift than might be possible otherwise.

If you are interested in more information on planned giving, contact the Foundation president, Robert J. Miller, at 2 South Campus Avenue, Oxford, OH 45056 or by phone at 513-523-6966.

Rush Chairman - Law Stuart, 3316 Kenton Drive, Mobile, AL 36608. Fall rush went well this year, producing 15 new Phikeias. The pledge class for 1992-93 included Chris Baggett, Byron Baldwin, O.T. Beverly, Joe Griffin, John Lamberth, Nick Merchant, Brian Pearce, Brett West, and Hayes Wilson, Mobile; Tim Fitzhugh, Fairhope; Jeremy Goldfon, Jim Puckett, Birmingham; Mike Jenkins, Montgomery; Kris Ransom, Gainesville, Georgia; and Bradley Sessions, Gulf Shores. Chris Baggett was named Best Phikeia.

The brothers earned a 2.64 GPA ranking them 14th out of 30 fraternities on campus. Twenty brothers had a 3.0 GPA or better, while several earned a 4.0. Horace and Selwyn Turner scholarships were established this year from the estate of Alletta Turner Jackson of Mobile. These scholarships will hopefully encourage further academic achievement in our chapter. Other additions to our chapter included a new trophy case and several house improvements.

Two brothers were affiliated this winter: Ted Flotte from Mississippi State and John Witherington from Washington and Lee.

Fifty alumni attended the annual Mill Reunion last fall. The Founders Day Banquet also had a good turnout, and nine alumni were inducted into the Golden Legion.

New officers were elected this fall. They are: Doug Ray, president; Chris Robert, vice president; Matthew Norris, secretary; Kevin Braswell, treasurer; Robert Miller, pledgemaster; Judd Harville, house manager; and Law Stuart, rush chairman. Rusher recommendations can be sent to Law Stuart, 848 Lem Morrison Drive, Auburn, AL 36830. — Joe Griffith

Alberta Alpha (1930), 10942 - 87th Ave., Edmonton, AB, T6G 0X3. Chapter Adviser - Don Matheson, 10324 Villa Ave., Edmonton, AB T5N 3T9. Rush Chairman - Kelly Krall, 5103 - 39 Ave., Edmonton, AB T6L 1P3. Alberta Alpha won a Gold Star for last year's efforts. We welcomed back Brothers Don Matheson and Kevin MacLeod who attended the General Convention, and Brothers Sean Ulmer, Jamie Chalcraft, and Tom Carter who went to Leadership College. We also welcomed back Brothers Marlow Gereluk, Jim Hanna, and Roy Janse who spent the previous year overseas. September rush produced 14 Phikeias, and we initiated 12 the following January. In the fall, we took part in the Delt Gamma Anchor Splash, where we placed in the top three. Our Annual Christmas Party was another success, and raised funds needed for house repairs. January rush started late, but we pledged seven new Phikeias, six of whom were initiated this past April. Annual elections were held in March, and Sean Ulmer became president; Kelly Krall, rush chairman; Doug Pratt, vice president, and Jamie Chalcraft, treasurer. Our Founders Day Stag was held March 12th and was well attended. The annual formal dance was also a success the following Saturday. We are graduating 10 members this year. Rush is already planned for September, and we invite alumni and actives from all chapters to stop by the house this September. — James Hanna

In November, we held our 14th annual Casino Party, which raised $2,550.00 for the Arkansas Children's Hospital. Arkansas Alpha also donated money and hours to the Yvonne Richardson Leukemia Fund, Head Start, the Salvation Army, Special Olympics, Adopt-a-Highway, and the Arkansas Sheriff's Boys and Girls Ranch. For the past 13 years, the men of Arkansas Alpha have held a Thanksgiving Dinner at the Hillcrest Towers Adult Center. Other projects included Autumnfest, the Red Cross Blood Drive, and Happy Hollow Elementary School.

The new officers for next fall are: President J. Romuel Willett; Vice President W. B. DeRoek; Treasurer Lane England; and Secretary Robert Moore. — Matt Durrett

1849 Daphne Ln., Yuba City, CA 95991. This year has been prosperous for the California Xi chapter. In the fall, Shawn Mulqueeney was the runner-up for the 1992 Homecoming King. This spring, Brian Hildreth was elected executive vice president of the Chico State Student Body. He was also elected vice president of IFC for the 1993-94 school year. Kevin Hernandez was elected to be the Northern California/Nevada delegate for the Western Regional Greek Conference. Mike Schlomann, while serving as president of our chapter this spring, was also the president of Circle K International, a community service organization. Mark Montgomery was appointed to the Activity Fee Coordinator for the Chico State Student Government.

Our chapter placed above all other fraternities on our campus in Greek Week, and earned fifth overall. This year, Brother Roy Bishop is the Greek Week chairman, as well as the current vice president of Order of Omega.

Our involvement here at Chico State continues to grow every year. We are constantly striving to be the best we can.

California Omicron continues to be a competitive force in all campus intramural sports. We are undefeated in football, softball, and basketball.

California Omicron would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our graduating brothers: Kevin Burke, Paul Harmon, Tom Carmen, Mike McDermott, Kevin Jefferson, Darren Duchi, Chris Ermolik, Jason Swayne, Jim Malmquist, Mark Nigel, and Shawn Cary. — Jim Malmquist & Chris Sanford

Chapter Adviser - John Morrison, 3351 - 31st St. #4, San Diego, A 92104. In the fall, the brothers at California Pi were recognized by IFC for outstanding interfraternity involvement and took 3rd place in the Dean's Trophy. Brother Chris Hull joined Order of Omega, and the chapter participated in a community service with Delta Zeta and the Surfrider Foundation to clean up local beaches. Spring rush involved a younger generation of students, as we invited the children at Hardy Elementary School to the chapter to play in a rented Astro Jump as a service/rush event. We placed second among 17 fraternities in scholarship. In the spring, the brothers and the sisters of Alpha Chi Omega organized a community service event with the Special Olympics.

We would like to thank our two chapter advisers, John Morrison and Chris Thompson, for their overall assistance and contributions to the California Pi chapter. — Jason Kikugawa

Rush Chairman - 611 S. 8th St., San José, CA 95112. The California Iota chapter earned the Gold Star last year, motivating the brothers even more. Our chapter GPA kept us at second of all fraternities on campus, while our Phikeias earned first place. This was the first year for our newest philanthropy event: the all-sorority powderpuff football tournament.

The powderpuff tournament is drawing campus attention along with community support. The event will help to raise money for ALS while creating a fun yet competitive atmosphere for the sororities. We have also participated in tutoring sessions for elementary students and volunteered for the Special Olympic activities.

Our social calendar is always packed with many exchanges and group events. With the help of the treasurer and stringent bylaws we have kept our accounts receivable below 2%. Our new house has been maintained without any difficulties and is completely filled for the upcoming school year. We made the playoffs and semi-finals in every intramural sport and received first place in volleyball.

Through the hard work of our rush chairman and the selection of quality Phikeias, our membership has risen this year despite the decrease in students pledging Greek. In the 1992-93 school year we have initiated better than 90% of our Phikeias. — Charles Taylor

Rush Chairman - Revor Anderson, 336 "C" St., Davis, CA 95616. The California Epsilon chapter initiated 16 men and pledged seven Phikeias in the spring. These numbers are up from last year at this time, and we hope to increase these numbers even more next year.

We have made some changes to the exterior and interior parts of the house. In the front of the house we poured concrete to be used as either a parking lot or a basketball court. In the backyard we put in a full length sand volleyball court. These two additions will be great for rush events. We also intalled a fence that surrounds the back of the house and a small fence that encloses the basketball court. We are also proud of the the new lawn and sprinkler system we put in the front yard.

The downstairs bathroom has also been renovated, and a new refrigerator has been added. We are very proud of all our accomplishments and have high expectations of producing another successful year. —Chris Wilson

We also have five Phikeias in the Nu pledge class.

The chapter publishes three alumni newsletters annually. We are enjoying growing support from the California Mu Alumni Association, which was recently established with Pat Sullivan as president. Our new chapter adviser is Brian Sladic, an alumnus of California Mu who is replacing "Papa" Lou Evans who held the position for six years. Through the California Mu Housing Committee the chapter attained a 14 unit apartment complex that will act as the chapter house for the next three years. The chapter received its fourth Gold Star in five years and currently holds five out of the eight IFC executive positions. Once again we are celebrating our third annual Phi Pride Week with proceeds from Bossie Bingo being donated to ALS.

We, the brothers of the California Mu chapter, look forward to the challenges that the 1993-94 year hold and welcome all the brothers of Phi Delta Theta to visit our chapter. —Merced A. Muro competition, band frolic, we took second place. We have also gained control of the townhouses where we are located, and we will no longer have to go through the University to secure our housing. We will now be able to add facilities, intramural sports, and community service. But most importantly, the brothers of Florida Gamma are proud to announce the success of the new Phikeia program, which stresses positive reinforcement. As a result of all the positive changes that have been made, the morale of the chapter has sky-rocketed.

Florida Gamma will be sending a record-setting 28 delegates to Leadership College this August, which is 65% of the chapter's current membership. This is the largest delegation we have ever sent. The main goal of the trip will be to improve the chapter's rushing techniques, as we are already planning on a big rush for Fall 1993. All alumni and actives from all chapters are more than welcome to come visit us and participate in our rush activities during the week of August 24-28.

There are 16 brothers currently living in the house. This summer, approximately 20 brothers will reside in the house, and in the Fall 1993, we will surpass the house capacity with a total of 30 brothers. There is a waiting list of brothers who are anxious to move in.

Due to the number of brothers and the poor condition of the house we are renting, Florida Gamma is looking to build a new chapter house. The chapter has located land that is for sale and is currently trying to raise money to purchase it. Without a chapter adviser, we are having difficulties starting the project. Virtually all knowledge of Florida Gamma's alumni program was lost after the University suspension in 1988, so we are starting from scratch in alumni relations. Therefore, a new edition of Florida Gamma's alumni newsletter, "The Sword & Shield," will be mailed early this summer and will address our current housing problem, as well as the activities for the upcoming year.

After a long break over the summer, the chapter was ready to get right into school and meet new freshman. Fundraiser, Michael Mullin, organized 20 of the brothers to work at a Florida Gators football game in Gainesville. Our Christmas formal at Brother John Hermansen's house was a great event for everyone.

We pledged four new Phikeias in January: Chris Dunn, Peter Rosato, Todd Servick, and David Welch. The chapter was excited for these four young men and had an incredible time on pledge Saturday. The pledge program was run very well by Doug Thompson, pledgemaster. During mid-winter break many brothers went to Key West and had the time of their lives. During this time, Matthew Levy was initiated. Brothers Lorenzo Borghese and Jeremy Fernandes were seldom seen, because of extenuating circumstances. Spring weekend was held at Captiva Island in South Florida and was a huge success, due to the hard work of J. G. Robillotti. We congratulate Todd Servick on his initiation and say a heartfelt "good bye" to the senior class. —Chris Victory

University of Central Florida
Florida Iota (1981), 12108 Darwin Drive #1, Orlando, FL 32826. Chapter Adviser - Gregory T. Rhodes, 10247 Comfort Circle, Orlando, FL 32825. The Phi Deltas at the University of Central Florida did everything from rockin' Pi Phi's arrow to slip slidin' away with Delta Gamma's prized anchor in their annual water event.

We started the year off right when we captured first place in Delta Gamma's annual Anchor Splash competition (the biggest sorority event on campus). We captured the attention of all the other fraternities as well. Despite the huge gap in membership between our chapter and the largest fraternity on campus (about 105), the UCF Phis dominated Anchor Splash in most of their individual categories including Penny Drop, King Neptune, Synchronized Swimming, and Spirit.

We also did well in other campus events like Greek Week, where we held fifth overall and third place in the Greek Sing competition. We also saw their best intramural hockey season to date, going all the way to five periods into the finals.

This year we also had a handful of brothers give up their spring break to clean our house and paint the downstairs rooms—just in time for Founders Day when we hosted our alumni (a result of our improved alumni newsletter) for a cookout and some words about the beginning of Phi Delta Theta. —Gregory Witte

Rockville, MD, John Mark Todd; Miami, FL, Chet Schwartz; East Brunswick, NJ, and Andrew Ugalde; Fort Lauderdale, FL. The brothers of Florida Alpha are very proud of our Phikeias, they are learning the ways of the fraternity and are currently approaching initiation. Through the semester, the Phikeias, together with the brothers, have enjoyed: outstanding socials with sororities, late night parties, a successful "Woodser" date function, a formal, and the participation in a new philanthropy, Phi Delta Theta/Alpha Xi Omega "Bed Race". At Florida Alpha, we pride ourselves on a strong brotherhood, and these events help mold close friendships and integrate Phikeias into the brotherhood.

Currently, Phi Deltas are ranked second in intramural standings on campus and our scholarship is continuously improving. Christopher Puri, 1634 Ponce De Leone Ave., Apt. 408 NE, Atlanta, GA 30307. Rush Chairman - Corey Gunzberg, Drawer L., Emory University, Atlanta, GA 30322. After two strong rushes, Georgia Beta has increased its membership to 65 brothers. We have used these new men to strengthen our chapter, and our achievements in athletics, academics, and on campus demonstrates our success.

Despite the fact that fewer freshmen have been going through rush at Emory, Phi Delt has pledged large spring classes for the past two years. With the leadership of rush chairman, Mike Parker, we pledged 25 new Phikeias. These young men are extremely active on campus, participating in such organizations as the debate team, cheerleading, and RHA. There are also several varsity athletes among our Phikeias, as well as the coach of the newly rejuvenated Emory lacrosse team.

Behind All-Row Athlete of the Year, Josh Weber, this year's Phi Delt sports teams have excelled. In softball, hockey, and football, the Phis won every regular season game. Despite some bitter losses in the finals and semi-finals, the All-Row title was still within striking distance. Second semester started out with a bang as Phikeia Ian Zaslansky nailed a last-second three-pointer to beat our perennial basketball rival, AEPi. We are planning to field a very strong soccer team this semester, and three-peat as champions in the volleyball competition. Record numbers of fans are turning out for our games, and every brother has high expectations that Phi Delt will finally reign as All-Row Champions.

The Emory Phis have improved academically. This year our 3.2 GPA ranked second on the row. We also have the distinction of having three Phi Beta Kappa members. With senior brothers entering post-graduate studies at Duke, Yale, Harvard, and Stanford, it is clear that the brothers of Georgia Beta take scholarship seriously.

Emory Phis are also being recognized as leaders on campus. Residence Life has five sophomore advisers and two resident advisers who are Phis. Last semester Phi Deltas composed nearly a quarter of the College Council, and two SGA representatives were also Phis. Brother Rob Brainin also served as SGA president. In the recent SGA elections, Phi Deltas again garnered positions in SGA. Michael Berry and Jeff Bartos won were elected president and vice president, respectively.

Strong leadership, sound learning, and the desire to excel in everything we do, has given the Georgia Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta the reputation of being one of the best chapters on the row. —Randy Fingerhut

The chapter has continued to improve. This year we have been able to strengthen our brotherhood and minimize conflicts within the chapter. We are heading into next year with a renewed commitment to strengthen Illinois Beta and its presence on campus. Approximately 100 alumni and guests returned to the Champaign-Urbana campus of the University of Illinois for a fun-filled weekend. In addition, we were honored to have Robert (Fitz) Fitzpatrick, the warden of the International Fraternity as the featured speaker.

Although many guests arrived Friday night, the real activities kicked off Saturday morning with a delicious brunch put together by Brothers Brian Good and Steve Auer at the chapter house. Immediately following the brunch a short tour of our newly renovated house began. New initiate and historian-elect Brother Darren Benjamin put together a wonderful display of photos, rush pamphlets, and other memorabilia from the past for the alumni to peruse during the social hour. The House Association convened a meeting in the afternoon to discuss business and to hear a report from chapter president, Mike Mahoney.

The evening got off to an early start with hors d'oeuvres at the house. The crowd then boarded awaiting buses for transportation to Jumer's Castle Lodge where our banquet was held. After Brother Fitzpatrick delivered the keynote address, Brothers Ted Mesiacos and Benjamin conducted a slide show detailing Illinois Eta's rich and proud 100-year history.

Perhaps the two best things to come from the event were the myriad of stories from the alumni and, as event co-coordinator Brother Auer put it, "It was good for the actives to see just how supportive our alumni are and how much Phi Delta Theta means to them!" —T. Chapin Rose

Rush Chairman - Scott Silver, 32 Elaine Drive, Bristol, CT 06095. Massachusetts Delta faced the challenge of maintaining momentum and leadership after the departure of most of our founding fathers.

Our rush and pledge programs have proven to be very successful, and our new initiates are already assuming several leadership positions.

We have been making significant contributions to the community. Several brothers have participated in the local Big Brother/Little Brother program, while others have volunteered to paint a local soup kitchen. This past Christmas we co-sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged children. Our Second Annual Run for Life Road Race, which benefits the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS) Association, was a tremendous

We won the Greek Cup as overall intramural sports champions for the third consecutive year. Our first-place softball, basketball and football teams all helped us to attain this honor. Our kitchen renovation is completed, and we are looking at other areas in the house to improve. Our efforts to improve our scholarship paid off when we placed third out of 13 fraternities and beat both the all-men's and all-Greek grade averages.

