Pearl Harbor memory

A great [Fall 2001] issue!! Thoroughly enjoyed it, but guess I must have missed the issue asking for contributions about Pearl Harbor from alums. Here are my recollections of that day as I wrote it December 8, 1943:

"Am listening to the broadcast preceding Declaration of War on Japan. The President is about to arrive. We heard the first attack of war in the card room of Phi Delta Theta. We were playing bridge. The President has just come in to the House of Representatives chamber. There are four of us in room 7 of the Iowa Beta chapter house of Phi Delta Theta. It is now 12:30 PM, December 8, 1941. The president has just been introduced to Congress. Japan has now attacked Midway, Guam, Wake, Hong Kong, Malaysia, and the Philippines. The President asked Congress to declare war on Japan. The National Anthem was just played. The Congress is now dissolved. The members are filing out. The House of Representatives will go back in session.

The Speaker of the House asked that there be no broadcasting of the proceedings of the House. They are now broadcasting from the Senate Chamber. Bill Hill, my roommate, Dick Hatfield, my best friend from Sioux City, and Frank E. Fisher of Evanston, Ill, are present in this room. They are no longer broadcasting from the Capitol. The Free-French government declared war against Japan just now. Prime Minister Churchill will speak at 2 from London. England will probably declare war against Japan also. She has pledged herself to do so, at least. Mexico and many other South American countries have declared war or at least said they would stand by America. Costa Rica and Nicaragua have already declared war on Japan. A radio announcement just said Congress declared war against Japan UNANIMOUSLY!"

I got drafted from Iowa Beta in January of 1943 and served in the Air Corps in Tunsia, Italy, Corsica, and Southern France. I was a cryptographer in the 12th Air Force... I returned from Italy in September of '45 and returned to Iowa Beta in January of '46—a nice even 3 years.

Another war hero

Your chapter grand reporting the death of John F. MacLeod, Montana '49, of Langley, Washington in August might have gone with the last issue's Pearl Harbor memoirs.

"Scotty" MacLeod was in the Philippines at the time of the war and was on the Death March from Corrigidor and spent the war in a Japanese prison camp. He held us spellbound with his storiesnone of which were recorded. Our loss-

What's going on with our chapters?

While The Scroll today is still an excellent magazine, I am very disappointed at the death of chapter reports. During my days in the active chapter one of the offices was that of "Reporter." I was Reporter for one year, 1944-45, managed somehow to meet all the deadlines and took great pleasure in seeing my writing actually in print. My one great regret was not taking advantage of the talent of Brother Art Jones who later became a notable news photographer with the Vancouver Sun. All active chapters must surely be interested in maintaining the loyalty of the alumni and receiving their support. Failure to publish quarterly accounts of chapter activities in the Phi magazine, which is obviously ready and willing to publish them, could account for a lack of interest on the part of their Phi alumni. This certainly has affected my personal view of B.C. Alpha. I only hope that the editors of The Scroll will apply pressure to receive more chapter reports, with photographs, from all chapters of Phi Delta Theta.

Singing is important

I just finished reading Linc Fisch's article "Bonding Through Song" in the Summer, 2001 edition of The Scroll, and I am writing to say that this article touched a real chord with me.

My graduation year was 1957 and my chapter was Ohio Theta, the University of Cincinnati. Singing was an important part of Phi Delt life at that time and place. We sang at rush parties, at dinner and at fraternity parties. We serenaded sororities and we sang for pinnings and the annual Mother's Day sing University-wide competition among the fraternities. We sang a lot and with enthusiasm.

The Mother's Day singing competition was a big deal on the campus and the Phis were a force during my entire college career. My memory is that we won three of my four years. The entire chapter was expected to participate, not just a few designated singers. Those who were 'musically challenged' (as I am) learned when to lay off a note we could not handle.

Singing really was an important part of fraternity life in the '50s. I was reminded how important while reading Fisch's article when the words "Dum-da-da-dum-dum" leaped immediately to mind when he mentioned the song "Drums." I think we won with that song one year too.

The Phi Delt chapters of today are the poorer for a lack of singing. Too bad.

Thanks for the nice articles and congratulations on the overall improvements to The Scroll.

Read every word

My reading of The Scroll tends to be cursory. However, the article by Linc Fisch, "Bonding Through Song" caught my attention and I read every word. In my 4 years at Ohio Beta I listened to a lot of Fraternity songs. Serenades 1934-38 were just the same as those described at Ohio Wesleyan in the article.

My then and now sweetheart, Winifred Boone Andrews was given a

Phi hero killed in Afghanistan

Phi Delta Theta and the nation learns about one Phi who gave his life for something he believed in. Army Ranger Marc Anderson was a true Phi hero.

n Monday, March 4, U.S. Army Rangers specialist Marc A. Anderson, Case Western '94, was among seven service men killed in action when opposition forces fired on U.S. helicopters in Afghanistan. The news hit the nation and Phi Delta Theta hard. National newspapers and television stations quickly picked up a photo of Anderson-presumed taken in Afghanistan—proudly holding a Phi Delt banner. Marc's brother, Steve Anderson, Tampa '94, told the St. Petersburg paper, "People will call him a hero. I would rather have him home and not a hero." We will bring you more on this story in our next issue.

Toronto 2002

The Fraternity is gearing up for its 74th General Convention to be held this summer in Toronto, Ontario. Convention details and online registration are now available on the Phi Delta Theta web site. Visit the site today to learn more about the meeting as we also celebrate the 100th anniversary of our first chapter in Canada, McGill's Quebec Alpha, and 100 years of international brotherhood. The convention program also includes opportunities for golfing and a baseball game. Don't miss out, register today.

Director position open

Phi Delta Theta is seeking applications for the Director of Risk Management & Housing position. Interested candidates should have a knowledge of risk management and insurance programs. Major responsibilities include, but are not limited to: maintaining insurance coverages, administration of ongoing risk management program, involvement with housing loans through the Walter B. Palmer Foundation, Inc., and maintaining communication with house corporations. A letter of application and resume should be sent to Robert A. Biggs (bob@phideltatheta.org), Executive Vice President, 2 South Campus Avenue, Oxford, OH 45056. Salary and benefits are competitive. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Start date is May 1, 2002.

Scholarships

As the years tick by, a good education becomes more important. Lucky for Phi Delta Theta, the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation is here to help our student members—both undergraduate and graduate—achieve their educational goals.

Every year each Phi Delt chapter may nominate at least one member for an undergraduate scholarship which can be as much as $4,000. Nomination packets must be complete and postmarked by April 1, 2002.

Graduate fellowships are awarded to Phis in or entering a graduate level program. Fifteen $3,000 graduate fellowships will be awarded and applications must be postmarked by May 1.

For more on these Foundation programs, visit www.phideltatheta.org.

Feedback on The Scroll

As you will see by the list of names starting on page 8, the response to The Scroll's request for help was met strongly by our members. Among the many replies were comments of praise and constructive criticism. Over and over, we saw our readers asking for more news from their alma mater. We are currently investigating ways to have all of our chapter's report at least annually so all alumni can hear from their chapter.

We found a solution to another item that has challenged a few of our readers—type size. If you find The Scroll's small print difficult to read, put down this issue and hop on your computer. At www.phideltatheta.org you can read current and past issues online. And with the tools provided in Adobe Acrobat Reader, users may magnify pages to any size they wish. Try it out and let us know what you think.

Thanks again for all the support and suggestions. You are helping us make our award-winning magazine even better.

Remembering Dr. Davis

The Scroll learned of more sad news in early January as longtime Scroll sports editor, Dr. John Davis, Jr., joined the Chapter Grand. Davis was responsible for Phi Delta Theta's sports honor roll and fostered the celebration of athletics among the Fraternity. In 1991, Davis became the sponsor of the Harmon-Rice-

Survey Commission update

In February, the five Survey Commissioners met at the General Officers Conference to discuss the status of the Fraternity's expansion activities. We were pleased to welcome Jacob Heuser to his first Survey Commission meeting as the new director of expansion.

The Commissioners extended a special thanks to the previous expansion director, Moe Stephens, for his hard work and dedication during his tenure. We wish him all the best in his new career.

The Fraternity currently has eight colonies. The Tennessee Gamma Colony at the University of Tennessee is off to a great start with 28 men. At the University of Kentucky, the Kentucky Epsilon Colony now boasts 28 members. Out west, the California Tau Colony at Cal State-Stanislaus, is progressing nicely with 38. We hope these three groups, along with the men in the Connecticut Alpha Colony at Central Connecticut State University, will meet their charter requirements in order to be installed by the end of this academic year.

Interest groups continue to form across North America in an effort to bring the Phi Delta Theta experience back to a number of college and university campuses. Most notably, there are two rapidly developing groups. The first is the Pennsylvania Delta Interest Group at Allegheny College in Meadville, Pa. Heuser has just left the campus having recruited over 40 quality men! The Washington Gamma Interest Group at Washington State University and the Oregon Alpha Interest Group at the University of Oregon also continue to grow with 26 and 19 men respectively. These three groups will most likely colonize by April 2002.

Looking ahead to the 2002-03 school year, we have opportunities to return to the University of Michigan, the University of Nebraska, West Texas A&M and Gettysburg College, among others.

From the Foundation

Why wait? Four reasons to advance a bequest

t the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation we are always appreciative when we learn that the Foundation has been named as a beneficiary in a will, trust or other estate transfer document. Whether or not your estate plan includes the Foundation, we want you to know about some of the advantages of moving your bequest forward and giving all or a portion of it now. In particular, please consider some of the following benefits of a charitable gift annuity:

1. Increase your income now.

One of the more important benefits of a gift annuity is the attractive interest rate that can be offered, especially for our older donors. It's also important to remember that we are talking specifically about an amount of money that has already been "earmarked" as a bequest to the Foundation.

2. Reduce your taxes now. The IRS provides a charitable income tax deduction for gifts made to the Foundation during one's lifetime. For those who itemize, this deduction may be used to reduce income taxes owed, and this results in more income for you to spend... or give! Since a portion of a charitable gift annuity plan qualifies for a charitable income tax deduction, making that gift now with assets you already intend to give later, may be a tax-wise idea worth considering.

3. Stabilize your retirement now. Gift annuity payments are fixed, and once the payment dates (monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually) are established you will receive the identical amount in every check. A gift annuity can be a way for you to diversity and stabilize your retirement income.

4. Enjoy your giving now. When you establish a gift annuity with the Foundation, you will experience the personal satisfaction of completing a gift now. Furthermore, you will give us the opportunity to express our gratitude and to include you in our recognition programs.

Why miss out on the "joy of giving?" Please contact us at the Foundation and we will be happy to discuss with you the wide variety of gift planning options that are available. Our director of major gifts, Will Cooke, can be reached at (513) 523-6966, and he will be glad to provide you with more details on how this type of arrangement can benefit you and Phi Delta Theta.

If you would like to get involved with an expansion effort or have suggestions regarding an opportunity for Phi Delta Theta, contact the Survey Commission or Heuser (jacob@phideltatheta.org, 513-523-6345). As always, thanks for your support!

Ways Your Contribution will help secure the future for Phi Delta Theta's magazine.

What can I say? After the Fall 2001 issue hit mailboxes across the globe, I was more than surprised by the reply mail. With each gift and note we opened, we realized exactly how important The Scroll is to you—our readers. As of February 25 you gave over $50,000. We will be good stewards of your generosity and support, and here are six ways your contributions will make a difference: You gift will help: 1 preserve the Mitchell Fund's corpus, 2 provide lifetime subscriptions for future generations, and 3 defray the burden of increased postage expenses. Your feeback will: 4 help us be cost effective, 5 bring you more on the topics you want, and 6 provide you the best magazine possible. Thank you, thank you, thank you,

The Los Angeles Alumni Club was rechartered on September 8. With the help of the California Delta Chapter the first event, a tailgate party at a USC Trojans football game, was a success. The vision of the club is simple: to give Phis in the LA Area an opportunity to meet and network with fellow Phis, celebrate Founders Day with a community service project, and celebrate the Bond of Brotherhood. The next event will be a spring golf tournament to benefit ALS.

The Wichita Area Alumni Club has renewed efforts to maintain an active presence in the Wichita area. September 2001 brought a new president as well as a board of directors to oversee the planning and execution of events. In October, the club organized a banquet in honor of Steve Clark, who received the Raymond L. Gardner Award from the General Headquarters. (To read more about this event, see the winter 2001 Scroll issue.) The club also sponsored a tailgate party in January to support Wichita State's men's basketball. More than 40 alumni attended the event, which was sponsored by House of Schwann and McGreevey Meat Co. The club has created an e-mail list that enables the club to communicate information to all Phis very quickly and with no cost.

THE GROWTH OF COURAGE

Eric Westacott is a Phi who defines courage. His determination to not only survive, but to excel after suffering a life-altering accident serves as inspiration and example for all who have heard his story. The following article is adapted from a speech Eric gave on the importance of courage in leadership to a group of Phi Delta Theta chapter leaders at the Presidents Leadership Conference this past January. In addition to speaking engagements, Westacott now works as a St. Louis lawyer having earned a law degree from Saint Louis University in 2001. Through the Eric Westacott Foundation, he also raises money for spinal cord research to find a cure for paralysis. The Foundation's annual golf tournament at Cherry Hills Golf Club in St. Louis is popular among many area Phis. For details on the foundation, the tournament or Eric's availability for speaking engagements, visit www.ericwestacottfoundation.com. Eric's complete Presidents Leadership Conference speech is available online at www.phideltatheta.org.

t's been about eight and a half years since I was sitting where you are. That was the summer of 1993 at Leadership College in Oxford, Ohio. I was just like you wide-eyed, idealistic, ready to tackle anything and take on the world. I was about to begin my senior year. I was excited about the upcoming semester-rush, our chances to win sports, winning grades, my term as president, our active brothers in their new offices, new classes, and of course... meeting girls. In short, I was on top of the world. Although it wasn't that long ago, it seems that so much has changed for me since then. That change began on October 3, 1993.

It was a beautiful fall day. The sky was clear, the sun bright. It was still warm. We were in our second game of the Greek Softball Tournament. As last year's champion, we were looking forward to defending our crown and this second game was the marquis match-up.

Sigma Nu was our arch rival on the campus and we competed fiercely for everything. Whenever we lost a rushee, lost a leadership position on campus, or had competition in Greek Week, it came from Sigma Nu.

And, once again, in the softball tournament, the Sigma Nus looked to be the toughest opponent for us. As usual, we scored first and often. We were up by a handful of runs. I came up to the plate with two runners in scoring position. I got a perfect pitch and put a good swing on the ball. As I rounded first, I saw it carom off the wall in left-center, the outfielders frantically chasing it down. I thought to myself, "If I get after it, I might score!" I sped around third. Halfway down the third base line, out of the corner of my eye, I saw the ball fly over my left shoulder. The catcher had caught the relay throw and I was 'dead to rights out'. Quickly, I began to think. "Ok, you've got two options: slide, knowing you'll be out or plow him over, trying to jar the ball loose. If you plow him over you'll cause a huge brawl, get thrown out of the game and tournament, and create a hostile rivalry out of a friendly one-after all, I was our president and Kendall, the Sigma Nu catcher and a good friend of mine, was their president." Then I thought, "If you slide, like the rules dictate, then you'll be giving yourself up for out, and momentum will swing to the Sigma Nu side." Well, I got caught in the middle of my decision, and I did both.

Time seemed to slow to a crawl. I remember diving headlong through the air at Kendall. The top of my head made contact with him in the middle of his right thigh. The ball squirted loose. I heard a loud pop. Somehow I ended up short of the plate, on my back, with my hat squished down over my eyes. I thought, "Get up! You haven't hit the plate and he's dropped the ball!" I tried to get up... nothing happened. Suddenly, I couldn't breathe. It took me several seconds to draw a breath. Then, it hit me. "You've just broken your neck.."

My first thought was, "Stay calm, remain focused." Players from both teams began to gather around me. From my odd body posture, they could tell that my injury was serious.

Next I thought, "Tell Coby that you just broke your neck. He'll know what to do." Coby, our right center fielder, had been in the athletic training program with me two years prior. Coby came over to me and said, "You've just got a stinger, that's all. You'll be fine in just a few minutes." I could tell by the tone in his voice he didn't believe his own words. I knew at that instant that I was completely paralyzed. I shouted to Coby, "No, Coby, I just broke my neck."

I heard several gasps from some of the onlookers. I could feel the tension growing in the swelling crowd. A hushed murmur became barely audible. I began to hear broken bits of comments and conversations.

It was then that I realized I was calmer than anyone around me. I knew I was paralyzed, I wouldn't be getting up, and everyone around was looking at me with a mixture of horror, panic, and disbelief. At that moment I knew that I had to remain calm. I told myself, "Yes, you're catastrophically injured and need help, but showing that you're upset won't do anyone any good. To get through this we'll all need strength and reassurance. It's up to you to calm the situation-to provide the example. You're still their leader—act like it!"

I had found my courage. But, where had it been up to this point and why had it come on so suddenly? These questions I asked myself over and over again in the ensuing months of my hospitalization and rehab, as I would need every bit of courage I could muster. At that time answers to these questions were incomplete at best, but every formulation contained one thing... the Fraternity... the Fraternity, its teachings, and my Fraternity Brothers.

It wasn't until a year or so after my graduation from SMS that I felt confident about answering those two questions. The answers emerged after reflecting upon my undergraduate career. I saw that I had courage, or at least the seeds of courage all along. It just took a major test to bring it out of me. It's my contention that all of us have these seeds. We simply need to encourage and foster their growth so that when we're tested, we may succeed.

I define courage to be, "The product of strong character, positive attitude, and sound judgment when tested." As I see it, there are basically three parts—three principles. We have 1) strong character, 2) positive attitude, and 3) sound judgment when tested. So how does this relate to Phi Delta Theta?

STRONG CHARACTER

When I think of strong character, I am reminded of my very first introduction to Phi Delta Theta. When I stepped onto campus, I was determined to not go Greek. In my head, being a fraternity man meant paying for friends and being associated with nothing but beer-chugging lunk-heads. I had several buddies who were going to go through formal rush and they talked me into going through with them. "After all" they said, "it can't hurt to meet some new people. And, just going through rush doesn't mean you have to pledge."

Their argument sounded logical, so I went through formal rush. Formal rush meant for one weekend rushees paraded around to each fraternity house to attend a short presentation. After the presentation, there was a brief time to meet the members.

On the first day my suspicions about Greek life were confirmed. Each chapter I visited had the same identity. "We party harder and get more wasted than any other house," was their message. I enjoy partying as much as the next guy, but I felt there had to be more to being in a fraternity.

Sunday arrived and after the second visit, I was convinced I had just wasted an entire weekend. Then we went to the third house, Phi Delta Theta. Immediately, I could tell it was different. The guys seemed more polished, more aware of life. We sat for a short slide presentation. Then the current president, Lance, spoke. He talked about Brotherhood and what it meant, the importance of good grades, chivalrous conduct, and the Silent Phi.

"Silent Phi" he said, "is the way we conduct ourselves. It means that in competition, we hold our heads high—win or lose. No braggadocio. It means we are humble and thoughtful. It means we work hard and let our accomplishments speak for themselves."

The more I heard, the more impressed I became. Here was a group of men who believed in the same things I did, knew how to have a good time, and when to be serious. Here were men of dignity, responsibility, quiet confidence, and unshakable motivation. Here were men of strong character.

I had much to learn about character. As Phikeias, we were taught that, 'Character is who you are and how you act when no one else is around.' How easy it is to maintain those admirable qualities when we know we are going to be judged. Conversely, how easy it is to forget what is important when we are on our own.

We can change our character—we can better it. In my pledgeship, it was often stressed to us that 'Those who identify well with others, identify with themselves.' So, by associating with people of good character, that good character is passed on. This is certainly true in my case. I am convinced that had I not been so fortunate to be involved with such high quality people in the Fraternity, I would not be before you tonight.

Strong character is also outwardly visible. After a 23-day stay in the hospital, I was moved to a special facility for spinal cord injuries in Colorado. My stay at Craig Hospital was lengthy and filled with loneliness. For almost five months I was apart from family, brothers and friends.

However, I did have many visitors. And the majority of visitors were Fraternity Brothers. More than 25 Brothers made the 775-mile journey from Springfield. Almost all of the staff at Craig marveled at the commitment and dedication that these guys had.

I can distinctly remember my physical therapist, Carole, saying to me, "Do you know how lucky you are, to have this many people come all this way to show you that they care about you? Do you know that most of our patients who've suffered an injury like this are lucky to have 1 or maybe 2 people who stand by them? Most so called friends can't handle such a change and just turn their backs."

"I haven't had a single person do anything of the sort," I told her.

Truly, every one of my Fraternity brothers had stayed right there with me. They had written, called, sent gifts, visited, checked in on my parents to see how they were doing, helped my younger brother, Mike, with his pledgeship at Missouri Zeta. They had organized a rally of support on the campus at SMS. They began to raise money to help me with my medical bills. They launched a golf tournament to raise money to help me pay for the rest of my education. They were, as Ernest Hemingway said in 1929, 'Grace under pressure.' They, along with my family, had been the majority of my support—without which I think I might have given up.

Carole then said, "That's unbelievable! In my 11 years here at Craig, I've never seen anything like it. Those guys are amazing!"

Yes, those guys are truly amazing. They impressed a total stranger with their collective character. I can think of no better example to show the Bond of Phi Delta Theta and the incredible men who make it up. This is the character of a true

I am sure this is the same kind of men comprising your chapters. Character is something Phi Delta Theta instills and fosters.

POSITIVE ATTITUDE

I first learned the value of positive attitude in my time as an undergraduate Phi. The rigors of pledgeship as we all know can be quite demanding—making good grades, participating in community service events, learning the history and lore of the Fraternity, bonding with pledge brothers, becoming involved on campus in other leadership roles. For me, it was even tougher, as I had committed myself to an academic program that required me to give a good chunk of my time to other endeavors.

Throughout this hectic time, my pledge brothers taught by example the importance of maintaining a positive attitude. It soon became second nature, and began spilling over into other aspects of my life. I found that almost any endeavor could be accomplished with positive attitude.

Immediately after my accident, I found my positive attitude to be the one thing keeping me on track. Shortly after the doctors had completed their physical examination and review of my x-rays and CT scan, I was diagnosed with quadriplegia. I was told that I had broken my neck and pinched my spinal cord between the 4th and 5th cervical vertebrae. The doctors informed me that I would never walk again; I was paralyzed from the chest down and that I would be lucky to ever sit up again. They said I would develop pneumonia, require a tracheotomy and breathe with the aid of a machine. They told me I would be institutionalized the rest of my life, and if I did not die in the interim—they gave me a 50-50 shot. Initially, I was horrified. Then I was mad. Finally, I calmed myself and realized that I was going to predict my own life. I was going to set goals—no matter how small or trivial—I was going to look forward to the future—I was going to rely on the positive attitude that I had learned in the Fraternity.

And as you can see, I made it! I can sit up. I never got a trache. I never contracted pneumonia, and I'm not institutionalized. Although I remain seated before you tonight in this wheelchair, someday, when science allows, I will walk again. I am convinced that it is just a matter of time.

I am sad to say that I did not always keep my positive attitude. My stay at Craig Hospital tested my limits to maintain a positive attitude. When I first arrived, I thought that this was a place where miracles happen—where I could work my butt off and walk out one day to resume my life as if nothing had happened. Positive, yes, but totally unrealistic.

After the first week, I knew what lay before me and was eager to get to work. My parents' stay was over and they left for St. Louis, entrusting me to the capable hands of the Craig Staff. I awoke that Monday morning ready to do whatever necessary to heal myself. My enthusiasm and vigor were soon dashed. My doctor informed me that I had acquired a blood clot that ran the length of my left leg. He said it was so large that it even ran up into my veins just below my heart. The treatment was a Heparin IV drip to thin my blood and complete bed rest-indefinitely.

I was crushed. My hopes were destroyed, my positive attitude was lost. For me, this meant I was all alone in a foreign world with nothing to do but lay absolutely motionless in a bed until some doctor deemed me well enough to move. I had gained a negative attitude. From that point on, I let little else enter my mind. I kept thinking, "Here I am, a prisoner in my own body. I want to move. I want to get up. I want this to be over."

An extremely long week passed and I was released to resume therapy. I had set no goals and my attitude had not changed. I had expected to get right on with healing and returning to walk. It did not go as planned. In fact, it went nowhere. My poor attitude had blocked any progress that I could have made. I was mad at everyone and everything.

I stayed that way for almost a month. However, at Thanksgiving, things changed abruptly. Three of my pledge brothers, Rich, Scott and Todd had decided to spend their holiday with me. Their arrival marked the first visit from any of the Phis. I was so glad to see them, I could hardly speak. But, I doubt they would say the same of me. I was openly hostile. I was constantly bickering with one of my aides in particular. On the second morning of their visit, the fighting between this aide and myself was particularly bad. Rich, Scott and Todd had been in my room to witness it all. They could tell that I was not myself.

Later that day, Rich pulled me aside and said, "What are you doing!? That woman, this morning, was just trying to help you. All you did was yell at her. What is wrong with you? You are in here to get better. You are not helping yourself with this attitude. Take the time to say please and thank you-

> "Most so called friends can't handle such a change and just turn their backs."

they're here to help you!"

I had been verbally slapped back into place. "You know, Rich, you're exactly right," I said.

The rest of their visit was better than any treatment or drug. I had regained my positive attitude and found solace in old friends. Now, I was ready to get better. From the time after they left until Christmas, I had the most dramatic recovery of any time. I went from no movement—apart from a slight shoulder shrug—to being able to operate a power wheelchair with my right hand. In terms of paralysis rehab, this was a giant leap. I attribute most of this to positive attitude.

To keep from ever losing my positive attitude again, I make a conscious effort every day to maintain it. I try to concentrate on little things. A smile for a stranger, a wave to a neighbor, a celebration for reaching a goal, or breath of air in the warm sunshine. Each of these reminds me that if I stay positive, the only limitations I have are those of vision.

SOUND JUDGMENT

Courage is not complete without sound judgment. I think this is the most important aspect to the definition. As C.S. Lewis wrote in 1944 in The Unquiet Grave, "Courage is not simply one of the virtues but the form of every virtue at the testing point." The testing point is the stimulus from which the exercise of good character, positive attitude, and sound judgment are required. The outcome is courage.

If you think about it, every day we are tested and judgment is required. In your life as a Phi Delt, it's probably a decision concerning some issue within the chapter. Whether it is the disciplining of an active brother or the planning of social functions, sound judgment is required.

When I say sound judgment, I'm referring to well thought out, rationally and logically balanced decision making. I'm not talking about knee-jerk or emotional decisions. So, my decision to dive headlong into the catcher was not an example of sound judgment. That was just plain stupidity!

Sound judgment is sometimes unpopular, but nevertheless necessary.

In my second meeting as president, I was faced with a tough decision. Our social chairman was advocating a party for the upcoming week that would give us a leg up in the upcoming rush. I have to admit it now, the idea was excellent and the approach was novel. The problem arose with its execution.

The party was entitled, "Come Toss Your Nuts." The social committee had planned to cut out hundreds and hundreds of paper elephants imprinted with the slogan "Come Toss Your Nuts" and post them all over campus one week prior to the party. Chalk elephant footprints and peanuts were drawn all over the sidewalks of the campus pointing in the direction of the Phi Delt house. No mention of what it meant was given until just before the party. Invitations were handed out explaining the gimmick. The elephants and chalk drawings were simply for creating questions in people's minds. At the party, invitees would find peanuts everywhere and décor fashioned with an elephant theme.

Unfortunately, the idea hadn't been proposed and voted on before the executive committee. The discussion in chapter meeting was the first it was heard by anyone outside the social committee. I knew two things. First, the breach of protocol meant that the idea would have to be tabled until the following week. This would put us into the rush week, nullifying our chance to get a leg up. Second, I knew that the title was too risqué for us.

So, there I was listening to the social chair expound about the glory of his idea, gaining popular support with each word. All the while I knew it had to be tabled. I tabled it. Several brothers were outraged. "How can you kill such a great idea!" they exclaimed. I promptly told them that it hadn't come through proper channels, and no idea—no matter how good—could be approved by the whole chapter bypassing the bylaws.

Had I made a sound judgment? Who's to say? I think so. Looking back on it, we still had the party, only a week later, with the name changed to "Elephant Party". And we still had a great rush.

The strange thing with making sound decisions is that when made, outcomes are generally still in doubt. The best you can do is to think through the judgment process thoroughly and logically.

I doubted myself in my decision to go back and finish my undergraduate education. Part of me said, "You're crazy! You can't live by yourself—you can't even get out of bed or feed yourself a meal!" The other part of me said, "You've set your goals. You've made the proper arrangements. You have a plan—and most importantly, you have your Fraternity brothers to help you."

From August of 1994 until December 1995, including the summer term, the brothers at Missouri Epsilon fed me every meal, put me in bed every night, and made sure that I was taken care of. This includes brothers and Phikeias who had never met me before, but who volunteered without hesitation. My graduation is a testament to their dedication. With that kind of support, it's easy to make sound judgments.

For you, sound judgments will come from many circumstances. Before my accident, I found it helpful to remember a slogan learned in pledgeship, "Eyes are always upon you." Whenever you're in doubt about what to do, think about your badge and the eye of the Phi in the middle. Realize that whatever your decision, someone will see the outcome. You are always watched.

So, when the test comes, exercise your strong character and positive attitude. Know that you're always an example to someone and that you have to be responsible for the consequences of your actions. Sound judgment will certainly follow.

THE COURAGE

n January 10-13, 2002, 353 Phis from the United States and Canada traveled to St. Louis, Missouri to participate in the third annual Presidents Leadership Conference (PLC).

This year's PLC marked the second year that chapter recruitment chairmen were also invited to the conference. Thanks to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation, the Fraternity is able to coordinate these educational conferences for the undergraduates.

The purpose of the conference is to educate chapter presidents and recruitment chairmen on the values and techniques required to be an effective leader. Where Leadership College is focused on the young, emerging leaders within the Fraternity, PLC targets specifically the two offices of president and recruitment chairman. Through topicspecific presentations, facilitated team meetings, peer-to-peer education, and experiential learning exercises, the officers delve into the specific issues they challenge on a daily basis as a chapter leader.

This year's PLC included extensive programming over the four days with nine General Session programs and guest speakers, five team meetings, and a Memorial Ceremony. There was even some time for fun with a hockey game.

Two major highlights were Brothers Eric Westacott (Southwest Missouri State '95) and General Charles A. Horner (Iowa '58). Each Brother gave riveting presentations on courage and the impact courage has upon being a leader.

Eric's story inspired the Brothers and impacted all who were in attendance.

Brother Westacott stated that "Character is something that Phi Delta Theta instills and fosters. Just take a look at Morrison's Philosophy. I think it's the most valuable character building statement learned as a Phikeia. 'To do what ought to be done, but what would not have been done unless I did it, I thought to be my duty.' It includes the vision and forethought of a philosopher-the maturity and determination of a leader—the honor and dignity of one belonging to a group engaged for the greater good. What a precise statement about the character of a Phi. It seems to encapsulate all that is strong character."

General Horner shared his experiences from the military and how the Fraternity impacted him as an undergraduate. He also received a special award on behalf of the Fraternity for his outstanding service in the Armed Forces.

On the last morning of PLC, the Fraternity performed the Memorial Ceremony for the eight Phis that died during the events on 9/11/2001 and for a Brother Phi who died in an accident on Friday, January 10, 2002. General Council President, Art Hoge, and General Council Member, George Lankow, presided over the ceremony. As part of the ceremony, the nine undergraduates from each respective chapter that lost a Brother gave a brief biography of each member.

Horner receives Davis Award

After General Horner's address at the Presidents Leadership Conference, he was awarded the General J. K. Davis award. This award which was created by the General Council on November 11, 2001, honors Phis who have demonstrated outstanding service in the defense of liberty as a member of the Armed Forces.

Nominations for this award may be sent for consideration to ghq@phideltatheta.org.

[ continued from page 20 ] ciples I've outlined for you make up courage. It's also my contention that the residual of this courage is leadership. Think about it... don't good leaders have strong character, positive attitudes, and make sound judgments when tested? Then it follows logically that the demonstration of courage is leadership.

You'll know when you've been a successful leader. It comes about when you leave the chapter and it's in better stead than when you entered it. That is the message conveyed by the last line of our pledge oath. "I will strive in all ways to transmit the Fraternity to those who may follow after, not only not less, but greater than it was transmitted to me." Once again, the Fraternity has taught us much about personal growth, courage and leadership.