The fourth annual Flint Duck Race raised over $2,200 for Special Olympics, and our numerous casino nights and valet parking service has also raised money. Our favorite project this year has been operation Brush-Up, in which we and a local sorority painted a house in a low-income neighborhood as part of a community beautification program.

We also held the annual Softball Classic and Alumni Weekend. Many alumni and family members turned out to share in our day of events. All the brothers had a great time at our annual semi-formal dance and dinner, and our alumni secretary once again organized an excellent Founders Day. —Chad M. Vliek Hulgrave, 34187 Bretton, Livonia, MI 48145. The Michigan Beta chapter began the 92-93 school year faced with adversity. We had many goals to accomplish and have come close to achieving them all. We decreased our $7,000 debt to only $2,000 and have regained our Bond and rituals. The transition from quarters to semesters gave us only two rushes instead of three, but we overcame the obstacles and initiated 16 new members. Our chapter took second place in the Greek football championship continuing our athletic prowess.

We cannot settle with what we have accomplished thus far; the brothers must continue to find solutions instead of excuses. We look forward to continuing to progress and set even higher goals. —Paul Withee

We pledged 35 new Phikeias in August and our first year, we accomplished much in the areas of scholarship, athletics, community service, and campus activities.

The chapter earned best fraternity GPA in the resulted in our spring '92 pledge class earning highest pledge GPA, and our fall '92 pledge class earned highest GPA of new initiates.

Missouri Zeta placed first in numerous intramural and interfraternity sports events. We won Tri Delta's Frats at Bat, Alpha Xi Delta's Rose Bowl, Tri Sigma's Shout Out, and Alpha Chi
Omega's Frisbee Football Contest. We also won both Greek and All School Championships in Highway.

Our greatest achievements were winning rush. We pledged a substantial group of quality rushees.

Missouri Epsilon is proud to be the home of the

We finished first in Fling, and first runner-up in Greek Week. Our community service chairman, Clay Bethune, adopted a stretch of Interstate 70 for the chapter to maintain. Jeff Seesing and David Schulte were named to the 1996 U.S. synchronized swimming team. Clay "Boom Boom" Bethune was victorious at the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fight Night capturing the title in the heavyweight division. Brothers Brad Boswell, Rod Savage, and David Wagn won the Pi Beta Phi basketball tourney and were sent to the Gillette 3-on-3 national basketball competition in Kansas City, Missouri. As part of his duties, Brother Shafer will co-chair the Greek Social Board.

Prior to this executive office, Brother Shafer has held numerous offices in the chapter. These offices include: vice president for two terms, social chairman, awards chairman, and pledge class historian.

Shafer carries a 3.4 GPA in his major of English, holds a position on the Teachers College Advisory board, was a facilitator for the IFC New Initiate Retreat, is involved in the WLES Minority Tutoring Program, volunteer coaches at a local high school, is involved in the Lincoln City Rec Basketball League, and is a Knight of Columbus.

Tropicana #901, Las Vegas, NV 89103. 1992-93 was a banner year for the Runnin' Rebel Phis from UNLV! In its second year of existence, Nevada Beta was awarded Most Improved Chapter at UNLV.

In August the chapter sent five Phis to the Leadership College in Oxford, Ohio, including Robert Snyder, one of 18 Phis to participate in last year's Ambassador Program. The chapter also began a local area alumni club and started hosting monthly luncheons.

In September the chapter pledged 12 quality men, and 11 were initiated. We won the coveted chapter football trophy back from Delta Sigma Phi, and a heated rivalry has developed.

In October, the chapter hosted a successful Homecoming Tailgate party for local area alumni and participated in its third annual Carnival Daze with Zeta Tau Alpha. We also held the third annual alumni golf tournament for area alumni. Brother Snyder was elected president of the IFC.

In January, Nevada Beta won its first IFC intramural championship, blowing past the competition in 3-on-3 basketball. Four men pledged in the spring semester. Led by brothers Andre Lagomarsino, Bill Redlin, Scott Frazier, Jason Bash, and Michael Gaynor, it was cause for great celebration.

During March Madness, 14 Nevada Beta brothers journeyed to Long Beach, CA to watch the Runnin' Rebels in tournament action. Unfortunately, the Runnin' Rebels ran out of steam towards the end of the year, and for the first time in a decade they failed to qualify for the Big Dance.

In April, the chapter placed second in the Greek Week competition and won the prestigious "Greek Showcase." Nevada Beta was also chosen by the General Headquarters to participate in a new pilot pledge program.

In May, the chapter held its annual Sword & Shield Awards Banquet and Formal. Brother Steve Brown won the coveted Larry! of the Year award. Brother Brown also won the Office of the Year award for his work as social chairman. President John Keating won Phi of the Year and was accepted to law school. #### University of Nevada at Reno

Nevada Alpha (1972), PO Box 14126, Reno, NV 89507. Chapter Adviser - Sam H. White, 1945 "K" St., Sparks, NV 89431. Rush Chairman - Ryan Caddel, 1235 Radford Drive, Reno, NV 89511. This spring we have been working hard to get back on our feet. The past few years have been difficult, because we do not have a house and our pledge classes have been small in number. Last fall we pledged four men who are gentlemen and scholars. We are building up our numbers again and look forward to a stronger chapter in the future.

Our main goals are to intensify our rush program and to move into a house. We have a summer rush program planned which looks like a big success. Many active members of the Nevada Alpha chapter are from Reno, or other parts of Nevada, and know quite a few incoming freshmen. This should help our summer rush program as well as our fall rush programs.

We made an unsuccessful attempt to move into a house this spring, but this has not changed our goals or diminished our enthusiasm. Because of the strong bond between all of the brothers and the prospect of a great rush we believe that moving into a house will not be a problem next spring.

all the brothers and chapters that called or sent letters. Pete's memory will live with us forever.

On a happier note New Hampshire Beta celebrated its tenth anniversary on April 17 with a huge gala in Boston. One hundred brothers were in attendance including Rob McInnes, president of the Alpha East province, and Anthony Ambrose, treasurer of the General Council. Special thanks to both brothers for attending and making the event such a success.

The chapter has been very busy helping such organizations as The Boys and Girls Club of Manchester, The Special Olympics, and The Red Cross. We also participated in Campus Clean-Up, Alcohol Awareness Week, and Earth Day.

Our Housing Committee is in the final stages of being completed, and we have formed a Finance Committee to help keep our finances in line. All this has been done under the close eye of our new president Patrick Casey. Pat has done a great job and we hope he will be our inspiration during the up and coming years.

All the brothers are looking forward to another great year as we say goodbye to our seniors. We would like to congratulate Brother Doug Clickner on his recent engagement to Jen Muller. Good Luck Doug. —Austin Keough

Rush Chairman - Marc Rubenstein, 66 College Ave., New Brunswick, NJ 08903. This past year the members of New Jersey Alpha have worked hard to renovate our newly acquired chapter house. The house has blessed us with the opportunity to grow closer as a brotherhood, and we invite any local alumni to come by and visit.

We face many challenges in the upcoming months and would welcome any support offered to us. New Jersey Alpha has worked hard to maintain its high scholastic standing and was able to achieve the second ranking among the 30 fraternal organizations at Rutgers University. The brothers of Phi Delta Theta have continued to be leaders on campus.

The positions held by this include class president, University senator, and chairman of the Greek Review Board. Community service has remained high on our list of priorities with blood drives, work in local soup kitchens, and a self defense seminar open to the Rutgers community. We are proud to announce the recent initiation of the Lambda pledge class. These fine young men are leaders and will become great assets to our chapter. Rush is a year-round concern for us, and we will hold various rush events throughout the summer to keep our chapter thriving. We would also like to welcome our new chapter advisor, Kevin Cauley and give our best wishes to our graduating seniors. —Keith D. Barrack

At the beginning of spring, we became the first fraternity to install a meal service, and we pledged five Phikeias. Under our community service chairman, Michael Woolsey, we completed many service and philanthropy projects, including selling daffodils for cancer patients, fund-raising for the MDA, cleaning local parks, and outreach services for the University.

We extend our best wishes to our graduating seniors, Jeff Garrett, Jeff Strain, and Darren King. Although separated by distance, we will be forever united in the Bond. —Steve Sloboda

The chapter also demonstrated its athletic prowess by winning championships in the "A" softball league, "A" volleyball, the cross country meet, bowling, and the swim meet, among others. We also placed well in several sports including "C" football, the track meet, and basketball. Our athletic achievements put us second place overall among fraternities in athletic competition.

Columbia St., Chapel Hill, NC 27514. We've had another good year here at UNC and at the end of the spring term we had 41 brothers, including our honorary brother, Matthew Mason, who has been with our chapter since 1934. We also pledged seven Phikeias this year who have now been initiated.

Out of 18 fraternities we are ranked sixth in GPA, and at the end of this term many brothers will be initiated into Phi Beta Kappa. More than 20 brothers consistently make the dean's list, and we have two members who work closely with the University's Judicial system.

Athletically we had another successful year as our intramural football and softball teams performed well. Our basketball team won the fraternity league championship for the second consecutive year.

Seven of our members volunteer their time and serve as "big brothers" in the Crossroads program which provides leadership and guidance to school children. We actively participate in a Greek recycling program, and several Phi Deltas work with Habitat for Humanity. Five brothers volunteer in a Childhood Cancer Friends Program which matches cancer patients at UNC hospitals with college students. After a year of work, we regained possession of our charter during our annual Founders Day this past spring. We are proud and relieved to have our charter back. After spring initiation, the chapter's membership will be at 71 members, up from only

38. This improvement was the result of an excellent fall rush and a new Phikeia education program.

Brother Jim Poolman was elected to the North Dakota House of Representatives, joining Senator John T. Traynor, and Representatives Andy Maragos and John Mahoney, Phis in the North Dakota legislature. Scott Iserman was elected student body president, and Jon Norberg, Chris Zitzer, and Matt Wuebben were elected to the student senate.

The chapter also built a float for the homecoming parade. Our float echoed the homecoming theme of "fairytale legends" by fashioning it to look like a pirate ship. We had neighborhood children ride on the float with us.

Honors the chapter claimed this year were having Mark Metzger (a fourth generation Phi) named as the campus Homecoming King. Mark is the fourth Ohio Mu member in four years to receive this honor. Marco Mannocho was honored as a co-captain and all-conference fullback for the AU football team. The chapter received two of the campus Greek awards last year and hopes to sweep the awards this year.

Other campus leaders from the chapter include: Henry Rauhaus, student senate president; Rob Pasquinnucci, IFC president and college newspaper editor; and many other Phis are leaders in campus organizations.

Michael, 2751 W. Asplin, Rocky River, OH 44116. Rush Chairman - Gery Silverhart, 480 Lehman #217, Bowling Green, OH 43402. In the past two semesters, the Phis of Ohio Kappa have made improvements to our chapter house, hosted a successful philanthropy, participated in the Ohio Highway Department's "Adopt a Highway" program, and have a new philanthropic activity on the drawing board.

Brother Craig Crock generously donated his time and money into reproducing composites from 1949-1980 that were destroyed in a flood a number of years ago. These men now have their photos proudly displayed throughout the chapter house, and it gives current members and Phikeias an idea of just how Phi Delta Theta has grown and evolved at BGSU. This was Brother Crock's goodbye gift to the chapter.

Once again, Ohio Kappa, along with Delta Gamma sorority, hosted the "Anchor Splash" philanthropy at BGSU's Cooper Pool. This event was highly successful and raised money to aid in sight conservation.

Ohio Kappa is currently seeking a new chapter adviser, and we hope to find an alumnus in the Bowling Green-Toledo area that could fill this position.

Brothers Jon Alder and Jeff Reider attended the annual MIFCA/MAPCA conference in Columbus, Ohio. Both men had a chance to meet Phis and other Greeks from all over the midwest.

Our chapter recently participated in Ohio's "Adopt a Highway" program, so if you're near I-75 between Toledo and Bowling Green, you'll see a road sign bearing the chapter's name!

Ohio Kappa also has a new philanthropy in the works. We hope to hold an event in the University Union Oval this fall in order to raise money to help fight Lou Gehrig's Disease.

We are also developing new rush strategies to remain competitive. With another Fraternity reestablishing themselves here at BGSU, rush has become almost cut-throat. This spring we elected a rush committee to ensure a successful fall rush. The committee, chaired by Brother Gary Silverhart, consists mainly of young, highly motivated brothers. —David W. The brothers here at Ohio Alpha are enjoying another successful year in athletics. We are doing quite well this year in Fraternity Division II. This comes after our decent showing in this past year's Greek Week by placing ninth out of 28 fraternities. Our Phikeias also excelled this year by placing third in the first annual Pledge Class Olympics by winning the flag football tournament and placing third in the 3-on-3 basketball tournament. Brothers also participated in varsity soccer, swimming, and baseball.

For the third consecutive semester, we were first in GPA of 28 fraternities.

This year we had the honor of coordinating our Founders Day with General Headquarters. We held our celebration on March 25 with a reception at the chapter house and a banquet in campus facilities. The Golden Legion ceremony honored three alumni on their 50th anniversary of being a Phi. Some of the notable guests in attendance were Weeb Ewbank, Fletcher Benton, Robert J. It was decided that 1992-93 would be a turning point in the history of Phi Deltas on the University of Akron campus.

In October, we joined our alumni in dedicating the Phi Delta Theta Gateway on the east entrance of our campus. The gates feature the names of the Immortal Six as well as the names of alumni who generously donated the funds for the project. The chapter held an open house for university officials and our alumni after the dedication ceremonies.

After a poor rush in the fall, the chapter pledged 16 of the 34 men to come through house tours in spring rush. The Phikeias organized an All-Greek cookout at the chapter house, and they also made a trek to Miami in February. The pledge class is: Dana Adkins, Eric Bauer, Scott Brinkman, Mike Carter, Carl Clapper, Matt Gulla, Chuck Hamad, Paul Hummel, Dave Janke, Aaron Settepanella, Jim Smolick, Patrick Studdard, and Ron Tynes.

Our philanthropy was a 48-hour Shoot-a-Thon to benefit LifeBanc, the organization who assisted Brother Al Wilhelm in finding a replacement heart and lung last year. The brothers took hour shifts for 48 straight hours to shoot baskets and take donations from the university community.

We again held a '50s Dance for our fund-raiser. We rented a hall and employed the service of the musical group, The Class of '57. The alumni and parents of the chapter all had a blast. We are already looking forward to the third annual dance next year.

New officers were elected in April: Robert Turning, vice president; Doug Backus, treasurer; Dave Johnson, secretary; Scott Hertle, housemanager; Erik Marsteller, warden; Emmanuel Maragos and Matt Snowberger, pledge educators; and Dave Bener, alumni secretary. Along with the sisters of Kappa Kappa Gamma, Ohio Theta built a homecoming float out of more than 2,000 cans of food which were then donated to a local food shelter. Ohio Theta has also completed smaller projects with the Campfire Kids, the state's Adopt-A-Highway program, and we are currently landscaping the neighborhood's hillside.

This past year Ohio Theta had a strong showing in the intramurals program. Members also serve as the IFC vice president, secretary, justice, and several members sit on committees. We also pledged a very good class of 29 Phikeias.

The next goal was to strengthen our brotherhood. We held a chapter retreat and other chapter-only events once each week. Our biggest goal was to increase our membership. We initiated Bond number 1038 this spring, and we elected two rush chairmen to plan a successful fall rush.

We have enjoyed considerable success in intramural sports. We organized four basketball teams, and two went to the playoffs. In badminton, the team of Ronnie Boyle and Jason Johnson took second place honors in the Greek division. In softball and floor hockey, two of our three teams in each sport went to the playoffs. Unfortunately, they all lost in the first round. We are gearing up for the intramural track meet which will be held May 1. As of April 27, we are ranked seventh out of 22 fraternities on campus.

In Freshmen Follies, we won best vocals, most original, and second place overall. In Spring Sing, we took third place overall. We also earned the award for best participation. We are already anticipating victory next year.

Alumni with rush recommendations should write the chapter, and we will immediately contact the prospective member. —Jason Sutton and Brian Diener

Rush Chairman Andrew Bell, 33 Stevenson Ave., Ottawa, ON K1S 5H8. The year at Ontario Epsilon started off long before the academic year, sometime during the summer. Everyone in the Fraternity had one goal in mind—the charter and initiation as brothers of Phi Delta Theta. A retreat was held at the end of summer with Scott MacDonald, rush chairman, as host. It served to renew friendships and to get down to pressing business. It was a success. Everyone left motivated with an eagerness that carried us through preparing for initiation, planning the installation, composing the charter petition, organizing fund raisers, and executing rush and formal pledging—all before the end of November.

Rush brought 14 new members, and on November 19, 1992, the colony pledges became members. On the 20th, all 36 of us were initiated as true Phi's and on Saturday the 21st, the colony was installed as a chapter, and our charter was received by President Tony Robillard and founder, Eric Perron.

Another retreat was held by social chairman, Marc Secours, in the winter term. Rush brought a close-knit class of five Phikeias. They experienced the chapter's very first initiation ceremony and became proud brothers on April 4, 1993.

Organized by brother Norm Paquette for the ALS Society of Ottawa, all the members of the chapter and other participants took part in the Second Annual Phi Delta Theta Quest for Hope Bike-a-thon. Originally scheduled for April 3, heavy snow delayed it to April 10. That day gave Ottawa its first rain warning of the year, but the bike-a-thon proceeded, surpassing our previous goal of $3,700.00—André Tang Ontario Gamma has continued to strive for excellence this year. Our overall GPA increased by more than a full point, and several of our members received recognition for their achievements. We have created new scholarship awards to inspire greater academic performance. We initiated 13 new members this past year.

Brothers participated in several philanthropy events from bike rides to polar dips. However, probably the most memorable of the events was the Leap for Life campaign. One cold morning in October, the brothers lined up in front of the Hamilton City Hall and then leap-frog jumped over one another to the town hall in Dundas—a distance of ten kilometers. The money went to the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

This year also saw us complete a large number of successful social events not the least of which was our joint formal with the other Greek societies on campus. We even managed a game of Hockey against our rival, Delta Upsilon. A number of the brothers also visited chapters in the United States during our reading week in February.

Individuals within the chapter have distinguished themselves and brought honour to our chapter through their efforts. Brent Herspiegel ran for president of the students union before accepting a position as a chapter consultant with General Headquarters. Greg Winter was elected president of the IFC on campus. This year has been imperial, and we expect 1993-94 to be even better.

A total of eight Phikeias were initiated, making this the second most successful first-term rush of any of the U of T campus fraternities. However, our second term rush was not as successful, and we were forced to cancel our second term Phikeia program.

This past February, we held a very successful Founders Day. We also held a very exciting first term formal. However, due to several internal problems and ongoing financial difficulties, we were forced to cancel several exchanges as well as our second term formal.

At the end of this academic term, eight brothers graduated, leaving our active membership at only 12 members. However, with our recent election of new officers and a new Executive Committee, the chapter is confident that better times are ahead for Ontario Alpha.

Oregon Delta (1982), PO Box 2280, Oregon Tech Branch, Klamath Falls, OR 97601. Chapter Adviser - Dr. Russell Lyon, 1011 Vista Way, Klamath Falls, OR 97601. Our chapter turned ten years old in November, which makes us the oldest existing fraternity on campus. Our membership is 22 brothers and two Phikeias. This year was very challenging and an excellent learning experience, since we are no longer in a house and are working our way out of debt. These temporary setbacks have not kept us down; we still managed to meet for occasional dinners and social gatherings.

The Phi Deltas here at Oregon Tech have still remained the most active organization on campus in community service, contributing many hours to food-drives, blood drives, Parents Weekend, OIT's annual Dinner Theatre, and the Benefit Bowl to help a sick child in need of funds for medical care.

We had four brothers in student government this year and will have at least three this upcoming year. The chapter wanted to develop closer contact with area Phi Delta alumni, so we held our tenth anniversary celebration in the fall, the chapter's twelfth annual Snow-Blowout at Sunriver Resort during the winter, and another alumni weekend during the spring. During winter term we also held our first Founders Day banquet, which we hope will be an annual event.

Five delegates plan to travel to Oxford for Leadership College this summer, which should give them many fresh ideas and motivation for the rebuilding several areas of chapter and house management. Our efforts were recognized by the University and International Fraternity. At the 69th Biennial Convention in Arlington, VA, the chapter returned to Oregon with the Scholarship Award for academic excellence and the Gold Star Award for chapter excellence.

We dedicate the 1993 Gold Star Application for Chapter Excellence to those who believed in our efforts. Despite the trials and tribulations, our supporters never stopped believing in us, and for these reasons, the chapter recognizes these special alumni and friends: The Honorable Wallace P. In April, the chapter joined with Gamma Phi Beta in the University's 1993 Spring Week. Chapter enthusiasm helped the brothers bring home third place overall. The chapter also sponsored its 6th annual parents day. More than 150 family members attended and enjoyed food, family, and entertainment.

One of the most successful events was the Phi Delta Theta Volleyball Marathon to benefit the Kelly Anne Dolan Memorial Fund. With the help of sponsors, we raised $2,900 for families with terminally ill children. Pennsylvania Mu also had a Dance Marathon along with Phi Sigma Sigma sorority which raised $1,700 for the fund.

This year's spring formal was held at The Mansion in Cherry Hill, NJ. More than 100 actives, alumni, and their dates attended, and our Alumnus of the Year and Chapter Adviser Awards were given to John Surano and Nick Schaefer, respectively.

Other events included one of our brothers, John Surano, being named Homecoming King, and Mike Vittorio begin named Greek Week's Greek God. We also had the pleasure of hosting Brother Ron "Corky" Garon for a discussion with all Greeks entitled "Taking Pride Within the Greek System."

We were the recipients of many campus awards, including The Cellucci Cup for outstanding community service, The Brotherhood Award, which is awarded to the fraternity which exemplifies leadership and teamwork. Our president, Mark Smith, won Fraternity President of the Year, and Keith Slater, our chaplain, won New Greek of the Year. Also our fall pledge class was awarded a plaque for the highest GPA for a new member class. John Surano was inducted into the Order of Omega. We will be sending eight brothers to Leadership College. —Todd Kaufmann

Rush Chairman - Bradley Keefer, 4819 Walnut St., Loris, SC 29569. South Carolina Beta has progressed significantly this past year, combining innovative ideas with tradition. For the second consecutive semester, South Carolina Beta has attained the highest GPA for fraternities.

The brothers have established new ties with the Columbia community through our service projects. We volunteered at Palmetto Place, a shelter for abused and neglected children. We also volunteered our time and efforts to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation at one of its receptions.

We have recently established a program for alumni relations. Our first alumni event was held April 25 at the home of our new chapter adviser, Pete Kennedy, South Carolina '68. This alumni event improved our chapter's sense of brotherhood and created great excitement and enthusiasm for the upcoming fall semester. We hope this energy will help us in all future endeavors, especially rush. The brothers of South Carolina Beta presently have no on-campus housing and are scattered across campus and the city of Columbia. However, in the closing weeks of the spring semester, great strides have been made toward the acquisition of on-campus housing. An effort spear-headed by Matt Griffith, the new chapter president, and Pete Kennedy has given hope to us. By the end of the spring semester, we hope to know our new location on campus. The facility should add to the chapter's enthusiasm for the upcoming semester and motivate everyone for a successful fall rush.

Walnut, Cookeville, TN 38501. Spring semester '93 has been a profound time of recognition for Tennessee Delta. After two consecutive years of being awarded Most Improved Fraternity, we finally won Fraternity of the Year. Phi Delta Theta was voted by the other chapters on campus as the winner of the Greek Unity Award, awarded to the fraternity who best exemplifies camaraderie and cooperation. We won the Greek Week Chariot Races and finished second overall in Greek Week.

Spring rush was outstanding and we should have 50 active brothers by fall semester. We currently have 11 Phikeias.

Our annual philanthropic event, All-Sing, was a great success, raising almost $1,000 for charity. We thank our chairman, Bryan Vanosdale, as well as all of the brothers for stepping up and taking responsibility in order to make All-Sing a success.

Rush Chairman - Jeff Mokros, 6422 Massey Estates, Memphis, TN 38120. This year has been a very successful one for Tennessee Gamma. We are making significant progress on the appearance of our house. With the help of funds from our alumni, landscaping has been done on the front and back of the house. In addition, the alumni are setting aside $13,000 to replace our old furniture. Also included in that $13,000 will be a new dining-room table and chairs and other accessories.

Phi Delta continues to rank among the top in grades. We were fifth among fraternities this year with a 2.74 overall GPA. Our fall pledge class ranked first among all pledge classes.

Sports continues to be one of, if not the strongest areas of our chapter. Last year's dominance will be hard to match as we were University intramural champions, but we are still close in the standings this year.

Alumni have been the most important factor in the improvement of the chapter. Executive vice president, Bob Biggs, and director of communications, David Slatton, attended our Founders Day to present the Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year Award to Samuel J. Furrow. Sam has given much time and effort to Phi Delta Theta, and he definitely deserves the recognition.

The chapter currently has 66 active brothers, and this should grow in the future. Rush numbers on campus continue to decline, but we are looking to overcome this in the fall. The chapter is doing great and is looking to a big future with house improvements and successful rushes. —Jim Leckrone

Tennessee Alpha (1876), 200 25th Ave. So., Nashville, TN 37212. Chapter Adviser - Thomas F. Cox, 4324 Signal Hill Drive, Nashville, TN 37205. This has been a very different and difficult year for the members of Tennessee Alpha. The chapter was put on social probation for the entire school year of 1993-94 for various hazing and alcohol violations. But rather than being upset about the past, the members of Tennessee Alpha are looking to move the chapter to where it needs to be. Immediately the brothers realized that changes needed to be made quickly, and everyone has been very open and excited about new ideas for our chapter. Many of these changes involved increasing our activities in community service. Recently, the brothers have become active members with the Teach for America program which helps tutor underprivileged children. We have shown a lot of support for this program, and it looks like it will be a permanent activity at Tennessee Alpha. The brothers also helped repair an elderly man's home here in Nashville. We spent a day of repainting, landscaping, and doing other helpful activities around his home. We realize that service will help lead our chapter to better things.

We took a smaller pledge class than usual this year, and our current probation prevents us from taking a pledge class next year. This will make our numbers in the house unusually small in the 1994-95 school year. In order for us to get our numbers back to a normal level, we will need alumni support. We would appreciate recommendations for any freshmen attending Vanderbilt. This will enable us to get a wider range of potential members of Tennessee Alpha during rush. Again, we would appreciate your help in trying to make our chapter even better than it was before.

Alumni Day '93 was held April 17, and started off early with a golf tournament at the University Golf Course. Golf is a big pastime for the alumni and brothers of the chapter. Twenty-four alumni and brothers attended the event.

After competing with each other, all alumni and brothers were given the opportunity to come back to the Phi Delt Lodge to enjoy a barbecue and volleyball. During the week before the alumni event, the brothers worked hard to complete our new volleyball court. The alumni enjoyed the court very much, and with the help of the brothers they were able to break the new volleyball court in very well. In the evening we invited hundreds of guests to the house, and the alumni reunited with old friends. The entire event was a success.

The Texas Pi chapter has worked hard to build strong alumni relations. The chapter is very young and is still in the stage of building programs. We hope that this event will set a precedent for future alumni events and activities.

Texas Gamma has produced another year of excellence in the areas of community service, alumni relations, and brotherhood. Brothers are finishing the year with a strong confidence that Texas Gamma will again shine.

Our fourth annual 24-hour softball game raised more than $1,000 for the Williamson County Crisis Center. Brothers from Texas Pi and Texas Xi traveled to Georgetown to participate in the event with us. This year's game was the most fun in the history of the event. We extend our thanks and an invitation to those chapters and others next year. We also assisted with the Caring Place (a second-hand outlet), the Georgetown city clean-up of the local swimming hole, and our Adopt-a-Highway.

Fall and spring rush added eight new brothers to the chapter. In following with the national decline, numbers were down, and we rushed only 25 men during spring rush. However, these eight new initiates are fine new additions to the chapter: Henri DeYbarrondo, Eric Simon, John Veazey, Keith Ellis, Mike Reeves (fall '92), John Endsley, Scott Pedersen, and Ross Black (spring '93).

The alumni program at Texas Gamma remains strong. The graduation of 25 brothers this year adds to the strength and quality of the alumni of Texas Gamma. The 1992-93 alumni activities included an awards banquet to celebrate the winning of the Kansas City Trophy; Homecoming in the fall, which more than 65 alumni attended; the Fourth Annual Houston Area Alumni Reunion at brother Joe Royce's home, which drew the attendance of over 25 brothers; the Dallas Area Reunion at Brother Chip Evans' home; and Alumni Weekend on April 16-18, which more than 40 Alumni Brothers attended, including the four distinguished alumni who were inducted into the Golden Legion during the awards banquet. These brothers were: John Score, Louis Pitcock, Charles Stephenson, and William Stephenson. In addition, Brother Tom Tammell was awarded Alumnus of the Year for his hard work and devotion as a member of our house corporation. —Greg Rosner

Stephen F. Austin State University

Texas Eta (1962), Box 7031, S.F.A.S.U., Nacogdoches, TX 75962. Chapter Adviser - Frank Still, Rt. #6, Box 465, Nacogdoches, TX 75961. The 1992-93 year marked Texas Eta's 30th year at Stephen F. Austin State University. During this anniversary year, Texas Eta carried on the tradition of being one of the most esteemed and respected fraternities on campus.

The 8th annual Texas Eta Alumni Golf Tournament saw a record number of alumni make their way back to Nacogdoches. The event allowed brothers and alumni the opportunity to show off their golf game and set the foundation for the fund-raising campaign to finance a new chapter house. Texas Eta is the first fraternity on campus to own land on the new Greek Row, and ground breaking will be in spring, 1995.

Texas Eta initiated ten quality men. As Phikeias, these men accomplished a lot in community service, house projects, and intramurals. Phikeias donated time to help under privilege children in the Nacogdoches Headstart Program. Their involvement resulted in the adoption of Little Brothers/Sisters. The renovation of two rooms, the installation of window blinds throughout the house, and the development of regulations volleyball court were much needed house projects completed by the pledge classes. In addition, Phikeias played an integral part in athletics, boasting starts on both football and softball championship teams. These men are a great asset to Texas Eta and their development is due in large to the hard work of Pledgemasters Tony Medina and Don Muzzy.

The 6th annual Football Run to benefit the Nacogdoches County Boy's Ranch was a great success. This year's run started in Lake Charles, Louisiana and ended 28 hours and 175 miles later in Nacogdoches. The three top runners (Steven Gregory - 20 miles, Rodney Martin - 18 miles, and Chris Leonard - 14 miles) presented the Homecoming game ball to officials at Homer Bryce Stadium before the game against McNeese State. More importantly, Texas Eta raised more than $1,000 for the Boy's Ranch. The 5th annual Phieta to benefit the United Way broke our attendance record. More than 2000 people enjoyed listening to two bands that played through the night. Texas Eta raised more than $2,000 for the United Way. The chapter continued to be involved in various projects including blood drives, Adopt-a-Brother/Sister Program, and volunteering at local nursing homes.

Phi Delta Theta had more members than any other fraternity on the dean's list. The GPA of the Phikeias was improved to help set the tone for Texas Eta academics in the semesters ahead.

This year, Steven Gregory served as vice president of the IFC with several other brothers serving on the recently formed IFC Rush Committee. Greg Brown, Mike Gabler, Kenny Hjelm, and Chris Wren all served the University as orientation leaders. They were responsible for 4,000 incoming students and parents. Texas Eta Phis are involved in various clubs and organizations throughout campus.

In flag football, we were again division champions, and Brothers Tony Meidna and Rodney Martin were selected to the all Greek team. Texas Eta's softball team continued to dominate by posting an undefeated regular season record and boasting our 3rd consecutive championship. Brothers Sean Barrett and Todd Kelly continue to dominate the links of East Texas by capturing various golf tournament titles. We also reached the playoffs in volleyball, soccer, and flickerball.

The hard work of our alumni secretaries, Paul McNutt and Kenny Hjelm, has drastically improved our alumni newsletter and other programs. Founders Day and alumni meetings in both Dallas and Houston were huge successes, and Texas Eta would like to thank all alumni for their dedication and support.

Texas Eta would like to recognize the outgoing officers who have provided excellent leadership over the past year: Chris Leonard and Paul McNutt, presidents; Ron Henry, vice president; Brent Bell, treasurer; John Porter and Mike Gabler, secretary; Chris Wren, social chairman; Greg Brown, rush chairman; Doug Browne and Jim Griffin, scholarship chairmen; Mark Cernosek and Rodney Martin, athletic chairmen; and Tony Banzer and Phillip Villasana, wardens.

Our sponsorship of "Buckle up" and an AIDS awareness forum on campus were also very productive. The greatest accomplishment made by Texas Zeta this year, however, is the reestablishment of our alumni program thanks to our new chapter adviser, Tom Hill. Mr. Hill rekindled a Phi Delta Theta tradition this year that had been absent from Texas Zeta for some time: Founders Day. We had the rare privilege of having Dr. Ed Whipple, General Council president, speak at our Founders Day. Rush Chairman - Ryan McWhirter, 5704 - 1st Lubbock, TX 79416. We initiated 32 new brothers last fall and currently have 14 Phikeias awaiting initiation. Our freshmen were very active on campus with seven Freshman Council members and 5 freshmen being elected to Freshman Who's Who.

This year 18 Phis served as Student Association Senators, 20 were members of Order of Omega (including the vice president), 14 Phis on Omicron Delta Kappa, six members of Mortar board, 14 members of Cardinal Key (including the vice president and treasurer), 20 members of Lambda Sigma (including president next year as well as vice president this year and last year) and 19 members on Phi Eta Sigma. The past IFC executive vice president, current IFC scholarship chairman and intramural chairman are Phis. Texas Epsilon had more brothers involved in more honoraries and campus activities than any other fraternity. Similarly, Texas Epsilon had seven members honored in Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities and five Phis in Who's Who Among College Freshmen.

For the second year in a row, our chapter won the U-Can-Share food drive with over 2,000 pounds of food. Along with our annual "Kalf Fry", which raised $3,000 for MDA, we raised $3,000 with the Lubbock High School Invitational Baseball Tournament to benefit pony and colt baseball leagues. We were involved in the South Plains Food Bank, Pancake Festival, United Way blood Drive, Big Brothers/Little Brothers and the Race for Kids. Our efforts earned us the 1992-93 Greek Community Service Organization of the Year for the 2nd year in a row.