I'd like to close tonight with one final story, that, I think, summarizes and illustrates quite well, each of the points I've tried to make.

Brad was my pledge trainer. As a Phikeia, I couldn't have asked for anyone better to teach me about the Fraternity and about becoming a Phi. He led by example. He was stern, yet was always there to listen. He was an athlete and a scholar. He had the ability to shoulder a ton of responsibility, stretch his day to accomplish any task, and still have time for his Brothers.

Brad and I developed a close bond that we shared throughout our years in the house together. It remained even beyond his graduation. We stayed in contact all through my accident and subsequent hospitalization. As I said earlier, Brad, like everyone else, treated me the same as he always had-still Brothers.

One day, not too terribly long ago, Brad told me that he was going to begin training for the Chicago Marathon. I knew this was something Brad had wanted to do for a long time. As I listened to his description of the training regimen, I thought, "Wow, I had no idea of the discipline and dedication it takes to do this. The dieting, the long hours running, the constant pounding on the body, the time sacrifices." But, I also knew that if Brad undertook a challenge, he was going to meet

Shortly after the race, Brad and I got together. I asked him, "So how was it?" He said, "You know, the first 12 miles or so, I felt great! My legs felt good. I felt strong, confident that all the training was worth it. The next ten miles I still felt good, but I started to feel the beginning of some cramping in my legs. The two miles after that I just had to gut it out. The cramping was becoming almost unbearable, but I kept going. Then it hit me. I couldn't take the pain anymore. I had to slow down and walk. Then, even walking became a struggle. The pain kept intensifying. Finally, I had to stop and sit. I was crushed! I wasn't going to finish! All those months of training and sacrifice—all for naught! Then I began to think about you," he said. "I thought about your struggle and all that you've had to come through—the months and months of rehab the surgeries—the daily struggle just to get out of bed. If you can do all of that, then I can finish this race."

Well, Brad got up and completed the Chicago Marathon. It's hard for me to articulate how Brad's story affects me. I'm awed that my example could affect someone, especially someone of Brad's determination and character, so profoundly.

I think the message this story gives us is this: Brad's strong character, positive attitude, and sound judgment in the face of his test give us an example of courage—courage that provides us leadership to finish the race. When you think about it, isn't life just an extremely long race? My race, like many others, has been filled with hurdles, but I'm going to keep on running. I pledge to you that I will finish my race. And, if I can finish my race, then so can you!

TRUE NORTH Canada's place in Phi Delta Theta

It was exactly one hundred years ago that Phi Delta Theta became an international brotherhood for it was in 1902 that the first Phi Delta Theta charter was granted to a chapter outside of the United States. Although Phi Delta Theta was not the first to extend its presence into Canada, it currently shares honors as the largest international fraternity in Canada, with nine active chapters. Phi Delta Theta is routinely recognized as a true Canadian pioneer in the Greek world, having been the first fraternity established at a number of universities in Canada. Since 1902, more than 7,400 Canadian men have signed the Bond, which includes countless leaders in politics, industry, the arts, education and many other professions. Our preeminence in Canada is testament to the inherent strength and resilience of our chapters, despite non-recognition by campus administrations and an overall culture that is not as accepting of Greek-letter societies, as found in the United States.

Phi Delta Theta might well have been celebrating its Canadian centennial year in 1982. Walter B. Palmer's The History of Phi Delta Theta recounts that E.H. Sweet of Indiana Delta entered Acadia College in Wolfville, Nova Scotia in 1882, and at the Fraternity's National Convention in that year, it was reported that he favored the establishment of a chapter there. A motion to grant a charter when an application from Acadia should be received was lost, but, without prejudicing such an application, the matter was referred to the General Council. However, no application was received, and it was twenty years later, when the fraternity was in its fifty-fourth year, before Phi Delta Theta entered any institution beyond the borders of the United States.

Phi Delta Theta's Canadian beginnings go back to the fall of 1900 when Charles A. Richardson, Colby '02, entered McGill University in Montreal, Quebec, to study medicine. In February of that year the General Council had received a petition for a Phi Delta Theta charter from a group of twelve men at McGill. The petition came as a complete surprise. The group was informed that the Council would have to more thoroughly discuss the wisdom of moving into Canada before granting a charter.

Richardson gathered a strong group of men together, several Fraternity officers visited the university, and on February 20, 1902, another petition was signed and sent to the General Council. It was granted on March 29 and on April 5, 1902, Phi Delta Theta became an international Fraternity with the installation of Quebec Alpha.

Almost immediately, owing to the close relationship between McGill and the University of Toronto, negotiations were opened with Zeta Sigma Nu, a local fraternity at the University of Toronto.

The group encountered resistance however, mainly due to sectional rivalries within the Fraternity at the time, and it took its third petition, in 1906, to gain a favorable nod from the General Council. Ontario Alpha, Phi Delta Theta's second Canadian chapter, was installed on May 26-27, 1906.

Three years later, Ontario Alpha bought a 16-room brick house—bordered by a broad athletic field and an open-air hockey rink—with the help of generous alumni. This was the first Phi chapter in Canada to own its own house.

While Phi Delta Theta's Canadian chapters gained in membership, housing and brotherhood, Canadian expansion would remain at a standstill for the next 24 years.

In the intervening years, the Fraternity's two Canadian chapters provided an increased awareness among Phis on both sides of the border that the Fraternity gained much from being an international society and that Phi Delta Theta was not immune to the influences of the increasingly complex world. This reality was brought home with the onset of World War I. For Canadians, the Great War began with the rest of the British Empire in 1914. The United States would remain a neutral power until 1917.

Twenty Phis from Ontario Alpha (onefifth of the total initiates from the chapter) were in the trenches of France within months of the declaration of war, and twenty more were preparing to join the forces overseas. Also with the Canadian contingent were five men from Quebec Alpha. A report to The Scroll in 1915 recounts that "the war has been a severe blow to Canadian chapters of all fraternities... yet we feel that in taking up the sword we are living up to The Bond in the highest interpretation of the phrase." The first Phi casualty of the war was Colin Simpson, Toronto '16, who was killed on August 8, 1916 somewhere in France while commanding an English artillery brigade. He was barely 21 years old.

In 1930, the Detroit Convention was a truly exciting and historic occasion for the Fraternity. Not only did it approve the chartering of five new chapters—four of which were to be established in Canada, it was done in the international waters of Lake Huron, on board the steamship S.S. Eastern States. Petitions from the Canadian universities were presented so forcibly and with such excellent planning that they were nearly unanimously approved. 1930 was, indeed, a triumphant Canadian year for the Fraternity with the installation of the four chapters at the University of Alberta, the University of Manitoba, the University of British Columbia and Dalhousie University.

A ban on fraternities at the University of Alberta in Edmonton was lifted in the fall of 1929 making it amicable to the Fraternity's presence. During the Christmas holidays that year, five students from Edmonton met to form a local fraternity, Alpha Phi Theta, with the ultimate goal of petitioning Phi Delta Theta.

Early help and advice came from Archer Davis, Toronto '24, and I. K. Kerr, Minnesota '05. The petition was granted and on September 12, 1930, the Fraternity's third chapter in Canada was installed as Alberta Alpha.

Alpha Chi, a local fraternity founded at Winnipeg's University of Manitoba in 1926, found many of its members becoming well acquainted with Phi Delta Theta alumni in Winnipeg during the spring of 1929. Gradually, as the friendships grew, more Phi Delta Theta alumni were found in the city and joint Alpha Chi-Phi Delt alumni dinners were held.

Undoubtedly, these functions fostered plans for a petition and on September 19, 1930, Phi Delta Theta's Manitoba Alpha chapter—our fourth in Canada—was officially founded.

At the University of British Columbia a local fraternity known as Lambda Sigma Delta formed in February 1927. It was founded when fraternities at the school began emerging as strong groups on campus and it quickly became the leading fraternity.

In 1929, George E. Housser, McGill '06—who in 1950 became Phi Delta Theta's first Canadian General Council President—spoke to the group in Vancouver about petitioning Phi Delta Theta. Interest was high. Area alumni, led by Brother Housser, worked closely with the group from then until its installation October 31-November 1, 1930. British Columbia Alpha became our fifth chapter in Canada.

1927 was also the founding year at Dalhousie University of a local group known as Corps Dalhousiana. A year later it had already grown into a strong group and it inquired of chapters at McGill and Toronto about petitioning Phi Delta Theta. The group became Kappa Alpha Phi in 1928 when it moved into a new house.

Phi Delta Theta completed its link across the Dominion on November 13-14, 1930, with the installation of Nova Scotia Alpha at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Nova Scotia Alpha became Phi Delta Theta's sixth Canadian chapter and fourth Canadian chapter installation in just two months. Phi Delta Theta stretched from British Columbia to Nova Scotia and was now the largest Greek letter society in Canada, but the up and down pattern of the Fraternity's Canadian development continued. Phi Delta Theta would have another three-decade lapse before seeing another chapter in Canada. In September of 1960, almost exactly 30 years from the date of the last Canadian installation, a local group would re-spark interest in Ontario.

Seven Phis doing graduate work at London's University of Western Ontario formed an interest group with the express purpose of petitioning Phi Delta Theta. By December 1961, the group had solidly established itself as a fraternity and felt ready to petition. This it did and won approval from the 1962 Convention. On November 9-10, 1962, Phi Delta Theta welcomed its seventh Canadian chapter. Ontario Beta, into the fold. While the chapter went inactive in 1974, it was successfully rechartered ten years later.

The installation of Alberta Beta at the University of Calgary in 1970, Phi Delta Theta's eighth Canadian chapter, marked our second chapter in Alberta. It also brought our Fraternity to a head-to-head tie with Zeta Phi as the international fraternity with the most chapters in Canada—each with eight. For many years, Zeta Psi had held the honor. But the installation of Alberta Beta culminated a long wait for Phi Delta Beta, the local society. The group was founded in 1964 when a member approached the local alumni club about forming a Phi Delta Theta colony. The undergraduates, who included some University of Alberta brothers and Phikeias that transferred to Calgary, had their work cut out for them. Since the university administration at the time was hostile toward Greek letter societies, the men assumed the name of the Elbow Park Social Club. The group struggled for several years, perhaps indulging at times in too much social activity rather than fraternity business. Other Greek societies became interested in absorbing the club, even offering financial support and immediate membership. But under the express wishes of the group's founders and "inspiring" visits from other Phi alumni, the Elbow Park Social Club decided it wanted to become a chapter of Phi Delta Theta or die in the attempt. The men obtained colony status in 1968 and soon moved into a chapter house. With a growing bond of brotherhood and vigilant support of local alumni the colony was granted chapter status on April 4, 1970, when Alberta Beta was installed. Unfortunately, in 1976, just six years later, Alberta Beta was Phi Delta Theta's first Canadian chapter to close due to lack of numbers.

1974 saw the establishment of the Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation, by a group of dedicated alumni in Toronto. As foreign tax laws did not allow for Canadian alumni to reap the tax deduction benefits by contributing to a foreign charitable foundation, this enterprising group, including J. Fred Green, Toronto '30, and George W. Brigden, Toronto '52, set up the foundation that allowed Canadian undergraduates to benefit from academic scholarships. From the first $250 scholarship awarded in 1974, the Canadian Foundation has since granted over 150 scholarships totaling more than $145,000.

At the 1986 convention in Toronto (the third time the fraternity held its convention in Canada), Robert S. Dinkel, Alberta '53, was installed as the second ever Canadian President of the General Council.

The ninth charter granted in Canada was given to British Columbia Beta at the University of Victoria on March 26, 1988. The chapter saw its roots in a visit by then-Chapter Consultant Rob McInnes, Dalhousie' 85, who visited the campus in the fall of 1986 to investigate expansion opportunities at Canada's most westerly university. A group of interested students quickly latched on to the idea of starting something new at "U-Vic" and they managed to gain their charter by the spring of 1988. As the only Greek-letter society on campus when it was founded, the chapter found it difficult to interest enough of the student body in Greek life and it suspended operations in 1995.

McMaster University is home to Phi Delta Theta's Ontario Gamma chapter which was installed on March 17, 1990. With three chapters now in Ontario, the province had—and still has—more Phi Delta Theta chapters than any other Canadian province. The Ontario Gamma colony quickly grew from a nucleus of a dozen men who formed the local fraternity Phi Delta Gamma, to 28 founding fathers. The colony held the distinction of having one of the shortest colonization periods in all of Phi Delta Theta, lasting no more than five months. From the start the chapter excelled, going on to become the fraternity's most decorated Canadian chapter, having won 45 awards since its founding twelve years ago.

The next chapter to join the brother-hood was that of Ontario Delta at York University of Toronto. Formally installed on Nov. 17, 1990, there were 25 founding fathers. This was our eleventh Canadian chapter.

Two years later, on November 21, 1992, Ontario gained yet another chapter, Ontario Epsilon at Carleton University in Ottawa. Due to the persistence of three men, Donald Fraser Jr., Toronto '93, Eric Perron and Craig Meier, a colony was established in March 1991. But by the end of the summer the group went from 14 to eight members. Recruitment was a difficult challenge on a campus whose Greek system was struggling to emerge with a presence. Despite the challenges, the colony rebounded and with the help of alumni and other Phi Delt chapters, was able to eventually initiate 36 brothers into the twelfth Canadian chapter to receive a charter from Phi Delta Theta.

Three years later Ontario Zeta was installed at Brock University in St.
Catherines. As had been the case before, Phi Delta Theta again held the sole honor as the largest international fraternity.
Founding a chapter at Brock was the idea of a few students who desired to create a Greek society, and on March 14, 1993 they did. With two years of hard work and dedication, the March 25, 1995 installation was followed with well-deserved celebration. But in1997 the lone fraternity on campus closed.

Today Phi Delta Theta has nine active chapters in Canada. Our expansion across U.S. borders has strengthened us, not just with numbers, but as an association that gains greater strength and richness through its diversity.

Arizona Gamma Northern Arizona University

The brothers at Arizona Gamma are pleased to report they have nearly doubled the size of their chapter due to rushing 13 new men this semester. We are number one in community service by contributing over 1,000 hours of time to the community, working with the revegetation crew at the Grand Canyon as well as sponsoring an oncampus safety day for over 600 local elementary students. In addition, we are among the top of the all men's average in grades and number one in grades on campus. The men of Arizona Gamma would like to thank Brothers Joe Johnston, George Grady and the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club for their continued support in growing and mentoring our chapter.

Colorado Gamma Colorado State University

We have initiated 19 Phikeias and brought membership in the house to over 70 men. This is the largest pledge class we have seen in years! Brothers that have earned grades above the all men's average will be rewarded by two alumni, Jim Ballard and Bill Ahlborg, to a grades dinner. This is the sixth consecutive semester these two generous alumni have done this for the house. This is something that all who qualify look forward to.

Additionally, we teamed up with Pi Beta Phi to take second place in the Home-

We are sponsoring our 3rd annual spring classic golf scramble on April 27 at the Eagle Valley Golf Course. The classic is a benefit golf scramble in support of Easter Seals and The Rehabilitation Center. Last year we raised $1,200, but we hope to exceed this amount considerably this year. We are looking for any individuals, businesses or organizations that would like to help in the cause. Playing in the tournament, sponsoring a hole, and/or sponsoring a prize would surely help to make a difference. For more information or to register call: Aaron Hubers (812) 468-2261.

Kentucky Alpha-Delta Centre College

The chapter raised $679 by co-hosting a benefit concert and dance with Kappa Alpha

A crowd of 150 family, friends, alumni and current members watched as Kentucky Epsilon held their colonization ceremony. The ceremony took place on December 8th at the King Alumni House on the Kentucky campus. Speakers at the ceremony included Tony Ambrose, Kentucky '67, Ted Bates, Kentucky '51, CAB Chairman David Kidd, Eastern Kentucky '93, and colony president loe Ruschell. Each member was presented with a Phikeia pin and manual during the ceremony. The colony recognized Ted Bates with the 2001 Kentucky Epsilon Alumnus-of-the-Year award.

By Carter Hewgley, Miami University '03

I stood there in the crowd, amidst the sulfuric stench that pervaded the air, and placed my jacket over my mouth. It was my only protection from the choking fumes of death that surrounded me. I never expected a smell. There are many things I did expect, but a smell was not one of them. A month had passed, and I thought to myself "how could there still be a smell?"

My eyes were not so lucky. There is no jacket in this world that could have shielded them from the devastation: fires still smoldering, metal still contorted into shapes that no architect would envision, and a tomb so large that one could glance at it for only a moment and still be overwhelmed by its magnitude. Staring at these images, my eyes filled with new and unfamiliar tears, and I began to think about what brought me to this place. With one look at the banner I held tightly under my arm, I remembered.

"I wish I could go with you," my friend Tony said after I told him of my family's plans to visit New York City. That was the reaction I got from virtually everyone I told about my trip. The truth was that I felt guilty: guilty for going to the epicenter of news, guilty for being able to meet the heroes, and guilty for being able to participate in an event in which so many felt helpless. Through the guilt, I realized what I had to do. I had to take the sorrows, prayers, and thanks of everyone I knew along with me. I had to make a banner.

The design was simple. I bought a giant white sheet, an American flag, black spray paint, stencils, and a needle and thread. For hours I sat on the floor of my room sewing the flag to the sheet. I felt a little like Betty Ross, but the greater purpose of my endeavor kept me focused on the seemingly menial task at hand. When the flag was sewn securely to the sheet, I used the stencils and spray paint to write: "We are with you New York, From the Brothers of Phi Delta Theta, Oxford, Ohio." Then I laid the banner in the Chapter Room and told my brothers to write their messages. In silence they came, one at a time, to inscribe their thoughts and prayers. They wrote with great purpose, for they knew that their words would be read by the firemen who sacrificed so much on that fateful day. My heart filled with pride as I looked at the creation that lay in front of me. Such simple things, a sheet and a needle and thread, were going to make a difference. I folded the banner and prepared for my flight.

There it was: Engine 4 Ladder 15. I pictured it in my mind so many times, but now it stood right in front of me. Like every other fire station that I had seen, the flag was at half mast, and the entrance was covered with the memories and good wishes of a nation. It didn't bother me to look at the pictures of the missing firemen, but reading their names was another story. I kept imagining their wives and mothers calling out to them: "Joe, Tom, Scott, Jimmy, where are you?" I clenched the banner that was under my arm and prepared myself to walk inside. It only took one face, one forced smile from a fireman to make me shudder with regret. They sacrificed so much for so long, and all I brought to them was a banner. An hour ago I was content with the knowledge that I was doing something courageous, but it only took a moment in the fire hall for me to witness true courage.

"How are you folks doing today," came a voice from behind an FDNY jacket. This was the moment I had been waiting for, and suddenly I dreaded it. No words. No explanations. I simply handed him the banner and said "thank you for your sacrifice." He unfolded the sheet, and said something that I will never forget. He said, "Thank you, it is people like you who make this country worth dying for." His words hardly had time to set in before the bell rang throughout the hall. Firemen came from everywhere, jumped into their suits, and loaded the truck to go fight another fire.

I stood there on that Manhattan street, watching heroes at work. They react without thought and go boldly wherever they are called, but they are also human. They have fears and trepidations like anyone else. They just don't give in to them. I had come to New York because I thought I could bring some good into their lives. Instead, they brought inspiration into mine. Now, it is clear that I have a new mission: to bring the message of the firemen home to my friends and family. I will not need a banner to do that.

New York Alpha Cornell University

The fall semester started off with the induction of a new pledge class. Congratulations to our new Phis and a big thank you to Phikeia educator Brian Voss. This semester has been one for the record books in regard to athletics: fraternity track and field champs for the third straight year, cross-country champs, and on our way to an all points championship. Thanks to Jon Kuai for putting together another outstanding haunted house for Halloween. The haunted house was bigger and better than ever with a record number of children and parents attending. To finish off the semester we had our fall formal at Taughannock Farms Inn with over eighty guests. Scott Strandberg did a fantastic job putting together a memorable event that was enjoyed by all who attended.

After a successful fall recruitment, we initiated thirteen new brothers. Our goals for spring recruitment are set very high, as is our commitment to become more involved with the community. We are preparing for our annual Winter Olympics, which is the oldest philanthropic event on campus. Brother Scott L. Radimer, a senior, was inducted into the Phi Beta Kappa National Honor Society. The induction ceremony occurred on December 5. Radimer is a top swimmer and captain of the swim team. He is majoring in political science, with a minor in psychology. He had a cumulative grade-point average of 3.74 on a 4.0 scale heading into the fall semester. Radimer is the recipient of the Maurice E. Shaffer Award for 2001-2002 awarded by the Educational Foundation of Phi Delta Theta.

LEADERSHIP COLLEGE

Proud to be a Phi?...

You have no idea—at least not yet. Imagine having three more brothers in your chapter who know their duties, who truly understand recruitment, and who are pumped up to make Phi Delt the best on campus. That's what this year's Leadership College can help you achieve. Specifically designed for emerging leaders and officers, the College provides practical skills to help its "students" make their chapters better. In addition to high powered general sessions, choose from a number of educational track topics to customize your Leadership College experience to benefit you-and your chapter-the most. Attendees are also part of small discussion groups, we call "chapters," of about 20 Phis from other chapters. Thus giving you a chance to share and learn from unique and shared Fraternity experiences of the collective. The College's "faculty" consists of over 100 Fraternity and professional volunteers with over 250 years of Phi Delt experiences. There are also other outlets, like the Phi Cafe and PhiSports competition where brothers relax, compete and bond. So don't wait another minute, sign up online now. To register and for more details visit www.phideltatheta.org. So, are you coming to Oxford?

Dr. John Davis, Jr., Washburn '38

Renowned optometrist, honored track coach and beloved Phi Delt brother Dr. John Davis Jr. passed away on Wednesday, Jan. 23. He was 85. Dr. Davis was the youngest optometrist to lead the Kansas Optometric Association. He was remembered for having visited every member of the association, a task that had never before been accomplished. Davis went on to accomplish much more. He was awarded "Optometrist of the Year" in 1969 by both the state of Kansas and the American Optometric Association. He was recognized in 1971 as one of the "World's Seven Most Distinguished Contact Lens Members." For his longtime dedication to the optometric profession, the University of Southern California School of Optometry named him "Alumnus of the Year" in 1981. However, Dr. Davis' passion for excellence in optometry was not his only focus. He was also very dedicated to sports leadership and community service. He was known to assemble kids at Ripley Park and have them race. He would select the fastest, put them on a bus and take them to compete in track meets. "It wasn't uncommon to see him take teams to Houston, all kinds of places. He gave kids opportunities no one else could," said Gerald Christensen who coached a competing track team. He formed the Topeka Cosmo Jr. Olympic Track Team and led it to 18 consecutive state titles. In 1969, he coached the United States in its only victory over the Russian women's team. He was awarded the "Great State Award" in the individual category by the Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry in 1971 and the Sports Magazine's annual "Sports Service Award" in 1972. Also in 1969, Dr. Davis was named "International Cosmopolitan of the Year." He received numerous other awards for his sports leadership contributions, including the Missouri Valley AAU Basketball Award for unselfish work with youth and the Joseph Roobichaux Award in San Diego in 1984. Dr. Davis was also proud to be a brother of Phi Delta Theta. He served the Fraternity for 52 years as the sports editor of The Scroll. He received the Raymond L. Gardner Award as "Alumnus of the Year" and was honored in 1984 with the "Legion of Merit" for his dedication to the Fraternity publication. John is survived by three daughters, Dr. Barbara D. Murray, Spokane, Wash., Jody Miller, Fayette, Mo., and Heber Springs Ark., and Mary D. VanBergen, Springfield, Ill.; and three grandchildren.

Pearl Harbor memory

I've been wanting to send you a message ever since I saw the Fall 2001 Scroll. Since that article about WW II was published, I have received several calls, most from members of Ohio Gamma. The article sort of strengthened that bond between some of us. The Ohio Gamma Phis during that era, when we were in school, all knew Nancy so they could all relate to our past and strong relationships with one another. Many of us have gone on beyond this earthly state that we are all in today but someday, hopefully, we will be all together in the Chapter Grand. Bob Schenz from San Diego called, as did Bill Wolf who now resides in Dunnedin, Fla. We promised each other that we will get together for lunch. It's amazing how The Scroll brings us altogether when articles of mutual interest are very close to our

Priase for Westacott

The most recent issue of The Scroll was one of the best. The article by Brother Westacott was one of the most inspiring I have ever read. He obviously is and will continue to be a success in whatever he strives to do.

Remembering Canadian Phis in WWII

I recently noticed James Ritchie, '48 and Lloyd Grisdale, '46 have joined the Chapter Grand. They were very distinguished medical doctors who served oversees in WW II in the Canadian Medical Corps. They interrupted their studies to go to war and fortunately survived to come back and finish. Both ran full departments of medicine at the University Hospital in Edmonton, Alberta and they also both had sons who became Phi Delts and doctors.

It is interesting that those two are not the only brothers who followed the same path of becoming doctors, serving in WW II and coming back to help build one of the largest and best medical schools in the country at the University Hospital in Edmonton. These include Don Bell, '45, R. J. Johnston, '42 and John Huckell, '48. I have pictures of their pledge classes and the active chapters with many of them in uniform.

Morrison descendant initiated

In April, Thomas Morrison, the greatgrandson of Founding Father Robert Morrison, was initiated into Phi Delta Theta at Maryland Alpha at the University of Maryland. The Initiation ceremony was conducted by chapter members and witnessed by Bob Morrision, Westminster '44, Robert Morrison's grandson, and Province President David Almacy among others. This isn't the first time Maryland Alpha has initiationed a prominent alumnus. Six years ago, they initiated Maryland's basketball coach, Gary Williams.

From the Foundation

Charitable Gift Annuities

A t the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation we often receive inquiries about charitable gift annuities—there must be a good reason!

One of the oldest forms of charitable giving, the charitable gift annuity (CGA), provides a donor with a fixed income for life and an immediate income tax deduction in exchange for a gift of cash, securities or other property. If the annuity is funded with appreciated assets, the donor may also realize savings on capital gains taxation. Also, a portion of each annuity payment will be received free of income taxes.

A CGA offers an attractive option for an individual or couple seeking income at a higher rate of return than they are now receiving from lower-yield investments.

A CGA also offers an option for individuals wanting to "lock in" the capital gains experienced in assets over the last few years.

A periodic check from the Foundation makes for a very satisfying income for you or a loved one, while also benefiting future members of the Fraternity through a scholarship, fellowship, or leadership training. For further information, contact Will Cooke, Director of Major Gifts, at (513)523-6966, and he will be glad to assist you.

Akron: James T. Lenehan, '71, has been named president of Johnson & Johnson, one of the world's largest health-care companies.

After receiving his MBA from Northwestern, Lenehan worked briefly for Wilson Sporting Goods golf division. In 1976 he joined Johnson & Johnson.

Cal State - Northridge: Doug S. Thornburn, '77 has just published Get Out of the Way! How to Identify and Avoid a Driver Under the Influence. It shows how citizens and law enforcers can work together to apprehend the driver under the influence and prevent tragedy. Reckless driving behaviors can often indicate more serious problems and destructive behavior including financial misbehaviors which he has observed as a tax and financial professional. This is a follow-up to his prior book Drunks. Drugs and Debits.

Davidson: Chair of the Mississippi House Appropriations Committee is Charles W. Cappes, Jr., '46. He holds sway over much of the $10 billion spent by the state. He is praised as being a tough protector of the budget and in tough economic times, the person needed to sort things out.

DePauw: Mark T. Frisbie, '92, defeated the incumbent sheriff in the Republican primary in Putnam County, Indiana, and will seek election in the fall. As a former student, he believes he understands the University's judicial system and student issues and can better serve the community.

Georgia: Selected for his lifelong contributions to the nation and the communities in which he has lived, Dr. John Williams, '55, received Junior Achievement's "Spirit of Achievement Award." This award compliments

Williams' many awards and decorations earned during his years in the U.S. Air Force, including Legion of Merit, two Bronze Stars, the Air Medal and the Valor Medal and Gallantry Cross for service in Vietnam. Junior Achievement instructs young Americans on the challenges and opportunities of the free enterprise economic system.

Indiana State: Among the rookie drivers earning the opportunity to qualify for the 86th running of the Indianapolis 500, was Rick Treadway, '93. He drives for Treadway-Hubbard Racing with an Airlink Enterprises/ Spade Motorsports G-Force/Chevrolet Firestone entry.

lowa: Marking the golden jubilee celebration of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, for the next several months the Florida International Museum in St. Petersburg is pleased to display the coronation memorabilia of Ben Corey, '45. The eight museum cases are filled with Corey collectibles, including his ticket to the coronation on June 2, 1952.

Kansas: Major General David A. Richwine, '65, is currently the director of development for the National Air and Space Museum, Smithsonian Institution. The museum director is Marine General John R. Dailey, UCLA '56.

Knox: Michael A. Orloff, '71, has been promoted to Chief Operating Officer of Roman, Inc. Prior to this appointment he was Senior Vice President of Sales and Marketing. Roman is a leading producer and exclusive distributor of gifts, collectibles and holiday décor headquartered in Roselle, III.

MIT: Robert Sutton, Sr., '73, of Chantilly, Virginia, has been named Vice President and Division Manager at Advanced Technology Systems, a McLean, Va. firm providing information technology support services to the Federal Government. He was previously a program director at ATS, after ten years as a senior manager at PRC Inc., also of McLean.

Michigan State: Jan-Michael Stump, '02, was named Michigan College Photographer of the Year by the Michigan Press Photographers Association. Stump was elected by a panel of judges from the New York Times. Chicago Tribune and Pittsburgh Post-Gazette. based on a portfolio of photographs from 2001.

Mississippi: Former Gov. William F. Winter, '44, will receive yet another deserved honor as recipient of the 2002 Governor's Initiative for Volunteer Service Lifetime Achievement Award from the Mississippi Commission for Volunteer Service. Friends and associates say there aren't enough awards to mirror the contributions he has made to the state.

Mississippi Alpa Phis of the '50s meet in Fairhope, Alabama: Marshall C. (Moose) Ramsey, '52; J. W. (Billy) Stitt, '54; and George R. (Bobby) Barnes,'53.

Nebraska: In addition to earning a $500 merit scholarship for the advanced study of human resources management from the national Society for Human Resource Management, Bill Devries, '55, is proud to be an employee of The Folder Factory, which just recently received six awards from the Printing Institute of Virginia. The company won three first place awards and three merit awards for its six entries in the annual contest.

North Dakota: On November 14, 2001 Drew Wrigley, '88, was sworn in as North Dakota's next federal prosecutor. Before becoming a U.S. Attorney, Wrigley was deputy chief of staff for Governor John Hoeven.

Richmond: James P. B. O'Brien, '66, has been named a Fellow of the Virginia Academy of Science.

Southern Methodist: John C. Kittrell, Jr., '44, is a full-time working professional artist who lives in Fairhope, Ala. A pastel specialist, his portraits are in collections across the country. Subjects include Nelson Rockefeller, Anthony Cudahy and Connie Chung.

Texas - Austin: Houston attorney and environmental activist Jim Blackburn, '69, was honored with the National Conservation Achievement Award by the National Wildlife Federation. Blackburn, who started his own environmental legal firm, received the award for his efforts to protect the natural resources of the state, in particular the wetlands and the coastal ecosystems.

Utah: Largely credited with reforming the prosecutor's office – putting in place Mayor Rocky Anderson's ideas for restorative justice with his own holistic approach to prosecution - is Salt Lake City Prosecutor Simarjit S. Gill, '85.

Washburn: Washburn alumni presented J. Patrick Birkbeck, '95, with the Gold Award, which honors a graduate of the last decade who has demonstrated leadership in career or civic endeavors and loyalty to Washburn. Birkbeck recently was one of two candidates to receive a cardiology fellowship at KU Medical Center. He has also been a Phi Delta Theta Foundation scholarship winner.

Wyoming: A Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Fund has been established at the University as a method of restoring the position of the Fraternity in the history of the University. The award will provide academic assistance with a priority given to members of the family of Phis.

leave no one behind

Steve Anderson, Tampa '94, Jennifer Massing, and Ohio Eta are a few of the people physically left behind by Army Ranger Speacialist Marc A. Anderson, Case Western '95. However, Marc Anderson also left these people connected to each other and to him. True to his character, he didn't really leave them behind at all.