Spiritual life has remained strong at Texas Epsilon. All-Greek Bible Study was started by Phis in 1936, and we currently have 20 Phis that attend regularly. We engage in Chapter Churches once a month (20-80 attend) and Chapter Bible Studies bimonthly (20-40 attend). Texas Epsilon is once again the most visible Christian fraternity at Texas Tech. Numerous Brothers are on Greek Council of Christ and attend Campus Crusade for Christ. Lastly, more Texas Epsilon Phis are involved with youth groups and mission groups than any other fraternity.

Texas Epsilon's GPA ranked 2nd among fraternities with over 65 men and sixth overall. Our fall pledge class had the top grades among all fraternity at Texas Tech. One of our brothers won the prestigious Arthur R. Priest Award last year.

This year we are currently leading the Intramural Blanket Trophy by over 20 points. Texas Epsilon will win this coveted award for the 21st time in 35 years. Our football team won all Greek, and both of our volleyball and soccer teams won their divisions. Our softball team won all Greek. Our track team is the defending Greek and University Champions. There are three Phis on the varsity football team and two were All Phi First Team defensive selections. Also, Brother Lin Elliott is the place kicker for the Dallas Cowboys and set a Super Bowl record in the Cowboys 52-17 win. Two brothers are on the varsity baseball team and one brother is on the track team.

At the close of this semester, Texas Epsilon received several honors at the 1993 Greek Awards Banquet. The program was hosted by a Phi and Texas Epsilon won an impressive five of seven awards. Texas Epsilon won the Greek Freshman of the Year and Greek Man of the Year. We once again won the Outstanding Greek Community Service Organization of the Year. Phis also won the IFC's Iron man Award for student body service and the IFC's Nail Award given for dedicated service to the IFC. As of this writing, Texas Epsilon is a finalist in the University awards as Best Community Service and Best Social Organization at Texas Tech out of 39 organizations.

Rush Chairman - Patton Adams, PO Box 7622, Denton, TX 76209. After attaining our charter in 1991, the men of Texas Omicron are now concentrating on increasing membership. We have adopted an extensive year-long rush program in which the brothers will travel to surrounding metropolitan areas this summer to meet incoming freshmen. This program has proven helpful in attracting rushees during the recent nationwide rush recession.

Texas Omicron has just initiated its 52nd member Marcus Ling, and we are looking optimistically toward next fall's rush.

The Phi Deltas at North Texas have pride not only in their fraternity but also in their school. This is evident by their commitment to donating a portion of their community service hours to the campus clean-up. This year we participated in a March of Dimes sponsored Crop Walk. This event is held annually in Denton to provide food supply relief to under-developed nations. The idea was brought to the attention of the chapter by Phi Delt Alumnus Morgan Jones, who is an active officer of the Crop Walk committee.

Our new brothers, along with our founding fathers, have put Phi Delta Theta at the pinnacle of Greek athletics. We made the playoffs in football and in indoor soccer for the second straight year. Texas Omicron won the Greek softball championship. The Phi Deltas were also the three-point basketball champions and the racquetball doubles champions.

We have set our goal to be in the top three fraternity GPAs on campus. Through the use of study groups, we have increased our GPA, and every man is committed to improving his grades.

It has been satisfying to see the other bigger and older fraternities look upon the men of Phi Delta Theta as an important leader on campus. —Christopher J. Myhill

Texas Kappa (1968), 2005 W. Nathan Lowe Road, Arlington, TX. Chapter Adviser - Roy Anderson Jr., 2005 W. Nathan Lowe Road, Arlington, TX 76017. Rush Chairman - Ethan Vickery, 2423 Spanish Trail, Arlington, TX 76016. Texas Kappa acquired some very sharp Phikeias this year. On October 23 and 24 we raised $2,500 for the local chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Association. We teamed up with the Trinity River Authority at Joe Pool Lake to sponsor the Forest of Fear. Greg Graham, the event chairman, worked very hard to ensure a very successful event.

We initiated nine men in January. This initiation was particularly special because 20 alumni attended. Many of the alumni who attended were our founders. Our first father-son legacy was initiated in January.

Texas Kappa has five Phikeias this spring. As of right now, we are without a house or a central meeting place. This is very hard during rush and during the Phikeia program. We stick together and keep moving ahead, despite this obstacle. The Texas Kappa House Corporation has made significant progress in the planning of our new home. They have showed us the finalized plans from the architect, and our wait should be well worth it.

Our rush committee is gearing up for the fall, and Texas Kappa is looking forward to having a good summer and enjoying some brotherhood. —Derek Tanner

Texas Beta (1883), 2300 Nueces, Austin, TX 78705. Chapter Adviser - Peter B. Hall, The Taurus Group Inc., 301 Congress Ave. #1010, Austin, TX 78701. The Texas Beta chapter concluded another great year at the University of Texas. We had a total of 29 Phikeias this year.

As usual we participated in numerous charitable causes such as The Gruseum, a haunted house for the Austin Children's Museum. We participated in the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash for the Society to Prevent Blindness. We also co-sponsored a Spades Tournament in which we raised $1,000 for the American Diabetes Association.

For the first time in years, we published an alumni newsletter. We received feedback on it and plan to have another one out by July. The alumni seemed very pleased with it, and we hope to keep them better informed about Texas Beta.

Parents Weekend was a blast for everyone with almost 500 people in attendance at the Salt Lick! Once again, the Texas-OU weekend was a great one, especially after winning for the fourth year in a row!

Our Christmas Formal and Round Up Weekend were absolutely fabulous thanks to our good buddies, The Malemen.

In case you haven't heard, "The Colonel" is still doing great, always sharing his insightful advice with the chapter.

As summer rush gets under way, the Texas Betas are every excited about our prospects. Our rush captains are Ryan Burrus, David McArthur, Steve Casella, James Korth, and Corey Breed. If you know of anyone coming to Texas in the fall, please do not hesitate to send these guys a letter at the house or call them here in Austin.

The men of Texas Beta believe we have made great improvements recently. With numerous changes and great pledge classes, we feel that we're headed in the right direction. We'd like to thank all those Texas Beta alumni who have supported us through the years and never lost faith in us. We also thank our province president, Jim Kennedy, for everything. Finally, we'd like to thank Peter Hall, Lew Little, Mike Bartlett and Chris Bell for their dedication to the chapter.

Texas Theta (1964), Box 1848 West Texas A & M, Canyon, TX 79015. Chapter Adviser - Gary J. Hyatt, PO Box 8342, Amarillo, TX 79114. Rush Chairman - Mike Morman, 10 Cottonwood Lane, Canyon, TX 79015. Texas Theta now has 25 actives and eight newly initiated members. We are proud to announce that we have 15 quality Phikeias for the spring 1993 pledge class.

Our chapter has excelled in campus activities including intramural athletics, community service, scholarship and work-a-thon.

Our president, Patrick Jenkins, is the newly elected president for the IFC. Brother Jenkins along with our sweetheart, Marci Ryan, were nominees for this year's University King and Queen. This past fall we won first place with Chi Omega in the Homecoming Parade, both in the Greek division and overall. The float was designed by Rhett Parker, who has designed two out of the three first-place floats that we have won.

This year Texas Theta was recognized for having the second highest GPA among fraternities, and Brothers Pat Jenkins and Vice President Rhett Parker were initiated into Order of Omega. Rhett Parker was recently elected as secretary of Order of Omega. All the brothers at Texas Theta participated in the annual work-a-thon, where organizations on campus have the opportunity to raise funds and participate in beautifying our campus. Our chapter won the first round work-a-thon competition by earning over $700 for the University. We participated in University Sing with the Delta Zeta Sorority, with the theme "American Bandstand."

In athletics, Jason Ash and Phikeias Kelly Hess and Greg Mouser are members of the football team. Brothers Todd Vance and Jimbo Kreimeyer, and Phikeias David O'Leary and Jason Grey are members of the soccer team.

This year our Halloween spook house was noted as the best haunted house in the Amarillo/Canyon area radio station 104.5 FM. Admission was canned food which was donated to the High Plains Food Bank. More than 200 lbs. were collected. Our chapter also volunteered to help the Junior League of Amarillo set up its haunted house in conjunction with the fund-raiser for Storyland Park Zoo. We were very busy during this past Halloween season, participating in the Student Activities Council Halloween Carnival.

West Texas Phis Joe Valdez, Marcus Reams, and Scott Miller and members of ZTA were hosts for The Stars at Night Gala. The event benefitted the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo.

The carnival is a promotion for a "Save Halloween" campaign for the city of Canyon. Among other community service projects our chapter passed out campaign flyers for State Representative David Seinfeld, who won the 87th district. We helped the Amarillo Special Olympics by refereeing games for the annual basketball tournament. Heath Summers and Curt Polmeier are active volunteers in Special Childrens events. Texas Theta and Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority hosted The Star at Night Gala. The event benefitted the Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center in Amarillo. Our chapter was also awarded Outstanding Service for Texas Highway Cleanup.

We are proud of our accomplishments, and are looking forward to our annual Alumni Golf Tournament. —Rhett Parker

We are honored to be nominated for the Gold Star Award and feel Utah Alpha remains a model chapter of Phi Delta Theta.

The Olympic Hotel in Park City, Utah was the site of Founders Day on April 17, 1993. Brother Edward J. Rush Chairman - Tony Stout, 623 East Harrison, Tacoma, WA 98404. Washington Epsilon has increased our membership by 14 men and feel that quality not quantity is the key to a successful rush here at Eastern.

The men of Washington Epsilon have been working hard at community service and increasing better relations with the school. We do a highway cleanup twice a year and a food drive and clothing drive once a year.

Five out of ten offices on the ASEWU (Associated Students of E.W.U.) council are filled by Phi Deltas.

Thanks to our chapter adviser, Dick Mayer, we have a new facility. The remodelling will be done this summer, and the house should be ready to go by fall.

We nominated new officers in February to continue and improve the chapter. The new officers are: president, Curt Knowles; vice president, Doug Saar; treasurer, Terry Paterson; pledgemaster, Ben Howeller; social chairmen, Malcolm McIver and Spencer Graff; and rush chairman, Tony Stout. These are just a few of the new officers who will lead us into the 1993-94 school year. We will continue to strive to promote Phi Delta Theta in a positive way. —Curt Knowles Ever since its recolonization several years ago, Washington Beta has been a fraternity on the move. This year was no exception as it continued its growth and success. Areas that were particularly successful this year were philanthropy, rush, and scholarship.

Washington Beta continued a new tradition this year with its third annual Teeter-Totter-a-Thon. We raised more than $1000 for the American Diabetes Association. The fraternity also continued its participation in the Adopt-a-Highway program in which members periodically clean up a portion of highway near the College. Other activities included a car wash and a bike-a-thon to raise money for a local women's abuse center.

Washington Beta has been growing steadily over the past several years, and this fall marked the largest pledge class since the recolonization. We pledged 20 Phikeias, and we did not surrender quality for quantity. Washington Beta pledged members who will contribute positively to the success of the chapter.

Washington Beta has not been so successful in scholarship in the recent past. This year, however, marked a dramatic change. The new scholarship program and hard work from the brothers and Phikeias, moved Washington Beta's GPA from last to first among fraternities in the fall semester. Our GPA was 3.19, and we are now in the process of working hard to maintain that number one status.

Even with these successes, however, we continue to strive for success in all areas of chapter life. —Matthew Levin

We have also organized several fund-raising events for local charitable organizations.

At present, we are replacing all of the doors in the house, beginning with the second floor. We have also set aside several days for the painting of the house interior. Recently, we purchased an IBM computer and Hewlett Packard Laser Printer to put in the house to complement our Macintosh computer system. We purchased a new stand-up refrigerator and a new meat slicer as well.

We have captains in football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, and hockey. Brother Joel Dillingham captured the University's all-time scoring record for basketball this winter. Two of the brothers are members of the Lawrence University Honor Council. One brother is also a member of the Judicial Board.

We are currently engaged in raising money for cystic fibrosis. We sponsor dances in the University's Memorial Union for the campus and community. All proceeds are presented directly to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. This spring, we will feature the annual Phi Delta Theta Alumni Golf Tournament. All proceeds will benefit Big Brothers and Big Sisters. The event will pair alumni golfers with current actives. It should prove to be an interesting outing.

New chapter officers are: Jason Lowery, secretary; Mark Griepentog, vice president; Dave Bassett, treasurer; and Kory Krueger, president. We pledged and initiated 22 new members this term, and each new member promises to be an outstanding Phi. —Korey "Rex" Krueger

The chapter is making a strong effort to improve our academic standing after a disappointing first semester.

We pledged 17 Phikeias, a considerable increase from last year and our biggest class in quite a few years. Many of the new men participate on the football team, and others are looking to be resident assistants.

We have been very active this year, on and off campus. Mike Gerber was elected IFC treasurer, and Mike Thiel was elected treasurer for next year. We also had a philanthropic project for the first time in three years and raised over $1,000 for the Rainforest Action Network. We hope that this will become an annual event. In the fall of 1992 there were currently 11 fraternities on campus at Clarion University of Pennsylvania. In late October of the same year Christopher Williams and Dane Knight conversed about starting their own fraternity. As Chris thought about it more and more it started to become a reality. Chris told his uncle, Gary Scepta, an alumnus of Ohio Mu.

When Chris came back to Clarion he talked with a few of his friends, and he made a few phone calls to Abe Cross, director of chapter services at General Headquarters. On December 10, 1992 Chris and David Barrett organized a meeting in the basement of Wilkinson Hall, and approximately 25 men attended. During that meeting Chris handed out some general information about Phi Delta Theta. As the fall semester came to a close there was much still up in the air about whether Phi Delta Theta was coming to the Clarion University campus.

At the start of the spring semester, we found out that some serious steps had been taken and that Phi Delta Theta was interested in us. Our interest group had two rush parties on February 3, 1993 and on February 7, 1993. We had weekly meetings on Mondays after that.

On March 20, 1993 Pennsylvania Xi was officially colonized and was inducted with 21 members strong. This ceremony took place in Still Auditorium. Province President Bob Heister presided with colony adviser, Chuck Steeber, and IFC adviser, John Postlewait. —Jasen Dunn and Chris Williams

Rush Chairman - Jason McCall, 710 Georgia Ave. #2, Statesboro, GA 30458. On February 27, 1971, the international fraternity of Phi Delta Theta granted chapter status to its Georgia Epsilon colony on the campus of Georgia Southern College.

February 27, on the anniversary of Georgia Epsilon's original installation, Phi Delta Theta returned to Georgia Southern University with a colony induction ceremony. The event marks the end of a five-year hiatus.

The colony induction also marks the culmination of nearly two months of hard work by 30 students. The interest group spent over six weeks rushing new members, electing officers, developing a name on campus and producing a colony petition. The executive officers and members swiftly drafted the petition to meet the deadline for recognition during winter quarter. The colony is now beginning the difficult work of obtaining a charter. Local alumni have been very supportive of our efforts.

Twenty-seven men were inducted as colony members: president, Gavin Miller; vice president, Jody Beck; treasurer, Rock Helms; secretary, Michael Appling; rush chairmen, Steve Bauer and Derrick Aills; warden, Jerry Ward; scholarship chairman, John Hays; alumni secretaries, Trey Sikes and Sam Moody; fund-raising chairman, Darren Stephens; historian, Steve Tippins; community service chairman, Robert Meguiar; social chairman, Robert Schuler; Chris Albury; John Castleberry; Chris Cole; Tracy Davis; Brian Ludviksen; Jason McCall; Keir Nakamura; Ramon Peacock; Shaun O'Quinn; Jason Sacatino; Brian Shumans; Chris Shumans, and John Wisniewski.

Did Morrison know his Bond number?

by Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50
executive vice president emeritus

Phi Delta Theta's practice of assigning a Bond number to each initiate is a well-established system. Many Phis remember their Bond numbers all their lives. I have a friend in Nashville, Tennessee, who, upon meeting a Brother Phi, asks him immediately "What is your Bond number?" The inquiring Brother knows his own Bond number, of course, and the Bond numbers of many of his friends as well.

It is the practice in many chapters of seating members at chapter meetings by Bond number, that is, by the order in which they were initiated into the Fraternity. Another idea, developed many years ago, is to provide room assignments within the chapter house by Bond number with the earliest initiate receiving first choice. No doubt, there are other ways of putting the Bond number system to good use.

It is a little-known fact that Bond numbers did not exist in Phi Delta Theta at the time the Fraternity was founded. In fact, all six Founders entered the Chapter Grand without knowing that they held the first six Bond numbers in the Fraternity.

It appears that our Bond number system began to evolve during the summer of 1919 with what were then called "serial numbers." During March of that year a request went out to the chapters asking them to send their Bond books to the recently established headquarters office in Oxford, Ohio. Fred R. Cowles, Kansas '05, had been named Assistant to the General Council a year earlier, and an office was provided for him in the memorial chapter house of the Ohio

Robert Morrison

Alpha chapter. By this time, 110 chapters had been installed, 88 of them in active operation, and approximately 25,000 men had been initiated.

One can imagine the confusion which resulted in the attempt to register serial numbers, beginning with the first initiate in each chapter. The idea, of course, was to assign the numbers in the exact sequence of initiation date. No doubt, some of the early Bond books had been destroyed by fire or some other tragedy, and an effort had to be made to recreate a list in proper order. When the initial task was completed, two problems remained.