On Monday, March 4th, 2002, Marc's family learned that he had been killed on a special operations mission in Afghanistan. Marc, an expert machine-gunner, was returning with fellow Army Rangers, Navy SEALs and Air Force soldiers to recover one of their own: Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Neil C. Roberts, who had fallen from an MH-47 Chinook helicopter after a battle as reported on March 6, 2002, by The Washington Post. Marc and his team tried to take off again, but "came under heavy enemy fire and could not take off." Marc was fatally shot at some point during the firefight.

Marc and his special operations force acted on the Ranger creed to "never leave a comrade in the hands of an enemy." Marc also held fast to a Phi Delta Theta code as stated by Robert Morrison in that he choose "to do what ought to be done, but would not have been done unless [he] did it, [he] thought to be [his] duty."

Marc's brother Steve had heard news earlier on March 4 that special operations soldiers had been killed in Afghanistan. "My first thought was, 'that's the kind of mission my brother is running.' But then I thought, 'what are the chances of him being on that specific mission with so many soldiers and special operations and everything. I dismissed the idea quickly." However, when his parent's number in ranging through his caller ID at 10:30 p.m. that night, he knew something was wrong. His parents quickly confirmed his worst fears.

Marc Anderson was close to completing his four-year commitment to the Army and was looking forward to returning to Florida to pick up the career he had left behind. Marc had been a math teacher at Fort Myers Middle School before he joined the Army and was looking forward to returning to teaching.

A fellow Ranger pays his respects at Marc Anderson's funeral.

Drawing on his Phi Delta Theta roots, he not only pushed his students to learn everything they could, he befriended them. His friendship affected many, but Jennifer Massing, a former student, experienced Marc's commitment to being a true friend when she learned that he had set aside approximately $15,000 to be paid to her from his insurance policy for tuition to college.

Marc had taught Jennifer in middle school and they maintained their friendship as she moved on in her education. He pushed her to go after her dreams—to apply to a college where she might study architecture—something she'd once told him, "as a woman, it probably isn't practical." (The Jackson Sun, April 21, 2002)

Marc's commitment to teaching did not leave him when he joined the Army. He was known for pushing other Rangers to improve themselves. His roommate in the Army is now an ROTC participant and attending the University of Tampa. Marc pushed him in preparing his college application, studying for tests and writing and rewriting his application essays until they were perfect.

Steve and Marc found out on a coveted long-distance phone call to each other in 1990, that they both had pledged Phi Delta Theta at the same time. Steve, five year's Marc's senior, was in his sophomore year at the University of Tampa having finished his military career, while Marc was in his first year at Case Western Reserve in Ohio. They both had pledged the same fraternity and were both treasurers of their pledge class. The Fraternity quickly became very dear to both brothers, not only as undergraudate members, but also as alumni.

"When Marc was packing his stuff to leave for Afghanistan, he told me specifically, 'I'm packing my Phi Delt flag because I'm getting my picture with all the other Phi Delts over there. I want everyone to know the Phis are in the battle, and we're going to make a difference." Marc had already made a difference and would continue doing so.

"I tell you, Marc's death just devastated me," Steve said with a shaky voice. "I was so close to quitting chemo at that point and not fighting any longer." He paused for a few seconds and then with a laugh through the emotion, "but all my friends said, 'The minute you do that, you know you'll get an ass kicking when you get to Heaven and Marc will be the first one in line if you give up."

"I just get in tears thinking about my friends in the Fraternity. They have been there through the whole process. I've been going to chemo and I've had my Fraternity brothers with me, their wives with me—100% for me. They've said to me more than once, 'Don't ever worry about what's going to happen to your family because they are going to be taken care of.' And the thing is—I know it's true. They've let me focus on fighting this cancer."

Steve also depended on his Phi Delt brothers to help him make Marc's college wish for Jennifer Massing come true. Steve knew that the $15,000, wouldn't provide the secure college education for Jennifer that Marc had wanted. Steve contacted Kyle Bailey, a chapter brother of his, to see if the Bailey Family Foundation would help Jennifer with the rest of her tuition. The Foundation agreed.

Two weeks before Marc was killed, Steve received news that the chemo was working and the tumors were disappearing.

"When I told Marc, he started to cry. He was so happy," Steve said while fighting back tears. "Some of the Rangers that came back early said after that phone call, Marc was a changed person. They said, 'You don't know how happy he was that you were beating this and it wasn't beating you."

Steve and Marc exemplify the values of the Fraternity, from Marc's will to not leave a comrade with the enemy to Steve's continuous battle with cancer and with their combined commitment to Jennifer Massing's education.

senior year. Nick approached me several times during his pledgeship, and again in the spring, about his interests in joining the military to gain experience. He wanted to go into law enforcement. Based on my experiences in the United States Marine Corps, I shared with Cordt the benefits of serving in the military, but also cautioned him not to sign anything until talking to me one final time. Nick, like many 19-year old freshmen, didn't listen to that last part, and enlisted in the Air National Guard. He shipped off for Air Force Basic Training after the Spring '01 semester. Little did we know Nick would miss two semesters of college and be halfway across the world in support of our nation's war against terrorism. Brother Cordt was deployed to Thumrait, Oman, as part of Operation Enduring Freedom. He is a member of the 184th Security Forces Squadron, based at McConnell Air Force Base in Wichita, Kansas. I can confidently speak for all of Nick's Fraternity brothers at Wichita State, as well as his family, that we are proud of him for maintaining his positive attitude and commitment to his country and his duty as a member of one of the branches of the armed services. Nick's sacrifices in setting back his college education are important, but he will be the first to say they are inconsequential compared to the duty that he and thousands of other American soldiers, sailors, marines, and airmen have been called to in this time of crisis. View Nick's complete journal online at www.phideltatheta.org.

INTRODUCTION BY BRANDON BOGUE, Witchita State '00

JOURNAL BY NICK CORDT

22 Oct. '01

I am on a plane over the Atlantic flying to a country I have only seen on the map. Excited, I don't know...last week I was ready to go to school and now I am going to war. Is this for real? I have been talking with some of the other guys on the plane trying to get an idea of what to expect. No one knows what is going to happen. My biggest fear is not knowing. If I knew what I was going into, things may be easier. Who knows? Everyone seems to be in good spirits. We just left families, wives, and girlfriends yesterday. We just stopped for a few hours in Ireland.

27 Oct. '01

We have been stuck for the five days in a hangar in Bahrain. Our plane doesn't leave until tomorrow. The heat feels really oppressive. It is in the upper 90's. It was 60 degrees when I left the States. It is 10 hours ahead of central standard time in Kansas. At least there are phones to call back home. The time change will take some getting used to. Everyone seems to be doing fine. We have only been gone a week. Our plane leaves for Oman tomorrow. I am actually feeling excited. I have been wanting to do something like this for a while. We'll see what happens.

29 Oct. '01

We finally made it to Oman. I have not seen anything but sand for a week. Time to get used to it though. I got assigned to a tent. I'm starting to get settled into my new home for the next three to six months.

30 Oct. '01

Today was my first day of work. What a surprise. The host nation agreement the U.S. has with Oman is crazy. I am part of the security forces charged with protecting the base and I am not allowed to carry an inserted magazine in my M-16. That is nuts. I have 210 rounds in my vest, but not in my weapon. These diplomatic games we play with other countries can be maddening at times. It's frustrating to know that my safety is being compromised because of international relations issues. What can I do about it? Nothing. My two stripes carry no weight. I guess that's the way the system works.

31 Oct. '01

Halloween. Trick or Treat? Looks like I got tricked. This is not what I expected. The showers are hot, the food is decent, and I haven't been shot at. They are having computers put in so we should have email soon. At least I'll be able to stay in touch easier. I worked with some of the Omani Security today. There is a little bit of a language barrier but a few of them speak pretty good English. It's really interesting talking about all the cultural differences. They can't believe I am nineteen years old and have a car, a computer, and a TV. That's one of the beautiful things about the U.S., we have so much. I thought I was a poor college student, but being here puts things in perspective. The Omanis don't have a lot of the stuff I take for granted.

05 Nov. '01

We just got word today that our orders for 90 days went out the window. I was supposed to be home in January, but now they have no idea. We'll see what all the generals decide to do. It still hasn't really sunk in yet that I am in the middle of the desert 8500 miles from home. This is all new to me. I never envisioned being deployed so suddenly like this. The reality of it hasn't struck me yet.

09 Nov. '01

Today I found out that one of the guys in my tent was a Pike. We sat around for over an hour talking about fraternity stories and pledgeship. That is one of the great things about being Greek; you have a common insight with someone regardless of what house they are in. Also the support my brothers at home have been giving me is tremendous. They are putting a yellow ribbon on the front of the house and sending me emails. It's great to know that when times are tough, your brothers are always there to support you.

13 Nov. '01

Life is full of surprises. I was thinking back a few years ago to when I was a senior in high school. I almost got suspended for squirting freshmen with water guns. Now a few short years later I am walking around everyday with a fully loaded semi-automatic weapon. Did I miss something here?

17 Nov. '01

We finally got mail today. Little things like that make the day go by easier. That is something else that I took for granted. Mail only takes a few days back in the States, but here it takes three to four weeks. Mail call is always something to look forward to. Everyone seems to be doing pretty good. No one is too upset. Some of the people that I work with have been complaining about being away from families. They'll get over it. This is nothing new for me. This is my first time being deployed overseas but having a dad who was in the Navy, separation is a little bit easier to cope with for me. I am definitely thankful for technology. Being separated by distance is a lot easier having a phone and a computer available every so often to use.

23 Nov. '01

Someone just told me Happy Thanksgiving. I had to look at my watch just to be sure. Days of the week have no relevance here anymore. I work regardless of what day it is. I usd to live for the weekend, now I live for my next day off. Nothing different about today. The chow hall served turkey all day. One day closer to going home, whenever that is. The generals in Washington don't have any idea yet.

29 Nov. '01

I've been here over a month now. It still seems strange looking around and seeing nothing but sand. Vegetation is something else I took for granted. I can't wait until I get home. I definitely have some great pictures of my vacation to the middle east courtesy of the United States Air Force. It doesn't get much better than this. Actually it does, but what can I do about it?

03 Dec. '01

I finally got a chance to go to the store down the road. They have some interesting stuff there. It's cool getting a chance to experience different cultures.

12 Dec. '01

Christmas is less than two weeks away, but it hardly seems like it though. The only green I see is on my gear. I guess it's better that way. Allegedly in the next week or so we may find out when we are going home. I'll believe that when I see it. People don't necessarily mind being here, they just want a date, something to shoot for. I always do that. As soon as I get a date for something, I immediately start counting down. Not here though. There are a lot of rumors going around about when we are going home. We'll see.

16 Dec. '01

We just got word today that the USO show that was scheduled for Friday has been canceled. Wayne Newton, Neil McCoy, Drew Carey, Delta Burke, and the Dallas Cowboys cheer leaders were supposed to be there. I guess we'll have to settle for "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas," on TV. That is the way the military works: don't believe it until you see it. Right now the rumor is that we are going home in February. I won't believe that until it happens.

21 Dec. '01

Christmas is in a few days. I'm doing the same thing I did for Thanksgiving: work. Working makes the time go quicker. All this will be over in a few months. From what I've heard, things are starting to get back to normal in the States. Hopefully my life will get back to normal sometime soon. We'll see.

25 Dec. '01

I got to talk to my family this morning. They just got done opening presents. They seemed to like a lot of the Arabic stuff I sent home. I got some prayer rugs, and toy camels. It's neat to buy things here that you can't find in the States. Another thing I realized this week was how much our culture has an influence over here. They like American stuff just as much as we like some of their stuff.

28 Dec. '01

Today was the first time in a month that I have looked at a map of where we are. 8500 miles from home. Sometimes it doesn't even seem real that this is going on. Having a phone to use makes home seem a little bit closer. I am thankful for the advances in technology like email that lets me keep in touch with people back home. When my dad was gone during the Gulf War, we got a weekly call via a satellite that cost $20 a call. My grandpa had to rely on mail that took a month or two to arrive during the Korean War. Things have come a long way since then.

01 Jan. '02

Happy New Year. For those of us in Thumrait, its just another work day. I got a letter the other day thanking me for the sacrifices that I have made serving my country. It doesn't even really seem like a sacrifice, I am just doing my job. Sure its tough being away from home for eight of the last nine months, but I have a job to do, just like everyone else. I gladly do it as have thousands more before me.

04 Jan. '02

More mail came in today. Every mail day is a good day. I have great support at from loving parents and a great girlfriend. They make things so much easier on me. Today we heard that sometime next week we'll hear when we are going home. But wait, didn't they say that a month and a half ago? So goes life in the military.

15 Feb '02

Sometimes I wish I was a pilot or air crew. They get forty five day rotations. A lot of them still complain though. I guess a lot of them don't realize that a lot of us have been here for three or four months longer than them. No matter how bad you think you have it, there is always someone who has it worse than you.

ALUMNI SUPPORT PLANTS SEEDS FOR FUTURE

In spite of a sluggish economy, erratic stock market and the tragic events that occurred on September 11, Phi Delta Theta alumni continued to strongly support the efforts of the Educational Foundation. Gifts totaling $866,585 were received from almost 5,000 alumni. Although this is a decrease compared to the 2000 annual campaign, it is still a significant and meaningful show of support.

That continued level of support, from thousands of generous alumni, allowed the Foundation to fund all or part of the following programs during 2001:

- -$122,375 in undergraduate scholarships
- -$45,000 in graduate fellowships
- —$75,000 toward the annual Leadership College (attended by over 500 undergraduates)
- —$135,000 toward the President's Leadership Conference (attended by each chapter's President and Recruitment Chairman)
- -$179,500 toward the Leadership Consultant program
- —$62,500 toward an Alumni Summit to help provide training and resources for Chapter Advisers and House Corporation members
- —$50,000 toward additional alcohol-free housing and membership education
- —Over $80,000 for other educational grants

These programs are touching the lives of the undergraduates and alumni from every chapter in the Fraternity. They are also helping to keep Phi Delta Theta at the very top among all fraternities. On behalf of all of our members who are benefiting either directly or indirectly from these programs, I again offer my most sincere thanks to the alumni who continue to contribute so generously. Those alumni are truly "transmitting the Fraternity to those who may follow after, not only not less, but greater than it was transmitted to them."

Yours in the Bond,

William R. Richardson

Members give to the Foundation because they believe in Phi Delta Theta and the role of the college fraternity.

Our donors also understand how a small investment today can grow over time.

Gifts by Chapter Members that made gifts in 2001 are listed here by chapter. Donors that belong to a giving club are noted by club abbreviations immediately before their name. See the Giving Level Legend on pages 21, 27 and 33 for details on abbreviations. Only donations made during 2001 are included in this report. Gifts processed after December 31, 2001, will appear in the Foundation's 2002 report next spring.

Frequent Donors

Forty-one men. Their class years range from 1928 to 1995. What do these men have in common? They are loyal Phis who have remembered Phi Delta Theta time and time again—with gifts of all sizes. These 41 Phis—our most frequent donors—each have made 50 or more gifts to the Educational Foundation. Together they have made 2,615 gifts that total $679,942.01. Once again, we salute them!

Reasons to Support the Foundation

Leadership College

Phi Delta Theta's premiere educational event each year is the Leadership College. The College brings more than 500 undergraduate leaders and their alumni advisers to Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, for five days of intensive education in personal development and leadership skills. Topics include scholarship programs, leadership techniques, alcohol/drug abuse, crisis management, men's health issues, responsible social events and community service projects. The College is funded, in part, by a grant from the Educational Foundation.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for Leadership College: $75,000.

Presidents Leadership Conference

The Fraternity's second Presidents Leadership Conference was held in 2001. The program offers leadership training for newly elected chapter presidents that focuses on team building, leadership techniques, goal setting, risk management education and management skills. Also included in the conference were the chapters' Recruitment Chairmen. The conference is funded, in part, by a grant from the Educational Foundation.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for Presidents Leadership Conference: $112,500.

Leadership Consultants

The Leadership Consultants visit each chapter at least once a year. During their meetings with chapter officers and members, they focus on academic excellence, substance abuse, leadership training, values and ethics, management skills, community skills, social issues, and faculty relations. An Educational Foundation grant underwrites a portion of the Leadership Consultant program each year.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for Leadership Consultants: $179,500.

Graduate Educational Advisers

Graduate students who participate in the GEA program live in Phi Delta Theta chapter houses while doing their graduate work. In exchange for free room and board and a stipend from the Educational Foundation, they provide undergraduate members with leadership training, assistance with study skills, alcohol education, conflict resolution, and personal development.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for Graduate Educational Advisers: $27,500.

General Headquarters Intern Program

The General Headquarters employs several undergraduates each year providing them an educational opportunity for practical training and for learning in a work environment. The interns focus on creating and revising officer manuals, developing programs in the areas of scholarship, leadership, communication skills, community service and alcohol/drug abuse.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for General Headquarters Intern Program: $15,000.

Alcohol-Free Housing

The Foundation's grant for Alcohol-Free Housing for 2001 was meant to sustain the momentum of the initiative and to provide further education beyond the July 1, 2000 Alcohol-Free Housing implementation date.

2001 Educational Foundation Grant for Alcohol-Free Housing: $50,000.

Undergraduate Scholarships

Forty-eight undergraduate Phis received scholarships from the Educational Foundation for the 2001-2002 academic year. The 48 men, representing 31 Phi Delta Theta chapters, shared $167,625.

2001 Undergraduate Scholarship Grants: $167,625.

Graduate Fellowships

Fifteen students received $2,500 fellowships for the 2001-2002 academic year. They are studying a wide variety of disciplines including law, medicine, public administration, finance and banking, chemistry, education, business, geography and management information systems.

2001 Graduate Fellowship Grants: $37,500.

Did You Know? Intersting facts and figures from the Educational Foundation's 2001 annual report.

999 generous and loyal individuals gave more than one gift to the Foundation during the year. 877 gave two gifts, 71 gave three, 17 gave four, and 34 gave five or more gifts.

The Foundation received 11 gifts of stock. Those gifts totaled$35,033.95. The smallest of the stock gifts was valued at $145.32 while the largest was valued at $10,046.97. SSS John B. Flood

Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation 2 South Campus Avenue | Oxford, Ohio 45056 Tel 513-523-6966 | Fax 513-523-9200 Canadian Foundation Awards $6,200 in Scholarships J. Fred Green Award Winner to Address General Convention

Canadian Scholarship Foundation Earlier this year, the Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation Board of Directors received six excellent nominations from Canada's nine chapters and awarded $6,200 in total scholarship awards. Each chapter nominated a candidate based on their academic performance, service to their chapter and community, and their financial need. Since the Foundation was established in 1974, over $144,000 in scholarships have been awarded to Canadian undergraduates.

J. Fred Green Scholarship Award

The top scholar and winner of the 2002 J. Fred Green Scholarship Award is Duran Cheung of British Columbia Alpha (UBC '05). Duran, a Vancouver native, earned an $1,890 scholarship for his outstanding record of academic achievement, chapter involvement and community service.

Canadian Phis should note that the J. Fred Green Scholarship Award will be presented during the Academic Excellence Luncheon at the 74th Biennial General Convention at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, June 27-30. Further, and, for the first time, the Green Award recipient will make the formal scholar's address to luncheon guests – an honour that had been until now the exclusive purview of the Arthur R. Priest Scholarship winner for which Canadians could not qualify.

Academic Achievement: Currently enrolled in Electromechanical Design Engineering, a five-year combined Bachelor of Applied Science and Master of Engineering program, Duran maintains an A-minus average and is on the U.B.C. dean's honour list. He has also been the recipient of both Canadian Armed Forces and Undergraduate Scholar Program scholarships.

Chapter involvement: Despite his heavy course load, Duran has devoted time to support his brothers. As a Phikeia he initiated, designed and helped construct a patio roof for the chapter house. Currently BC Alpha's treasurer, he has also held the position of secretary and created a paid parking system as a means for the house to increase chapter income. In addition, he helped maintain the chapter website, and organized and designed clothing for the chapter.

In the words of one of his brothers, "His leadership, initiative, and enthusiasm for Phi Delta Theta have all been an extremely valuable asset to this chapter."

Campus involvement: At the University of British Columbia, Duran is on the university's Society of Automotive Engineers – Formula Competition Team and a member of the Ski and Board Club. As well, he was the Engineering Undergraduate Society's publicity representative.

Community involvement: Although he works two parttime jobs, Duran is involved off campus with the Children's Empty Stocking Fund, Food Bank, Royal Canadian Legion Poppy Fund, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and the Royal Canadian Air Cadets. In his own words, "I believe that it is important not to just concentrate on studies, but on the other things possible in life."

Two $1,100 scholarships awarded

Adam M. Friesen hails from Manitoba Alpha (Manitoba '05) in his hometown of Winnipeg where he maintains a Bminus average in Engineering. Currently Manitoba Alpha's recruitment chairman and the former social chairman, Adam is active on campus in student politics, and a member of both the Faculty of Engineering's Student Council and the University of Manitoba's chapter of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Much of Adam's time off campus is dedicated to a private social services agency called New Directions for Children—Youth and Families where, as a residential treatment worker, he is an integral part of a team that plans and facilitates programs for mentally challenged individuals. Flying is one of Adam's passions and after being awarded a scholarship by the Royal Canadian Air Cadets, he was able to earn his private glider pilot's license.

Mike Stern from Lakeside, Nova Scotia, (Dalhousie '04), has a B-plus average in Biology and is working towards a career in medicine. An active member of the Nova Scotia Alpha chapter, he has held the positions of rush chairman, executive secretary, community service chairman and awards chairman and is currently the chapter's vice president-elect. On campus he has been a frosh leader for the orientation committee and is an active contributor to the Dalhousie Science Society. Mike's love of children sees him volunteering each week at Halifax's Shaar Shalom Synagogue Hebrew School.

Two $945 scholarships awarded

Quebec Alpha's Benjamin James Monroe (McGill '03) of Rindge, New Hampshire, is a third-year Architecture student and president-elect of Canada's oldest Phi Delt chapter (founded in 1902, Quebec Alpha is celebrating its Centennial this year). Having previously held the positions of treasurer and scholarship chairman, he is this year's recipient of the chapter's "Somebody Else Award" for demonstrating outstanding initiative. Ben is also the Architecture representative on the Students' Society of McGill University and the financial manager of the Engineering Faculty's fund raising events. Off campus, Ben often serves dinners with his brothers at the local homeless shelter, The Old Brewery Mission.

Brian Udey (Alberta '03) of Edmonton, Alberta, is working towards a Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology. He is currently the Alberta Alpha's vice president, sports representative, house manager, and Greek Council representative. Active on campus as the intramural hockey team manager, he is also a campus hockey and ball hockey referee. When not running the haunted house at the chapter's annual Scarecrow Festival for disadvantaged children, Brian volunteers with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Additional $315 scholarship

Ontario Alpha's Nguyen Tran (Toronto '03) of Toronto is in his third year of a Computer Science degree at the University of Toronto.

From the Directors

Congratulations to this year's Canadian Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation winners for their commitment to developing themselves, their chapters, their campuses and their communities, and for being an inspiration to both undergraduate and alumni Brothers.

As Brothers, the directors of your Canadian Scholarship Foundation join all Phis in congratulating the recipients and thank them for their commitment to their own intellectual and personal cultivation and for their continued contributions to their chapters, institutions and communities. The Directors also thank all the alumni, parents, friends and undergraduates for their gracious and essential financial support of our annual scholarship funding drive. Your donations create the scholarships that encourage and support tomorrow's leaders, today. Thank you.

J. Fred Green Trophy

The 1998 Sesquicentennial Convention marked the debut of the trophy representing the J. Fred Green Scholarship Award. The award was established in 1995 to recognize the scholarship nominee who best exemplified the qualities of scholarship, chapter and campus involvement, and community service. J. Fred Green has devoted more than 70 years of service to the Fraternity and the Canadian Scholarship Foundation. Brother Green continues his commitment and service to Phi Delta Theta, attends General Conventions and is an ardent supporter of The Scroll.

Our annual business meeting was held on January 17 attended by 18 members. Officers elected were Wally Rodgers, president, Ed Roach, vice president, and John Huff, secretary/treasurer. We were sad to lose Earl Wilson to the Chapter Grand, and happy to gain two new members, Lynn Thirtyacre and Tom Wilson. Founders Day was held on March 14 at the Green Valley Country Club and there was a golf outing and picnic in April. The first meeting of the fall will be October 24 at the Green Valley Country Club.

Topeka Alumni Club

Contact: Robert Taggart (785) 272-3699 We celebrated Founders Day at the

Topeka Country Club on April 25 with over 100 undergraduates and alumni from KS Alpha, KS Beta and KS Gamma present. Mike DeLier, OK Alpha '67, general manager of WIBW Television, was the featured speaker. Bill Smith, IN Zeta '37, was unable to attend to celebrate his 65th anniversary, but his letter was read which included the following words from Arthur R. Priest, who signed his membership card:

"I believe in the college fraternity, creator of friendships. I believe in its quick sympathies, and its helping hand. I believe in its brave idealism, stirring every valiant emotion, rousing every potential talent. I believe in its compelling drive for sound scholarship for genuine culture, for clear-eyed honesty, for business integrity. I believe in the college fraternity, maker of men."

On the weekend of September 6-8, 22 members of the 36 member WA Alpha pledge class of 50 years ago gathered to sing Phi Delt songs, play golf and dine elegantly with their spouses. The time spent together was highlighted by a gift of over $5,000 to the University of Washington Alumni Association specifically for its cherry tree replacement project. One of the spearheaders of this project is Lex Gamble, '59, with a goal of raising $90,000 to replace the 33 aging cherry trees lining the Quad.

The class of '55 met again in April to celebrate their Golden Legion anniversary.

Fundraising for future events is underway. The club is asking for donations for future club activities, as well as the annual scholarship. The Outstanding Phikeia of Kansas Chapters Scholarship has been re-established. Competition for the $250 award is between the top Phikeias chosen from each of the six chapters in Kansas, sponsored by the Wichita Alumni Club.

Our Founders Day party in March was held at the Coleman Pavilion during a Wichita State baseball game, with 40 alumni in attendance. Gold and Silver Legion ceremonies were held April 29th at the KS Delta chapter house. #### Northern Colorado Alumni Club

After our recent chartering, we are now well on our way to having a good, strong alumni club here in Fort Collins and Northern Colorado.

On March 1, the club and Colorado Gamma chapter celebrated Founders Day at the Fort Collins Marriott. Even though we faced the snowstorm of the year (decade?), we still had a turn out of over 150 Phi's and their guests! We especially want to thank Past President of the General Council Bob Deloian, Arizona State '64, for driving up from Castle Rock to give us a wonderful keynote speech. Special thanks to all, especially our silver, golden and Palladian legionaires—Jerry Stahmer, Larry Scott, Al Anderson, Warren Kirkley, Scott Griffin, and Tad Wallin—and their stories of days not so long ago. Next year our Founders Day is sure to be a bigger and better event.

The club and active chapter are building an e-mail list of area alumni. Please pass along your e-mail address to nocopdtalumni@yahoo.com. This will help us communicate with you better and faster (and cheaper!) in the future.

We have a TREMENDOUS event planned for this fall. Mark your calendars to spend Saturday, September 14 with your fellow Phis in a golf tournament, tailgate party and CSU football game against Louisville. The tournament will benefit the new Rob Upton Memorial Scholarship Fund. Rob (Colorado Gamma '92) was tragically killed in a rock climbing accident while at CSU. Please contact me if you are interested in participating in all or part of what should be an outstanding day!

Our club meets the first Friday of every month (except July) at Mulligan's. Please come join us from noon to 1:30 p.m. Finally, a special thank you to the Colorado Gamma chapter for all of their help and support in getting the alumni club off the ground. Way to go guys!

If you have any questions regarding the alumni club, please contact Sean Dougherty @ (970) 482-1781 or Steve Wick @ (970) 224-3366.

Arizona Gamma Northern Arizona University

Our chapter has been doing well receiving a first in academics and first in community service. Not many undergraduates went through formal rush but we have been successful in a more casual recruitment approach which ended in the largest pledge class on campus. We very much appreciate the help of George Grady, Joe Johnston and the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club, but additional support could always be used. -Brad Hines

Arkansas Alpha University of Arkansas

recognition at the Order of Omega, Greek Leadership Honorary, and IFC awards banquet this year. These include: University and Greek Life Relations—Gold Award; Alumni Relations—Gold Award; Campus Involvement-Gold Award (including Pres. of Student Body and Pres. of Order of Omega); IFC and Greek Relations—Gold Award; Risk Management—Gold Award; New Member Education— Gold Award: Scholarship—Silver Award; Community Service—Bronze Award. Tim Garlow, from Shawnee, Oklahoma, was recognized as the most outstanding IFC sophomore and John Baureis, the chapter's past president from Jonesboro, was runner-up to IFC's most outstanding senior. B.A. Glass of Greenwood and Matt Turner of Little Rock were elected to Order of Omega.

Recently, the chapter hosted Parents Day with 70 percent of the members' parents attending. Together the group cooked on the new patio grill purchased by the Mothers Club. If you have any rush recommendations or questions, contact rush chairman Chris Craig (479) 236-2808 and Kelvin Stroud (501) 690-1899 or President Chris Klemp (501) 283-5087. As we have done in years past, we are asking alumni to help with the chapter's summer rush expenses. Your support is needed, welcomed and much appreciated.

British Columbia Alpha University of British Columbia

This year has been a huge success for us beginning with a great fall recruitment and continuing with a strong spring rush, ending with the initiation of nine new members. Throughout the year, the chapter participated in numerous philanthropy events including providing needy people in Vancouver with food as well as helping out at the local Food Bank. In March we took part in UBC's "Storm the Wall" which is the largest intramural event among all Canadian universities, and we claimed third place out of all fraternities. The highlight of the year was our road trip to the Olympic Winter Games, visiting Oregon Beta, California Zeta, Utah Alpha and Idaho Alpha along the way. —Kenneth Chan

Florida lota University of Central Florida

We kicked off the fall with our celebration of our 20th anniversary as a chapter with a formal dinner at Seaworld's Discovery Cove. This was attended by the entire chapter, and many alumni, including some of our founding fathers. Then we went on to help the ladies of Delta Gamma with their philanthropy, and got 1st place overall for Anchor Splash along with a number of other awards. To round off the winter we adopted one of the entrances to the University's roads to help strengthen our commitment to public service. This spring semester started with a strong pledge class of 8, one of the largest on campus for this spring. Immediately after rush, we had Dance Marathon, and became the first fraternity in UCF history to take home the Hero's Cup for 1st place overall and 1st place in spirit. Following this we had 2002 Greek Week with the ladies of Kappa Delta. Once again, we took 1st place overall, making it the 2nd time in a row that the Florida Iota Chapter of Phi Delta Theta has won this campus's Greek Week. At our second annual Home Run Derby we raised over $4,000 dollars to help fight Lou Gehrig's Disease. With our philanthropy out of the way, for the third year in a row we won first place overall in Pi Beta Phi's Rock the Arrow philanthropy! The next week we won UCF's first annual Greek Challenge, with a clean sweep in every category! To finish the year off we celebrated the Yearly Greek Awards Ceremony with awards in Chapter Excellence, and Matt McCloud receiving Intramural Athlete of the Year, and The Greek Lifetime Achievement Award - being the second brother in a row to

Michigan Beta Michigan State University

The Brothers of Michigan Beta have put a large amount of time and money into house improvements and renovations. We kicked off the fall semester with closed rush. which was held in Detroit at the Majestic Café. In October, we hosted our annual Fire Safety Day at the Phi Lodge. There was a great community involvement among our neighbors and the East Lansing Fire Department. Fire Safety Day included a BBQ for the kids and our neighbors and a performance by the Fire Department's "Fire Safety Band." In an effort to raise money for the chapter house, 21 Brothers and Phikeias went to Sandusky, Ohio, to work at Cedar Point for Halloween Weekend. In addition to working in a haunted house, we were given ample time to go on all of the rides. This weekend of work resulted in over $3,000, which was used for house improvement. This was a great way for the Brothers and Phikeias to bond. Finally, on April 27, the members and alumni had an Alumni Appreciation reception. We invited all Phis who have graduated from Michigan State to attend our reception to be recognized and in hopes of keeping in better touch with old alumni. We hope for this to be an annual event. -Matthew Lombardo

Minnesota Beta Minnesota State – Mankato

Despite the alarming statistics of the binge drinking and alcohol-related deaths on college campuses and the negative press regarding fraternities, Minnesota Beta has received some positive press in the Mankato Free Press. As quoted by Jason Feiner, Minnesota State's program coordinator for fraternities and sororities. "when Phi Delta Theta blazed the booze-free trail for MSU fraternities, it was limping along with seven members. Now it has 40, and members' grades are better than those of any other fraternity on campus." The chapter president, Siroos Abolahrari, thinks the reason for the turnaround is simply a case of young men responding favorably to a welcomed sales pitch. "We're about matriculation and maturity, not Miller Lite and morning dry heaves.