As time progressed, the names of additional initiates were discovered, so special care was taken to put these brothers in their proper slots by attaching a letter to the Bond number. For example, after Bond numbers 338 and 339 had been assigned to brothers initiated by Tennessee Alpha at Vanderbilt University, the names of two other initiates were discovered, who, in fact, were initiated at the same time. One was assigned #338a and the other was given #338b. Similarly, after #94 and #95 had been claimed by initiates of the Pennsylvania Gamma chapter at Washington & Jefferson, evidence was produced that an initiate of the same era had been separated from membership. Even so, the person needed to be included in the membership roster, and he was assigned #94a.

The second problem involved a person who had been assigned two numbers, usually because the individual transferred to a second seat of learning and was given a number by the chapter with which he affiliated. Eventually, the numbers recorded by the second chapter were discovered and the name removed. That is why, for example, there is no name assigned to Bond number 45 in the Ohio Beta chapter at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Reference to "serial numbers" continues through 1922 before we find the term "Bond" number appearing in the General Council minutes for 1923.

In conjunction with this project of assigning numbers to all initiates, chapter officers were instructed henceforth to list their initiates by number when submitting initiation reports. With the establishment of a Central Office in Indianapolis in 1921, no doubt, the record-keeping became more efficient, and today we have a simplified method of accounting for the total number of persons initiated into Phi Delta Theta. ■

Responses to hazing

Dear editor:

[Sparky Reardon's] article on hazing (spring 1993, p.53) was outstanding. I have photocopied the article for all of my board members and for all of my volunteers. You truly touched the key issues in hazing and took a very different approach to the topic. My congratulations!

—Dave Westol, executive director of Theta Chi

Dear editor:

I was not a supporter of the hazing system 50 years ago, and I find that through the years my feeling for this foolishness has grown stronger in opposition.

I don't believe my experience was as severe as some of the exercises pointed out in your article. Nevertheless, I saw two excellent young men leave the class, refusing to put up with the nonsense.

I can see no relationship between hazing and my dedication to the Fraternity. My dedication comes from my association with those fine men and the social relationship that followed.

The article is very good. Hazing should be wiped out of the system.

—Louis Pletcher, Indiana '39

Breaking the color barrier

Dear editor:

I was delighted to read the story on diversity in The Scroll (spring '93, p. 78). This is an issue long overdue for our Fraternity.

My chapter makes an effort to maintain a diverse membership. In fact, we have a higher percentage of minorities than the college does. I am sure my college experience has been richer for it.

I hope Phi Deltas take the lead in shattering racial barriers. My thanks to you for raising this issue.

—Jason Copeland, Whitman '94

Scroll reflects changing society

Dear editor:

As a Florida Alpha alumnus and an investigative journalist for The Seattle Times, I congratulate you for the upgrades you've made to The Scroll. Your choice of cover stories and other topics within the magazine reflects the changing nature of society—factors the Fraternity needs to consider if it is going to stay on top and produce the kind of people who will be leaders.

—Thomas Farrey, Florida '86

Leadership College '93

Phi Delta Theta's five-day leadership training workshop sees record attendance and earns kudos from students

One of the most popular and important programs in the Fraternity experienced a record attendance this year. Growing interest in the now annual Leadership College (it had been biennial until 1990) led to the largest participation in the program to date with more than 650 undergraduates, alumni, and faculty attending the five-day event held in August at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. The theme of the College, "The Standard for Brotherhood," reflected the curriculum's concentration on rush and on the high standards of Phi Delta Theta. This year's program was sponsored by a $45,000 grant from the Phi Delta Theta Foundation, the largest grant the Foundation has given the Fraternity for the College.

The interaction with other undergraduates, valuable learning opportunities, and dedicated faculty have not only given the College a reputation for fun but for changing the way undergraduate leaders think about methods of operating a fraternity.

"Undergrads continue to comment that this is the most positive and enriching experience the Fraternity has to offer," said Art Hoge, the dean of the Leadership College and Phi Delta Theta's leadership commissioner. "The enthusiasm of these students was fantastic."

Although each chapter is required to send only three delegates, North Dakota Alpha was so enthusiastic about the program it sent 11 of its leaders and the chapter adviser to the Leadership College. "There was a lot of interest in Leadership College this year because the six guys we sent last year talked it up so much when they came back," said Troy Erickson, the chapter's director of scholarship & internal relations.

Like past Colleges, this year's program included seminars on all aspects of chapter operations. Seminars on rush, Phikeia education, alumni programming, and leadership topped the list. Brother Erickson came to learn new ideas about how to improve his chapter's scholarship program.

"We've had weak scholarship in the past, and the people in my [Leadership College] chapter gave me a lot of good ideas," he said.

This year the College included three program tracks, or series of seminars on the same topic. The three tracks on rush, Phikeia education, and leadership, were some of the best attended educational seminars.

"The series programs we offered were well received," said Art Hoge. "The classrooms were overflowing, and comments were very positive."

Rutgers wins the Founders Trophy

BY STEVEN C. STEWART

New Jersey Alpha topped off a year of tremendous success by winning the 1992-93 Founders Trophy. A seven-man delegation claimed the award for the chapter at the Leadership College.

The Rutgers Phis put together a formidable application for the Founders Trophy solidly based on achievement. The men excelled both in campus activities and in chapter operations.

New Jersey Alpha dominated the Rutgers campus by placing half of the chapter on the dean's list, nine members into Order of Omega, and two into the prestigious Phi Beta Kappa honor society. The chapter also claimed an editor of the school newspaper, two executive officers of the student body government, two class presidents, and a class treasurer among its members.

Mike Calderone, New Jersey Alpha's vice president, believes the members' levels of performance stem from their efforts to seek out involved and motivated men during rush. He says the chapter recognizes that "the campus and the community make the chapter. Without them, we wouldn't exist."

A high level of performance earned the men impressive awards from the Rutgers administration. New Jersey Alpha was recognized by the University for Excellence in Recruitment, Excellence in New Member Education, Excellence in Scholarship and Excellence in Alumni Relations. It should come as no surprise that the men also won the award as Best Chapter on Campus.

Their accomplishments in the Fraternity also speak highly of the chapter. On their way to capturing top honors on campus, the men of New Jersey Alpha also racked up several Fraternity awards. They won a Sound Learning Award, a Community Service Citation, a Bigger's Ritual Trophy, and of course a Gold Star Award. In addition, they won honorable mentions for the Binger Religious Life Award and the St. Louis Fraternity Education Award.

The delegates to Leadership College were "relieved" the chapter came away with the Founders Trophy. After a tumultuous year of hard work, the men occupied a chapter house for the first time, and they worried that this change in focus might affect other areas in which they had traditionally done well.

"We went through a lot this year with getting a new house," said Calderone. "Our attention as a chapter was focused on the house as well as chapter operations. That made it a hard year."

The men managed to acclimate to the new house and add it to their extensive list of responsibilities in order to achieve the level of success they have come to expect. For a chapter founded in 1988, New Jersey Alpha has done extremely well, and the determination of its members has led the chapter to the top.

tions with other Phis from across North America as the most valuable aspect of the program. Rich Fabritius from Ohio Lambda at Kent State University came to the College to learn new ideas for Phikeia education, but he says a lot of what he learned came from other students.

"The most valuable experience is interaction with brothers from other chapters, understanding that the Fraternity is bigger than your chapter," he said. "The best information I got was from the other guys. It's like a huge brainstorming session."

This being the second Leadership College he has attended, Brother Fabritius believes an annual College is a good idea. "Every year there are new chapter leaders who haven't been to Leadership College who can benefit from it," says Brother Fabritius. "It can only be a positive experience for the members and the Fraternity."

Troy Erickson echoes that sentiment. "Put as many brothers through the College as possible and it can only positively affect your chapter. You learn more there in a week than in a whole year at the chapter," he said.

N. Carolina Delta wins the Harvard

BY DAVID ALMACY

The Harvard Trophy originated in 1924 when 50 Phis attending Harvard decided to create an award to recognize chapter excellence. The trophy annually recognizes the chapter demonstrating all-around excellence in campus leadership and chapter operations.

This year's recipient is North Carolina Delta at North Carolina State University. At the 1992 General Convention in Arlington, Va., the Phis at N.C. State were awarded the Founders Trophy, sharing the award with Missouri Epsilon at Southwest Missouri State University. However, due to their increasing chapter membership, North Carolina Delta was moved into the Harvard Trophy category. They are only the second chapter ever to win the Founders Trophy and Harvard Trophy consecutively. Mississippi Alpha at the University of Mississippi also boasts this honor.

North Carolina Delta's campus honors include 129 scholarships, five intramural sport championships, the student government president and four executive officers, a number one academic ranking in eight of the past nine semesters, and simply overwhelming campus involvement. The members were recently awarded the University's prestigious Caldwell Cup which recognizes the best chapter on campus. It is an honor the brothers have held for the past three years.

This level of excellence has brought additional honors from the General Fraternity. This year the chapter also won the Binger Religious Life Award, the St. Louis Fraternity Education Award, a Bigger's Ritual Award, a Scholarship Award, a Sound Learning Award, and a Community Service Citation.

The brothers have set the standard in community service on their campus.

Members volunteered for organizations such as Adopt-a-Highway, Habitat for Humanity, the North Carolina Food Bank, Young Life and the Council on Aging. Perhaps their most impressive event was the Les Robinson Celebrity Golf Tournament. The event raised almost $10,000 for the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

Mark Medlock, the 1992-93 chapter president, claims the secret to the chapter's success stems directly from membership recruitment.

"When you actively seek quality individuals, then you will reap the rewards," he says. Brother Medlock emphasizes that North Carolina Delta is committed to recruiting only "those who are internally motivated and those who seek to bring out the best in themselves and in others."

The chapter has certainly proved this to be true. Founded in 1988, this young chapter is celebrating its first Harvard Trophy, and if the chapter's tradition of excellence continues, it will surely not be its last.

Going to classes all day didn't stop the Phis from having fun. During the general sessions, chapters entertained with elaborate cheers in answer to Sparky Reardon's roll call, and hundreds of Phis traded T-shirts at the annual T-Shirt Swap. After each day of intense learning and discussion at the seminars and chapter meetings, many Phis participated in Phi Sports, a three-sport tournament which took place all week long. More than 120 Phis played volleyball, basketball, and racquetball for the coveted championship T-shirts. Team Blue Phi won it all in the volleyball competition. Team Drake, Phis from Iowa Gamma, won the basketball tournament, and John Jackson of Florida Theta won the racquetball competition.

Every Leadership College chapter also had to present an outline of a hypothetical rush program. The competition produced many elaborate and thoughtful ideas on how to improve rush, but in the end it was Larry Baratta's Delta Chapter that won. The undergraduates suggested holding a community service event during rush, organizing a symposium on multiculturalism to reach out to other ethnic groups, identifying legacies, involving alumni, and

MO Beta takes Kansas City honors

BY STEVEN C. STEWART

The Missouri Beta Chapter at Westminster College took home this year's Kansas City Trophy, winning the award for the third time in five years.

David Almay, the chapter consultant to last visit the chapter, stated "The men of Missouri Beta truly exemplify characteristics that all chapters of Phi Delta Theta should strive to attain. Involvement in campus and community organizations, as well as relations with the International Headquarters are three of the chapter's strongest assets."

The Kansas City Trophy recognizes the Phi Delta Theta chapter demonstrating all-around excellence in campus leadership, campus participation, and internal chapter operations. The size of the chapter's membership, number of male undergraduates on campus and the number of general fraternities in the system determine a chapter's eligibility.

R.D. Nail, president of Missouri Beta, said "We really worked hard to bring the Kansas City Trophy back home."

He describes the type of all-chapter effort it takes to win such a coveted honor as "just the way things are at Missouri Beta."

"This award is important to us not only because of its prestige, but also because of our strong alumni base in Kansas City," he added.

The campus involvement of the members and their extensive community service program helped the men reach the top spot. They boasted both the president and vice president of the student government, as well as representation on 15 committees or boards. A new member became the first freshman elected to the Social Judiciary

Board. The editor of the yearbook, the senior class president; and 10 members on the Dean's Honor List begin to describe their on-campus pursuits.

They also tackled 14 community service events, including such ongoing projects as Adopt-A-Highway and Meals-on-Wheels. Their efforts on behalf of the community won two local awards for the chapter. In addition, Missouri Beta won four intramural championships. Westminster Phis show up on the rosters of four varsity sports, and two are soccer team captains.

"We really set our sights on the K.C. this year," said Brad "Pid" LeFebvre, a delegate to the Leadership College. "We knew we were close the last two years, but that's just not good enough for us."

Dom Kwentus, secretary, said "Robert Morrison founded our chapter. That's a big reputation to live up to, and we want to prove we can do it."

Several Phikeias also attended this year's program, preparing to be initiated at the end of the College. Adam Ratican and James Beasley of Baylor, Eric Snider of Eastern Kentucky, Brad Thomas of the University of Mississippi, Brian Sherman of Nebraska at Lincoln, and Shane Gruber of Ashland were initiated at a special ceremony on Saturday evening.

After initiation, the delegates and faculty gathered in coat and tie for the awards banquet. Trophies for the best chapters were announced and Educational Foundation scholarship winners present at the College were honored.

Although the event is fun, chapter leaders stress the importance of the educational value of the College. Because the Leadership College program continues to improve year after year, many Phis are eager to return. But the importance of urging other chapter members to attend was also expressed.

"I think this program should continue every year ... I'd like to come again next year," Troy Erickson said. "But we need to send as many new guys as we can." ■

Gold Star, Silver Star chapters

Chapters that excel in every area of chapter operations over the academic year are awarded the Gold Star and are recognized as the best chapters in the Fraternity. A chapter must have a Gold Star to qualify for the top four trophies. A Silver Star is an honorable mention award.

Alberta, Arkansas, San Jose State, Pacific, California State at Sacramento, Georgia Tech,

McMaster Phis win Housser Trophy

BY BRENT HERSPIEGEL

For the second consecutive year, the men of the three-year-old Ontario Gamma chapter at McMaster University won the Housser Trophy, honouring the best Canadian chapter. Originally donated in 1974 by the Vancouver Alumni Club in memory of George E. Housser, past president of the General Council, a new trophy was donated by the Canadian alumni at the 1992 Convention. The original trophy was irreparably damaged only a few years after its creation.

Ontario Gamma represented itself in stellar form in scholarship, cooperation with the General Headquarters, alumni relations, finances, and community service, all of the categories necessary to win the prestigious award. Two years ago, the brothers set a goal at their chapter retreat to win the Housser Trophy. Unwavering dedication and sound leadership made this lofty goal reality.

In their pursuit of the Housser, the brothers won top fraternal marks on campus for the second consecutive year. They also earned the Scholarship Award, a GHQ trophy, a Gold Star, the Biggers Ritual Trophy, and the Lubbock Trophy for best continuing community service program. For the past two years, Ontario Gamma has been a runner-up for this award, so the achievement of this award was a tremendous honour. Some of their community service events included a 24 km relay race for the United Way, an annual 70 km bike ride raising money for the ALS Society and an amazing 10 km "Leap Frog-athon" to raise money for the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Perhaps foreshadowing things to come, Ontario Gamma earned honourable mention for the Kansas City Trophy, the first time a Canadian chapter has ever applied for this award.

Ontario Gamma has certainly set a precedent for Canadian chapters to follow. With the anticipated addition of two new Canadian colonies, competition will increase for the Housser, and there's no doubt Ontario Gamma will be shooting for its third consecutive Housser for the 1994 General Convention in Scottsdale, Arizona!

Bob Schieffer 'Faces the Nation' on CBS

Bob Schieffer, Texas Christian '59, is a familiar face on CBS. Not only does he anchor the Saturday edition of CBS Evening News, but he also is the moderator for Face the Nation, CBS' Sunday public affairs broadcast. Brother Schieffer was named anchor and moderator of Face the Nation in May, 1991.

A newsman with a reputation for fairness and objectivity, Schieffer has ascended to his preeminent position in one of the toughest arenas in journalism: Washington. He has covered the capital for 22 years and is one of the few correspondents to have covered all four major beats—the White House, Capitol Hill, the State Department, and the Pentagon. He has been CBS' chief Washington correspondent since 1989.

Winner of many broadcast news awards, including four Emmys, Brother Schieffer has been a principal anchor for CBS News since 1973, when he was named anchor of the CBS Sunday Night News. He has anchored the Saturday edition of CBS Evening News since 1976. He is also one of the substitute anchors on the CBS Evening News with Dan Rather.

Schieffer joined CBS in 1969 as a general assignment reporter, before being assigned to the Pentagon. Since 1972, he has covered every presidential campaign and has been a floor reporter at all the presidential nominating conventions.

Schieffer started his journalism career as a reporter at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. In 1965 he became the first journalist from a Texas newspaper to report from Vietnam. He later became news anchorman at WBAP-TV in Dallas/Ft. Worth, which led him eventually to CBS.

Schieffer earned his bachelor's degree in journalism and English at Texas Christian University, paving the way for his illustrious career. As an undergraduate at TCU, Schieffer pledged and was initiated as a member of Phi Delta Theta at the Texas Zeta chapter.

He is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force and co-author of Acting President, a book about Ronald Reagan published in 1989.

Brother Schieffer lives in Washington, D.C., with his wife. They have two daughters. ■

Phi photos 30 years of Georgia politics

Audley Tucker

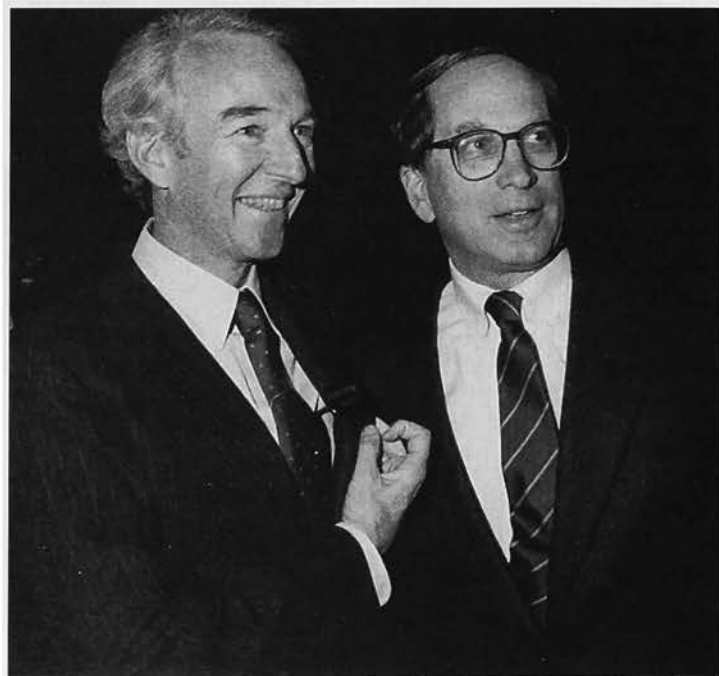

It was 1954 when fellow chapter Brother Ernie Vandiver, Georgia '40, decided to run for lieutenant governor of the state of Georgia, and Audley Tucker, Georgia '44, melded his two passions: politics and photography. Tucker used his fraternity connections and an inexpensive Kodak camera to record Vandiver's election. But what started as a hobby, grew into an enormous private portfolio of political photographs. When Vandiver ran for a second term as Georgia's governor in 1966, 'Tuck' started taking photos at political gatherings, and he hasn't stopped since.

For the past 30 years, Brother Tucker has captured on film the movers and shakers in Georgia politics, including several Phis. Besides Vandiver, Tucker has photographed Sen. Sam Nunn, Georgia Tech '60; former senator, Wyche Fowler, Davidson '62; and Carter chief of staff and senatorial candidate, Hamilton Jordan, Georgia '66. Tucker was on hand to see Brother Nunn and Brother Vandiver face off in the 1971 Democratic primary for the senate, and he captured Sen. Nunn's election in 1972.

In 1970, after Jimmy Carter's successful bid for a second term as Georgia governor, Carter named Tucker the official photographer of the Georgia Democratic party and the official state photographer. Brother Tucker still serves as the official photographer for many state Democratic functions.

Phis lead Rotary International Group Study Exchange Teams

Two Phis had the rare opportunity of leading one of Rotary International's Group Study Exchange Teams. Dr. Edward G. Whipple, Hanover '74, General Council president, led District 5390 (Montana) to France this past spring. Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50, Phi Delta Theta Foundation president, led District 6670 in southwestern Ohio to South Africa in the fall of 1992.

More than 435 of these exchanges occurred this year between Rotary districts world-wide. The program, totally funded by the Rotary International Foundation, seeks to improve international understanding and good will. Teams examine the district's way of life—economic, political, social, cultural, and its history.

Teams are composed of up to six members. The team leader is a Rotarian from the district. The other members are non-Rotarians, between the ages of 25 – 35, representing an array of professional occupations.

The program is varied, visiting different towns and cities. Team members live in Rotarians' homes assimilating into the host district's life, exchanging ideas, and establishing lasting relationships.

Dr. Whipple's team traveled to France's Normandy- Picardy region April 12 – May 27. The French team had visited Montana the previous year. The team was composed of an attorney, social worker, graphic artist, and nurse. The team stayed in nine different cities and came in contact with 24 French Rotary clubs.

Cities included Rouen, Dieppe, Fecamp, Deauville, Bayeux, Cherbourg, Avranches, Caen, and Alencon. The team visited numerous historical sites. As Normandy was the site of the D-Day invasion, time was spent at Arromanches and Omaha Beach. The famous Mont St. Michel was also a high point. Dr.

Whipple spent much time at various educational institutions and had the opportunity to teach for a day at the Universite de Caen, where he had studied as an undergraduate. The team visited such sites as a nuclear power plant, the Renault automobile factory, and the Haras National du Pin, the internationally famous French horse racing breeding farm.

Brother Miller's team visited 18 Rotary Clubs in South Africa. In addition, the team toured three mines, attended three civic receptions, went to four universities, and went on safari in Kruger National Park. They also watched a production of "A Chorus Line" and toured Sun City and Lost Cities. Aside from signs of increased security in Johannesburg, the team saw little evidence of violence or political turmoil. Team members learned that many of their hosts were against apartheid and were prepared for black African rule. Midway through the visit, Brother Miller's team met with the South African Exchange Team before its departure to Cincinnati.

As a follow up to the Group Study Exchange, team members will be speaking throughout the year to Rotary clubs about their experiences. ■

Alumni Academy provides education, networking

Phi Delta Theta held its very first Alumni Academy May 21 – 23 in Oxford. Thirty alumni club officers, faculty and General Headquarters staff attended the three-day event.

Faculty addressed a wide range of topics of concern to alumni, including publications, undergraduate relations, club development, and alumni programming. Dr. Bill Dean, George Lankow, Glen Cary, Fred Green, Greg Soska, Bob Deloian, and Dr. Richard Wright presented educational sessions.

The seminars provided information about how to assess the needs of area alumni and to provide services and events that would appeal to them.

The networking opportunities were almost as important as the seminars. Club delegates used time to brainstorm, share insights, and see how other clubs function. Many delegates promised to keep in touch and continue to exchange ideas.

"The most important thing was sharing ideas between people from different alumni clubs," Huelsman said. "I learned a lot from the older alumni."

ASAE recognizes Fraternity

The American Society of Association Executives recently recognized the International Fraternity for its chapters' philanthropic community service projects.

Phi Delta Theta was added to ASAE's Association Advance America Honor Roll, which recognizes significant contributions to society.

General Council holds retreat

The General Council recently held its annual retreat in Gatlinburg, Tenn. Five staff members accompanied the members of the Council during the four-day meeting in September.

Some of the top issues on the agenda were membership recruitment, risk management, the General Fraternity budget, expansion, alumni services, and chapter housing.

Expansion keeps steady pace

The Survey Commission, the body that approves campuses for expansion, recently gave the go-ahead at Lynchburg College in Virginia, Brock University in Ontario, Missouri Western State College, University of LaVerne in California, and University of California, Santa Cruz.

Three of the interest groups have already been approved for colony status. The interest group at Lynchburg was inducted as a colony September 26, and the group at Missouri Western will become a colony on October 6. Brock is slated for induction on October 30.

The Fraternity now has 184 chapters, six colonies, and two interest groups.

The Survey Commission is still pursuing the Fraternity's goal of 200 chapters by the year 2000.

Fraternity hosts 'Dry' ICE

In the spirit of interfraternalism, Phi Delta Theta was the host for this year's Interfraternity Canoe Expedition (ICE) held in Oxford in July. More than 40 staffers from different fraternity headquarters attended the weekend event, which has been held annually for more than 20 years.

The three-hour river trip was alcohol-free and a lot of fun according to event coordinator, David Almacy.

"Everyone had a good time ... I know I did," he said. "And I can't wait to do it again next year."

president of Teletype in 1981, holding that position until it closed in 1987.

A native of Sioux City, Iowa, Pappas received a bachelor's degree in mathematics and physics from the University of South Dakota and attended the MBA "Executive" Program at the University of Chicago.

Pappas is chairman of the National Engineering Consortium, a member of the Board of Trustees and Executive Committee of the Associated Colleges of Illinois, a director of the University of South Dakota Foundation and a director of the Illinois Masonic Medical Center Foundation Board. He holds membership in the Executives' Club of Chicago and the Economic Club of Chicago.

Pappas married Jolene Seifert in Chicago on May 7, 1955. Their two sons are married. Randall resides in San Antonio, Texas, and Scott in Crystal Lake, Ill.

Ken Smith served on the Board of Trustees for eight years. He was recognized at the July meeting and was conferred the title of trustee emeritus. ■

McCullin wins chapter adviser of the year

Albert W. McCullin Jr., Southwestern '54, has been named the 1992-93 Samuel V. Stone Chapter Adviser of the Year. Brother

Al McCullin

McCullin has served as Texas Gamma's chapter adviser since 1989, and in those four years the Southwestern Phis have earned three Gold Star Awards, Four Dallas Alumni Trophies, and a Kansas City Trophy.

Brother McCullin has worked closely with the chapter, making an hour-long drive to campus each week to chapter meetings, assisting the house corporation, and helping the chapter develop a sound Phikeia program.

"I've worked with the chapter and the house corporation, but being the chapter adviser is the most enjoyable thing I've done," McCullin says. "This award is a great honor."

McCullin does a lot for the community and the University. He is a volunteer recruiter for Southwestern, and he is a member of the Fraternity Advisory Committee and the Deans Advisory Committee.

He has been recognized by the Boy Scouts of America. He has served as chairman of Milam County Red Cross Campaign, March of Dimes, United Fund, the First Methodist Church, and he belongs to many other civic organizations.

"Mr. McCullin is an alumnus ... who personifies the outstanding qualities of character which we hope all of our alumni would achieve," writes Roy Shilling, president of Southwestern University. "His civic and philanthropic contributions are numerous, and he, thereby, serves as the type of role model one would hope our students would emulate."

No doubt Texas Gamma will continue to profit from Brother McCullin's talents for years to come. ■

Dickinson chapter back on campus

BY DAVID W. HOFFMANN

The Pennsylvania Epsilon chapter of Phi Delta Theta at Dickinson College is back! On Friday, June 4, 1993, seven new brothers were initiated at the American Legion in Carlisle, Penn., ending a four-year suspension of the chapter's charter. The charter was returned to Pennsylvania Epsilon during an alumni reception at the Embers Inn in Carlisle on June 5. Bob Fitzpatrick, General Fraternity warden, Mike Twigg, Gamma South province president, Martin Taylor, assistant director of chapter services, and Steven Stewart, chapter consultant, directed

Adopt-A-School program piloted on campuses across U.S.

The National Interfraternity Conference recently announced it will be piloting a new national Greek community service project called "Adopt-A-School." The NIC will be targeting approximately 60 campuses across the U.S. this fall to start the program. The purpose of Adopt-A-School is to pair Greek communities with local elementary schools in an effort to provide role models and individual attention to grade school children.

Based on highly successful models of this program at Miami University, Auburn University, and San Diego State University, the national Adopt-A-School effort will be funded by a $99,500 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

Jennifer Wilber, project coordinator at the NIC headquarters in Indianapolis, will be traveling throughout the Northeast this fall, starting the program at target campuses.

The goal of the program is to foster personalized relationships between Greek volunteers and grade school children in schools that are often burdened with funding cuts and understaffing and may not be able to provide individual attention. Working under the supervision of teachers, undergraduates act as mentors, coaches, and friends, establishing relationships with children which may increase self-esteem, attendance, and grade performance.

This interested in starting Adopt-A-School on their campus should call the National Interfraternity Conference offices at 317-872-1112. ■

California, Irvine\California Theta celebrated its last Founders Day without a house in April. After 15 years of negotiations, the house corporation finally made a deal with the university administration to develop a site for Greek housing on campus. Having the pick of locations on the new development, the Phis built the house on the highest point. The new 7,200 square-foot structure was occupied on September 1 and houses 24 men.

Clemson\The local chapter of Order of Omega honored Brother Jeffery Terry with its Greek Man of the Year Award in April. Brother Terry served as alumni secretary, house manager, vice president, and president. He also served as a resident assistant, on the Greek Leadership Academy Committee, and is listed in Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities.

Colgate\The chapter will be celebrating its 75th anniversary during the University's homecoming on October 22-24. Phis will enjoy a Saturday football game vs. Lehigh, a barbeque, golf, and an evening banquet with recognition of Golden and Silver Legionnaires as well as the chapter's 75th birthday.

Florida State\The brothers at Florida Gamma hope that momentum of their achievements from last spring will carry over to this year. In April, the chapter earned the University's scholarship achievement award. Now, the chapter is pursuing options for building a new house and is looking for alumni to assist.

Indiana, Penn.\IUP Greeks honored Pennsylvania Lambda member Shaun D. Haggerty with an Outstanding Greek Award runner-up at the 1993 Greek Award Banquet in May. Alan M. Friedman also earned a 1993 Greek Award for Distinguished Service.

Mankato State The local chapter of Order of Omega presented the 1992-93 Chapter of the Year honors to Minnesota Beta. The award recognizes the chapter that excels in the areas of membership education, scholarship, IFC participation, community relations, campus involvement, leadership development, and alumni relations.

RIT For the second consecutive year, a New York Eta Phi was chosen Outstanding

Stew Schuler

Greek Man of the Year. The 1992-93 winner, Stewart M. Schuler, was also named Brother of the Year by the chapter, and he was named 1991-92 Fish Residence Hall Most Valuable Staff Member.

UNLV Robert Snyder, Nevada Beta's Bond #1, was elected IFC president last spring. He will hold the office until December. The chapter's three-on-three basketball team won the University championship, the first intramural trophy for the young chapter.

Washington & Jefferson The chapter raised $2,000 in donations from generous alumni in order to purchase new furnishings for the chapter house. The chapter leadership held a retreat with the brothers who attended Leadership College in order to plan for the upcoming year.

Western Maryland Michael Razze was honored with the College's coveted

Mike Razze

Bates Prize as best all-around college man. This is the seventh time a Phi has won the award.

Razze played varsity soccer, served in the student assembly, was elected president of the junior and senior classes, and sat on the Board of Trustees' Student Affairs Committee. He served his chapter as president and awards chairman. He was also elected president of the Inter-Greek Council. One of only 23 seniors named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, Razze was also a charter member of Order of Omega.

The new initiates are: Shawn F. Ackerman '95, Adam R. Auriemmo '95, Matthew L. Butler '95, Jack Deacon '95, David W. Hoffman '94, Justin Hough '95, and Matthew J. Reilly '95. With the exception of Jack Deacon, all these members were recruited by the 1992 graduates of Pennsylvania Epsilon who remained after the suspension and 11 brothers who were initiated at New York Iota (SUNY, Buffalo) in 1992. These seven new initiates will join four remaining New York Iota initiates for the 1993-94 school year.

The circumstances of Brother Deacon's initiation are tragic and inspirational. His son, Jack Jr., was very involved with the Fraternity. While he and some other Phis were on vacation, he died in a drowning accident on April, 1993. Realizing the importance of Phi Delta Theta in his son's life, Jack Sr. agreed to the chapter's suggestion to be initiated in his son's honor. Mr. Deacon's grateful words were very touching to all who were present.

After the College issued a four-year suspension of the charter in 1989, the remaining members of Pennsylvania Epsilon were determined not to let a chapter that had been at Dickinson since 1880 fold. Several brothers attended Leadership College to convey interest in reestablishing the chapter to the staff at General Headquarters.

Eleven men from the suspended chapter were initiated at the New York Iota installation. These new members and the 1992 Pennsylvania Epsilon graduates went to work to keep the chapter alive.

Through hard work and determination, these brothers recruited new members and improved the reputation of the chapter. Many times it seemed the chapter would not hold together. At the beginning of the 1992-93 school year, all but one of the Phis were denied off-campus housing and thus a place to have rush functions and chapter meetings. But in the end, the charter was returned.

Pennsylvania Epsilon strives to increase its membership with quality men who will positively influence the chapter. The men are looking for on-campus housing for the 1994-95 school year and ways to increase campus and community involvement. The members hope Pennsylvania Epsilon's participation in the school's structured rush program will increase membership and improve the chapter's image.

Dickinson College is a small liberal arts college of approximately 2,000 students located in central Pennsylvania near Harrisburg. One of the original colonial colleges, Dickinson was founded by Benjamin Rush in 1773. There are 30 academic majors. The main campus includes 58 acres plus 74 acres of recreation space. Nine fraternities and five sororities at Dickinson claim 25 percent of the student population. The fraternities are Phi Kappa Psi, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Theta Chi, Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, and a local fraternity, Phi Epsilon Pi. The sororities are Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, and a local sorority, Delta Nu. ■

The Scroll receives donations, wins awards

After the spring 1993 issue was mailed, more than 900 alumni contributed to the magazine for a total of more than $31,000. The funds will be used to help defray the rising publication costs associated with the magazine.

A list of all of the loyal alumni who sent gifts to the Fraternity is included in this section as a 'Thank You' from the Mitchell Fund Trustees and the staff at General Headquarters.

Despite financial challenges, The Scroll continues to win accolades. At the 1993 College Fraternity Editors Association (CFEA) annual conference held in New Orleans in July, the magazine won four awards, including first place in the feature article category for Dr. Larry Baratta's article on AIDS in the summer 1992 issue. The spring 1993 issue, with designs and art by Brothers Brett Circe and Sherman Whited of Ringling School of Art & Design, earned second place honors in the four-color cover category, and the same issue won an honorable mention feature design award. The winter 1992-93 issue also won third place for other cover designs.

CFEA is a professional support organization for editors and communication professionals working for Greek-letter societies, including fraternities, sororities, professional societies, and honor societies.