New Jersey Alpha Rutgers

The chapter held its inaugural scholarship banquet on Feb. 22, 2002 as Brothers, Phikeia, parents and University faculty attended a ceremony at the chapter house. The formal affair recognized twenty brothers for their scholastic achievements from the fall 2001 semester. These honors included silver, gold and platinum awards as well as the highest member GPA, highest new member GPA and highest GPA for a big brother/little brother pair. In addition, the event featured Dr. Emmet Dennis, the Vice President for Student Affairs, as the keynote speaker. In response to the chapter's improvement academically from a combined GPA of 2.7 (Spring 2001) to over a 3.1 (fall 2001), VP Dennis said the he was very proud and added, "This is the kind of thing I'd like to see other Greek letter organizations work to achieve." Due to its overwhelming success, the chapter has already instituted the formal recognition dinner as a component of its written scholarship program. Once again, the chapter has lived up to its founding creed by "Setting a New Standard at Rutgers." -Christopher Rochford

North Carolina Beta University of North Carolina

North Carolina Beta is embarking on an effort to endow a Distinguished Professorship in the College of Arts and Sciences. With a lead gift of $100,000 from Garnett A. Smith '69 of Naples, Fla., our alumni are challenged to raise an additional $566,000 in private gifts in order to claim the $334,000 matching fund from the State of North Carolina Distinguished Professors Endowment Trust Fund. The professorship will also bear the name of Matthew Mason ("Dr. Reet") who made an extraordinary personal contribution to our chapter. For more information about the Professorship, or if you want to serve as a member of our fundraising steering committee, please contact Shoff Allison at (336) 510-6111.

Ohio Zeta Ohio State University

At our Founders Day on April 13, seven Phis were recognized at the luncheon at the "House on the Hill" with 6 members for over 50 years sharing many memories of life in the 40s. The Lenny Thom (on PT boat with Kennedy) story was narrated by author Mike Bell. A slide show flashed images of the era of leather helmets, big bands, WW2, JFK, and the "House of Men" (referring to the Brothers of the Bond in the early 40s). A presidential suite with plaque was dedicated which will tell the story of Lenny Thom. We thank Charlie Maag, Bill Balser, Jack Weaver, Dick Odebrecht, Dick Wood and Norm Burns for attending and sharing as well as all the other brothers who made this special day possible. -J. Robert

One of our brothers tragically died in a car accident, and we raised close to $2,000 for a scholarship in his name. We opened a $1 million dollar house in June 2001. We had a pledge class of 18 in the fall and a pledge class of 13 this spring both of which were the largest fraternity pledge classes on campus. Our chapter is proud to display the Three Cardinal Principles and is truly the Standard for Brotherhood at Kent State University.

We each also volunteer for two hours weekly at a local diner catering to homeless and lowincome community members. We've included these service leadership opportunities in the Phikeia Program, and our work with these organizations has strengthened our reputation and helped our recruitment as the best chapter on campus. —Aaron Bertrand

Pennsylvania Mu Widener College

Members raised $25,000 to establish the Herman M. Saunders Memorial Scholarship in memory of Brother Herman Saunders, who died in a motorcycle accident in September 1997 shortly after he graduated from Widener. While at Widener, Saunders served as pledgemaster and vice president of the chapter, was very involved in the house and was very well liked and respected. Though many of the brothers who helped raise the money from 1997 to 2001 never met Mr. Saunders, "we felt it was our duty to keep it going," said Michael England, social chairman for the Widener chapter of Phi Delta Theta. "That's the way we view our brotherhood. It's a brotherhood for life, even afterwards. It would have been a great dishonor to his memory had we not continued to raise money."

Quebec Alpha McGill University

Hey McGill and Montreal Phis, this year we are celebrating our 100th anniversary, and following a great Centennial Banquet at the Mont-Royal Club in March, we are celebrating again this fall. During the Homecoming Weekend of September 27th and 28th, we would like to welcome all Phis back to Montreal and McGill for a weekend of festivities including a Smoker at the House, the Homecoming Football Game, and a Black Tie Banquet. For all of the up-todate details, or to RSVP your attendance, please contact Brian Ker, Chapter Advisory Board-Alumni Relations, by phone at (514) 827-3472, or by email at brian.ker@ mail.mcgill.ca, or check out our website, www.ssmu.ca/ phideltatheta.

Tennessee Alpha Vanderbilt University

We recently sponsored a pig roast raising over $30,000 to benefit the Vanderbilt-Ingram Cancer Center on behalf of a sophomore Brother with liver and pancreatic cancer which was diagnosed last winter. There was a tremendous Greek community, alumni and local Nashville support for the member who comes from a long line of Phi Delts. The pig roast, which is usually a recruitment event in the fall, was planned early.

-Preston Moister

Tennessee Epsilon Tennessee – Chattanooga

As part of the Fraternity's Community Service Month, each of our chapter members participated in our third annual Grand Slam Week for Lou Gehrig's Disease. Chairman of the endeavor was Chris Dyer. Sororities participating in the events of the week, which included a date auction and banner contest/cookout at the chapter house, were Sigma Kappa, Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, and Kappa Delta. –John Archibald

Texas Beta University of Texas – Austin

Motivation and morale continues to rise with all of our hard work this semester. We recruited and initiated 11 new members who had two successful car washes to benefit the Austin Children's Hospital. To benefit the American Red Cross we held the Phi Delt Bowling Tournament which was so successful that it will be moved to the fall to include Panhellenic new members and will benefit the Lou Gehrig Foundation. We placed in Greek Week and were in the playoffs and finals in most fraternity intramural competitions throughout the year. Several members will be serving this summer as Camp Texas counselors, and another as orientation adviser and one as the first ever IFC Summer Recruitment Chair. We are looking forward to an even better year upcoming.

Texas Rho Texas A&M – Corpus Christi

This has been an exciting year for the brothers of Texas Rho. Last fall we initiated 13 Phikeias, and then two more this spring. We raised over ten thousand dollars for ALS with a skeet shoot, co-sponsored a golf tournament and cleaned up graffiti around town. On April 27th at the King's Crossing Country Club we had our first formal.

This year we were crowned as the Greek Week Kings, which we have been striving towards for several years; our intramural team was awarded the sports team of the year; two Brothers are on the Executive Council of IFC; two Brothers are Senators for SGA; and Brother Ryan Mankoff was named the Homecoming King this spring.

We are also in the process of raising money to purchase a lodge. We have had several very successful fundraisers and we are planning a softball tournament for this summer. If any chapter would like to send a team down to Corpus Christi to play and get to know our chapter, please e-mail phi46@msn.com, and we will send you information about signing up. —Chris Melton

Virginia Delta University of Richmond

The events of September 11 affected all Americans, but Virginia Delta felt the attacks directly, losing Brothers Tom Clark, '86, and Don Jones, '84. This spring we planned several events in their memory. On February 28, we presented the first annual Clark/Jones Memorial Scholarship to Michael Coleman, based on his exemplification of the three cardinal principles of the Fraternity. We will be hosting a weekend of fundraising for Tom and Don's families. On Friday, April 12 there was a Phi Delta Theta Gold Tournament at the Hunting Hawk Gold Club, with entry fees and hole-by-hole promotional fundraisers going toward the trust funds. Saturday we had our annual Pig Roast at our lodge, followed by a cocktail reception and silent auction that evening at the Country Club of Virginia. Our goal with the weekend was to renew the bond between the Brothers of Virginia Delta and all Phis, and in doing so bring something positive out of last year's tragedy.

Brother Anderson, our hero

I was very moved by the story in the summer issue about Marc Anderson. He was a true hero and set the example of courage and bravery that our young people of today should look to when making the life choices that will face them as they take their journey through life.

I've enclosed a small donation as a memorial gift in his name.

William Quisenberry Kentucky '60

Thank you for the tender article on Marc Anderson. I will never again think of WW II as "My" or "Our" war. This has brought it up too clearly that we are in everything together, both as a Fraternity and as a nation. This piece clearly demonstrated that we all go through the same emotions, just at different times.

Thanks for such an insightful article.

John March Florida '48

THE SCROLL

I served with a
Special Forces Group
(Airborne) in Afghanistan from January through June, and also participated in Operation Anaconda
in March at the same time as Marc Anderson.

Thereafter we conducted other numerous operations against Al Qaida and Taliban forces. Brother Anderson and I are both Army Rangers. Although he was not in my unit, I am familiar with the circumstances of his death. He served with valor and distinction, was an outstanding Army Ranger and a credit to Phi Delta Theta. "Leave No One Behind" made his death even more personal than it already was.

Patrick Black Texas Tech '75

I am deeply saddened to read about the death of Army Ranger Specialist Marc A. Anderson. The article and the accompanying photograph of Brother Anderson's flag-draped coffin really brought to light the supreme sacrifices members of our armed forces make every day to secure freedom and liberty.

My prayers go out to his family and to all other Phi Delts who are serving our country in this time of war. No words can truly express the gratitude I have for Marc who gave his life without hesitation.

True North

I have just finished reading the Winter-Spring issue of The Scroll. I want to congratulate you and thank you for the story of Phi Delta Theta's 100 years in Canada. It is particularly relevant with the General Convention in Canada this year.

I would also like to thank Brother Rob McInnes for his contribution to the story. He is an extremely dedicated Canadian Phi. I continue to enjoy The Scroll. Its quality is very high.

Robert Dinkel,

Past President General Council Alberta '53

Just received my Winter-Spring Scroll and thumbed through it, noting the Canadian review with interest. Nice to see such a good overview.

Imagine my surprise to see a picture of Ontario Beta on page 27! The caption reads 'date unknown.' I can fill that in for you. That picture is from Fall 1983 and is the 'founding fathers' (for the restarted chapter) plus our first pledge class. If I recall correctly, it was taken on the front steps of Knox Presbyterian Church. I am 3rd from the right in the front row.

We were in a dingy old house that had been four apartments and we knocked down the walls and made it into our chapter house. It was quite an adventure. I do remember those days as being some of the best of my time at the university. Thanks for the opportunity to remember and to share.

10 alumni volunteer as province presidents

ending chapter approval, the General Council has appointed ten alumni to serve as province presidents. As president, they will provide guidance and support to chapters and colonies in their province.

John Critchfield, Ohio Wesleyan '54, is president of realigned Delta North province. He has served as chapter advisory board chairman for Virginia Eta. Critchfield earned an MBA from Harvard and his career presented him many opportunities including leadership at Bank of America as Vice President and Director of the Telecommunications and Systems Division. He and his wife live in Blacksburg, Jeff Dillon, Nebraska-Kearney '87. Dillon served as chapter president at Kearney and then as a leadership consultant. A partner of the New Century Insurance Group, Dillon takes on the responsibility of Mu West. He and his wife reside in Olathe, Kansas with their two children.

David Green, Widener '91, committed himself to both football and Phi Delt as an undergraduate. He served as Pennsylvania Mu's secretary, social chairman and IFC representative. In 1990, he was a delegate for his chapter at General Convention. Green, a financial advisor and stockbroker for Solomon, Smith & Barney in Indianapolis, will assist Kappa South as its province president.

Chris Hill, Washburn '94, will oversee chapters of Nu North province. Hill led his chapter as president, rush chairman and warden. He earned a masters in communication from Oklahoma State in '96. He has served as advisory board chairman for the Kansas Eta Colony and as faculty for several Leadership Colleges, Hill is the Director of Development and Public Relations for Creative Community Living, a non-profit foundation serving the disabled, and an adjunct professor in communication at Southwest and Cowley Colleges.

Mark Kappes, Purdue '77, is a commercial airline pilot and serves as a captain of Boeing 737s for Continental Airlines. He has two Phi sons and serves on the house corporation board for Indiana Zeta and now as the president of Kappa West.

Joe Kohout, Creighton '98, in addition to his current graduate studies in law at Creighton, will serve as president of Psi province. He has served as advisory board chairman for Nebraska Gamma and as a faculty member at Leadership College. Kohout is a registered lobbyist in Omaha.

Michael McDearman, Tennessee Tech '97. As an alumnus and as a professional, McDearman guides undergraduate students. He was a leadership consultant from '98-'00, served as a faculty member for Leadership College and attended several Fraternity conventions. Professionally, he served as Director of Student Activities at Rockhurst University and is currently president and owner of Special Topic Presentations, a college campus issue presentation company. McDearman is the new province president for Eta South.

Daniel L. Mundahl, Minnesota State '86, served as Lambda Province President from 1993-1998 and will now aid its chapters as province president again. Mundahl has attended numerous Phi Delta Theta

General Conventions and has served as a Leadership College faculty member. Professionally, Brother Mundahl is the Controller for Bethany Lutheran College in Mankato.

George P. Walthall, Jr., Alabama '69. After graduating from the University of Alabama as a highly involved Phi, Walthall served two years in the United States Army. Later he attended the university again as a graduate student studying law. He now works as an attorney in Prattsville, Alabama and also serves as a municipal judge. Walthall and his wife have two grown children, one of whom is a member of Phi Delta Theta. Theta East Province welcomes Walthall as its new president.

Drew Wilburn, Clarion '97. Much of Wilburn's time as an undergraduate and as an alumnus has been dedicated to Phi Delt. As an active brother, Wilburn held the positions of president, vice president, treasurer and warden. Most recently, he served the chapter advisory board chairman for the Pennsylvania Xi Chapter. Wilburn continues his dedication to the Fraternity as the new Province President of Upsilon Province. Professionally, he is a sales representative for Federal Express in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Eye on expansion

Director of Expansion Jacob Heuser, Southwest Missouri '00, reports Phi Delta Theta is in the middle of an expansion explosion. Heuser has been working with colonies at five campus: Kansas State University, Salina; the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; Allegheny College; Washington State University; and Central Connecticut State University. All hope to be officially installed as chapters by the semester's close.

Colonies at seven additional schools are continuing the work to achieve chapter status: the University of Kentucky; California State University, Stanislaus; Schreiner University; West Texas A&M; Randolph-Macon College; University of Oregon, and the University of the South.

Highlight of the semester has been successful recruitment efforts at the University of Michigan—at press time an interest group of 30 men.

For more information contact Heuser (jacob@phideltatheta.org, 513-523-6345) or the survey commissioner in your region.

Our club got together seven times during the last year, in addition to our annual Homecoming. The highlight of each year is celebrating Founders Day the beginning of April along with the Florida Alpha chapter members and their parents. Florida Alpha had a significant growth during the late fifties and early sixties and many of these alumni are coming back to be honored. This is a marvelous way to show the undergrads that there can be Fraternity life after college and a good way to promote the Fraternity to the parents of the younger members.

A club with a goal! Eighty-one alumni of Phi Delta Theta, their wives and friends gathered August 24 at the Fasig-Tipton Thoroughbred Sales Paddocks to socialize, dine and—most importantly—to meet the Phikeias who comprise the new Kentucky Epsilon Colony at the University of Kentucky.

Membership in this alumni club has already surpassed last year. Anticipation and the excitement of the re-establishment of the Kentucky Epsilon chapter has brought forth the support of its alumni as well as that of Phis from other chapters who now live in the Lexington area.

Brotherhood prevails!

On September 10th the club started off our new year with our traditional Florida college football program. This year 27 brothers and guests heard from five state schools. First on the program was the University of South Florida, a first time guest. Jim Louk, director of sales and the radio voice of the USF Bulls, gave us a brief history of football at USF. In 1997 they were 1-AA, moving to 1-A in 2001, and will join the rest of their sports in Conference USA in 2003. Florida, Miami, Central Florida and Florida State also sent representatives.

The Central Florida Alumni Club meets at noon on the first Tuesday of each month, except for summer, at Lee's Lakeside restaurant in downtown Orlando. We maintain a website at www.phidelts.arecool.net.

What can you say about your Leadership College experience?

"This was a phenomenal experience. I really appreciated the opportunity to take part in it and would love to make it back in the future."

"I truly believe this conference gives the opportunity for leaders to get the information to go back to their chapters and turn them into the best that they can be. I am SO grateful I got the chance to experience this life-changing opportunity that I know will benefit me as well as my chapter. Thank you!!!"

"This was the greatest time I have had as a member of Phi Delta Theta. Now, more than ever, I am extremely proud to be a Phi."

"I learned more than I could ever learn anywhere else."

"I am inspired to invoke change and exemplify Phi Delta Theta."

"The best part of Leadership College was the emphasis on morality, responsibility, and accountability that is often overlooked."

Five things you missed if you didn't come to the Leadership College

- · 36 Educational Sessions.
- · first Walk to D'Feet ALS.
- · model Initiation ceremony.
- · talks with fraternity life experts.
- meeting, learning from brothers from across the U.S. and Canada.

ore than 530 Phis trekked to the birthplace of Phi Delta Theta, Oxford, Ohio, to participate in this year's Leadership College. This five-day conference is packed with valuable learning experiences for the undergraduate Phis that include general sessions, small group chapter meetings, and educational sessions. The conference also includes two nights of athletics with Phi Sports and offers an alternative gathering spot for Phis to unwind and talk at Phi Café. This year's Leadership College also included the first Leadership College Walk to D'Feet ALS.

The General Sessions involved some of the top requested speakers within the fraternity world. Will Keim opened the conference with his presentation Greek Life 2002: Courage or Crisis and received a resounding standing ovation. One of the nation's experts on the topic of hazing, Hank Nuwer, gave an in-depth look at the history and current realities of hazing. Mike McRee of LeaderShape, Inc. challenged the brothers to look at their accountability with his popular presentation Press Your Luck. Thomas "Sparky" Reardon, Mississippi '72, asked the brothers to listen to that Small Voice Within. Gary Belsome and Leadership College Dean, Bill Doran, presented a closed-session on The Bond and offered insight into this unaltered 154 year-old document.

To enhance the undergraduates' learning experience, they were able to attend three sections of educational sessions. Each section had 12 sessions offering a variety of topics such as recruitment, chapter discipline, Phikeia education, chapter finances, team-building, motivation, and leadership skills. Participants were able to select which education sessions they attended so they could attend the pertinent programs that directly related to their chapter's needs.

Phi Café and Phi Sports provided a good outlet for the undergraduates at night. After a long, hard day of learning, brothers were able to relax and chat at Phi Café. The atmosphere at Phi Café allowed brothers to sit around and "talk shop" while having hot dogs, chips, and sodas available. Brothers could also play pool, ping-pong, and video games to relax. Other brothers put their athletic skills to the test at Phi Sports. Phi Sports offered basketball, racquetball, water polo, wiffle ball home-run derby, and wall-climbing.

This year's Leadership College included the first Walk to D'Feet ALS. Brothers "walked the talk" around Miami University's Cook Field and raised $2,591.68. The General Council matched the amount bringing the total to $5,183.36. The proceeds were divided between the national ALS Association and the Erin Godla Fund, a fund benefiting a more rare version of ALS that afflicts teenagers. Although the day was hot, the brothers showed their pride by "beating the path" to raise funds for this great cause.

After an intensive week of learning and sharing ideas, the week ended with the highlight of a Founders Processional ceremony in front of Elliott Hall and a model Initiation where three Phikeias were initiated. The Initiation ceremony was performed by the Leadership College Ambassadors group.

Mission of the 2002 Leadership College

The mission of the Phi Delta Theta Leadership College is to educate, to energize, and to empower the Brothers with skills, knowledge and courage to impact their chapter and campus. Leadership College will provide the participants with: (1) An understanding and appreciation of The Bond. (2) A vision of the International Fraternity as an 154 year-old institution. (3) A practical understanding of how to successfully operate a chapter. (4) An opportunity for reflection on chapter performance as based upon the Standards for Brotherhood program.

KNIGHTS

ach year, the Foundation receives gifts from our generous alumni that help us continue to assist the Fraternity's activities with grants for educational programming, graduate fellowships and undergraduate scholarships. The last issue of The Scroll included information on the donors for the 2001 calendar year and recognized the value of their support. However, scattered among the donors on those pages were some members that have chosen to start their giving early.

In addition to the support of our alumni, the Foundation receives gifts from some of our undergraduate members. To appropriately recognize the early start these members have made to giving back to the Foundation and to help educate all of our undergraduates on the value of giving to the Foundation, we have created the Knights of Pallas undergraduate giving society.

This new giving society was announced to our chapters' leaders at this year's Presidents Leadership Conference in St. Louis, Missouri, and again at Leadership College in Oxford, Ohio. The response from the undergraduates attending these conferences was overwhelming. Undergraduates made 309 gifts ranging from $18.48 to $50, raising over $8,000.

But undergraduate gifts to the Educational Foundation haven't been limited to attendees at the Fraternity's leadership conferences.

Jeremy Sale, of Georgia Gamma at Mercer University, is already a member of the Foundation's Presidents Panel for contributing over $500. Another undergraduate, Jason Tarr of Texas Mu at Southwest Texas State University, has opted to make a monthly contribution to the Foundation, in addition to the gifts he made at both the Presidents Leadership Conference and Leadership College.

The Knights of Pallas program is focused on educating our undergraduates about the role the Foundation plays in Fraternity activities. To demonstrate the cycle of giving, we are using their gifts to fund additional delegate spots for Leadership College as well as two special scholarships, named Knights of Pallas scholarships, in the Foundation scholarship process.

The first two recipients of these scholarships—funded entirely by undergraduate gifts at the Presidents Leadership Conference in January—were announced at the 2002 Convention in Toronto: Randall Tosch, Northwestern '04, and Michael Keister, Southern New Hampshire '03.

Tarr's support of the program meant more than the certificate of membership or lapel pin created specially to recognize undergraduate donors.

"This program is about more than that." he told his fellow Ambassadors at Leadership College. "It starts undergraduates into the process of giving back for the good of the Educational Foundation, passing Phi Delta Theta on to future generations."

Tarr's chapter, Texas Mu, and Pennsylvania Xi received an additional delegate spot for the 2002 Leadership College funded by the undergraduate donors.

Additionally, several chapters have taken the program back to their local chapter.

New Mexico Alpha has had 46% of its members participate by making a gift of at least $18.48, while Kansas Delta has had 56% of its members make a gift. Both chapters, as well as several others, are striving for at least 80% of the membership making a gift to the Knights of Pallas. Georgia Beta at Mercer University is the first chapter to achieve that goal. With all of the active members and several Phikeias who have made gifts, they have achieved 100% participation.

Based on the generosity of undergraduates at the 2002 Leadership College, the Foundation will be able to award four Knights of Pallas Awards in 2003. We look forward to continuing to build the pattern of giving among our undergraduates and the opportunity to give more awards in 2004!

The Foundation will be recognizing all undergraduate donors, and the top chapters based on their percentage of participation, in next year's Foundation report, with the other 2002 donors. We will take special care to note the undergraduate donors among those whose donations make the Foundation's support of Phi Delta Theta possible.

By Jason O'Rourke, assistant director of development

Pew events spark as much enthusiasm and a stronger feeling of camaraderie in Phi Delta Theta than the General Convention. These feelings are even more profound when the Fraternity celebrates a milestone—and what better milestone to celebrate at the 74th Biennial Convention than brotherhood. 541 delegates and friends of the Fraternity traveled from all corners of North America to celebrate 100 years of international brotherhood and Phi Delta Theta's 100th year in Canada at Toronto's historic Royal York Hotel.

Wednesday

Many attendees arrived Wednesday evening by plane or car to explore Toronto before the business of the Convention started on Thursday.

Following an afternoon meeting, the General Council joined general officers and guests at the Hockey Hall of Fame for a casual yet elegant reception thanks to the hard work of Toronto alumni, especially Allan Paul, Manitoba '74. Among the impressive collection of artifacts in the museum was the Stanley Cup, a popular location for photos throughout the evening.

Thursday

Thursday morning a steady stream of delegates flowed through the registration area. In the afternoon, committees composed of undergraduate delegates and general officers met to conduct special business sessions.

That evening, as attendees entered the convention hall, two Royal Canadian Mounted Police "stood guard" bearing the Canadian and U.S. flags. The Royal York's ornate Grand Ballroom was draped with Fraternity flags and chapter banners which prominently highlighted the Convention mural behind the main podium. At 7:30 p.m. the opening session was called to order by a Toronto police pipe and drum band led by drummer Ian Madeiros, York '03. Executive Vice President Robert Biggs, Georgia Southern '76, opened the session calling for formal introductions from the floor.

Robert J. Miller, New Mexico '50, was introduced as executive vice president emeritus. Then twelve past presidents were introduced: Howard E. Young, Southwestern University '47; Wade S. Weatherford, North Carolina '44; Lothar A. Vasholz, Colorado '52; Douglas M. Phillips, Stanford '49; T. Glen Cary, Texas Tech '56; C. Tal Bray, South Florida '65; John W. Stitt, Mississippi '54; Frank Abernathy, Duke '58; Ed Whipple, Hanover '74; Anthony H. Ambrose, Kentucky '67; Dr. Robert B. Deloian, Arizona State '66; and Charles W. Poore, South Dakota '61. Current members of the General Council followed: President Arthur F. Hoge, Westminster '75; Treasurer Charley Pride, Western Kentucky '87; Reporter George H. Lankow, Florida '60; and Members-at-Large Michael G. Scarlatelli, Kettering '76, and Rudy M. Porchivina, San Jose State '89. The convention gave a resounding greeting to all

New Awards for HOUSING

By Jason Julian, director of risk management and housing his past year, the General Council approved the creation of several new awards, including awards specifically related to housing and house improvements. By doing this the General Fraternity has the ability to recognize those alumni and undergraduate members who devote their time and energy towards their respective housing situations.

Best Overall Work Day

This award recognizes a house corporation and chapter who have the best overall workday in the Fraternity. Improving the safety, general condition, and aesthetics of the chapter facility were main criteria for Oregon Beta, Oregon State University, receiving the $1,500 cash prize, along with their plaque.

Best Interior Project

This award is given to the chapter and house corporation that conducts the best project designed to improve the interior condition of the chapter facility. The winning chapter was Colorado Gamma, Colorado State University, receiving a $250 cash prize along with their plaque.

Best Exterior Project

The Best Exterior Project award recognizes excellence by a house corporation and chapter for having the best project in the Fraternity to improve the exterior condition of the chapter facility. Texas Kappa, University of Texas, Arlington, received the $250 cash prize and a plaque for the improvements made to their chapter house and property.

Outstanding House Corporation

This award recognizes superior facility management by a house corporation, including initiatives and programs in areas such as capital improvements, maintenance, life safety, insurance compliance and house rules and contracts. The winning House Corporation received a $1,000 cash prize, as well as a plaque. The Colorado Gamma House Corporation is intimately involved in the day-to-day operations of the chapter house. The officers have worked tirelessly over the last year to secure loans and other assistance to improve the safety and aesthetic appeal of the house. As well, they have maintained a high standard of operation. The House Corporation meets on a monthly basis, carries on an active fundraising program, is prompt and thorough in responding to insurance recommendations, and utilizes a strong membership agreement and house contract.

Outstanding Chapter Houses of the Year

This award recognizes superior facility management by a chapter, including initiatives and programs in areas such as capital improvements, maintenance, life safety, and house rules and contracts. This award is divided into two categories, large and small, based on the size of the facility, size of the membership, and the size of the school. Both winning chapters received a $2,000 prize along with their award.

The Georgia Gamma chapter, Mercer University, has an in-depth program of house cleaning duties for both in- and out-of-house members. It also has thorough house rules and maintains a high level of efficiency and organization in dealing with lease agreements and other contracts. For these efforts they received the Outstanding Small House of the Year.

The Outstanding Large House of the Year Honorable Mention goes to Kansas Alpha, University of Kansas. The House Corporation and the undergraduate members are both dedicated to the chapter house and property, and help keep it a standard for chapter houses in the Midwest.

The Robin G. Bell Outstanding Large House of the Year is named in memory of Robin G. Bell, Ohio Zeta 1964. Bell was a very dedicated Phi who was successful in all aspects of his life. Winner of the Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus Award, Brother Bell served as a member of Ohio Zeta's house corporation for more than 27 years, with ten of those years as president.

He was involved with the Central Ohio Alumni club, and even published a book, Instant Executives, a great resource for fraternity chapter management.

The winner of this award upholds the name and high standards of Brother Robin G. Bell. Mississippi Alpha, University of Mississippi, has an extremely thorough program of house maintenance, cleaning, and security. As well, the chapter enforces a wide range of conduct and house rules and strong lease agreements for all tenants, at the direction of a very devoted house corporation. The house itself is a superb facility, but more importantly the chapter and house corporation manage the property at a high level of excellence and efficiency.

There was one award that had no applications; it was the Outstanding Chapter Room of the Year. This award recognizes those chapters that occupy the floor of a dormitory or other designated area for their excellence in management, including initiatives and programs in areas such as maintenance, life safety, insurance compliance, and house rules/contracts. The winner in future years can expect a trophy and $500.

With this past year being the first year for all of these awards, we were pleased with the response. We are looking forward to more chapters applying in this and the coming years, so good luck and turn in those applications!

The impressive voice of Rob McInnes, Dalhousie '85, then lead the singing of the Canadian and U.S. national anthems.

On behalf of the host committee, and all Toronto and Canadian alumni, Randy Johnston, Toronto '85, welcomed everyone to Canada and the great city of Toronto.

President Hoge then addressed the Fraternity from the floor. As he walked among the delegates, he recapped the last biennium touching on our successes and our challenges.

President Hoge said, "Of all fraternities, there is not one in a better position program wise, staff wise, volunteer wise or financially, than Phi Delta Theta Fraternity."

Next, Brother Whipple led the Silver Legion, Golden Legion and Palladian ceremonies recognizing 25th, 50th and 75th membership anniversaries of several alumni.

Officially recognized as Silver Legionnaires were: Gary Belsome, LSU '80; Curt Boecking, Oklahoma '78; Bill Doran, Westminster '78; Wesley Emerson, Manitoba '77; Andrew Kidd, Alberta '80; Chris Lapple, California State, Northridge '80; Nathaniel Love, Michigan '80; Patrick McGowan, Toronto '79; Robert Fregren, Manitoba '78; Mark Ochsenbein, Eastern Kentucky '77; and Lorne Lemick, Toronto '79.

Golden Legionnaires were: V. Ross Brown, Texas Tech '53; John Critchfield, Ohio Wesleyan '54; James McGowan, McGill '53; and J.W. Stitt, Mississippi '54.

Brothers Douglas M. Phillips, New Mexico '49, and Wade Weatherford, North Carolina '44, were recognized as Palladian recipients for continued service to the Fraternity beyond their time of entry into the Golden Legion.

President Hoge then presented the Centennial Award. This new award recognizes the most improved Canadian chapter and was presented to Manitoba Alpha at the University of Manitoba. The chapter set an impressive precedent for the future of the award by memorizing the ritual, nearly doubling their GHQ points, recruiting a new chapter advisory board, creating a new recruitment program that helped the chapter increase from 15 to 29 members as well as many other accomplishments.

The opening session concluded with a fascinating review of Phi Delta Theta's history in Canada by Brother McInnes. He highlighted each Canadian chapter while providing some historical context and presented the Fraternity with a recently found historical artifact.

In early 2001, several fraternity members discovered that George E. Housser's, McGill '06, past president's badge was being sold on the internet auction site, e-Bay. Housser was the Fraternity's first Canadian General Council president. Led by Jim Harvey, California-Irvine '84, a group of seven Phis were able to secure the badge in the last 3 seconds of the auction. As the audience watched, Brother Harvey returned the badge to President Hoge and the General Fraternity.

The celebration of one hundred years of international brotherhood and the founding of our first chapter in Canada culminated as Canadian delegates and alumni gathered around a large cake decorated with a Canadian flag and 100 candles. The convention sang "happy birthday," the candles were blown out, and all were welcomed to enjoy a piece of cake.

Friday

At 9 a.m. the Friday session opened in due form to conduct the business of the Fraternity. After all voting delegates were seated and the roll was taken, Rob Pasquinucci, Ashland '94, credentials committee chairman, opened with a report followed by a report from David Almacy, Widener '92, chairman of the procedures committee. The nominating committee then reviewed names of the candidates running for the General Council. The final committee report was led by Gary Wade, Tennessee '70, chairman of The Code committee.

The Code committee presented motions to alter the Constitution and General Statues of the Fraternity which were discussed and voted on during the Friday and Saturday business sessions. When the convention closed, changes to four sections were approved while 3 motions failed to pass.

Section 22 was changed to allow the Fraternity to meet the changing needs of communications, including those associated with new media like the Web and other developing technology. Prior to this change, Section 22 referred to print publications only.

Section 113, concerning required chapter officers, was altered to include the Recruitment Chairman which had not been included previously. Section 121.2 was added to describe the duties of the Recruitment Chairman but Section 127.2, which would have required each chapter to have a recruitment committee, was not.

A deletion of part of Section 98 regarding house rules was approved to fall in-line with current Fraternity policy.

Proposed additions to Section 66 calling for the removal of Fraternity symbols from properties where chapters are closed did not pass after considerable discussion.

Proposed changes to Section 176.1 regarding the return of General Council president's badges to the Fraternity upon death of the owner, also did not pass after considerable debate.

At 9:40 a.m. Brother Pride and the Fraternity's Director of Education Matt Brillhart, Emporia State '94, unveiled a preview of The Accolade, a new member development program. Response to the program and the presentation was very encouraging as delegates listened intently to the details of this new program.

After the presentation of several chapter awards, the business session recessed for lunch and an address from the Nance-Millett Free Enterprise Award recipient, J. Trevor Eyton, Toronto '56. Brother Eyton spoke of the economic integration of North America and concluded saying, "It is a great honor to be included among the other Phi Delt recipients of this award."

During the afternoon, delegates had the opportunity to meet and discuss issues with the candidates running for the General Council during the "Meet the Candidates" break-out sessions. After the candidates met with each break-out group, delegates then had the opportunity to explore the city or catch a Bluejays game.

Saturday

Saturday morning the new General Council was elected. After a secret ballot, the Wardens Committee counted votes while the delegates witnessed model chapter ceremonies led by various Canadian chapters.

After the ballots were reviewed, the wardens committee reported George Lankow, Mark Ochsenbein, Rudy Porchivina, and Michael Scarlatelli were elected to the General Council. Charley Pride was elected President.

The morning session concluded with the presentation of more chapter awards. At the Academic Excellence luncheon, the Canadian Scholarship Foundation and the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation recognized scholarship recipients. Duran Chang, British Columbia '05, winner of the J. Fred Green scholarship, gave a profound and heartfelt keynote address on achieving success.

The afternoon business session resumed with the announcement of the Improvement Citations, Silver Star Awards and Gold Star Awards.

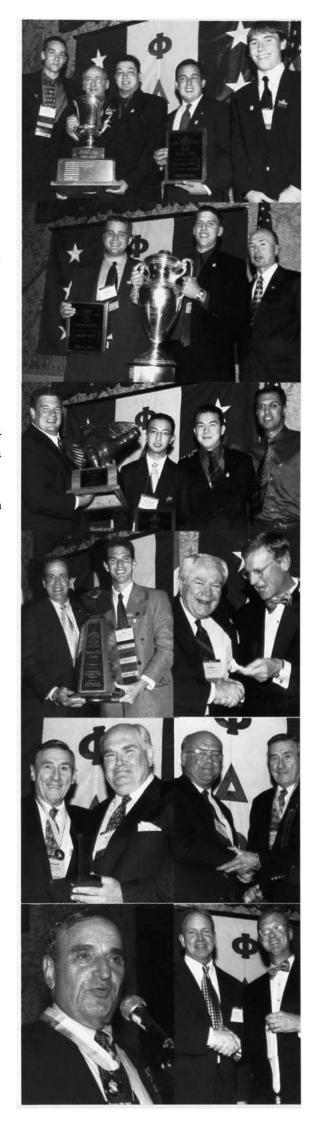

At the Grand Banquet Saturday evening, master of ceremonies D. Grant Loree, Toronto '70, facilitated the presentation of the top chapter trophies, special individual recognition awards and installation of the 2002-2004 General Council.

Iowa Gamma at Iowa State received the Harvard Trophy, New Mexico Alpha from the University of New Mexico won the Founders Trophy, the University of British Columbia's British Columbia Alpha claimed the Housser Trophy, and Nebraska Gamma at Creighton University received the Kansas City Trophy.

Legion of Merit medals were presented to S. George Notaras, Lawrence '53, and Clark D. Jackson, Wichita State '76, for their outstanding-lifelong commitment to the service of Phi Delta Theta.

Legion of Honor medals were presented to John M. "Bubba" Trotman, Auburn '48, and F. Ross Johnson, Manitoba '52, for their lifelong dedication and service to Phi Delta Theta and their community.

South Dakota's Chapter Adviser Dean O. Clark, South Dakota '63, and

F. Ross Johnson accepts the Legion of Honor Award:

Thank you very much for this most prestigious award. It is one I will always treasure and be proud of!

"Any institution that has survived for over 150 years must be doing something quite special. Very few institutions, corporations and countries have been able to do this, and those that have survived, you can probably count on your hands and feet.

"The only way an Institution can survive and prosper is to satisfy a need or needs. If they do not satisfy a need, they will surely die.

"Phi Delta Theta has survived because it does satisfy a need, and if it didn't, we would not be here today! All of you who are here today are involved and remain involved because the brotherhood of Phi Delta Theta satisfies a need and you, in turn, have reciprocated by continuing your personal support of this incredible institution.

"However, to survive and grow a great institution such as Phi Delta Theta, one must adapt to change, and it has been this ability to adjust to change that guarantees our continued viability.

"When you look at the past 154 years, it is mind-boggling what has happened: World Wars, Civil Wars, Depression, Civil Rights, Anti-Fraternity movements and now a new challenge, Terrorism.

"Our Fraternity has been able to adjust and has, as a result, survived.

"Today, however, we are faced with probably the biggest threat to our existence that has ever confronted us - that is, alcohol and Alcohol-Free Housing.

"What your General Council, in conjunction with the financial support of the Foundation, has done, is to first recognize this most dangerous of all threats to our existence and second to take the courageous step to go alcohol-free. This was no mean accomplish-

"Although extremely controversial, their decision was quite simple. You either go to Alcohol-Free Housing or you go to bankruptcy and therefore oblivion. The insurance costs alone (if you can get insurance) are totally prohibitive. It is as simple as that.

"It amazes me that the other Fraternities are not cognizant of this and continue to espouse the old ways and not recognize that time and circumstances have passed them by. However, the bright side of their inability to adjust to change is to make far less competition for attracting the best candidates to Phi Delta Theta!

"What have been the results of the General Council's recognition of what we must do to change our attitudes and policies towards alcohol in our houses?

"Here are the results: one, our new pledges are up; two, our grades are up; and three, our costs are down.

"Why is this happening?

"It happens because we have a policy that satisfies the needs of the desirable undergraduates, which in turn guarantees the continuing existence of Phi Delta Theta.

"It has been my personal pleasure to participate in this great program and to see how effective it has been.

"My deepest appreciation for this award and my sincere wishes for continued success for both you and the new Phis to come.

"It has been an honor and a pleasure to be here tonight. Thank you!"

Westminster's Chapter Adviser William D. Whitlow, Westminster '69, were recognized as recipients of the Samuel V. Stone Chapter Adviser of the Year Award and Edward F. Hopper, Akron '65, received the first Oliver J. Samuel Province President of the Year Award.

Following the installation of the elected General Council members, the banquet concluded with a speech by the newly elected president, Charley Pride. President Pride gave insight into the direction of the Fraternity in the next two years. He discussed his desire to continue developing The Accolade program as a valued-added member benefit, to improve communication through the use of technology and dubbed 2002-2004 as "The Biennium of the Volunteer."

Sunday morning

A solemn memorial ceremony was conducted Sunday morning in remembrance of all Phis that had joined the Chapter Grand during the last bienniumespecially those Phis lost on September 11, 2001. Brian Malison, Tampa '94, spoke to the Fraternity about his friend, Marc Anderson, Case Western '95, who was killed in action in Afghanistan. Malison presented the Fraternity with a Phi Delt banner Anderson had taken with him as he was deployed.

After concluding some lingering business items, the delegates sang "Eternal Praise" and the Convention was then adjourned by President Art Hoge.

2001-2002 STARCHAPTERS

Twenty chapters awarded the Fraternity's top undergraduate honor

At the 2002 General Convention in Toronto, Phi Delta Theta recognized its top chapters by presenting 20 Gold Star Awards. Annually, the award recognizes the success of chapters in overall operations. One chapter organized a bone marrow drive for the son of an alumnus, another ranked above its university's all-men's and all-fraternity average GPA for 15 consecutive semesters; but all of this year's Gold Star chapters clearly demonstrate how to actualize the highest teachings of the Fraternity. Congratulations to the 2001-2002 Gold Star chapters!

British Columbia Alpha University of British Columbia

One of Phi Delt's nine Canadian chapters, British Columbia Alpha received the Housser Trophy as the top Canadian chapter for the second consecutive year. But it wasn't money raised or hours of service acquired that stood out most about this chapter. Instead it was the brothers' relentless dedication to aiding downtown Vancouver and its people. On several occasions, brothers spent afternoons picking up garbage off the streets, volunteering at soup kitchens and food banks and handing out food they purchased to the homeless and needy. On another level, chapter members raised money to train and send English teachers to Tibet. Overall, British Columbia Alpha committed over 200 hours to the two causes about which it felt most passionate.

Previous Gold Stars: '85, '84.

California Sigma Sonoma State University

Now one of Sonoma State's biggest philanthropy events, Skate-4-Fate came to being through California Sigma. The event, a relay from San Francisco back to Sonoma State, raises money for children in local hospitals. Last year, the chapter raised nearly $1,500 to buy toys for children at the Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital. The brothers of California Sigma have adopted the event as their main philanthropy and plan to continue developing and strengthening it over the next several years. One of Phi Delt's youngest chapters, California Sigma was recognized for its outstanding one-day philanthropy event with an honorable mention for the Paul C. Beam Award.

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '98, '97.

Georgia Gamma Mercer University

As one of the Fraternity's smallest chapters, Georgia Gamma's accomplishments last year were anything but small. The chapter's average GPA ranks consistently higher than Mercer's non-Greek men's average. At the same time, brothers stay actively involved on campus as 90 percent are involved in student organizations. Accordingly, Georgia Gamma received a 5/5 rating in the school's SPIRES Chapter Evaluation and Awards Program. Brothers rallied last year to plan a celebration of their chapter's 130th anniversary that included an event which raised $750 for the Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis Association (ALSA) in honor of brother Lou Gehrig. Congratulations to Georgia Gamma on its first Gold Star!

Indiana Zeta DePauw University

Seventy-five members strong, Indiana Zeta has a strong presence on DePauw's campus. With 24 members on varsity athletic teams, the chapter proved itself nicely well-rounded as it ranked first in grades among all fraternities at the school with an average 3.3 GPA. Nearly one-third of all members made the Dean's list. Through a series of philanthropy events, the chapter has raised funds to help support the American Cancer Society, the Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation and Special Olympics. In total, the chapter raised $1,200 to support these causes.

Previous Gold Stars: '97, '85, '70.

Iowa Gamma Iowa State University

After dedicating close to 1,025 hours to the community and raising more than $22,302, Iowa Gamma now holds its 13th Harvard Trophy. The chapter plays a vital role in the success of ISU's Dance Marathon, a campus-wide philanthropy that raises money for the Children's Miracle Network. With close to $10,000 raised, the chapter made the largest donation of any fraternity or sorority participating. Iowa Gamma also is actively involved with ISU's blood drive, the largest student-run blood drive in the United States. Eleven members serve on the board for the blood drive. These contributions to ISU and surrounding community helped earn the chapter the school's Gold Circle Award for Fraternal Excellence. In addition to their many extensive campus involvements, members still found time to focus on chapter development by planning seminars on such topics as sexual harassment, scholarship and investment advice.

www.phideltatheta.org THE SCROLL

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '98, '97, '96, '95, '94, '93, '91, '90, '88, '86, '85, '84, '83, '82, '80, '78, '77, '68, '67, '66, '64, '63, '62, '60, '59, '57, '56

Kentucky Eta Western Kentucky University

Some 2,500 hours of community service later, Kentucky Eta finds itself with its third consecutive Gold Star. And service is just one of the outstanding accomplishments of the chapter last year.

Academically, Kentucky Eta's average GPA ranked it first among all fraternities on campus. On WKU's campus, brothers are involved in organizations from student government to varsity athletics, including Spirit Masters, the university's most prestigious and selective organization. Only 50 students out of some 14,000 hold membership in the organization, seven of whom are Phis at Kentucky Eta's 51-member chapter.

Minnesota Beta Minnesota State University

After being awarded an improvement citation last year, Minnesota Beta demonstrated further improvement by winning its fifth Gold Star this year. The chapter set a positive example for Phi Delt chapters as well as for chapters of other fraternities on campus by sponsoring a sober cab program for fellow students each Friday and Saturday night. Additionally, the chapter annually volunteers to drive members of another chapter on campus and their dates to their formal. Brothers also played an active role in Minnesota States' campus-wide philanthropy, Dance Marathon, with more members at the event than any other group. These acts of service helped earn Minnesota Beta MSU's Chapter of the Year Award for the third consecutive year. Academically, the chapter also sets high standards, as it was first in grades among all fraternities at Minnesota State during both fall and spring semesters.

Mississippi Alpha University of Mississippi

Brothers of Mississippi Alpha will celebrate 125 years of excellence in November. The chapter's strength is clearly evident, as it adds another Gold Star to a list of 34. Nearly one-third of the 157-member chapter made the Dean's list last year, and overall the chapter's average GPA was higher than the all men's average at Ole Miss. Outside the classroom, members organized a Date Auction that raised nearly $4,000 for the American Cancer Society.

Missouri Beta Westminster College

Brothers of Missouri Beta truly understand the importance of strong alumni relations. Last year, they helped organize a bone marrow drive in response to a Missouri Beta alumnus whose son was in need of a bone marrow transplant. The chapter also organized a blood drive to help disaster relief efforts after September 11. Every able member of Missouri Beta donated blood to the Red Cross. In addition, well over half the chapter spent two full days helping build a house for Habitat for Humanity. The initiative brothers of the chapter took in planning these events helped earn them their 18th Gold Star.

Missouri Epsilon Southwest Missouri State University

With 12 members on the Dean's list, six on SMSU's hockey team and two Educational Foundation Scholarship recipients, members of Missouri Epsilon clearly stand out on SMSU's campus. Out of the 28 semesters Missouri Epsilon has been on SMSU's campus, it has had the highest GPA among fraternities an impressive 24 times. Additionally, Missouri Epsilon represents the first and only fraternity on campus to earn a 3.0 average chapter GPA. Through various community service events, including the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life, the chapter raised close to $2,700.

Nebraska Gamma Creighton University

This year, brothers of Nebraska Gamma are celebrating their third consecutive Gold Star as well as their third consecutive Kansas City Trophy. This is the first time in the history of the Trophy it has been presented to the same chapter for three consecutive years. One of the accomplishments that awarded the chapter the honor this year was its academic success. During fall semester, Nebraska Gamma ranked first in grades among all fraternities on campus with a 3.5 GPA. An impressive 42 of 52 members made the Dean's list. In addition to the recognition the chapter received from the Fraternity, Creighton named Phi Delt the Outstanding Chapter on campus. Last year, brothers served over 1,075 hours to the community and still found time to carry on their five-year tradition of meeting daily at Creighton's student center as an act of simple brotherhood. Not bad for a chapter that is only five years old.

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '00, '98.

Nevada Beta University of Nevada, Las Vegas

One of Nevada Beta's most notable accomplishments that earned the 14-year old chapter its' third Gold Star, was the organization of its' first annual Phi-Lanthropy Week. Each of the 33 members of Nevada Beta took on great responsibility in planning this three-day event benefiting ALSA in honor of brother Lou Gehrig. Phi-Lanthropy Week consisted of service activities, including a bachelor auction, in which five sororities competed against each other. Through this event and several small-scale service activities, brothers contributed over 200 hours of service to the community.

Previous Gold Stars: '96, '93.

New Jersey Alpha Rutgers

The gentlemen of New Jersey Alpha made significant contributions to both the Fraternity and the community last year. Over 700 hours of service were contributed by just two members. As a whole, the chapter raised the most money of all fraternities for Rutgers' Dance Marathon, helping raise the school's total donation to the Institute for Children with Cancer and Blood Disorders to $137,000. For the Fraternity, members worked with students, faculty and administrators to educate them about the positive aspects of the Greek community. The chapter also planned seminars on career planning and resume writing, alcohol and drug awareness, leadership and ethics, and etiquette to help brothers maintain their well-rounded chapter. Appropriately, New Jersey Alpha was named winner of the St. Louis Fraternity Education Award.

Previous Gold Stars: '98, '97, '96, '95, '93, '92, '91, '90, '89, '88.

New Mexico Alpha University of New Mexico

Last year, this 56-year old chapter took several steps to realize Phi Delt's belief that membership is for a lifetime.

Each year New Mexico Alpha hosts PHIFEST, a weeklong event for alumni all across the country. Their most recent PHIFEST drew over 150 alumni for events such as day trips, golf tournaments, brunches and dinners. In addition to PHIFEST, brothers organized a seminar on how to stay active as a lifetime member. Academically, the chapter showed marked improvement. From spring to fall semester in 2001, it improved its average GPA from 2.8 to 3.12, changing the chapter's ranking from sixth to second in grades among the 9 fraternities at UNM. After receiving an honorable mention for the Founders Trophy last year, the chapter was named winner of this prestigious award this year.

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '00, '99, '98, '97, '67, '66, '61.

North Carolina Delta North Carolina State University

Once again, the brothers of North Carolina Delta continued their tradition of excellence within Phi Delta Theta and NC State by receiving top honors from both institutions. NC Delta's Caldwell Cup and Gold Star were earned, in part, as a result of the chapter's annual golf and tennis tournament that traditionally raises more then $20,000 each year for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. Also notable is the relationship each of the 64 members of North Carolina Delta maintains with handicapped children in the local area. Through a tutoring program, members assist the children with their studies and at the same time maintain their own strong grades. The chapter ranked third among 26 fraternities.

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '00, '99, '97, '96, '95, '94, '93, '92, '91, '90.

Oklahoma Beta Oklahoma State University

tions. At the same time, they maintain a strong academic standard as 24 members made the Dean's list last year. The chapter's sixth Gold Star in the past 10 years was awarded in part because of its 1,163 hours of community service and $2,500 of raised funds for various causes. One of the chapter's larger community service projects was House of Treats. Nearly 85% of the chapter participated in the event that drew over 500 trick-ortreaters from the local area. The events' success had much to do with advertisements members placed in newspapers, on the radio and in local middle schools. Admission to the event was one food item that was donated to the Stillwater Harvest Food Drive.

Previous Gold Stars: '98, '96, '95, '94, '81, '80, '78, '77, '74.

Oregon Gamma Willamette University

Nearly ten years after its reinstallation, Oregon Gamma was the largest chapter on Willamette's campus at the beginning of the 2001-2002 school year. With 62 members, the chapter continually proves its strength by sponsoring an annual Lou Gehrig Softball Tournament. Last year the event raised close to $1,000 for ALSA. In response to the tragedy on September 11, members organized a massage night to help raise funds for disaster relief efforts while providing comfort to fellow students during the time of great emotional upheaval.

Previous Gold Stars: '01, '99, '96, '92, '57.

www.phideltatheta.org THE SCROLL

South Dakota Alpha University of South Dakota

Phi Delta Theta was not the only one to notice South Dakota Alpha's accomplishments last year. For the fifth consecutive year, USD presented Phi Delta Theta the Outstanding Fraternity Chapter Award. One accomplishment that clearly stood out to both Phi Delt and USD is South Dakota Alpha's successful academic record. For the past 15 semesters, the chapters' average GPA ranked above the all-men's and all-fraternity average. From the beginning of membership in South Dakota Alpha, the importance of philanthropy is strongly emphasized. Each new member class is required to host a philanthropy event of their choice. Last year, the Phikeia class cooked dinner for over 100 dancers at USD's Dance Marathon. Together, both members and Phikeia have served well over 3,000 hours to the community.

Texas Epsilon Texas Tech University

During fall semester alone, members of Texas Tech were involved in 13 different community service projects including the chapter's 21st annual Kalf Fry, an event that attracted over 7,000 people and raised nearly $20,000 to help fight muscular dystrophy. From Habitat for Humanity and Big Brothers/Big Sisters to the American Cancer Society, the South Plains Food Bank and many other organizations, members raised over $8,000 and contributed approximately 3,700 hours of service to the community. With that, Texas Epsilon now holds this year's Lubbock Trophy and already plans to maintain a strong emphasis on community service next year.

Washington Beta Whitman College

The gentlemen of Washington Beta contributed more than 650 hours to the community and made sure to have fun with every hour. Fifty of those hours were spent continuously riding a teeter-totter. The chapter's annual Teeter-Totter-a-Thon raises money for the American Cancer Society by selling tickets at a booth next to the teeter-totter. Two chapter members extend their community service outside the chapter's planned events. One coaches basketball at the YMCA, while another spends Sundays teaching children of migrant workers to read. Equally as important was Washington Beta's strong academics. During fall semester, the chapter's 3.2 GPA was the highest of all Whitman fraternities.

JOHN FRANCO wins LOU GEHRIG Award

Veteran Reliever First Met to Receive Honor

By Conrad Foster Thiede

'I t's quite important to me and an honor," Franco said of winning this year's Gehrig Award.

"It's very special, especially being from New York," he continued, referencing that he and the award namesake both were born and raised in New York City. Gehrig played his entire Major League Baseball career in Yankee pinstripes, while Brooklyn-born Franco would come home in 1990 to play for the Mets, a team he rooted for as a kid.

"John Franco has been the heart and soul of the Mets for the past twelve years," says Mets Media Director Jay Horowitz. "It's so great that he is being honored this way."

This sentiment was accentuated by the entire ballclub during Spring 2001 when Franco was named team captain. He became just the third captain in the 40-year history of the franchise, joining Keith Hernandez and Gary Carter, who served as co-captains from 1987-1989.

"At first, I thought Turk (Wendell) was kidding me," Franco noted.

It was no joke, and the Mets even petitioned Major League Baseball to allow for the "C" that would be placed on Franco's jersey.

Franco's leadership on the mound and in the clubhouse is only matched by the selfless example he sets off the field.

"My mother and father taught me that you should try to give back to where you came from," Franco explains. "We ballplayers have the means to do things that are visible—so why not do so, and hope that it encourages others to do the same."

Franco and his wife, Rose, are a team when it comes to their philanthropy. Together, they have helped raise more than $1 million for the March of Dimes through their "Celebrity Bowl For The Babies." Franco's encouragement of current and former Mets players' participation in the event has evolved into a "Who's Who" of New York City baseball for the annual gathering—all joining forces to raise money to battle childhood illnesses.

As one of the most recognizable athletes in the Big Apple, Franco is a frequent visitor to local children's hospitals.

An active volunteer for the Make-A-Wish Foundation, the American Heart Foundation and the Garth Brooks' Touch'Em All Foundation, Franco has utilized his celebrity to benefit these charities. He also does volunteer work for the Leukemia Society of New York City.

"I remember when we signed John out

(University, located in Hillcrest)," said
Bill Bergesch, member of the
Gehrig Award Committee and former General Manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

During the pre-game festivities, Franco receives the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award from Phi Delta Theta representatives Don Thiede, Conrad Thiede and Jerry Collett.

"He had pitched two no-hitters as a freshman, and we (the Reds) were looking forward to his arrival at the Major League level."

Franco made the big-league team in 1984, but as a relief pitcher instead of a starter. He pitched in 54 games with the Redlegs his rookie year, compiling a 6-2 record with a 2.61 ERA. His sophomore season would bring no jinx, as he was 12-6 with 12 saves and a 2.18 ERA. In 1988 he led the National League in saves with 39, posting a miniscule 1.57 ERA.

An off-season trade to the Mets after the 1989 season brought Franco home for the start of the 1990 campaign. A fivetime All-Star, Franco would again lead the league in saves in 1990 and 1994, with 33 and 30, respectively.

The all-time save leader for lefties and for the Mets, Franco ranks second overall in Major League Baseball history with 422 saves. 13 times in his career he's finished a season with a sub-3.00 ERA, with three of those years providing amazing ERAs below 2.00. Franco's lifetime record is an impressive 88-76 with a 2.75 ERA, while pitching in 998 games, fifth most games pitched in baseball history.

The Lou Gehrig Award Committee is not alone in their recognition of John Franco. He received the 1991 Thurman Munson Award that honors charitable giving and the 1996 New York Press Photographers Good Guy Award. He was named the 1998 Staten Island Sportsman of the Year that recognizes humanitarian efforts. And, a couple of years ago, the New York City Department of Sanitation honored the Franco family by putting the following on the sides of their trucks: "The City of New York and the Department of Sanitation Salute John Franco No. 45." Franco's father, who passed away in 1988, worked for the Sanitation Department for 19 years. Franco wears an orange Sanitation Department tee under his team jersey to pay tribute to his dad.

Questioned about some of his most memorable moments in baseball, Franco states, "Tom Browning's perfect game (in 1988) and Pete Rose's hit (recordbreaking #4,192 in 1985) were both great moments when I was in Cincinnati, and of course, the 2000 Subway Series (the Mets/Yankees World Series)." He pauses, "Oh, and my first All-Star game in 1986." Once again, he places others first.

Last September, he and fellow-Met pitcher Al Leiter approached the entire ballclub about donating a day's salary to the New York Police and Fire Widows' and Children's Benefit Fund, a charity founded in 1985 by former-Met Rusty Staub. All agreed, and $450,000 was raised for the fund. Arizona Diamondbacks pitcher Curt Schilling, who was the Gehrig Award recipient in 1995, had publicized a similar idea a few days earlier.

John Franco prepares for the 2003 season, his 20th in the majors-his outstanding career continues to provide much more than a nasty slider in a tight, late-inning ballgame. On the field and off it, Franco has earned that "C", as well as this year's Gehrig Award.

On July 31, 2002, the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award was presented to John Franco before a capacity crowd at Shea Stadium. Joining Gehrig Committee representative Conrad Thiede were Jerry Collett, son of long-time Gehrig Award Chairman Ritter Collett who entered the Chapter Grand last year, and Don Thiede.

At Cornell, Richard Denault had bests of 11.74 for 100 meters and 23.85 for 200 meters. Teammate Ethan Albrecht-Carrie competed in the 110 high hurdles and ran the 400.

Earning All-American honors at the NCAA Division III outdoor meet was Brandon Tedrow of LaVerne, who placed third with 6,603 decathlon points. At the SCIAC meet, he was second in the pole vault, third in the shot put and javelin and fourth in the high jump. Among his best marks for the season were 11.49 at 100 meters and 175-1 in the javelin. David Durianick of Clarion placed ninth in the steeplechase at the PSAC outdoor meet.

Craig Mielcarz of M.I.T. earned All-American honors with a fifth place high jump at the NCAA Division III outdoor meet.
He was also second (6-9)
at the New England
Division III meet.

Teammate Zach Traina placed fifth in the 100 meter run at the New England meet and set a school indoor 200 meter record. M.I.T.'s Rick Rajter did well at the N.E. Division III outdoor meet, placing fourth in the 110 high hurdles and seventh in the high jump.

Two Southwestern College athletes were NAIA All-Americans. Brant Littrell placed sixth in the 3000 steeplechase at the NAIA meet. He was Most Valuable Athlete at the KCAC outdoor meet, placing in five events, including wins in the 1,500 meter run, 3000 steeplechase and distance medley relay. Warren Bergquist earned All-American status with a sixth place NAIA marathon finish. He won the KCAC 10,000 meter run and was third in the 3000 steeplechase. Vince DeGrado was on the winning KCAC outdoor distance medley relay, placed third in the 1500 and finished sixth at 800 meters. Brett Prothro placed sixth at 10,000 meters for Southwestern at the KCAC outdoor meet.

Vaughn Blackburn of Hanover won the HCAC hammer event and placed fifth in the shot.

Teammate Mitchell Schott was fourth in the HCAC high jump and fifth in the 110 high hurdles. Three Centre teammates competed at the SCAC outdoor meet. Joe Guthrie placed second in both the 110 high hurdles and second in the 400 hurdles. Carter Conley placed third in the javelin and Patrick Newman was ninth in the discus. Jared Smit of Wabash placed second (15:11.86) at 5000 meters and fourth at 10,000 meters during the NCAC outdoor meet.

Golf Brooks Kelly of Texas Tech had a top round of 70 and tied for 66th at the NCAA Division I meet. He tied for eighth at the NCAA West Regional and averaged 76.0 in the spring. Andrew Medley of (continued on page 29)

In this day and age, fraternities do not always seem to have the greatest of reputations. It seems like every other week there is a breaking news story about college binge drinking or a date rape incident, and more often than not the blame falls almost solely on the Greek system. Whether this criticism is deserved or not, there is no doubt that the tainted reputation damages the entire institution of Greek life. As a result, many colleges across the country have decided to take matters into their own hands, implementing zero tolerance policies and cracking down on fraternity parties. But there is one area of negativity that these problem weary administration staffs are not able to patrol. This quandary prevails in the private sector, and is not often discussed outside of the walls of the fraternity... but it exists nonetheless. In case you have not figured it out by now, I am speaking of hazing.

The act of hazing is a long-lasting tradition that prevails in every major fraternity system nationwide. Even a Fraternity as proud and dedicated as Phi Delta Theta has had to deal with incidents of hazing in the past. But it doesn't have to be that way. That is why I am writing this article. I want to share with you the story of my fraternity, Indiana Zeta, and how we have eliminated the practice of hazing and are reaping the benefits almost instantaneously. It is a positive story—a story of success—and it deals with a subject that is on the minds of many but on the tongues of few.

It all started at the beginning of the 2001-2002 school year in a weekly chapter meeting. Tyler Green, a senior at the time and one of our recruitment chairmen, had been hard at work thinking of new ways to recruit a large pledge class. That is when he presented the idea. Every year during the course of pledgeship we lose one or two Phikeia for undisclosed reasons. In the '00-'01 school year, this trend struck particularly hard as 12 men pledged, and only 9 were initiated. Motivated by sinking numbers and lackluster attitudes toward rush, Tyler proposed a change—to eliminate any form of activity that would be considered even borderline hazing.

Don't get me wrong; in years past our chapter has never really been known to haze, but at the same time we have performed activities during pledgeship that were not constructive and that ultimately swayed several people away from the fraternity. So the idea formed, if we choose not to participate in any form of hazing, then ultimately we will lose fewer men and our overall numbers will increase. This may sound like a somewhat selfish reason to end hazing, and maybe it was, but it turned out to be so much more.

In the weeks and months to come we worked diligently to construct an overall plan to eliminate all hazing activities. We formed a committee of six men that discussed our practices in years past and how we could reconstruct the process, but still uphold the attitudes we hoped to instill in our Phikeia. After a lot of thought and debate we arrived at an acceptable solution, and now it was just a matter of presenting our ideas to the men we were recruiting.

At DePauw University, we have a delayed Rush, which does not start until the first week of 2nd semester. Our Rush is very formal with three rounds. First round every person who is rushing visits all 11 fraternities on campus. Second round each rusher cuts his choice of houses down to five and visits each of these fraternities a second time. In the third round, each man rushing visits only his two favorite houses and afterwards makes his final decision based on everything he has learned. From the fraternity's standpoint, second round is the most pivotal and important occasion during rush, and this is the time that we at Indiana Zeta decided to unveil our anti-hazing campaign.

Most fraternities on our campus claim that they do not haze during their Rush speeches, but they only mention their stance briefly, and quickly move on to other matters. It is up to those rushing to blindly decide whether or not these houses are telling the truth or just leading them on. Rush at Phi Delt however was different. Our entire second round was centered on our policy of not hazing, because that was the message that we wanted to send to our prospective pledges. We discussed our plan with them openly and honestly, hoping that the principles that we stood for would attract the finest of the men. The results were dumbfounding and beyond our wildest expectations because, on bid night, I looked around the room and saw 32 pledged men... the largest amount of any chapter on campus, and a full 20 men more than the previous year.