IM, 400 IM and 200 breaststroke and the Big Eight Conference Swimmer of the Year is the 1992-93 winner of Phi Delta Theta's most prestigious sports award: the Harmon-Rice-Davis Trophy. The award is given each year to an undergraduate Phi athlete. Criteria are based on athletic achievement, scholarship, chapter participation, and school activities.

Stevens was this year's Phillips 66 Academic All Big Eight Scholar with a 3.25 GPA. He was also a five-semester Jayhawk Scholar winner for Outstanding Academic Achievement. He served as a member of the KU student senate and was an active participant in chapter activities. Stevens was the chapter's House Energy Supervisor, responsible for sales and distribution of hotel discount cards using the profits for philanthropies and community service.

He set Big Eight Conference records this year in the 400 IM and the 200 breaststroke. This year, he also set school records in four events: the 200 IM, 400 IM, 200 breaststroke, and 200 freestyle. He is a member of four relay teams which have set school records. Stevens was among the top five candidates in last year's Harmon-Rice-Davis competition, and he is the third Kansas Alpha Phi to win the prestigious award.

The runner-up is Randy Young, Denison '93, a four-year letterman in baseball. He is the team captain this year. For the second consecutive year, Young won the Most Valuable Pitcher Award, and for the second consecutive season he was a First Team All NCAC selection and an NCAA Div. III Region Eight First Team choice. This year, he had six wins and pitched nine complete games with an ERA of 2.14. His father was also a Phi at Denison.

Texas Tech freshman wins Trautman Award

Clint Bryant, Texas Tech, the first freshman ever to compete for the George Trautman Award, won the 1993 trophy as Phi Delta Theta's outstanding collegiate baseball player. He was a unanimous outfield selection to the All Southwest Conference First Team in the Coaches poll, the AP poll and the UPI poll. The Associated Press named him both Freshman of the Year and Newcomer of the Year, very impressive honors for a first-year player in a tough Division I conference.

Bryant hit .366 for the season, including 15 doubles, 6 triples, and 5 home runs, tallying 44 RBIs. In conference games, he was Texas Tech's leading hitter with a .414 average. Against Texas A&M, the top Div. I team in the country, he hit 5 for 10. Against third-ranked Texas, he hit 9 for 16, driving in seven runs.

Clint pledged Phi Delta Theta last fall and he was later named Outstanding Phikeia. He was initiated early last spring. He earned a 3.3 GPA in the School of Business, and he was elected to the Freshman Council last fall.

Another underclassman, Korey Krueger, Lawrence, was runner-up in the balloting. A sophomore outfielder and pitcher, he hit .556 in conference games, setting a new school record. Krueger's season batting average was .508, and he was an All Midwest Conference selection. As a pitcher, Krueger earned a 2-3 record. He will be the team captain for the 1994 season as well as chapter president this fall. His brother, Joe Krueger (another Lawrence Phi), was runner-up in the 1992 Trautman Award competition.

Darrin Surrey, Centre, scored third in the balloting. He is a senior short-stop and serves as the baseball team captain. Through 30 games, Surrey had only two errors. In 93 visits to the plate, he had 33 hits, compiling a .333 batting average. Surrey also played starting defensive back for Centre's football team, and he was also the team's punter.

Clint Bryant rounds the bases for the Red Raiders.

Phi Delta Theta Foundation awards $71,000 in scholarships

BY CARMALIETA DELLINGER JENKINS

The Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation recently presented $71,000 in scholarship grants to 40 very worthy undergraduate members for the 1993-1994 academic year. Twelve of the recipients attended the 1993 Leadership College and were honored at the awards banquet. Sixty-one men were nominated for this year's awards. The amounts of the grants ranged from $500 to $2,500 with 25 being for $2,000. Jeffrey N. Davis of Missouri Zeta received the highest honor, the $2,500 Arthur R. Priest Award. The prestigious Robert J. Miller Leadership Award, also for $2,500, was presented to Brent D. Larson of South Dakota Alpha.

In addition to 21 named scholarships, 17 general scholarships were presented. The trustees of the Foundation voted to name three of the general scholarships in honor of three long-time and most outstanding former province presidents. Honored were Jack F. Cozier, Oklahoma State '53; Scott E. Crowley, Iowa State '40; and Charles W. Poore Jr., South Dakota '61.

The first Priest Award winner was named in 1954. In 1962, the Foundation began presenting other scholarships. During this time, the Foundation has awarded $913,377.50 in scholarship grants to 713 undergraduate Phis representing 148 different chapters. These grants have been made possible by the generous financial support of alumni members, Phi families and friends.

What does this financial support mean to the recipients? Here are just a few quotes from their letters of appreciation:

Brent Larson wins Robert J. Miller Leadership Award

Brent D. Larson, South Dakota '94, has been chosen to receive the second Robert J. Miller Leadership Award. He will use the $2,500 scholarship for his final year at the University of South Dakota where he maintains a perfect 4.0 GPA in mathematics and actuarial science.

The Miller Award was established to honor outstanding leadership in the chapter and on the campus. It just so happens that Brent Larson, the mathematics scholar, is also a most outstanding Phi Delta Theta leader. Having served the chapter as alumni secretary, social chairman, and assistant rush chairman, he is currently the chapter treasurer.

Larson has been a member of the University Student Senate for three years. He serves on the University's Recreational Sports Committee and on the Parking and Traffic Committee. He is a member of the Brothers of Bordeaux and the "Dakotans," a University service organization in charge of Homecoming activities. He has been active in the University's Task Force on AIDS since his freshman year. During the summer of 1991, Brent spent a month with members of the USD chapter of the Campus Crusade for Christ rebuilding a village in Jamaica that had been destroyed by a hurricane.

Brent has been honored by membership in Phi Eta Sigma, a freshman honor society; Guidon Society, a sophomore honor society; Mortar Board, a junior honor society; and by Pi Mu Epsilon, a mathematics honor society. He has also received two University of South Dakota scholarships given to outstanding math students.

Brent's brothers point out that his scholastic achievement is not just a personal matter. He also promotes scholarship within the chapter. "If a brother is in need of help, Brent will gladly help him, either by improving the brother's study techniques or by aiding in explaining the material."

Chapter adviser Michael A. McGowan, Iowa State '85, writes, "When it comes to the selection of new members, you want to get twenty more just like Brent. Unfortunately, what I know is, there are not twenty more just like Brent. Fortunately, it only takes one."

McGowan further states, "I adhere to the simple belief that a leader is the individual who helps those around him achieve their potential ... The other actives of South Dakota Alpha are better Phis because Brent Larson is a Phi." That seems to be a very fitting description for the recipient of the Robert J. Miller Leadership Award. ■ rewarded for it. Thank you very much ... I will work to make sure that you were correct in choosing me for this award." —Brent D. Larson, S. Dakota

"I feel very honored to win this award. It has made my parents happy as well! Phi Delta Theta has taught me more about people and life than any professor ..." —Michael J. Ashley, Iowa

"Please trust me, Brothers, when I say that this scholarship could not come at a better point in my academic career... This scholarship will give a degree of freedom which I have not experienced at Texas Tech University. I am truly grateful that there are people, such as yourselves, who care about assisting undergraduates," —Clayton H. Duncan, Texas Tech

"This very generous gift which was made possible by Brother Maurice E. Shaffer will aid me tremendously in my educational endeavors ... Phi Delta Theta has in many ways not only enriched my years at the University of Pittsburgh, but more importantly, it has transcended Pitt and become a part of my everyday life. I am truly a Phi for life." —Jason Huey, Pittsburgh

Jeff Davis wins Arthur R. Priest Award

BY CARMALIETA DELLINGER JENKINS

Jeffrey N. Davis, a founding member of the Missouri Zeta chapter at Southeast Missouri State University, is the winner of the 1992-93 Arthur R. Priest Award. He accepted the honor and was a featured speaker at the awards banquet during the 1993 Leadership College where he reminded the delegates to think of themselves within the larger Greek community.

"No chapter is an island in the ... sea of fraternities," he said. "If your chapter doesn't work with your adviser, your Greek system, or the [General] Headquarters, then your chapter can never reach its maximum potential."

A political science major who has minors in Spanish and sociology, Davis claims a 3.75 average on a 4.0 system. Davis He a $2,500 scholarship grant to be used during his senior year.

Jeff is described as a "clutch player" by chapter officers and a "driving force" by chapter adviser, Per H. Torgersen, Penn State '89. Surely his record proves he is both. He served his chapter as awards chairman and treasurer before being elected president. The chapter has chosen him both "Brother of the Year" and "Most Spirited Brother." He faithfully participates in intramurals, serves on chapter committees, participates in Phi Delta Theta and other campus groups' philanthropies, is a Special Olympics volunteer. He was been named to the All Greek Honor Roll four times and has been selected to be a member of the Order of Omega; Phi Eta Sigma, a freshman honor society; Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity; and Pi Sigma Alpha, an honorary for Political Science majors.

Davis is also a driving force on campus. He was elected secretary and vice president of Towers West Hall Council. He has served as a Student Government Senator, as the Interim Student Representative to the Faculty Senate, and as Chairman of the Student Government Policy Affairs Committee. He was named a student representative to the University Leadership Advisory Board and the student member of the President's Administrative Council.

University President Kala M. Stroup writes that Jeff has been "a leader and example for all students on this campus. Most recently, Jeff was elected by an overwhelming majority as President of the Student Government for the 1993-94 academic year ... We have seen evidence of his sincere commitment to excellence through his work in Student Government, the Honor's Program, Phi Delta Theta, and the community."

Davis has not limited his involvement to chapter and campus activities. The Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, and the Cape Girardeau food bank each have benefited from his active involvement. During the summer of 1992, Davis served as an intern at the Democratic National Convention in New York City. He worked as a Visibility Coordinator for the Clinton

During his speech at the 1993 Leadership College, Davis challenged Phis to address problems Greeks face today. Using Dr. Martin Luther King's "I Have a Dream" speech, he called on all Phis to reflect on alcohol abuse.

"I have a dream that one day men will not have to use alcohol as a social lubricant," Davis said. "That Brothers won't have to take a few drinks before they get the courage to speak to a woman. That chapters won't use alcohol to coerce a rushee, and that one day, alcohol will not represent a rite of passage into manhood as it does today."

Davis went on to thank his chapter brothers, the General Headquarters staff, and the Foundation for the support given to him.

The Arthur R. Priest Award, Phi Delta Theta's highest undergraduate honor, has been presented since 1954 to 40 of the Fraternity's finest. Jeff Davis is certain to be at home in that distinguished company. ■

Brother Collett uses his vast knowledge in this comprehensive history of the nationally-acclaimed basketball program. He recalls the on-court heroics of such UD greats as Don Meineke, Bill Uhl, Bucky Bockhorn, Garry Roggenburk, Henry Finkel, Don May, Donald Smith, Johnny Davis, the Paxsons, and Roosevelt Chapman. The result is a highly readable saga of the highs and lows, the dedication, hard work, adherence to principle and the success that has made the UD basketball program one of the most honored in the U.S.

DOOMSDAY

by Russell Chandler, UCLA '56,
Servant Publications, Ann Arbor, MI. 1993. $16.99

Doomsday investigates the centuries of religious prediction of and preparation for the World's end. Through the prophecies of the Greeks, Egyptians, and Mayans to the modern soothsayers, Nostradamus and Jeane Dixon, Brother Chandler uses his journalistic and historic approach to disseminate the many theories about Armageddon espoused over the centuries.

In the book, Brother Chandler discusses the frantic responses to the millennial date change of A.D. 1000 and notes the focus of many religions on the approaching year 2000 and what it might hold.

This unique combination of history and futurology is fascinating, informative, and highly readable.

Brother Chandler is the former religion writer and editor for The Los Angeles Times and the author of Understanding the New Age and Racing Toward 2001.

POEMSTHAT SING TO YOU

selected by Michael R. Strickland, Cornell '87, Boyds Mills Press, Honesdale, PA. 1993. 55 pages. $13.95 illustrated hardback.

Michael Strickland teaches writing at Jersey City State College. This, his first book, is an anthology of musical poems and music. Strickland finds playful rhythms and soulful imagery in the works of Langston Hughes, David Harrison, Arnold Adoff, Karla Kuskin, and many other poets and composers. These lyrical poems represent the voices of many cultures and serve to remind us of the powerful connection in poetry between language and music.

"I have always believed in music as the universal language, cutting across time and distance, generations and cultures," writes Brother Strickland in his introduction. "As soon as Man could sing and bang a drum, he used songs to facilitate learning,

Intended as a tool to teach students the value of poetry through the more accessible and popular medium of music, Poems That Sing to You is a delightful collection that can be enjoyed by all readers.

LEIPER STREET

by Orman Wright, Kentucky '47, Larkspur Press, Monterey, Ky. 1993. 33 pages. $17.00 hardback.

This is the first book of poetry by sixth-generation Kentuckian Orman Wright. He is a native of Dixon, Ky.,

and this fact is essential to understanding of Brother Wright's work, since most of the poems center around images and events during his childhood in this small town.

Although unpretentious, the poems offer a gently persuasive case for the pastoral life of a rural village in the late '30s. His poems offer shared insight into perhaps the briefest but most everlasting moment in our lives.

"I have 'lived' in my home town for nearly seven years of my life; at this writing barely a tenth of it," he writes in his preface. "But they were the most important and influential years for me."

Leiper Street is a pleasure to read for those who grew up in a small town and even for those who did not.

THE WAITING BOOK

by Dr. Ben Stoeber, South Dakota '48, published by the author in Tehachapi, CA. 1992. LEARNING & INTELLIGENCE by Ben Stoeber, 1993.

The first of these books is a compilation of essays published by The Northwest Blade, the weekly newspaper of Eureka, S.D. An optometrist by profession, Brother Stoeber has compiled an entertaining and insightful collection of satirical and serious articles, some fact and some fiction. Many of the stories are metaphorical in their lessons and a few are direct, but all of them are inspirational.

Learning & Intelligence is a nuts and bolts guide to understanding human learning and intelligence. For those interested in child development, the book is not written in technical jargon and can be easily understood and applied by parents as well as teachers.

Fighting AIDS

BY DAVID C. SLATTON

Dr. Paul Volberding had spent only a week at his new position as chief of oncology at San Francisco General in July 1981 when a veteran cancer specialist pointed him to a room and said, "There's the next great disease waiting for you ... a patient with KS." [Kaposi's Sarcoma is a skin cancer which, until AIDS, was found almost exclusively in elderly men of Mediterranean descent.] Volberding had never seen a case of KS like this before. Covered with lesions and emaciated, the frightened young man looked like he was in the advanced stages of stomach cancer. As it became clear that the patient was not responding to any conventional treatment in the months that followed, Volberding became merely a witness to the man's slow and painful death. He would be the first of many victims of this mysterious new disease to pass through the clinic, but the image of desperation on this young man's face would stay with Volberding.

During the next two years, Volberding became one of the few heroes in an otherwise bleak time when government and media indifference allowed this new disease to spread, a disease that took the lives of hundreds of people in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York before it was even given a name: Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Fifteen million people around the world are now infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. The AIDS pandemic is now in its twelfth year, and there is little hope for a cure or a vaccine to prevent further infection in the near future. It has become the largest health crisis of the twentieth century. The handful of heroes that responded to the disease in the early '80s are now the world's experts and the best hope for a cure.

Dr. Paul A. Volberding, Chicago '71, has now spent most of his medical career fighting AIDS, but he doesn't see himself as a hero. An energetic and committed physician, Volberding plays the roles of researcher, politician, advocate, and doctor as the director of the Center for AIDS research at the University of California at San Francisco. He is also chief of clinical oncology and the head of the AIDS program at San Francisco General Hospital, a program he started in 1983. His wife, Dr. Molly Cooke, is also an academic physician who works in San Francisco's AIDS ward.

A trained specialist in retroviruses (of which HIV is one), Volberding saw his future as a clinician in fighting cancer. He admired the courage and outspokenness of cancer patients, the same traits that drew him to people with AIDS.

In the early '80s, when little was known about the epidemic, Volberding became somewhat of a media superstar because of his calm, reassuring style and his rare expertise on the disease. He gained instant popularity among the gay community as a patient-advocate, and even now is somewhat of a living legend in the AIDS community. He has appeared on "Nightline," "Donahue," and "Merv Griffin." In 1987, the editors of GQ magazine gave him their Glenlivet Award for Singular Style. His exploits, and those of the few other physicians who addressed the epidemic in the early '80s, have been chronicled in And the Band Played On, the classic book by San Francisco Chronicle reporter Randy Shilts.

As the new chief of oncology at San Francisco General in 1981, Dr. Volberding responded to the epidemic when few others would. He established the first center that allowed patients to help shape their own treatment; he argued vigorously on the side of patient rights; and he has chaired or served on nearly every major national and international policy-making committee on AIDS. Volberding's Ward 5B was the first inpatient unit in the U.S. devoted exclusively to AIDS patients.

"What we've done here is put together a great program for patients. It just makes more sense with this disease to work with patients to develop systems of care instead of trying to impose existing systems on this new disease," says Volberding.

"We've developed programs that are used throughout the world as models [for AIDS care] that are very good medicine and are also cost effective."

Being at the center of the political storm AIDS has created, Volberding has become respected and admired not only as a doctor and researcher, but as a politician. Despite the fact that the epidemic has created discord between patients, pharmaceutical companies, physicians, and the government, Volberding has the uncanny ability to build coalitions and soothe conflicts. The more heated debate regarding the Federal drug approval process provokes only a calm, uncritical response.

"I may be in the minority, but I think the FDA has done a great job," he says. "It took them, like the rest of the medical community, a while to get up to speed on this disease, but it also took the drug companies some time to develop some promising drugs."

According to the CDC, one million Americans are HIV positive, and more than 180,000 have died of AIDS.

"One area we are watching is the flexibility of the approval. Generally, when the FDA approves a drug, they approve it for a specific disease and for one group of people. With HIV, we would like them to keep an open mind to giving approval for a broader group of HIV infected people."

In 1983, Volberding became involved with some of the earliest clinical tests of AZT, culminating in his leading the largest clinical trial on HIV infection. His skill at understanding all sides of this political issue has opened many doors for him and his program.

Volberding now uses much of his influence lobbying pharmaceutical companies to test their new drugs at his center.

Volberding's high profile work on AIDS led international AIDS organizations to recruit him. He became a founding member of the International AIDS Society, serving as its president from 1990 - 92.

Volberding is increasingly concerned with the AIDS crisis in third world nations. Eighty percent of new AIDS cases occur in these countries, and with few health care workers and budgetary constraints, these countries cannot afford to distribute condoms, nor can they afford drug therapy.

"A vaccine is the major push, because there are many developing countries where HIV infection is spreading absolutely without control. Many of those countries have no health care

AIDS education at Michigan Epsilon

Until a cure is found, education is the only weapon against AIDS. The Michigan Epsilon chapter took this to heart last January, sponsoring a seminar on AIDS and HIV.

The members organized and promoted the seminar for all Greeks at Northwood University.

Two volunteers for the local Red Cross, Marty Hollenbeck, director of health and safety education, and "John Myers," an AIDS patient, presented the facts and the realities of the disease.

"We gave them the facts and then applied them to real life situations," said Hollenbeck.

The presenters emphasized abstinence, but they also discussed ways to protect against infection resulting from sexual activity. They carefully avoided stereotyping victims of AIDS.

"People often build barriers to convince themselves that AIDS happens to someone else," Hollenbeck said. "That way, they feel safe."

After the presentation, the brothers passed out condoms to the group. "Let's face it these are scary times," said Brother Brad Pelachyk, the event's principal organizer. "We need to be well informed and act responsibly."

In America, Volberding and others in the research community are working to advance drug treatments for people already infected with HIV. The goal is a treatment that would enable victims to live with the disease much like current sufferers of diabetes.

But the United States, too, is experiencing an increasing HIV-positive population, and the demographics of the group are shifting. With increasing numbers of HIV infected minorities and women, AIDS has become less and less a disease affecting only gay men.

As of March, 1993, the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta reported 182,275 deaths resulting from AIDS. In 1990 the second leading cause of death for men between 25 - 44 years old was AIDS. The CDC estimates that 1 million Americans are HIV-positive. These numbers indicate a massive patient population that must be cared for in the future, which is the reason Brother Volberding and others are fervently pursuing a curative drug treatment as well as a vaccine for prevention.

Education is currently the only weapon for AIDS prevention. Volberding does his part to address the stereotyping and suspicion that often follows the disease, and he works to provide updated information about prevention to the urban community where AIDS has rapidly spread. Volberding often travels to hospitals and conferences giving lectures on AIDS, but he tries to be at his clinic at least once a week.

"I can be on the road these days up to 25 or 30 percent of the time," he says. "United Airlines knows me by name. The real trap is that, as I've gotten more well-known and involved in more committees, it gets harder and harder to be a primary physician."

Volberding spends a lot of his time on the road advocating continued education about the disease. He also encourages college students, especially Greeks, to become involved.

"If there is a willingness to deal with AIDS not as a stigmatized issue but as something that affects us all, and if fraternities are willing to lead in AIDS education, then I think they can play a very important role," he says.

Volberding attended college during the turbulent years of the late '60s, and he remembers the stability the Fraternity provided him.

"I think you experience so many changes and you grow so fast during college that the supportive environment that the Fraternity offered was immensely helpful," he says. "The Fraternity plays a great role in giving people a sense of their own responsibility."

Personal responsibility is a message he tries to send to college students, especially regarding social behavior.

"I think most college students really understand that they are not in a high-risk group. The problem is convincing them that they should still keep AIDS in mind and take precautions. Because of their age, abstinence probably won't be very popular, but they're educated enough that promoting condom use can have a substantial impact," he says.

The largest factor putting college students at risk is the promiscuity of the age group. Volberding believes that fraternities can significantly affect the campus community by modifying behavior and supporting AIDS organizations on campuses.

"I think fraternities at many schools are leading social institutions that can model proper behavior," he says. "And many fraternities, especially Phi Delta Theta, can actively sponsor community organizations that provide AIDS-related service."

At times, the rapid spread of HIV infection and the lack of any clear solution to the disease in the near future leaves very little hope for AIDS patients and physicians alike, but Volberding's upbeat attitude is difficult to shake.

"If I weren't the world's biggest optimist, I would be working in a different area," he says. "You have to expect that sooner or later, we're going to stop this. But to this point, there is very little evidence that anything we have done has had any impact at all."

With a possible cure and vaccine still years away, Volberding sometimes finds it difficult to convince the government and the public that AIDS should continue to be a priority. The image of that first victim of AIDS-induced KS still haunts Volberding, motivating him despite the frustration. ■

New discovery may lead to ALS cure

Lou Gehrig

Ever since Lou Gehrig's, Columbia '25, tragic death in 1941, a war has raged against amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), the disease that results in degeneration of the nervous system, paralysis, and eventual death. Now, recent identification of the gene that causes ALS may lead to a cure of the disease that affects 30,000 Americans.

Already the discovery has led to an understanding of how the gene causes ALS, and researchers hope that continuing research will lead to cures for many other diseases.

"After 120 years of research, it's probably the most exciting thing that has happened in ALS ever," says Lynn M. Klein, vice president of patient services for ALS Association in Woodland Hills, Calif.

Phi Delta Theta has been an active member in the fight against Lou Gehrig's disease. Brothers Andy Soffel, Pittsburgh '52, and Warner Peck, Wabash '69, are both members of ALS Association's board of trustees, and many chapters have adopted ALS as their philanthropy.

"It is difficult to focus public attention on ALS when comparatively so few people suffer from it," Soffel says. "If we could coordinate [Phi Delta] chapters on ALS, we could establish a network, especially for fund-raising, that would really help to bring attention to this disease."

The Phoenix & Valley of the Sun Convention & Visitors Bureau

Going to Arizona

The 70th Biennial Convention is set for Scottsdale

The 1994 Phi Delta Theta General Convention will be held this coming summer, June 16 – 19. This important meeting will be held for brothers and friends from across Canada and the United States in Scottsdale, Arizona. Brothers who have attended past Conventions will tell you it is an experience not to be missed.

The names Phoenix and Scottsdale conjure up many images: sun-drenched skies ... world class accommodations ... breathtaking desert beauty ... southwestern history ... outdoor recreation ... a community on the rise. Phoenix and Scottsdale are all of these and more!

The area's roots can be traced to A.D. 300 when Hohokam Indians inhabited what is now Phoenix. While the Hohokam people disappeared more than 500 years ago, their contributions and cultural influences remain with us today.

Presently, more than 23 Indian reservations are found in Arizona. These reservations are home to more than 50,000 Native Americans from 17 different tribes.

Modern Phoenix was founded on the banks of the Salt River in 1860. It was named by a settler who predicted a great city would rise from the ancient Hohokam ruins, much as the legendary Phoenix bird rose from its ashes.

Phoenix is the ninth largest city in the U.S.A., with more than 980,000 people. More than two million people make their homes in the Valley of the Sun.

In addition to some of the finest hotels and resorts in the world, the valley offers first rate shopping, dining and recreational opportunities.

Phoenix also has become one of America's manufacturing high-tech centers. Its low cost of living, casual life style and positive business climate have made the Valley of the Sun a popular destination for both visitors and people looking to relocate.

With more than 300 sunny days a year, an average annual high temperature, and just 7.11 inches of rain a year, it's easy to see why the Valley of the Sun is one of the fastest growing areas in the U.S.

The accommodations for the Convention delegates and guests will be at Marriott's Camelback Inn in Scottsdale. Nestled between Camelback and Mummy Mountains, the desert oasis is Scottsdale's premier resort. There are 423 spacious adobe casitas with private patios and spectacular views. The resort has also received numerous awards as a meeting destination.

Fraternity must continue to lead

BY DR. EDWARD G. WHIPPLE, GENERAL COUNCIL PRESIDENT

As we begin a new academic year, Phi Delta Theta can point with pride to many achievements over the past year. Two chapters, Illinois Alpha (Northwestern) and Pennsylvania Epsilon (Dickinson), were reinstated. Three new chapters joined the Phi Delta Theta family: Ontario Epsilon (Carleton), Tennessee Epsilon (Tennessee, Chattanooga), and Florida Lambda (Ringling). Phi Delta Theta now is an International Fraternity of 184 active chapters and six colonies.

In my role as president of the General Council, I have had the opportunity to travel to many campuses and meet outstanding undergraduate Phis. I also have had the chance to speak to alumni who continually practice the teachings of the Bond in their daily lives. I am convinced the reason our Fraternity is a leader in the Greek world is because of this strong undergraduate and alumni membership.

This year, one of the real challenges for me has been to respond to the increasing questions about the purpose of Greek-letter organizations. As president, my response continually brings me back to the reason for Phi Delta Theta's existence.

What is that reason? It clearly is seen in the mission of Phi Delta Theta which is "to instill in all members, the high principles of the Bond of Phi Delta Theta and to attain an organized brotherhood that will assist all its members to conduct themselves at all times in accordance with these principles." Based on this mission, the General Council has focused the Fraternity in a direction of aggressive commitment to meeting the needs of our undergraduate and alumni members.

The General Council has made great strides in key areas of Fraternity operations. Last year, at the Council's annual fall retreat, it identified areas on which to focus for the 1992 - 94 biennium. These areas are: alumni services, chapter advisers, chapter housing, membership recruitment, programs and services, and General Headquarters facilities.

Much work was done this past year, and we will continue to build upon our successes. Of course, without the excellent leadership of Executive Vice President Robert Biggs and the work of his staff, the Council's goals could not be realized. Some of the major accomplishments this biennium include the first annual Alumni Academy held in Oxford in May; the start of a "fire and life safety loan program," available to all chapters with house or lodge facilities; the development and implementation of a new pledge program; the development and implementation of the Standards for Brotherhood program; and increased emphasis on membership recruitment programs and materials.

In addition, the General Council continues to articulate the critical need to support the Educational Foundation. The Foundation is an integral part of our Fraternity. The success of many of our undergraduate, alumni, and volunteer programs is due to its financial assistance.

The General Council is committed to building a strong foundation for short and long term Fraternity growth. In order to continue to provide the quality services and programs to our undergraduates and alumni, the Council endorsed, at its June meeting, an annual fee for undergraduate members. The Code Committee will introduce this legislation at the '94 Convention.

The General Council realizes there are many questions regarding an annual dues program. We will spend this year educating general officers, undergraduates, and alumni on the rationale for the program.

If Phi Delta Theta is going to continue to offer the very best possible services, programs, and products, it must increase income. Since the last fee increase in 1988, additional income has been spent on such items as the annual Leadership College, the Alumni Academy, the adviser province meetings, a comprehensive membership recruitment campaign, educational videotapes, a new Phikeia manual, and increased volunteer personnel. Phi Delta Theta, along with other fraternities, is also faced with increasing liability and property insurance costs above our total four-year cost of membership. Our expenditures for these programs and services have made a tremendously positive impact on our Fraternity; however, the expenses are outpacing the revenues.

Phi Delta Theta has added 20 chapters in the past five years. The current ratio of chapters to chapter consultants is 31.5 to 1, one of the highest in the fraternity world. Phi Delta Theta ranks 41st of 46 fraternities in total four-year cost of membership. Among the ten largest (by total number of initiates) fraternities, Phi Delta Theta has the lowest four year cost of membership and despite their higher costs, men continue to pledge our competition.

Even with the General Council's current cost cutting measures, it is necessary to raise revenue merely to continue what we are doing, let alone expand and improve programs and services. Chances are that if a new fee structure does not pass at the 1994 Convention, reductions will have to be made in key fraternity operations. The areas targeted for reduction comprise those programs and services that have made us second to none in the Fraternity industry. The reductions would affect Leadership College, alumni services, graduate educational advisers, province president support, consultant visits, and our superb expansion program.

I hope undergraduates and alumni will support the Council's desire to continue improving and expanding the services, programs, and products provided to them. The Council firmly believes the annual dues program is the best way to accomplish this.

Midway through this biennium I am extremely positive about Phi Delta Theta's future. With a committed General Council and administrative staff, a dedicated volunteer corps, and an outstanding group of undergraduates, we will continue to be a leader in the Greek world. ■

If Phi Delta Theta is to continue offering the very best possible services, it must increase income.

How George Banta Sr. became an initiated member of Delta Gamma sorority

BY ROBERT J. MILLER, EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT EMERITUS

Ask 100 Delta Gammas the name of the only male member of their fraternity, and you'll get 99 correct answers. Ask the same question of 100 members of Phi Delta Theta, and you'll be lucky to find one person who knows the answer.

The person in question is the man who served as the very first president of Phi Delta Theta's General Council, George Banta, Franklin-Indiana 1876. He was elected to that position at the age of 23 and served the 1880 – 1882 term. By that time he had already become a member of Delta Gamma.

To understand how this situation could have developed, one must acknowledge that the fraternity system was not bound by the rules which exist today. Here's how Brother Banta explained it in 1907:

"I may explain here that in the elder day of thirty years ago, here in the West at least, fraternities on special occasion affiliated students in colleges in which they had no chapters, by registered mail. This, of course, will seem most strange to fraternities members in this day.

But it was then the day of rapid extension and fierce rivalry. Fraternities were not centralized as they are today, and methods were then more lax and crude. Every fraternity and sorority in the West initiated honorary members and many men and women, valuable to them in their fight for not only growth, but existence as well, were oft quoted and oft boasted members."

Several of Phi Delta Theta's early chapters were chartered by the method explained above.

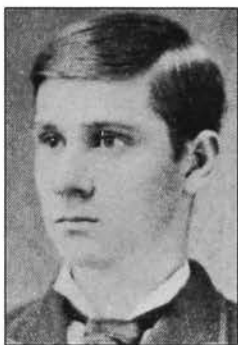

Returning home from Phi Delta Theta's 1878 convention in Wooster, Ohio, Banta encountered a Phi from the University of Mississippi, from whom he learned of the founding of Delta Gamma in 1873 at The Oxford Female Institute, known as The Lewis School, which was located a few blocks from the gates of the University of Mississippi. Young Banta became interested in the establishment of a chapter of this new fraternity for women at Franklin College. Through correspondence with representatives of the Mississippi Delta Gammas, he learned of their desire to expand to the North.

A series of setbacks, possibly involving the yellow-fever epidemic of 1878, brought disappointment. Perhaps the greatest barrier to success, however, was the great distance separating Oxford, Miss., and Franklin, Ind. This led George to propose "that I be clothed with sufficient authority to act personally and directly" in developing a new chapter.

The members of the Mother Chapter of Delta Gamma thought well of the proposal, and to the surprise of Brother

Banta, elected him to membership on May 27, 1879. What followed is best described in Banta's own words:

"Of course, correspondence followed and I was speedily given authority to organize and initiate a chapter at Franklin College. The three girls I first interested were Miss Mary Vawter, her cousin Miss Lillian Vawter, and Miss Kitty Ellis, my own cousin. Their initiation was extremely simple, consisting as I recall it of my communicating the few secrets to one, who in turn communicated them to the others... As Miss Lillian Vawter was my fiancée, it is probably not difficult to conjecture who the first Delta Gamma north of the Ohio River was, after myself... I clearly remember that we were told we should select our own chapter letter and we promptly chose Phi, in honor of the famil-

"Every fraternity and sorority in the West initiated honorary members and many men and women, valuable to them in their fight for not only growth, but existence as well, were oft quoted and oft boasted members."

The establishment of the Phi chapter of Delta Gamma at Franklin was not the end of the story. George Banta and, indeed, other members of Phi Delta Theta, were instrumental in the development of Delta Gamma chapters at Buchtel (Akron) (1879), Hanover (1881), and Wisconsin (1881).

Banta, in later years, assisted with the rewriting of the Delta Gamma ritual and attended many of the fraternity's conventions, the last being in 1934, a year prior to his death.

George Banta and his Delta Gamma fiancée, Lillian Vawter, were married in 1882. Lillian died in 1885, leaving a young son, Mark. Brother Banta moved to Menasha, Wisconsin, where he later married Ellen Lee Plensants. Two children were born to this union: George Jr. and Eleanor Banta. Both sons became members of Phi Delta Theta. (George Jr. followed in his father's footsteps and served as president of the Phi Delta Theta Grand Council from 1932 – 1934.) Eleanor became a member of Delta Gamma.

Brother Banta supported the Greek system throughout his life. He attended early meetings of the National Panhellenic Conference and the National Interfraternity Conference. He founded Banta's Greek Exchange, a quarterly magazine devoted to articles on fraternity affairs.

Delta Gamma paid special tribute to Brother Banta when the Delta Gamma Foundation established the George Banta Memorial Fellowship for 1957 – 58. ■