After recruiting all of these men, the easy part was over, and we now had to implement all of the policies that we had promised we would. I am not going to say it was absolutely selfworking. It took some time and sacrifice, especially by the active members of our house. It was very tough to find the right words to say when a Phikeia missed a meeting or a mandatory function, without stepping over the line. But through diligence and a commitment to the promise we made, we found a way to not haze our pledges, while still ensuring that they learn what it takes to be a Phi. Out of 32 men, we did not lose a single one because of our pledgeship, and we could not be happier with the group that we have.

Looking back on the situation now, I cannot name a single valid reason why a chapter would haze their pledges. I know what some people might say though. Some would claim that through hazing you teach men how to show respect... both towards the house and the active brothers. By the same token, I have heard stories of pledges scrubbing the floor with a toothbrush in their underwear, and then when they are finished, having an active trash the floor just so the pledges can clean it again. Maybe I'm not catching something, but how can this possibly amplify their respect for any building? And furthermore, how can getting a wake up call at 3 in the morning so that you can walk over to an active's room to fluff his pillow possibly teach someone reverence toward his fellow brother? If you want to teach a Phikeia respect, you must first respect both him and your fellow brothers. There is no way around it.

There are other misconceptions that surround the acceptance of hazing at many college fraternities across the country. One such fallacy is that by hazing, a fraternity is able to "weed out" the wimps who do not stick out pledgeship for the duration. In reality, the opposite occurs. Those people that leave the house because of hazing are the very ones strong enough to take a stand for what they believe in, and not be demeaned by the actions of a few elders. They are not wimps, because in fact it is easier to be hazed then to take a stand against it.

Another reason that actives haze their pledges is because, quite simply, they were hazed during their pledgeship, and if they had to go through it, then everyone has to go through it. This line of thinking is one of the toughest obstacles to overcome when implementing a non-hazing policy. There will always be people adamantly opposed to non-hazing activities, and often times even if these people are a minority, they can greatly influence the final decision of the house. However, the will of a few should not change the desires of many. As Phi Delts, we are traditionally not frightened by change, and we should embrace any opportunity that will enhance our college lives.

Speaking of the principles of Phi Delta Theta, hazing stands in stark contrast to the three cardinal principles this Fraternity was founded upon. Tell me, how can forcing pledges to sleep just a few hours a night, while all but forcing alcohol down their throats, possibly enhance sound learning? Or how can forcing men to perform rude acts of conduct that are against their principles amplify a group's moral rectitude? Finally, many fraternities claim that only through hazing does a pledge class grow close together and reach the highest level of brotherhood. What they do not realize is that the pledge class only bonds in their loathing of the actives that are putting them through this living Hell. There is no brotherhood there, the hazing only breeds separation between the classes. In order to reach new levels of brotherhood, a group must show mutual respect and unite in a Bond of principles that they can all abide by.

I'm sorry if it seems that I am preaching, but this is a subject I feel very passionate about. Hazing does not have to coincide with fraternity life, and I will argue this point until the day I die. I feel that my point is clear and above all else, I hope that the story I have shared has articulated two messages loud and clear. First of all, I want people to realize that fraternities are not evil... and that young men across the nation are working diligently to ensure a high standard of brotherhood and mental cultivation. Secondly, I pray that all college men, especially those united in The Bond, will realize that hazing does not have to be a part of college life. Not only can a chapter live without it, they can thrive without it. It does not have to be the way it has always been. Change and progress are ways of life, and all it takes to set things in motion is a single man speaking his mind during a weekly chapter meeting. Go make a difference.

Highlights of our 2001-2002 academic year include raising over $5,000 for Arkansas Children's Hospital at our annual Casino party, hosting a free Homecoming campus-wide cookout sponsored by alumnus Jennings Osborne, Trent Goins serving as student body president, Michael Reynolds serving as president of Order of Omega, Tim Garlow being honored as Outstanding Greek Sophomore, and receiving recognition from Order of Omega for achievement in community service, alumni relations, campus involvement, risk management, and Phikeia education.

The last several years we have been going through a rebuilding process which has been a lot easier through the help and support of our alumni. This past year has been particularly rewarding with three brothers being initiated into the Order of Omega and participation for the first time in the IFC intramural sports. Although we were not the best team out there, we had more fun. In the sorority philanthropic events we punished the largest fraternity on campus in a basketball game, blew away the competition in the synchronized swimming and mesmerized the crowd with our rendition of "South Pacific" in the Greek Songfest. For the first time since our reestablishment we even have an officer on the Greek Presidents Council.

Charley Pride, Kentucky Eta '87 and at the time General Council Treasurer, gave the State of the Fraternity address; Susan Constantine, from the ALS Foundation in Atlanta, gave a brief explanation of ALS as a sickness and received over $800 that the brothers had raised during the previous week; and following the Founders Day ceremony, former province president Sparky Reardon, Mississippi Alpha 72, presented the keynote address about the changes that have occurred recently in the Fraternity particularly the Alcohol Free Policy - and the role of the undergraduate in the twentyfirst century. The event was -Ramon Trujillo the culmination of Georgia Gamma's turnaround in the last few years with the help of a chapter advisory board,

With the help of our headquarters staff, we are off to a tremendous fall start. Even with the many hurdles and setbacks that our chapter has faced over the last year, the future of Iowa Beta looks promising once again. Although we did not participate in the formal fall rush, we managed to recruit a remarkable eleven-man Phikeia class. We have made many philanthropic contributions including a $1,000 donation to the ALS Foundation. And we have witnessed elevated levels in academics, athletics,

We have a new house! It is a 17,000 square foot building that formerly belonged to Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, a block from the recreation complex and the intramural fields. We think the new house will be an excellent selling point for recruiting. It is in great shape, with plenty of room, in a good location. We have been renting since 1998 when we sold our house to Delta Chi. We want to thank our House Corporation, alumni and Foundation Board for their efforts to make this happen. -Mike Arlesic Organizations we helped out during the 2001-2002 school year were the SPCA, the Northern Nevada Food Bank, and Ronald McDonald House. We also initiated nine Phis who have the potential to take our chapter to the next level.

Our chapter has worked hard to rebuild and successfully emerge as the top fraternity on campus, but much of our accomplishments would have not been possible without the strong leadership and groundwork laid by two distinguished Brothers who graduated in the spring. Jacob Gantz held a number of chapter officer positions, and he also made an outstanding contribution to Rutgers as the executive director of the Dance Marathon. They raised over $137,000 with 300 dancers, 800 volunteers and 2,500 visitors.

Christopher Rochford also has held numerous positions within the chapter including president and was additionally the IFC President. During his term Rutgers was recognized as having the top council in the Northeast at the NGLA Conference. Our chapter was also awarded the "Most Improved IFC Chapter."

Both Gantz and Rochford were initiated into the Cap & Skull Society – a very prestigious Rutgers honor, and both were awarded the "Greek Man of the Year" honor. We can only hope that the new officers and younger Brothers can live up to these examples of high standards and strong work ethic. —Andrew Wynne

Carol R. Burton, Southwestern '50

Former province president, chapter adviser to Texas Mu, and member of the San Marcos Alumni Club, Carol R. Burton joined the Chapter Grand on February 23, 2002. He was instrumental in installing and re-installing Texas Mu at Southwest Texas State and will be greatly missed.

As the son of a Methodist minister, Carol Burton believed the church is only as good as its people, and he served on many church committees at the First United Methodist Church in San Marcos. He also served on the Austin District Board of Missions and was board president of the Golden Age Home, a Methodist nursing and residential care facility in Lockhart, Texas.

Burton was active in the community on the boards of the City's Charter Review, Red Cross, Twin Valley District Boy Scouts and the River Arts Festival for the Heritage Society. He was founder of Benchmark Insurance Group, Inc., which his son continues as the family business.

Robert M. Wren, Ohio University '43

Bob Wren, initiated on June 6, 1941 at Ohio Gamma, passed away on June 11, 2002 after a long illness.

Wren retired as Ohio University's head baseball coach in 1972 after an historic tenure that elevated the stature of the program to a national level. He was named head coach at his alma mater in 1949 following six years of professional baseball in the St. Louis Browns organization. Wren stands as the Bobcats' all-time winningest coach with a 464-160-4 record. He coached for 24 years, winning 11 Mid-American Conference titles and never turning in a losing season. In all, 56 of his players signed professional contracts and 11 went on to play in the major leagues, including Hall of Fame third baseman Mike Schmidt.

In 1997, Bob Wren Stadium was dedicated as the new home of the Bobcats, while on September 22 of last year, a statue of Wren was erected on the grounds by his former players. In 1967 he was inducted into the school's Athletics Hall of Fame for his successes as a student-athlete. He also served for many years as a member of the Phi Delta Theta Gehrig Award Committee.

Guilford Dudley Jr., Vanderbilt University '29

Guilford Dudley Jr., former U.S. ambassador to Denmark and retired chairman of Life and Casualty Insurance who built Nashville's beloved L&C Tower, entered the Chapter Grand on June 13, 2002.

A prominent socialite and an influential figure in Tennessee Republican circles, Dudley was ambassador to Denmark from 1969-71 during the Richard Nixon presidency. He also served as president of WTVF-Channel 5 television and was a Navy officer in World War II.

The son of one of L&C's founders, Dudley started as an insurance agent for the company in 1931. He served as its president from 1952-69. Under his leadership, L&C grew into a multibillion-dollar company and sold insurance across the country. Life and Casualty is now a part of American

General, a unit of AIG, but the 30-story skyscraper that Dudley convinced his company to build is still called "the L&C Tower" by many Nashvillians.

Guilford Dudley's community services were as well known as his business acumen. He was one of the first Nashville businessmen to speak out in favor of fair employment ordinances. He held an honorary doctor of laws degree from Cumberland University and an honorary degree from Tusculum University. He was a trustee of Vanderbilt University and the Ensworth. School.

Harry M. Gerlach, Miami University '30

On February 19, 2002, over 100 people filled the small chapel at the Westminster Manor Retirement Home in Austin, Texas to bid a final farewell to friend and brother in the Bond, Harry M. Gerlach. Members of the Austin and San Marcos Alumni Clubs, the Texas Beta and Texas Mu chapter advisers, Fraternity officials and undergraduate brothers from Texas Beta were all in attendance to honor a man who devoted his life to the service and betterment of society.

Following graduation Harry Gerlach served as a field representative for the Fraternity and later was a survey commissioner, an Educational Foundation Trustee, province president, and Legion of Merit recipient. In 1947 he was named as Miami University's first full-time Director of Admissions. He left Miami in 1965 to become an associate of the College Entrance Examination Board, with a regional office in Evanston, Ill. He then moved to Austin, Texas. His last trip back to Oxford was in the fall of 1999, at age 91, when he viewed the addition to the International Headquarters and the Ohio Alpha chapter house expansion. Harry Gerlach never lost his love of Oxford, Miami University, and Phi Delta Theta.

Harry W. Massey, Florida State '55

The question was asked by Michael Van Sickler, a Palm Beach Post writer, "How do you follow up playing quarterback at Florida State University in the 1950s alongside Burt Reynolds and marrying the cheerleader? For Harry Massey, you move to South Florida where you start a one-man insurance firm in West Palm Beach, grow it over 40 years into a firm responsible for several thousand clients, and become a powerful insurance industry lobbyist."

The West Palm Beach community and Phi Delta Theta were saddened to learn of Harry Massey's death on March 17, 2002, after an extended illness. He was the 1975 recipient of the Gardner Award and president of the Palm Beach Alumni Club during its early stages in the '60s, and he also served in many volunteer leadership roles in the community and state, such as the American Heart Association, Salvation Army, Florida Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, American Cancer Society and United Way. He was also president of the national board of the Florida State University Alumni Association.

Massey is survived by his wife, two Phi Delt sons Hank W. and John Michael, daughter Leslie and 5 grandchildren.

A Fraternity for Life

Over the past several years our chapter has struggled: our numbers had dwindled and we had fallen under the shadow of the other Greek organizations. Near the end of last year we received a letter from the General Headquarters stating that unless we improved our numbers, our chapter would be in jeopardy. Over the summer, when our alumni were informed of the situation, they pulled together and met with us at the beginning of the school year. Doing so proved to be the biggest show of alumni support that this chapter has seen in recent years. With their help we had nine men successfully complete the Phikeia program. This was the biggest Phikeia class to come through our chapter since the fall of 1989.

In addition to the help given to us by so many alumni, we had one very unique person in attendance, namely Ashton Ray. Ray was a part of the fall class of 1989. He successfully completed the Phikeia program but was called up to fight in the Gulf War before he had a chance to be initiated. However, he still supported this chapter as often as he could and showed just as much enthusiasm and emotion towards us as his fellow alumni who had been initiated. After applying to the General Council for his initiation, we were all truly excited when we received the official word that the General Council had approved Ray's initiation for this December.

With great enthusiasm, we enter our second term of recruitment. The events of this fall have filled us with hope and determination to get the numbers we need to thrive and grow as a chapter. We are confident that our good fortune will continue through the rest of the school year. And we hope that all Phis who read this will see that through our experience, Phi Delta Theta is truly a Fraternity for Life!

Chapter kudos!

I just wanted to let you know how much I liked the latest issue. It has been some time since we showcased individual chapters for their accomplishments. Every section was filled with success and > inspiration for our chapters.

The Gold Star chapter reports were wonderful. They may spur other chapters to think outside the box with new ideas that they learned from the article. Also, the hazing story from DePauw was great - a success story from a very historic chapter.

physical abuse as well as some debasing activity.

I congratulate Brother Trogden and hope that his essay will be instrumental in making any kind of abuse and hazing a thing of the past. Overall I think that the time has come for all of us to finally recognize what hazing is and that we should no longer tolerate it in Phi Delta Theta and other Greek organizations.

Our 'Fighting Phis'

I am commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army and have run into many Brothers over the past few months. I have seen how each brother is an awesome asset to his military unit and has built strong bonds in the respective groups of soldiers. I just recently arrived at Fort Stewart, Georgia for my first assignment and am witnessing how the same lessons learned in Phi Delta Theta can be applied to any group to reap outstanding benefits. It is great to know that the present and future leaders of our combined arms are leaders in their respective schools and can understand the mentality of college-age soldiers.

> -Wesley Bradshaw Cameron '02

A stand against hazing

I would like to comment on the splendid article on hazing by Brother David Trogden of DePauw. His essay is directly on target and again, like alcohol-free housing, is very much overdue. The article brought back many unpleasant memories of my pledge year and even later on as an active member. To this day I cringe in shame because of the one or two times I used the paddle on a defenseless young man. Our house then (1938-42) did not have the really serious abuse that became common in recent years, but still

Attention Phis in the armed forces

I am a Major in the U.S. Army and am currently deployed in Afghanistan with the 82nd Airborne Division; I am serving as the Task Force Executive Officer for Task Force Pegasus. I am a UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter pilot by trade and also a paratrooper. There are two other Army Aviators, also UH-60 pilots and paratroopers here, that are also Phi Delts: LTC Paul W. Bricker, Michigan State '84, and Maj. Woodard B. Hopkins, Westminster '91. We are planning on taking a picture of us here with one of our aircraft to send it to The Scroll. If there are other Brothers here, we would love to get a group photo. I can be contacted at joseph.martini@us.army.mil. Thank you for the support everyone back home has for the soldiers here.

Leadership College postponed

A the November General Council meeting, Council members had to make a difficult decision but one they felt was in the best interest of the Fraternity. To balance the Fraternity's budget for the 2002-2004 biennium, the General Council has cancelled the 2003 Leadership College which has been held annually in Oxford since 1991. Additional information and answers to common questions are currently available on the Fraternity's Web site in the Phi News section of www.phideltatheta.org.

Do you want your Scroll?

The General Council has asked that all subscribers confirm their interest in receiving The Scroll with the General Fraternity by December 31, 2003. All members of Phi Delta Theta receive a lifetime subscription to the magazine but the Fraternity does not want to send magazines to incorrect addresses or to members that are no longer interested in the magazine. Details on your subscription status and confirmation procedures are printed on the back cover of this issue. If your subscription is not confirmed, please notify the General Fraternity as soon as possible. After December 31, unconfirmed subscriptions may be removed from The Scroll's mailing list. Any subscriber removed from the mailing list, however, may renew their subscription at any time without penalty. If you have questions, please let us know (scroll@phideltatheta.org).

Phi Delta Theta no longer part of NIC

At the annual conference meeting of the North American Interfraternity Conference (NIC), Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Sigma announced both organizations would not renew their memberships in the association.

Phi Delta Theta, a founding member of the NIC, has been among several fraternities in the past few years who have voiced concerns over the focus, direction and programs supported by the NIC. Faced by the unwillingness of the NIC to return to what Phi Delta Theta believes is the NIC's mission and purpose and with its new dues structure, Phi Delta Theta felt it could not justify paying $14,000 each year to have a voice but receive little response. More details are on our Web site.

Expansion review

Director of Expansion Jacob Heuser, Southwest Missouri '00, is affectionately referring to 2002 as Phi Delta Theta's "best year ever."

During the year, the Fraternity installed four new or re-organized chapters at Kansas State University, Salina; the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; Allegheny College; and Central Connecticut State University. The Expansion team also inducted three new colonies at the University of Michigan, the University of the South, and St. Norbert College.

As always, if you are interested in learning more about Phi Delta Theta's expansion efforts or have any questions, please feel free to contact your regional Survey Commissioner or Brother Heuser (jacob@phideltatheta.org, 513-523-6345).

Denison: This past May, Tom Eakin,
'56, was presented the prestigious Ellis Island Medal of Honor sponsored by the National Ethnic Coalition of Organizations Foundation, Inc. The medal is presented annually to distinguished Americans who have made exceptional humanitarian and outstanding contributions to our country. The presentation was made at a gala ceremony at Ellis Island.

Florida: Sean Hanlon, '96, has completed a 2,197 mile hike of the Appalachian Trail. Starting in Atlanta on March 3, "Mr. Wizard", as Hanlon is called, traveled approximately 14 miles each day. After hiking through 14 states along parts of the trail as narrow as 2 feet with several hundred-foot drop-offs on either side, Hanlon climbed Mt. Katahdin in Maine on August 16 to complete his journey.

Illinois: Richard Dorr, '65, was recently appointed as a Federal Judge in Springfield, Mo.

Vice chancellor for health affairs at the Vanderbilt Medical Center Dr. Harry R. Jacobson, '69, has been elected into the prestigious Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences. He joins an elite group of 1,472 individuals who have been elected on the basis of professional achievement and of demonstrated interest, concern and involvement with problems and critical issues that affect the health of the public.

Indiana: Anton Sohn, '58, is chairman of pathology at the University of Nevada School of Medicine, and has organized the Great Basin History of Medicine Program at the university to research and preserve the history of health sciences in Nevada. Sohn is active in the local alumni club and has also been helpful with the Nevada Alpha initiation.

Kentucky: Charles Nuckols, '44, veteran thoroughbred breeder, celebrated his first Kentucky Derby win this year. On the 1,150 acre farm that has been in his family for 110 years, Nuckols and family members have bred more than 300 winners of prestigious stakes races but never a Kentucky Derby winner until this year with War Emblem.

Mercer: William A. Bootle, '24, recently celebrated his 100th birthday. Bootle has greatly contributed to the good name of the Fraternity through constructive activities in his community and as judge and citizen. His support of educational efforts has brought honor to his chapter, his alumni association, his university and his Fraternity. When recently asked if his order, as a Federal judge, to desegregate the University of Georgia was a hard one, he responded, "It wasn't hard at all. Once you decide what's right, the making of it is easy. Right is right."

New Mexico: Chad Beall, '00, composerpianist, has put together his first album named "Dedications." Beall's ability to mingle strong inner emotions and a sense of release appeals to listeners of all ages and is the strength of his album.

Joe Edward, New Mexico '91, and Steve Youlios, Northwestern '76 are both running sports sponsorships and promotions for the Dodgers Radio Network.

Whitman: Recently published is The Last Electric Trolley by Junius Rochester, '55, which tells the history of the Seattle, Washington neighborhoods of Madrona and Denny-Blaine. Being part of the original Seattle incorporated in 1869, these neighborhoods have deep roots in the City's history.

Widener: David Almacy, '92, has just accepted a Schedule C political appointment in the Bush Administration doing communications work for the White House Initiative on Excellence in Education for Hispanic Americans. The Initiative is aimed at helping Hispanic students close the educational achievement gap by encouraging them to attend and graduate from college.

Willamette: Author of a dozen books, Gerald G. Johnson, '58, has just edited A Family Portrait in Letters, 1847-1928, a compilation of dozens of letters of his family who migrated to Oregon in 1847 to and from relatives in Pike County, Illinois and St. Lawrence County, New York. Dr. Johnson is a highly sought speaker at university and historical societies in Europe and America on the topics of the Puritans, their worldview, and their legacies in today's society.

The club's annual Salado trip began as a 20-man event in 1980 and grew to more than 100 in attendance this past June. The trip was started by the founding members of Texas Kappa and celebrates the spirit of brotherhood that continues to grow with father and son Phis who attend. This year, the trip began with a golf game on Friday and concluded with a dinner on Saturday evening. Like every other year, the trip took place at the famous Stage Coach Inn in Salado, Texas. It is a wonderful opportunity for Brothers to gather with families to continue the same friendships that brought them together and to make new friendships.

Club members, along with the Colorado Gamma chapter, held their inaugural golf tournament benefiting the Rob Upton Memorial Scholarship on September 14. (Rob, '92, died in a climbing expedition outside Fort Collins in July of 1992.) Twenty-six brothers and members of Rob's family came for the event at Mariana Butte Country Club in Loveland. While a few stray balls were hit, all participants had a great time, and, $1,000 was raised for the Scholarship Fund. Later in the day, alumni and chapter members gathered for a tailgate before the CSU/Louisville football game. The following day, several brothers installed a new stone bench in Rob Upton's memory. It is located on the Colorado State University campus near the Vietnam Memorial Bridge. The club is looking forward to gathering together again for Founders Day on February 22 for a dinner/dance at the Fort Collins Marriott.

Donald E. Demkee, Akron '60

Dr. Donald E. Demkee, D.D.S., was recognized by the American Dental Association when he volunteered his services and expertise with the Indian Heath Services (IHS) in Taos, New Mexico. During his time with the IHS, Dr. Demkee was able to view first hand the treatment needs and barrirers to care that IHS dentists and patients confront on a daily basis.

Demkee told the ADA his experience was "an eyeopener" and how important he felt it was to volunteer. "Volunteerism should be in the hearts of all professionals, as well as all citizens who have the means to give back. There are many needy people right here in our own country. You do not need to cross oceans to reach out a helping hand."

Brother Demkee established the Oral-Facial Surgery Center in Wooster, Ohio, and serves on the Board of Trustees for The University of Akron and the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation. (For IHS info visit www.dentist.ihs.gov.)

Scroll: What are your goals for Phi Delta Theta during this biennium?

Pride: My goals as I outlined in my president's address at Toronto are (1) to continue the development and implementation of the Accolade Member Development Program, (2) to improve communications within the fraternity by using the tools that we have available to us as a Fraternity, and (3) make this "The Biennium of the Volunteer."

What will be your/our biggest challenges?

As with many organizations during these economic times, financial stability will be the challenge. This Council is dedicated to having a balanced budget and providing as many services as possible to our constituencies. Continuing challenges include dealing with hazing, alcohol-free housing and minimum standard issues.

What sparked your interest in serving on the General Council?

I have truly enjoyed my Phi Delta Theta experience and when I ran for the Council I thought that I had something to offer the group. I work in higher education which allows me day to day contact with students. I believe that this adds a valuable component to the makeup of the General Council.

You were recently promoted; what do you do now?

I am currently the Director of Student Activities at Western Kentucky University. My job responsibilities include working with fraternities, sororities, student organizations, student government, student programming board, homecoming and parents' weekend.

Does your profession put you in a unique position as leader of the Fraternity?

My experience in my profession allows me to deal with students on a daily basis. I feel that it gives me good insight and ability to tackle issues relating to our undergraduate members and their needs as fraternity members. It also allows me to see some of the problems that are faced by fraternities are campus-wide issues.

What do you think are the best ways Phi Delta Theta can attract today's college student?

Valued-added is the term that comes to mind. We need to offer young men more than just a place to sleep and eat. We need to offer ways for them to better themselves as individuals and hone their personal skills for the job market.

Member education, what do you mean?

Dovetailing with the last question, member education is a service that we can provide to help our members develop their skills for life. It can provide needed challenges and education to develop wellrounded individuals.

What would you like our undergraduate members to know about you, the Council or the Fraternity?

The Council works for the best interest of the Fraternity to ensure financial stability as well as providing as many opportunities for our undergraduates and alumni to gain from their association with Phi Delta Theta.

What would you like our alumni to know?

I would hope that we could get alumni involved with our alumni chapters and local undergraduate chapters. Phi Delta Theta is a fraternity for life. I hope that all alumni take advantage of the Bonds of Phi Delta Theta after leaving the chapter.

Tell us a little about your wife, Julie, and your family.

Julie was with the Hospice of Southern Kentucky as the Education Specialist. She serves as the Province Director for Kentucky and Tennessee for Delta Zeta. She also is the organist at our church in Bowling Green. Emily is 7 and in the first grade. She enjoys traveling and visiting Phi Delt house. Will is 4 and likes the Phi Delt house at Western Kentucky University.

How does your family feel about your involvement and presidential commitment?

I am very fortunate that my wife is very supportive of my duties with the Fraternity. They have learned that Phi Delta Theta is a big part of our lives, not just mine.

What are some of your hobbies and interests?

I enjoy traveling, visiting college campuses, sporting events and reading. I currently have visited over 380 colleges and universities in the US and Canada.

What do you remember most about your college days?

What I remember most about college is the friends that I made during those years. It was such a good time to enjoy being young. I have great memories of the Phi Delta Theta house and just hanging out with the many people that we had there. I also remember going to many sporting events.

What about your Fraternity experience as an alumnus?

My experience as an alumnus included being on the Kentucky Eta house corporation since 1992 and the treasurer in 2000. I also served as Province President for Eta North from 1992 to 1996.

Who is the football coach at Western Kentucky University?

Jack Harbaugh, who is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

How do you think the Fraternity is fairing with alcohol-free housing?

Alcohol-free has been a success for Phi Delta Theta. It has not been without its challenges. The next set of challenges is educating the incoming members about alcohol-free housing. We (our chapters) have the tendency to want to be just like other chapters on their campus whether we want to admit it or not.

How is Phi Delta Theta positioned financially?

Phi Delta Theta is sound financially but due to the economic times that we live in we have to now make decisions on what are the most important programs and services that we provide. Interest income from the Fraternity's and Foundation's investments are both down. This is the period in the Fraternity's history that will show how strong our organization is because the good organizations survive and grow during tough economic times.

What do you see as the Fraternity's distant challenges?

Distant challenges include long range housing concerns, continued pressure to prove that we are a viable entity in higher education, and adding value for belonging to Phi Delta Theta.

What is your leadership style?

I would say that my leadership style is do what it takes to get the job done whether it is consensus building or making the final decision. I favor getting input from a variety of sources and making decisions.

Do you think undergraduate members feel like they have a say in the governance of Phi Delta Theta?

I feel that sometimes the undergraduates feel that they are left out because there is not a specific undergraduate delegate on the council. I feel that the undergraduates have more of an affect on the fraternity than they believe. I know that Council members, Province Presidents, and staff hear the concerns of undergraduate members.

What do you think will be the key to our success as a Fraternity?

Live by the teachings of The Bond and our three founding principles of friendship, sound learning and rectitude.

General Council Members take a break from their November 2002 meeting for a picture at the Ole Miss Walk of Champions. The Coucil was also able to participate in Mississippi Alpha's 125th anniversary celebration held the same weekend.

THE ACCOLADE

oday's college fraternity member is faced with many challenges. Balancing academic endeavors with life as a fraternity man can be challenging. Then, adding a part-time or sometimes even a full-time job into the equation can make it even more challenging. The expectations placed upon a fraternity man continue to increase, but one thing remains constant—the desire to exemplify the three cardinal principles.

The Fraternity recognizes the needs of today's college man and desires to provide him a well-rounded fraternal experience that allows him to be a successful student and impacting leader on campus. To meet this need, the Fraternity has developed a member development program—The Accolade.

The Accolade is a personal development program designed for all undergraduate members. It creates a roadmap that guides our undergraduate members through their membership from the moment they participate in the Phikeia Ceremony to the moment they experience their alumni induction ceremony and beyond.

The program contains all the essential elements for being a successful college student and Phi Delt man. It focuses on personal development topics such as time management, goal-setting, conflict resolution, and finances. It also involves chapter-based topics and activities including The Bond, ritual, and the three cardinal principles. Essentially, The Accolade program actively engages each member in developing life skills that will greatly enhance his collegiate and Fraternity experience: thus, directly impacting his personal goals and aspirations.

Currently, five chapters are piloting this program: Kansas Delta (Wichita State University), Nebraska Gamma (Creighton University), New Mexico Alpha (University of New Mexico), Mississippi Beta (Mississippi State University), and Texas Beta (University of Texas-Austin). These five chapters are actively implementing the program into their operations and assisting in various evaluation processes.

In the fall of 2003, the Fraternity will be making this program available to all interested chapters. For more details, contact Director of Education Matt Brillhart at matt@phideltatheta.org.

The Accolade is a member development program that focuses on the individual member, yet also involves chapter-based activities. The Accolade engages the undergraduate member in personal development activities including goal-setting, time management, character development, and career development, as well as chapter-based activities such as retreats, educational programs, or activities involving The Bond and the three cardinal principles to enhance his collegiate and Fraternity experience.

So what is The Accolade?

The Accolade is a member development program that focuses on the individual member, yet involves chapter activities. The Accolade engages the undergraduate member in personal development activities (goal-setting, time management, character development, career development) as well as chapter-based activities (retreats, educational programs, exercises involving The Bond and three cardinal principles) to enhance his collegiate and Fraternity experience. The program is developed utilizing concepts and practices derived from student development, leadership development, and employee development theories.

Member development program?

A member development program is an educational development program that guides and assists the undergraduate member in achieving his goals and aspirations as well as developing him into a Phi Delt man. It focuses on developing positive lifelong habits (life skills) and promotes the "Fraternity for Life" concept by instilling an "I am a Phi" attitude throughout the entire membership.

What all is involved with The Accolade program? What does the program entail?

The three main components of The Accolade program are: The Accolade Activity Guide (containing expectations, goal sheets, and educational materials); Accolade Notes (semi-monthly electronic newsletter); and Cluster Meetings (small group meetings during chapter meetings to foster peer-to-peer learning). All three components actively keep each participant engaged with the program.

What are the topics covered in the Accolade?

The Accolade program is a multi-faceted program covering an extensive number of topics regarding personal development, career development, and Fraternity membership. Time management, finances, goal-setting, conflict resolution, integrity, ethics, and character are the main topics covering personal development. Topics regarding the Fraternity predominantly involve The Bond of Phi Delta Theta and the ritual of the Fraternity. However, Accolade Notes (the semi-monthly electronic newsletter) will cover a variety of topics dealing with personal development. Career development topics will focus primarily on career interests, resumes, networking, and interviewing skills.

Why is the Fraternity implementing this program?

The Fraternity recognizes that the undergraduate members' education does not end (and should not end) after their Phikeia period. Members develop and mature throughout their collegiate and Fraternity experience. Therefore, the Phikeia period is just the beginning of their educational and developmental voyage. An eighteen-year-old young man is much different in a variety of ways than a twenty-two-year-old man preparing to enter the workforce. The Accolade program takes into account this developmental process that an undergraduate matures through by dividing the activities into stages. The Fraternity wants to assist the member in becoming the best Phi Delt man he can be and The Accolade helps create a roadmap for a successful collegiate and Fraternity experience.

Doesn't the Fraternity have bigger issues to tackle?

The modern day Fraternity does face larger issues than fraternities did 75 years ago-even 30 years ago. However, the three founding principles have remained unchanged since 1848. In fact, friendship, sound learning, and rectitude are still quite modern. These principles are the foundation of the Fraternity and should remain the focus of the Fraternity. The Accolade fosters this attitude and environment. Also, by addressing the needs of the current undergraduates, many challenges facing the Fraternity will be overcome or diminished. Essentially, The Accolade gets to the core issues facing all fraternities by developing stronger members, which in turn creates stronger chapters.

Why would a chapter want to use this program?

College students want to be successful in their academic pursuits and secure a good job upon graduation. They need the skills and experiences to help them "stand out above the crowd." They also want a positive and memorable Fraternity experience. The Accolade member development program engages chapter members in activities and experiences that will help to develop them into stronger, well-rounded students and Fraternity members. Additionally, the program assists the members in recognizing that their Fraternity experience can be directly related to almost every real-life experience they will encounter. Members utilizing the activities within the program will have an edge over other students who are not exposed to this program. It puts the activities into a systematic, developmental

How much time is involved for each member?

The amount of time will depend on the individual. The answer really relies on the question: How much is someone willing to invest in his own personal success? All of the activities within The Accolade are activities any chapter member should be involved in to maximize his college experience. It is the type of program where the more a member puts into it, the greater the benefit he will see from it. Some of the activities (expectations) within the program may be things the member is already doing. The Accolade simply uses that activity with purposeful intent as an educational and developmental experience. On the average, a member may invest approximately 1-2 hours a week into The Accolade program.

How do you know if The Accolade is successful?

The benefits of The Accolade are both tangible and intangible. As with other organizations using similar types of member development programs, chapters will experience an increase in overall chapter GPA, an increase in recruitment numbers, develop lower accounts receivables, create a more efficientrunning chapter, and more recognitions (Gold Star, campus awards). The greatest benefits may well be the intangible benefits. Participants will have an enhanced and more positive Fraternity experience, become more well-rounded, develop a stronger connection with the principles outlined in The Bond, and create a heightened brotherhood and dedication to the Fraternity.

How will the program be evaluated?

Trackable (tangible objectives) items such as chapter GPA, recruitment numbers, attrition, Fraternity participation (PLC, Leadership College, General Convention), Fraternity awards and GHQ points will be tracked over a five-year period. Each year, members will be evaluated regarding their individual experience. Random e-mail evaluations will occur throughout the year to keep a "pulse" on the program and chapter-involvement.

Benefits of The Accolade program:

- Enhanced undergraduate experience by incorporating purposeful activities of personal development (time-management, character development, and leadership styles) that will continue past graduation.
- Ability to explore a deeper meaning of the three cardinal principles of the Fraternity.
- · Deeper appreciation for The Bond of Phi Delta Theta.
- · Exposure to a wide variety of learning opportunities and experiences.
- · Ability to create an individualized pathway of personal development.
- Improved personal achievement and personal growth through a selfpaced program that emphasizes a balanced life.
- Greater understanding of the "Fraternity for Life" concept and membership expressed as a lifelong commitment.
- · Improved academic performance and GPA.
- · Increase in chapter participation.
- · Increase in membership recruitment.
- · Increase of award-winning level chapters.
- Subscription to Accolade Notes e-newsletter.

hat sets Lyle Wagner apart is the hard work, dedication and integrity that he puts into everything he does. It's full-steam ahead for the things he believes in, whether it's family, business, community or fraternity," notes Scott A. Wagner, Iowa State '81.

He should know, Lyle Wagner, South Dakota '54, is his dad.

"I still see this enthusiasm for life and others as he and I still run a family farming operation," Scott continues.

Phi Delta Theta has set Brother Wagner apart by naming him the 2002 Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year. The "Phi of the Year" Award was originated by the Seattle Alumni Club in 1960 in memory of Raymond L. Gardner, Washington '18, past member of the General Council and long-time member of the alumni club. The award is given annually to the alumnus who best exemplifies individual commitment to his community, higher education and the Fraternity.

Upon learning of Brother Wagner's nomination for the Gardner award, then-president of The University of South Dakota James W. Abbott commented, "I believe that Mr. Wagner embodies the characteristics which this award honors. I think it would be a fitting tribute to his many contributions to Phi Delta Theta, The University of South Dakota, the city of Vermillion and the state of South Dakota for him to be awarded the Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year Award."

On a spectacular autumn afternoon, Brother Wagner stepped to the podium located directly in front of the South Dakota Alpha chapter house to accept his "Phi of the Year" Award. Seated in the front row were his wife, June Woodward Wagner, his Phi son and his two grandsons. Behind the Wagner family, well over a hundred guests gathered. Undergraduate students, alumni brothers spanning the past six decades, representatives from The University of South Dakota, local politicians, friends and family members all shared in the afternoon's proceedings. Conrad F. Thiede, Colgate '90, director of development for the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation, and C. W. "Chuck" Poore, South Dakota '61, past president of the General Council, presented the award on behalf of Phi Delta Theta. The choice of settings was perfect considering that Lyle Wagner was an instrumental part of building the renovated chapter home, as well as the student members within. The timing, too, was perfect, as the Dakota Days Homecoming celebration was in full swing in the city of Vermillion. However, nothing on or around campus compared to the celebration being hosted by the South Dakota Alpha chapter.

"I am very thankful to receive this award," Brother Wagner said, "and I am just as thankful for the opportunity I have had to serve Phi Delta Theta and South Dakota Alpha. It has been a labor of love."

A native of Vermillion, South Dakota, Brother Wagner became a Phi in March 1952. Even in those early days as a member of the undergraduate chapter, Brother Wagner expressed a deep commitment to Phi Delta Theta. Jim Rath, South Dakota '55, who was a Phikeia with Brother Wagner, remembers, "In the fall of 1952, our living room furniture and carpeting were "pre-war" and in need of replacement. Realizing that desperate need, Lyle arranged for a personal non-bank loan. Then meeting with the House Corporation, he outlined his plan for the updating of the living room. When all of us came back to school, we were surprised to find the most attractive living room on campus. And, it was during our final year in school while we were fishing for catfish that he said, "someday I would like to give the chapter $10,000." That was a lot of money in 1954! But that is just part of his personal-

Several decades later, Brother Wagner would be an integral part of a major renovation and expansion of the chapter home. Ron Jenkins, South Dakota '57, a long-time member of the Tridentia (South Dakota Alpha) House Corporation, says, "Lyle not only make a substantial personal gift, making him one of the top five donors, but he made dozens of phone calls, wrote dozens of letters, and visited in person with 40 or 50 alumni about our project. He personally raised one-fourth of the total amount we needed."

Upon graduating from South Dakota in 1954, Wagner spent two years in the Army stationed in Germany. He returned home in 1956 as a first lieutenant. A year later, he and June Woodward, his college sweetheart and member of Kappa Alpha Theta, would marry. They have one son, Scott and two grandsons.

Brother Wagner is a lifelong rancher and farmer. An accomplished agribusinessman, Wagner was recognized by the Top Farmers of America Association in 1969 with the organization's Award of Honor. Wagner has also experienced success with real estate holdings in the upper Midwest. He is an avid hunter and fishing sportsman, too.

In 1987, Brother Wagner was presented with the Distinguished Service Award from University of South Dakota School of Business. A board member of Brother Wagner has endowed a number of scholarships through the USD Foundation, including ones that benefit several sports programs, the School of Business and the South Dakota Alpha Chapter.

"During his time of leadership of the USD Foundation, major gains were made in supporting the University, including the successful completion of the first major comprehensive capital fund campaign in its history," notes Ted Muenster, president of the USD Foundation.

June Woodward and Lyle Wagner are a team in their dedication to Vermillion, The University of South Dakota and their Greek letter organizations.

During the 2000 Dakota Days celebration, the Lyle A. & June Woodward Wagner Center was dedicated. The expanded and renovated Wagner Center houses the USD Alumni Association and the USD Foundation. The Wagners are members of the Lewis Akeley Society, which honors the most generous and sustained supporters of the University of South Dakota.

A 37-year member of the Shriners (Abu Becker) and 27-year member of the Lions Club, he has served both organizations as president. Brother Wagner has also held the major leadership roles for the Sioux Valley Hospital, the Clay Union Health Foundation and the Trinity Lutheran Church.

This year Brother Wagner was also inducted into the Golden Legion of the Fraternity, celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his membership.

His son, Scott, pulls it all together, "I noticed as a youngster, that other people gravitated to him and it wasn't until I grew up that I realized the attraction to be leadership, common sense, honesty and caring about other people."

Conrad Foster Thiede, Colgate '90, is the director of development for the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation. He was recently named chairman of National Philanthropy Day 2003 in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Dakota Days A Spotlight on Phi Delta Theta

Jim and Ruth Weaver Honored

The University of South Dakota Inman Award that recognizes the spirit of generosity and volunteer leadership was presented to Jim and Ruth Weaver. Jim Weaver, South Dakota '52, was initiated into Phi Delta Theta in 1949. Upon graduating from South Dakota, he served a tour of duty in the United States Army during the Korean War. Brother Weaver returned to campus after his military service and received his LL.B. degree in 1956. Brother Weaver established a career with General Mills, Inc., at its headquarters in Minneapolis, where he served in several capacities, retiring as Vice President and Treasurer in 1968. Mrs. Weaver is a lifelong educator. Jim and Ruth Weaver have both been Trustees of the USD Foundation, and are currently serving on the Steering Committee for Campaign South Dakota. The Weavers were married in 1953 and have three daughters and a son.

Charles F. Ruhr Recognized

Charles F. "Chuck" Ruhr, South Dakota '59, was recognized with the 2002 University of South Dakota Achievement Award. Brother Ruhr was initiated in 1956 and graduated with a degree in journalism. Brother Ruhr opened his own advertising agency in 1964. Known in the business as simply "RUHR," the agency grew into one of the largest and most highly regarded agencies in the Minneapolis area. Brother Ruhr and his wife, Louise, live in Afton, Minnesota.

he Educational Foundation is delighted to report that we have awarded grants to 64 students for the 2002-2003 academic year. While the number of grants is not a record, the total amount awarded is. $174,150. That's a lot of money!

We awarded scholarships to 47 Phi undergraduates that totaled $123,150. We awarded 15 Phi graduate student fellowships of $3,000 each. And we awarded two graduate students $3,000 grants for students of film from the Francis D. Lyon Fund.

For the first time, undergraduate members helped fund the undergraduate scholar-ships. In early 2002, the Foundation established the Knights of Pallas, an undergraduate giving society. Students attending this year's Presidents Leadership Conference and Leadership College, as well as those at the Fraternity's Convention were encouraged to begin a life-long commitment of support of the Foundation. Their response was enthusiastically positive. This new—but already successful—program provided two $1,000 Knights of Pallas scholarships for the 2002-2003 academic year.

Three wonderfully loyal former General Officers served once again as judges for the undergraduate scholarships. The Trustees and staff thank T. William Estes, Vanderbilt '55, who served as chairman, and John J. Budack, Minnesota '58, and S. George Notaras, Lawrence '53, for spending many long hours during the spring studying and ranking all of the nominees. We have said in past reports that their task is a labor of love, and it is. It surely is.

Sixty-four students. $174,150. To our donors, they say thanks, and we say thanks. Your support of the Educational Foundation makes our educational grants—and all of our other work—possible.

McKenzie Claims Arthur R. Priest Award

Matthew S. McKenzie, Mississippi '03, is a senior at Ole Miss and this year's recipient of the $4,000 Priest Award. The Arthur R. Priest Award has been presented each year since 1954 to the most outstanding undergraduate member of Phi Delta Theta in the U.S.A. McKenzie is the seventh member of Mississippi Alpha chapter to be named a Priest Award recipient.

Brother McKenzie is from Florence, Alabama. His major field of study is Managerial Finance with an emphasis on Corporate Finance and Investment Analysis. He has an impressive 3.82 GPA. He has been recognized for his achievements by numerous honorary societies including Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Lambda Delta, Lambda Sigma, Mortar Board, Order of Omega, Golden Key and Who's Who Among American College Students. He has been included on either the Chancellor's Honor Roll or the Dean's Honor Roll every semester since his enrollment.

McKenzie is the president of Mississippi Alpha and has also served as recruitment chairman. He has served on numerous committees within the chapter and has been very involved in intramural sports. As a freshman, Matt was recognized as the Ole Miss' Campus Model Pledge.

Matt is an Associated Student Body Senator. He serves as the ASB Sergeant-at-Arms and as a member of the ASB Minority Affairs Committee. He has served as a volunteer for Habitat for Humanity, the Mississippi Blood Drive, Meals on Wheels, the Salvation Army and Duck's Unlimited.

Ole Miss Dean of Students, Dr. Thomas J. "Sparky" Reardon, Mississippi '72, wrote a letter of support. "Matt is humble and soft spoken and has won the admiration and affection of his peers and advisors. He is extremely self disciplined and has a great deal of self-confidence ... Most of all, Matt is a gentleman and a scholar. He is a 'yes sir/no sir' type of guy who has spent a great deal of time as a undergraduate in the service of others."

Chapter officers Wes Ehrhardt and Will Montgomery wrote an enthusiastic two-page letter about Matt. They wrote that he serves the chapter with great passion and with character. "Matt exudes character ... When faced with right or wrong, there is no doubt what Matt will do. When faced with an important decision, Matt's character takes over and allows him to do what is right for the chapter. He will stand his ground for what is right ... Matt brings our chapter closer together each day with his innovative ideas and his dedication to improving a chapter already achieving excellence."

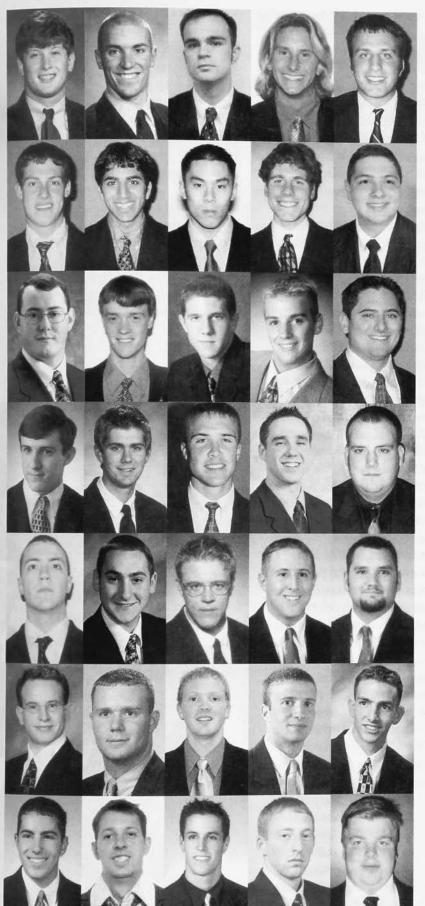

That sounds like a very good description of a Priest Award recipient to us ... and it is.

Miller Leadership Awards Go to Oregon

No student from an Oregon chapter has ever won the prestigious Robert J. Miller Leadership Award—until now. This year the awards have gone to two members of Oregon chapters—John G. Millar and Sean R. Madden. Both not only go to school in Oregon, they also live in Oregon. It was an Oregon (and a Province Pi South) sweep!

John Millar, Oregon State '04, majors in Exercise and Sports Science – Fitness Program Management. He carries an impressive 3.85 GPA and has been on the Dean's List every term. John's home is in Beaverton, Oregon. He is Oregon Beta's rush chairman and has served as chapter secretary. He has served on the chapter's Executive Committee and its Judicial Committee. He has also written articles for the chapter's alumni newsletter, the Oregon Beta Star.

Brother Millar is a varsity football letterman at Oregon State. Last year he was the backup punter for the team that was ranked #1 preseason by Sports Illustrated. He is competing for a starting position this year. As a walk-on player, John is financing his way through college himself. Of interest, he notes that his time commitment to the team averages 40 hours a week during the season and 25 hours a week during the off season.

Football is not Millar's only extra-curricular commitment. He is an Associated Students Undergraduate Senator representing the College of Health & Human Performance. He serves on the Memorial Union Programming Council and has worked for the SOAR (Student Orientation and Retention) department. The University employed him as a tutor for the Educational Opportunities Program when he was a freshman. He notes that he "successfully tutored older students, some of them in classes that I had not even taken."

Millar has been named a member of several collegiate honor societies including Alpha Lambda Delta, Order of Omega, Cardinal Honors and Phi Eta Sigma.

Referring to John's service as a chapter officer, Kyle Phipps, a former Oregon Beta president, wrote: "... he is the epitome of a true leader and has gone above and beyond the job description, carrying the rest of us to a level we didn't know we could achieve."

Chapter Advisory Board Chairman, Julian R. McFadden, Oregon State '53, is a retired USAF Colonel. He writes of Millar: "His self drive and desire to succeed have stood him in good stead as he absolutely beams confidence and maturity ... The most noticeable attribute is his consistent leadership. In this important area, he exceeds anything reasonably expected from an undergraduate."

McFadden continues: "This fellow has a darned good head on his shoulders. All his accolades have been accomplished with the inherent pressure of being a varsity footballer. The football program alone is an activity that requires significant dedication at a major university. John just budgets his time, attacks the most important item at hand, and presses on! I admire him for that." So do we.

Sean Madden, Willamette '03, is also a most deserving recipient of the Miller Leadership Award. Sean is a senior majoring in Computer Science and English. His cumulative GPA is nearly perfect—3.96. He has won or tied for the chapter's highest GPA award every semester he has been a member. Sean calls Tualatin, Oregon home.

Sean is a very involved member of Oregon Gamma. He served as president of his Phikeia class and later as the chapter's recruitment chair. He has served on the Pallas committee and as the publicity chair. He has been a member of the chapter's intramural football, basketball and Ultimate Frisbee teams. He has also been involved in the chapter's community service activities including Adopt-a-Road, their Lou Gehrig Softball Tournament, Special Olympics and Massage Night, a benefit for the victims of September 11.

Brother Madden is a Mary Stuart Rodgers Scholar and a Willamette University Scholar. He has been on the Dean's List every semester and was accepted into the honors program in the English Department. This spring he was invited to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. Sean has been an Opening Day (orientation) Leader for three years and is on a five-student team that oversees and runs the University's intramural program.

David Blair Nitka, Phikeia educator at Oregon Gamma, wrote: "Sean Madden is an individual whose impact on our chapter and in my life have been immeasurable. Individuals like Sean are the reason I feel proud to wear the letters of Phi Delta Theta on campus... Sean is recognized for his outgoing and fun personality. It is difficult to walk across campus with Sean because everyone wants to stop and talk with him. An even more empirical example of Sean's demeanor is the frequency with which he was requested by the pledge class to be a big brother. In a class of 24, 11 men asked Chris Littrell, Willamette '97, wrote a letter of recommendation for Sean. He closed that letter saying, "Sean Madden exemplifies the best qualities of our Fraternity and is worthy of our highest praises and awards. I believe Sean has a very bright future and will continue to contribute to his community, his alma mater, and the Fraternity. I cannot say enough about him and believe him to be an outstanding candidate for the top Foundation scholarships."

Chris, who serves as Pi South Province President, should be doubly proud. His personal influence has been immeasurably positive on the Phis of Pi South Province – such men as John Millar and Sean Madden.

2 Lyon Scholarship

francis d. lyon scholarships

By Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins

or the first time, our two Francis D. Lyon Scholars are from the same school. Caroline Frick and David S. Hartstein, Emory '00, are both graduate students at The University of Texas at Austin. They each have received $3,000 awards from the Francis D. Lyon Fund. The film school at Texas is one of the premier film schools in the country. Improbably, Caroline and David were our first two Lyon Scholarship applicants from the school.

Caroline Frick's major fields of study are Film History and Film Archiving. After completing a B.A. in History and Film Studies at Miami University in 1993, she went to Norwich, England to continue her studies. She received an M.A. in Film History and Film Archiving at the University of East Anglia in 1995.

Since returning to this country, she has worked at the Motion Picture, Broadcasting and Recorded Sound Division of the Library of Congress, at American Movie Classics as Manager of Acquisitions and Archival Programming, and at Warner Bros. as a Senior Administrator of Film Preservation. Ms. Frick began her pursuit of a Ph.D. at Texas in 2000

FRICK

In a personal note, she wrote: "The two people in my life most responsible for fostering and encouraging my love of old films as a child (and now!) were Phi Delts — my father, Bill Frick, and my uncle, John Bush, were both Phi Delts at the University of Kansas."

David Hartstein is also a graduate student at The University of Texas at Austin. He is in a Master of Fine Arts program where his major fields of study are Film Production and Directing.

In 2000, David graduated from Emory University with a degree in Film Studies. He didn't go to Emory to study film. "I first entered Emory University in 1966 with the notion of taking a few film classes to satisfy my curiosity while pursuing a more 'practical' career in science. Quickly, however, I found my rigid scientific mind being seduced by my increasing interest in film studies."

During his time at Emory, David became a member of Georgia Beta chapter. And he filmed the Phis. "For a final project in an environmental studies class I was able to make a documentary analyzing the Phi Delta Theta house as a 'place.' Though I look back at this project now and see many glaring deficiencies, I am also amazed at how I was able to get the work done with little technical training and have it stand on its own and still mean something to me as well as to the brothers living in the house. To this day I still consider that work a success."

The Trustees of the Foundation thank the members of this year's Lyon Scholarship judging committee. They are: Sandra Contreras, a former Lyon Scholarship recipient; Stephen J. D'Amato, University of Miami '00, who works in the film industry; William R. Richardson, Tampa '80; and Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins who served as the chairman.

Francis D. "Pete" Lyon, UCLA '28, was a distinguished director, producer and editor of motion pictures and television. He won 1947's Academy Award for Best Film Editing for Body and Soul. Just weeks before his death in 1996, Pete endowed the scholarships in his name for students of film. At his direction, they are available to Phis and to non Phis, to men and to women, to undergraduates and to graduate students. The recipients must show talent, and they must share his passion for making films.

5 served their Phi Delta Theta chapter as presidents, 2 served as IFC presidents.

Answers to the big questions

By Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins + 15 graduate fellowships

I ifteen remarkably talented and academically outstanding students have garnered this year's $3,000 graduate fellowships. The recipients were selected from a field of 28 Phis who completed the application process. Although the Foundation has awarded undergraduate scholarships for many years, the graduate fellowship program is only five years old. We have awarded $145,000 in those five years to 52 graduate and professional students. We are pleased to tell you briefly about this year's recipients.

Teodoro B. Bosquez IV, Texas '00, is the recipient of this year's George E. Grady Fellowship. Ted is an honors program Summa Cum Laude graduate of The University of Texas at Austin. He majored in Government and History. His many academic honors include being inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. He was named Texas Beta's Best Pledge and Best Active before being elected chapter president. Bosquez is attending Harvard University and is working toward a joint Law degree and a Masters degree in Public Policy.

Daniel S. Wientzen, Creighton '00, has received the second William R. Richardson Fellowship. Dan was one of the Founding Fathers of Nebraska Gamma chapter and later served as its president. Wientzen graduated from Creighton with a 3.54 GPA and a degree in History and Spanish. He served Phi Delta Theta as a Leadership Consultant and then as Director of Risk Management and Housing before returning to school to study medicine. Dan is a first year student at Des Moines University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Kevin Barhydt, Puget Sound '98, received a B.A. in Economics graduating with a 3.71 GPA. He has served as a member of Washington Delta's Chapter Advisory Board since graduating. A Phi Beta Kappa, Barhydt was also President of the Associated Students of the University of Puget Sound. Before returning to school this fall, he worked as an Assistant Product Manager for Advanced Digital Information Corporation in Redmond, Washington. Brother Barhydt is working toward an M.B.A. at Harvard University.

Brent H. Carothers, Virginia '02, is a first year medical student at the University of Virginia School of Medicine. He garnered a 3.82 GPA while earning his B.A. from UVA in Biology and Economics. Carothers was a Founding Father of Virginia Beta chapter when it was recolonized and rechartered. He served the chapter as warden. As an undergraduate, Brent was in Virginia's honor student program. He was named a member of the National Society of Collegiate Scholars and of Phi Beta Kappa.

Jacob M. Hooker, North Carolina State '02, received one of the Foundation's prestigious Robert J. Miller Leadership Awards as an undergraduate. He graduated last spring with a 4.0 GPA and two degrees—a B.S. in Chemistry and a B.S. in Textile Chemistry. He was Valedictorian of NC State's Class of 2002. Jacob was an active member of NC Delta serving as Phikeia educator and as a member of the NC State's Collegiate Cycling team. He is working toward a Ph.D. in Organic Chemistry at the University of California, Berkeley.

Brandon L. Jolly, Mississippi State '02, graduated with a B.A. in Political Science and a 3.91 GPA. At Mississippi State, he served as Attorney General of the Student Association and as president of the Stennis-Montgomery Association. He was named a member of the Arts and Science Society of Scholars and to Who's Who Among America's College Students. He served Mississippi Beta as awards chairman and assistant rush chairman. Jolly is now a first year student at The University of Mississippi School of Law.

Robert Branch Markham, Centre '02, served his Kentucky Alpha-Delta chapter as rush chairman and community service chair. He graduated last spring with a 3.82 GPA in Economics. Bob was the recipient of numerous undergraduate scholarships including one from the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation. He was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa and was named Centre College's 2000 Emerging Greek Leader. Markham is a first year graduate student at Miami University seeking a Master of Arts degree in Economics.

Dinesh A. Mathew, North Carolina State '95, received two Bachelor of Science degrees from NC State—one in Chemical Engineering and the other in Pulp and Paper Technology. He graduated with a 3.82 GPA which earned him Summa Cum Laude honors. He earned many other honors including being named a member of the N.C. State Fellows Leadership Program and the Golden Chain Honor Society. Mathew is a second year graduate student at New York University. He seeks a Master of Arts in Music Business Professions.

Eric A. McCully, Mississippi State '01, graduated with a 3.91 GPA in Information Systems. He is now a first year M.B.A. student at The University of Mississippi. His major fields of study are Finance and Marketing. Before entering graduate school he worked for Accenture as a Data Analyst, Retail Client Group. McCully was senior class president at Mississippi State and was a student senator. He served his chapter as its 10-Year Alumni Reunion Director and called it the most gratifying position he held in college.

Bradley C. McPherson, Chicago '99, graduated with honors from The University of Chicago with a degree in Anthropology and Pre-Medicine in 1999. He earned an undergraduate GPA of 3.57. McPherson has now completed his first year of medical school at the University of Illinois at Chicago. He served Illinois Beta chapter as Phikeia educator and as a member of the Executive Committee. Brad is a member of the American Medical Students Association and has published eight peerreviewed manuscripts.

Joshua P. Myers, Southwest Missouri State '01, is a second year law student at Washington University School of Law in Saint Louis. He was in the top 25% of his first year class. Myers is a former president of Missouri Epsilon chapter at Southwest Missouri State where he received a B.A. in Political Science. He graduated with a 3.58 GPA and earned Cum Laude honors. He received a scholarship from our Foundation as an undergraduate and was named to Who's Who Among American College Students. He is a member of Golden Key.

Jason L. Roberts, Kettering '97, earned a B.S. in Mechanical Engineering. He has worked for the Ford Motor Company since graduating. His most recent assignment was as Lead Resident Engineer for Ford's Formula One race team, Jaguar Racing Ltd. in the United Kingdom. He is studying at Northwestern University's Kellogg Graduate School of Management and is a candidate for M.B.A. and Masters of Engineering Management degrees. Jason served Michigan Delta chapter as president and vice president.

Christopher J. Rochford, Rutgers '02, graduated last spring with a B.A. in Psychology. He earned a 3.38 GPA while at Rutgers. Chris served New Jersey Alpha in several offices including president and scholarship chairman. He was the campus IFC president and was named Rutgers' Greek Man of the Year and its Outstanding Chapter President. Rochford was named the Northeast Greek Leadership Association's 2002 Greek Leader of Distinction. He is a first year dental student at UMDNJ–New Jersey Dental School.

John S. Rouse, Mississippi '02, became a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Pi Sigma Alpha, the political science honor society, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars during his undergraduate years at Ole Miss. He graduated with a perfect 4.0 GPA and a B.A. in Political Science. John served Mississippi Alpha as co-chair of their famous Hoops for Kids charity basketball tournament. He was the chapter's intramural chairman and chairman of Parent's Weekend. Rouse is now a first year law student at Harvard University.

Jay K. Wilgus, Utah '01, received an Honors B.S. in Speech Communication from The University of Utah. His major fields of study were Argumentation and Decision Making. He graduated with a 3.76 GPA. Jay received the Foundation's J. Willard Marriott Scholarship as an undergraduate. He served Utah Alpha as vice president and social chairman and received the chapter's Phi of the Year Award. Wilgus was president of the IFC and a volunteer ski instructor. He is a first year law student at The University of Utah.

ALCOHOL-FREE ACURRENT VIEW

BY MICHAEL MCDEARMAN, TENNESSEE TECH '97

A CURRENT VIEW

enjamin Franklin, Thomas Edison, and Eli Whitney are arguably some of the greatest innovators of our time. Each had a solid basis for his ideas which impacted the world. Each worked and toiled over a mixture of elements to make his ideas work in different environments and surroundings. I imagine they each had the same type of feeling when their ideas showed signs of achieving success. They relished the moment when breakthrough ideas came to mind. Maybe they jumped for joy or simply smiled with a humble confidence that their idea impacted the lives of many.

In the mid-1800s, six men came together with an idea to create an organization for like-minded men. They envisioned an atmosphere where men could grow and learn together through their entire life. It was an idea in which men could enjoy the camaraderie of those with similar values and beliefs.

In early General Convention speeches and writings, the Founders talked about the elements that created Phi Delta Theta and how it is able to adapt to different environments, because at its essence, the Fraternity is good.

A few years ago, the Phi Delta Theta General Council, being concerned about the state of the Fraternity, made a visionary leadership decision regarding the future of Phi Delta Theta. The decision was to return the focus of the Fraternity to the founding principles, to combat the alcohol dominated culture in fraternities, to improve member's academic performance, to stop the deterioration of our facilities, to slow the rise in liability insurance costs, to meet the needs of today's student, and to reinvolve alumni members. Just listing the reasons behind the return to alcohol-free housing puts a smile on my face. Several years have now passed since the implementation of alcohol-free housing, so lets reflect on what we have done.

Friendship, sound learning and rectitude. We all learned these founding principles the first week as a Phikeia, and lets review them now. In the 1990s, there was a decline in membership in the Fraternity world, with Phi Delta Theta being no exception. When viewing recruitment numbers over a nine-year timeframe, it was easy to see something had to be done to improve and increase the Fraternity's membership base.

Since alcohol-free housing was implemented, the Fraternity has seen a 3% increase in membership for each year. Talk about a pendulum swing! We stopped it and sent it the other way. This past Fall 2002, the Fraternity had chapters recruit 3 times their membership. Yes, that is correct for every member, they recruited three new members!

Prior to the alcohol-free housing initiative, Phi Delta Theta needed to contact the campuses where it wanted to install new chapters. Now, the Fraternity has to be selective in choosing expansion opportunities because universities want Phi Delta Theta on their campus!

Friendship...check.

Sound learning, as it is intended, is lifelong learning. On the chapter level, we have seen an increase in grade point averages (GPA) - some chapters have been able to raise their GPA as high as .7 (on a 4.0 scale) in just a semester.

Just read fellow brother Mark Koepsell's (Eastern Illinois '92) words:

"Alcohol free housing is the best thing I have witnessed many chapters experience. The fastest growing fraternity chapters at Colorado State University are the substance free chapters (including Phi Delta Theta). The chapters that have had the best > improvement in their chapter GPA are those that have implemented AFH (alcohol-free housing). In the end, I truly believe that the future success of fraternity life in America depends on initiatives like alcohol free housing to help bring the true meaning of our fraternal experience back to life."

Brother Koepsell is the director of Greek life at Colorado State University.

Sound Learning...check.

Rectitude. It's difficult to pinpoint a concise definition of rectitude, but let's look at some of the actions of our chapters. Phi Delta Theta chapters have been focusing their membership on brotherhood, not alcohol. Undergraduate members are recognizing their membership as a lifelong commitment, not just a "four year party." Additionally, the chapters are increasing their community service and philanthropy projects in order to give back to the community in which they live or to impact the lives of others.

Rectitude...check.

We definitely seem to be on-track in regard to friendship, sound learning, and rectitude. However, what others have to say about alcohol-free housing and its impact are just as important.

"The number of incidences (alcohol related) has decreased dramatically."

-University of Rhode Island, afhousing.org

"There are less discipline problems in our alcoholfree houses (than non alcohol-free houses)."

-Kansas State University, afhousing.org

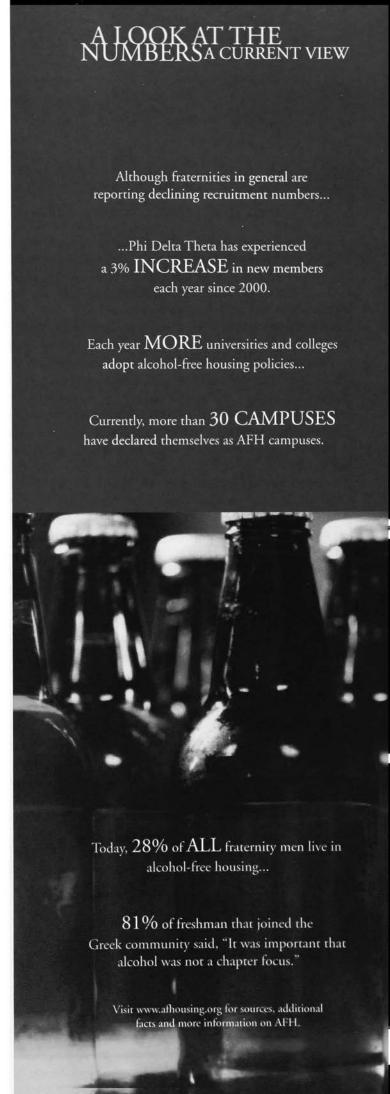

Also, if you take a close look at the Fraternity's insurance claims, Phi Delta Theta has had yearly claims reduce from double digits to 4 since the implementation of alcohol-free housing. Insurance costs are listed this year as $142 per man. Most of our peers in the fraternity world are near $150 per man. I also think it is interesting that Phi Delta Theta doesn't charge new members while other fraternities do. If Phi Delta Theta included new members, it would put our chapters' insurance costs at "approximately $95-100 per man" according to Marc Mores, Senior Director of Chapter Services.

As I have traveled around to visit many chapter houses, I can easily say that they are cleaner and safer. The University of Iowa officials agree. "AFH has contributed to better upkeep and better physical environment." Oklahoma State officials comment, "students say houses are cleaner, quieter and better learning environments.". There are still many chapter houses that show wear from years of abuse. But, with elbow grease and a little work, they are already showing improvement.

Our chapter houses, home to 5,000 undergraduate members each year, now provide more computer rooms, wired bedrooms, and quiet study areas than prior to alcohol-free housing enabling our chapters to focus on community service and values-based learning. With the current description of the "Millenials" that will be entering college, the Fraternity is already prepared to recruit the Millenials who look for "value" in their membership.

More alumni are involved with guidance of chapters as well. The Fraternity has more alumni involved with Chapter Advisory Boards than in years past. The guidance of responsible alumni are an absolute necessity in today's fraternity experience and will continue to enable our chapters to achieve their goals.

I truly believe the Immortal Six would be PROUD of the adaptations the Fraternity has made to today's college environment and the efforts to continue the legacy of Phi Delta Theta. Now, where does the Fraternity go? Very simply, lets look to that all familiar last line of the Phikeia Oath: "I will strive in all ways to transmit the Fraternity, not only, not less, but greater than it was transmitted to me." Brothers, keep striving!

Florida Mu Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University

The brothers of Florida Mu ask for your thoughts and prayers over the loss of one of our own Phis just last year. Michael Allen Gaetano, Bond number 48, was involved in a car accident in the early morning hours on October 25, 2002 near his home in Maryland. He was taking time off from school and looking for a place to work to be near his family. The Gaetano siblings had already endured a tragic loss several years prior when their parents were fatally injured in a car accident. Mike not only leaves behind his brothers at Florida Mu but his brother Kenneth and sisters Cristina and Mary. They are now being looked after by a close friend but need all the support they can get.

Mike was an active brother who was there when you needed him. He had a tough guy image but was soft at heart. If anyone ever needed a ride somewhere or just someone to talk to, Mike was there... devious smile and all. For these reasons and more, Mike will be missed by his family and his extended family at Florida Mu.

Despite the fact that Mike's wake and funeral were held very shortly after his death, nearly our entire chapter was able to drive up to Maryland to attend. Our presence was received with open arms and serves as a powerful example of just one of the reasons Phi Delta Theta is "The Standard for Brotherhood."

A trust fund has been established to help support Mike's surviving brother and sisters—all of whom are either attending college or recently graduated. On behalf of Florida Mu, we appreciate all of your thoughts, prayers and support of Mike's family. Donations may be sent to:

Kansas Beta Washburn University

In coordination with the Washburn University Greek Council, we sponsored "Real Greeks Don't Haze," a program designed to address the rise of fraternity, sorority and athletic hazing in the United Sates. Contents of the program included reasons why students shouldn't compromise their self-esteem, self-worth and health for an organization. On an individual note, Brother Tim Watts was named Washburn's homecoming king this year. He was nominated by the chapter for his active involvement in Phi Delt, Dance Marathon, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, student government and Washburn's football team as one of the captains. —Matthew Towsley

Kansas Zeta Southwestern College

Those of us on Southwestern's Cross Country/ Track team, winner of 22 consecutive championship titles in the Kansas Collegiate Athletic Conference, utilized our running skills by helping catch a shoplifer in October. Saint Louis University Phis sponsor a Red Cross blood drive which attracted over 100 donors. The brothers also helped raise more than $170,000 to fight Lou Gehrig's Disease (ALS).

Vince DeGrado, Brant Littrell, Adam Dinwiddie, Warren Bergquist, Billy Barnum, Luke Vierthaler, Kade McDiffett, Tallon Mitchell, Justin Alexander and Brian Nickerson were running near the local JC Penny during a regular practice when they learned from a clerk that a shoplifter had just left the store. Needless to say, we caught up with him within a matter of seconds and took his shopping bag back inside the store to return the stolen merchandise. As it turned out, what was stolen was a pair of shoes already on the shoplifter's feet. But returning the bag proved to be better than returning the shoes themselves. Inside the bag we found all the thief's personal belongings including his contact information.

-Vince DeGrado

Missouri Delta Saint Louis University

This semester, we increased our ALS philanthropy efforts in response to the death of a brother's mother who battled the disease for more than a year. We donated both time and money to The Jack Orchard ALS Foundation, a local organization that supports the development of treatments for ALS patients and promotes public awareness of the disease. Brother Nick Smarrelli became a volunteer intern for the foundation, and many of us were involved with the Extra Hands for ALS program, a volunteer service that teams people up with ALS patients and families to help them cope with the disease and to develop a personal relationship with the family. In total, we helped raise more than $170,000 to help fight ALS. On another note, we sponsored a blood drive with the Red Cross. We surpassed our goal of 100 donors, 32 of whom were first time-time donors. -Nick Barber

Nevada Beta University of Nevada- Las Vegas

PHI-lanthropy week was again a great success. Our annual event in which sororities compete for the coveted golden owl, began with a walk benefiting ALS. After our kick-off barbeque, we began the Gatorade Challenge. Contributors pledged money per every 12 ounces consumed. The winning sorority of the Gatorade Challenge raised $430, and in total, more than $700 was raised, most of which was donated to help fight ALS. Other events of the week included a pumpkindecorating contest, our annual Lou Gehrig homerun derby and a clothing drive.

Chapter Spotlight

The Good 'New' Days

South Dakota Phis find new social niche while upholding Fraternity's principles and rules

Phi Delta Theta changed the way its chapters operate when it implemented alcohol-free housing. This change put the focus of the Fraternity on the three founding principles, not alcohol. This change affected every facet of fraternity life, but none so much as the social aspect. The challenge between finding adequate places to host events and complying with risk management policies is ever present and on the mind of every chapter officer, member, Phikeia, and Chapter Advisory Board Chairman. The men of South Dakota Alpha have found a way to overcome this challenge through utilizing our chapter house as a safe and effective venue for social events.

South Dakota Alpha is located in Vermillion, South Dakota, a small midwestern town of roughly 10,000. In the past, all of the events had been hosted at establishments outside of the chapter. Being such a small community, the only places where this was possible were local pubs or taverns that had rooms adequate for a large social event. This was not only expensive, but also caused alarm for risk management issues due to the fact that the bar area was always next to the section of the pub/tavern that the social event was being held. Sober members continually had to ask those people who purchased alcohol at the bar to keep it there. Also, non-members that were not invited had to be turned away repeatedly.

With these risk management challenges mounting and attendance beginning to wane, South Dakota Alpha knew that a change was needed. The idea of utilizing the chapter house was discussed at Executive Committee and it was agreed that it would definitely eliminate the risk management issues and could very well help to increase attendance. The latter would be achieved by the fact that the chapter is closer to campus. Additionally, having an alcohol-free social event at the chapter house gave the members more freedom to decorate and throw theme parties.

So the decision was made and socials began being held at the chapter house. On the risk management end, much planning went into deciding how many people were needed to help monitor the party as well as how best to utilize them. It was decided that most of the brothers would wear South Dakota Alpha's orange Phi Delta Theta shirts. Brothers would be stationed at various points around the party while a couple other brothers would be in plain clothes mingling with the party-goers to make sure that nothing got out of hand.

All of the planning and hard work paid off. All of the parties have been a huge success! Attendance has been up as compared to past events held away from the chapter house. All the brothers who have monitored the events agreed that it was a great improvement over renting a facility further from campus.

The events have been such a big success that the chapter is now investing in a stage and other social equipment to keep interest among members and the campus high.

Parties such as Toga, Marker Party, and other theme parties have added to the current reputation of the South Dakota Alpha men as setting the standard in campus leadership, but also in conducting successful social events. One of our events had attendance that had twice the number of people who normally attend.

At a time when risk management is important to all fraternities' operation, the men of South Dakota Alpha have found a way to integrate safety and fun while utilizing the versatility and creativity of the chapter. —Justin Kopetsky, Jesse Moyer, Jamie Stapleton

Foundation offers Graduate Fellowships for 2003-2004 Academic Year

Delighted by the response of graduate and professional students in recent years, the Trustees of the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation have determined to continue the Foundation's Graduate Fellowship program. Last year the Foundation awarded fellowships to 15 graduate students. Each of the awards was worth $3,000.

The Foundation is pleased to announce it will award 15 fellowships, $3,000 each, for the 2003-2004 academic year. Students who wish to receive further information or an application should contact Rusty Richardson or Carmalieta Jenkins or visit our Web site for instructions and the application forms. May 1, 2003 is the Fellowship application deadline.

New York Eta Rochester Institute of Technology

Following a rough couple years, we are back on track. Thanks to the help of our alumni and a great chapter effort, we had a very successful fall rush with nine Phikeias, making this the biggest class since the fall of 1989. We will also initiate Ashton Ray, a Phikeia from 1989 who was never initiated because of the Gulf War. We are confident that our good fortune will continue through the rest of the school year.

-Steven Nathenson

Oklahoma Alpha University of Oklahoma

On November 6 we hosted our first ever Faculty Appreciation Night. We had a great turnout that included the IFC and Panhellenic advisors, Akron Phis at the Miami (OH) game. Earlier, they completed a Standards for Brotherhood Retreat.

Western Kentucky Phis celebrated "Parents Day" on September 21, 2002.

Oklahoma Congressman Bill Nations, a city council member and many others. The response was so encouraging that we voted unanimously to make this a semester event. For Thanksgiving we also hosted an International Thanksgiving Dinner where we entertained over 50 international student leaders.

Pennsylvania Beta Gettysburg College

Our chapter house received a makeover on October 18 when more than 20 Pennsylvania Beta alumnae returned for a work day. The alumnae helped clean the house and put it in working order for reconstruction. Their plan is to have the house reconstructed and ready for a new chapter to occupy by the fall of 2004. Gettysburg is happy with the involvement of our Phi alumnae in getting the chapter re-established at the school. -Sean Wagner

Tennessee Zeta Belmont University

Following the initiation of our 13 new members, we held our first annual Alumni Awards Banquet. After a nice dinner, we recapped the accomplishments of the chapter over the past year and discussed plans for the coming year. We ended the evening with a brief awards ceremony during which three plaques were presented to deserving alumni. The three awards were created by the active chapter and are in the process of becoming a part of our bylaws. They include the Outstanding Personal Achievement Award, the Alumnus Support Award and the Alumnus of the year Award. —Timothy Engles

Texas Delta Southern Methodist University

Our chapter has had a successful semester of hard work and leadership. We won the Homecoming Greek Spirit Competition award, along with Kappa Alpha Theta. Our president, Will Thuston has been Standards & Leadership Chair for the Interfraternity Council, and Facilities Chair for Mustang Marathon, the dance marathon program which raised of $45,000 for pediatric HIV/AIDS last year. And we made a financial donation to the White Rock Center of Hope, a food pantry and charitable organization in Dallas. -Pierce Lowrey

Texas Pi Sam Houston State University

With 13 new members, we had one of the largest pledge classes on campus during fall semester. We started the year by working together to help make the city of Huntsville a better place by serving as referees in the local youth flag football league, helping with Halloween activities for underprivileged children and participating in city beautification events. —Armando Garza

Retirement Income You Can Depend On

alumni are turning to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation's gift annuity program to create a steady, dependable stream of lifetime income. They like knowing that every quarter they will receive the same amount, year in and year out.

They like the other benefits, too. Things like a good payment rate and income that is partially tax-free. They like the income tax charitable deduction they receive and, of course, the fact that they are helping a good cause like the Educational Foundation.

Easy to Do

To learn more, fill out the coupon below and send it to the Foundation office. Once we know your age and the size of the gift you want to consider, and whether it will be cash or stock, we can prepare an easy-to-read gift illustration that will tell you:

- How much you will receive for the rest of your life?
- · How much of your quarterly income will be tax-free?
- How big your income tax charitable deduction will be?
- · How your gift annuity will benefit Phi Delta Theta?

You don't have to be married to obtain a gift annuity. In fact, single-life annuities pay a higher rate. Also, the older a person or couple is, the higher the payment rate.

For a personalized gift illustration, fill out and return the form below. This will allow us to show you just how well a charitable gift annuity can work for you. Please understand you are under no obligation to proceed with a gift by requesting this information.

Please complete and return this form.

Example

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are both 75 years old. They give $50,000 to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation in exchange for a charitable gift annuity. The payment rate for their combined ages happens to be 6.5 percent, which means they will receive $3,250 every year, or $812 every quarter. (Note: The rates vary, depending on one's age, the number of annuitants and the currently recommended rates published by the American Council on Gift Annuities.)

The Smiths will receive fixed payments for the rest of their lives. And even when one of them dies, the surviving spouse will continue to receive the same fixed payments for the rest of his or her life. Because the payments are backed by the full assets of the Educational Foundation, the Smiths can have confidence that their annuity checks will always be there for them.

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

Dear Scroll Reader,

We hope you enjoy reading each issue of The Scroll that arrives in your mailbox. However, we know that some copies of the magazine are mailed to bad addresses (which might include an initiate's parents' address, an old address and sometimes addresses that don't even exist) or to members that simply aren't interested in reading the magazine.

To cut down on the expenses associated with mailing unwanted copies and mailing to incorrect addresses, The General Council would like everyone currently receiving the magazine to confirm their subscription by December 31, 2003.

If you want to continue receiving this magazine, please let us know through any of the methods listed in the box to the right. We have printed a special message next to your address below indicating your subscription status at press time. If you no longer wish to receive the magazine, you may also inform us of that decision through any of the listed methods.

We want to give all our readers proper notice so we will be including details regarding subscription confirmations in every issue of The Scroll in 2003.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact the General Headquarters via mail, e-mail (scroll@phideltatheta.org) or by phone (513-523-6345) for assistance.

Yours in the Bond, The General Council of Phi Delta Theta

Yes! I want to continue receiving The Scroll, please confirm my subscription.

No thanks. I am not longer interested in receiving The Scroll.

A special thank you

My father, Donald E. "Doc" Owen, Kansas '49, helped with the re-founding of Indiana Eta and was the faculty sponsor and chapter adviser for many years, and for some years also a province president. Growing up we attended dinners and supported the house in most campus activities. I remember hearing about Dad bailing different brothers out of jail, helping them as they were drifting and searching for the right path to take in life and seeing how proud he was when each found success.

After he retired as a professor at Indiana State, he passed the adviser responsibilities over, but Mom and Dad still attended ball games and rooted for the brothers when they could. My father passed away on January 13 after a long battle with cancer.

The reason for this letter is to say thank you. After my father's obituary appeared, the president of Indiana Eta called and asked if the chapter could perform the Fraternity memorial service, even though they had never met my dad. Few of our friends who attended the service were prepared for the 19 poised men who came to pay tribute to a man they had never met. Thank you for the Bonds of Brotherhood that have now meant so much to his family too.

-Kim Owen Mazur

Our chapter better everyday!

The last few years for the Texas Nu chapter have been quite rough. We managed, as a chapter, to drive ourselves into $18,000 of debt, maintain a lower-than-mediocre GPA, abstain from involving ourselves in SGA and IFC, and keep poor communication with our alums and General Headquarters. Last summer, three of us attended the Leader-ship College in Oxford. That short week filled us with so much pride to be a part of the Phi Delta Theta brotherhood. We were able to come up with many creative and innovative ideas that we could implement into our chapter.

Since we came back to Aggieland in August, we have implemented many of our goals that were formulated that special week. We have rid ourselves of debt, created a new set of bylaws, won the office of executive vice president of IFC, won the office of Supreme Chief Justice of the IFC Judicial Board, and raised our overall GPA from 13th in the IFC to 5th. We hope to be part of a Texas area-wide Phi Delta Theta leadership retreat this summer.

Thank you for providing us the opportunity this past summer to attend the Leadership College in Oxford, and impact our chapter so immensely.

$\Phi_{\scriptscriptstyle{Footnotes}}$

Alabama: A. Bowen Ballard, '63, just retired after serving 38 years as an Air Force reservist, specializing in intelligence and force mobilization. His assignments took him all over the world; and he most recently served as mobilization assistant to the commander of Maxwell's Air University, General Lance Lord, who presented Ballard with a Distinguished Service medal. In his civilian capacity, he is the CEO of The Ballard Companies of Montgomery, Ala. and is involved in all aspects of the real estate business.

Arizona: E. R. Johnsen, '48, is president and general manager of California Plating Co., which supplies technical innovations such as the gold plating for NASA's first camera on the moon to plating the first heart by-pass pump for AMES Laboratory. Johnsen has had over 28 years of experience in engineering, manufacturing, management and marketing in the metal industry.

Arkansas: Featured on NBC Holiday Prime Time National News in December was Jennings Osborne, '65. He has donated the holiday lighting for Disney World, the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library, and the Arkansas Alpha chapter house, among other things. Osborne and his wife are noted philanthropists in the Little Rock area.

Butler: William J. Tobin, '48, received the 2002 William A. Egan Alaskan of the Year Award, signifying lifetime achievements in the 49th State. The award, named in honor of Alaska's first and only three-term governor, was presented by the Alaska State Chamber of Commerce at a banquet in Fairbanks. Now the dean of Alaska's working journalists, Tobin is senior editor of The Voice of The Times.

California—Santa Barbara: Stephen Dunne, '75, at his son Michael's initiation at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo on February 1, 2003.

Colgate: Five new members, including Conrad Foster Thiede, '90, were just elected to the Cincinnati Downtown Residents Council. The DRC has approved an ambitious set of goals for the centercity neighborhood council to implement. In support of a hands-on approach to ensuring safe and clean streets, they are coordinating efforts with the Police Department's Citizens on Patrol Program and aiming for a closer relationship with the local business community, acting as a voice of advocacy for the downtown community to the city government.

Cornell: Teaching college composition and elementary language arts in Idaho Falls, Michael Strickland, '87, has just finished his tenth book entitled Shell's Gold, a novel for adolescents about an African American girl who comes of age after a family move that places her in an all black high school for the first time.

Philip Godemann, '02, graduated with honors from the United States Naval Officer Candidate School, and was commissioned an Ensign, U.S. Naval Reserve, on March 21. He is reporting to the Naval Air Station Pensacola, Fla. for primary flight training as a Student Naval Flight Officer.

Drake: From September 2000 to June 2002, Lieutenant Colonel James Stalnaker, '79, was the Commanding Officer of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 314 "Black Knights" on board USS John C. Stennis. When turning over his command he was awarded the Meritorious Service Medal for leading his squadron in combat operations in support of OPERATION ENDURING FREEDOM over the skies of Afghanistan for six months. Lt. Col. Stalnaker has been selected for promotion to Colonel and is attending the National War College in Washington D.C. where he is receiving a Masters of Science in National Security Strategy.

Embry-Riddle: Phillip Snyder, '99 and Brian Eurice, '01, are the cockpit flight crew members for Atlantic Coast Airlines flying a Canadair Regional Jet. Currently Florida Mu has 6 airline pilots and 4 military pilots all from the chapter's founding members.

Emporia: Part of the band "Shenanigans" is Victor Dougherty, '94, and his wife Kelly Hill. The foursome "Shenanigans" plays a progressive vein of Celtic music that includes songs, step dance and comedy. They have grown from a bar band to playing primarily at fairs and festivals in the Kansas City area. To learn more about them, visit their website at www.shenanigansmusic.com.

Florida: William Poe, '53, and his family have been named "Philanthropist of the Year" in Tampa Bay. Organizations that have benefited from their generosity include Metropolitan Ministries, the Boys and Girls Clubs, The Children's Museum, Kid City, the United Way, The University of Tampa, University of Florida, the Haven W. Poe Runaway Center and Stephen Foster Elementary School.

Florida International: Jon Moss, '91, has been training to run in the St. Anthony

On March 20th the Atlanta Alumni Club held its annual Founders Day dinner at Ansley Golf Club. After the invocation by Matthew Patton, Duke '58, the speaker for the event was University of Mississippi Dean of Students Dr. Thomas "Sparky" Reardon, Mississippi 72. As expected, Dr. Reardon gave a dynamic speech on the importance of Fraternity and the problems associated with hazing and underage drinking in today's Greek system. Howell Adams, Vanderbilt '53, conducted the Golden Legion ceremony honoring Georgia Supreme Court Chief Justice Normal Fletcher, Georgia '56; Retired Air Force Lt. Col. Rene Miller, UCLA '55; Walker P. Campbell, Georgia Tech '56; and Thomas Robinson, Georgia '55. In our prayers and thoughts was Golden Legionnaire Jackson P. Letts, Georgia '56, who was not present due to a medical condition. John McGoogan, Georgia 70, was honored as our Alumnus of the Year, and Georgia Gamma was recognized as the Chapter of the Year. The Atlanta Alumni Club is looking forward to a productive year under the leadership of President Mark Galyardt, Kansas State '85, and we're excited to announce that a Young Alumni Club is being organized for Phis age 30 and under. Be sure to check out the new Atlanta Alumni Club Web site, www.PhiDeltAtlanta.com.

Sam Furrow opened the Founders Day Dinner and served as Master of Ceremonies at the meeting sponsored by the Phi Delta Theta Alumni Club of the Great Smoky Mountains at the University Club in Knoxville, Monday, April 14, 2003. Fifty brothers representing 17 different chapters assembled to celebrate the founding of our Fraternity.

Alumni Club President Allen Edwards chaired the meeting and welcomed the members to this great celebration and provided the invocation. David Cockrill led the Founding Ceremony with Bill Hahneman, Arby Dickert, Jon Mac Johnson, Chad Rogers, Steve Craze and Phil Francis acting as founding members. After dinner, Brother Bob Miller, New Mexico '50, Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation President Emeritus, spoke to the club and provided us with a history of the Knoxville Alumni Club which was first established in 1928. He then surprised the membership by reading a resolution adopted by the General Council and presented the club with its charter.

Arby Dickert, chair of the Chapter Advisory Board of Tennessee Gamma, provided the alumni club with an update of the recently rechartered chapter at the University of Tennessee. Allen Edwards then led the Golden Legion ceremony and three members received pins: Don Jackson, W&L '53, Ben Jernigan, Georgia '48, and Don Douty, Syracuse '56. Judge Gary Wade led the Silver Legion ceremony and pins were presented to the new members.

This was a great beginning for the rechartered alumni club and everyone is looking forward to the next event. A board meeting will be held soon to discuss summer events and next year's Founders Day dinner plans.

North Dakota: Kurt Zellers, '92, won a special election in February to fill the seat of Minnesota State Rep. Rich Stanek, also a Republican. Zeller says his top priorities will be "first and foremost, the budget," as well as transportation, public safety and education.

John Hovey, '60, is owner and president of Merit Resources, a professional employer organization and is one of the few businesses of its kind domiciled in lowa. The goal of the company is to help owners of small to medium-sized companies by assuming most of the non-revenue generating activities dealing with employee administration. Hovey attributes his success today to the firm foundation created for him during his initial years as a Fraternity member.

Northwestern: Daniel L. Kloeppel, '70, has assumed command of the Naval Air Force Reserve, and is in charge of 36 Naval Reserve squadrons and air wings. Before this in an active duty job as a flag officer, he was Commander, Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. where he ran the Navy's boot camp program. In his civilian career, Rear Admiral Kloeppel has accumulated 15,000 hours of flight time and flies the MD-80 aircraft as a captain for American Airlines.

Portland State: Darryl Bodle, '00, a real estate agent for John L. Smith in the company's Lake Oswego, Oregon office, was recently honored in the May 2002 issue of REALIOR Magazine as one of the nation's 30 most successful agents in real estate under the age of 30. As a 24-year-old, he was recognized for his ambitious drive, which resulted in grossing $6.9 million dollars in volume sales in 2001.

RIT: Aristide Economopoulos, '94, of The Star Ledger, Newark, N.J. has received the Photojournalism Award by the Scripps Howard Foundation, honoring work done in 2001. Economopoulos won, in part, for his coverage of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center. Referring to the coverage, judges said, Economopoulos "takes us progressively deeper into the disaster. It is a remarkable effort, under the worst imaginable circumstances."

Southeast Missouri: From the Association of Fraternity Advisors, Nathan Thomas, '95, received the Gayle Webb New Professional Award which is given to an individual who

ALS named official philanthropy

Phi Delta Theta commits to support Lou Gehrig's disease

hi Delta Theta Fraternity would like to share with you the exciting news of its recently established international philanthropic partnership with the Amyotropic Lateral Sclerosis Association (ALSA) and the ALS Society of Canada (ALSSC). Both organizations are the only national, non-profit voluntary health organization in their respective countries dedicated solely to the fight of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), commonly known as Lou Gehrig's Disease. The mission of ALSA and ALSSC is to find a cure for ALS and to improve the lives of those living with the disease. Both seek to promote awareness and understanding of ALS and the work of their organizations by providing current information and education materials to the ALS community-ALS patients and families, caregivers, researchers and members in related health care fields.

In November of 2002, the General Council made official the partnership between the Fraternity and ALSA/ALSSC. There are two main reasons for the decision. First, an international philanthropy project unites all members for a common cause. Having a common cause with which all Phis feel personally connected—helping fight the disease that claimed the life of a brother-will likely encourage strong support from all members. Second, Phi Delta Theta and ALSA and ALSSC already share a strong working relationship, as many chapters have donated much of their philanthropy and community service efforts to ALS—related causes over the years. Formalizing the relationship was the next logical step.

With more than 5,800 undergraduate members and approximately 150,000 living alumni all across the United States and Canada, Phi Delta Theta has an enormous capacity to assist ALSA and ALSSC in their efforts to battle ALS and

ALS Support Goals

These informal goals for the Fraternity's international ALS philanthropy project have been established:

- 100% participation of all chapters by 2004 in a "Walk to D'Feet ALS."
- Each chapter raise $1,000 for Walk to D'Feet ALS.
  - To increase public awareness of ALS and the work ALSA and ALSSC are doing to combat the disease.
- Challenge other fraternities and sororities on campuses to put together teams for Walk to D'Feet ALS.

to better the lives of those affected by the disease. Now more than ever, let us realize the power of our open motto by coming together and supporting our new international philanthropic partners.

What is ALS?

- Amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), aka "Lou Gehrig's disease," is a progressive neurodegenerative disease that attacks nerve cells in the brain and spinal cord.
- As motor neurons die, the brain loses the ability to initiate or control muscle movement.
- Patients in the later stages of the ALS become totally paralyzed. For the vast majority of people, their minds remain unaffected.
- A-myo-trophic comes from the Greek language. "A" means no or negative. "Myo" refers to muscle, and "Trophic" means nourishment..." "Lateral" identifies the areas in a person's spinal cord where portions of the nerve cells that nourish the muscles are located. As this area degenerates it leads to scarring or hardening ("sclerosis") in the region.

Early symptoms of ALS include increasing muscle weakness, especially involving the arms and legs, speech, swallowing and breathing.

OT TOO MANY YEARS AGO, when I was a guest at a forum about Lou Gehrig at the National Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York, a questioner asked me what kind of a man Gehrig was. The answer is not as simple as it may seem at first glance, for Gehrig, a professional athlete, was more complex than most modern-day baseball players. What I told him was that Gehrig had to be judged by the totality of his tragically short life and not just by his batting statistics. I pointed out that Gehrig was shy and pursued by insecurity. I also volunteered that he was a person of quiet dignity who departed life with exemplary grace. But above all, I emphasized that he was a person who always believed in striving to do his best, no matter what the circumstances. It is that last characteristic that made Gehrig such a dynamic force on the baseball diamond—and also made him into a figure who transcended his sport. It is remarkable that even today many young people regard him as an icon and valuable role model.

Gehrig's words of hope, grace, and humility on July 4, 1939, as he bid farewell to baseball and his team, the New York Yankees, have often been referred to without sarcasm as the

We were invited to wait—and that's what we did. Games started merican Hero game's Gettysburg Address. The speech is included in William Safire's Lend Me Your Ears, a collection of the world's greatest speeches throughout history.

I was one of the celebrants that melancholy afternoon, sitting in the right-field bleachers where he had deposited so many home runs on behalf of his team. I was an eighteenyear-old admirer, and like so many there that day, I sat teary-eyed as I listened to the man who was called "the Iron Horse" deliver his valedictory. Most of us present were not aware that Gehrig was dying of amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (a disease ultimately named after him). But we did suspect that this man, who had played in a record 2,130 consecutive games, all with the Yankees, from 1925 to 1939, would never put his spikes on again.

In writing about Gehrig's speech, author Wilfrid Sheed said that "all present in Yankee Stadium that day had been given a license to love a fellow human to the limit, without qualification, and to root for that person as they'd never rooted for themselves. . . . If the Stadium had emptied out suddenly, and he had been left standing there alone, Gehrig would have felt no less lucky, because the appearance merely confirmed what he already knew, that he was having a very good day. . . . A day like that was worth a thousand of the old ones."

In the early days of the Great Depression, I lived across the street from Columbia. I never got to see Gehrig hit his legendary home run off the dial outside of South Field, or off the steps of Low Library ("He gave his Alma Mater many a nervous moment," wrote Bill Corum, a New York sports columnist who was also a graduate of Columbia's School of Journalism), because by the late 1920s Columbia had stopped playing its ball games

But as a ten-year-old grammar school kid I had composed a letter, with the help of a friend, asking Gehrig if we could come to Yankee Stadium for an interview on behalf of our school paper. We never expected a response, for we thought Gehrig would have little time to speak to such tiny hero-worshippers. But our certainty of failure was soon proved wrong when a handwritten letter from Gehrig arrived several days later. We were struck by the careful, graceful penmanship, considering the size and strength of the writer. Yes, Gehrig had written, "I'll be happy to talk to you. Just use this letter to come to the clubhouse."

Gehrig as a Columbia baseball player

Unfortunately, when we went to Yankee Stadium the next day, the policeman guarding the clubhouse door denied us entrance.

"Columbia Lou" got his start smashing home runs from South Field to the steps of Low Library—and went on to become one of the greatest and most beloved players in baseball history. By Ray Robinson in those days at 3:30 p.m. (the Yankees were celebrated as the team of the "five o'clock lightning" in recognition of their propensity for late rallies), so we had a long wait. We kept listening for crowd noises that might hint how the Yankees were doing, and once, when we heard a swelling roar, we were convinced it must have been a Gehrig homer. Finally, the game was over, and within a short time, Gehrig appeared. He was hatless, coatless, and tieless, and his thick brown hairno blow-dry in those simpler times—was still damp from the shower. He had the kind of deep tan that today's players have forfeited to night games.

As he walked by us at a fast pace, we set out after him, calling out his name. He stopped and looked at us, and we waved his letter at him. He took a quick look at his letter and then asked if we had enjoyed the game. When we answered that we weren't able to get in, he appeared genuinely sorry. Then, when we brought up the interview, he said he was in a hurry to get home, but maybe we could do it another day. Then he took two crumpled tickets from his pocket and handed them over. "Did you really wait all afternoon?" he asked as he stepped into his car. "Yes, we did," I answered, hoping he'd reverse himself and grant us an interview on the spot. But that wasn't to be the case. Waving his hand at us in a friendly gesture, Gehrig said, "I'm really sorry." Then he was gone.

I never forgot Gehrig's kindness and manner, and over sixty years later wrote what I hoped was a fair-minded biography of him.

The early days

Henry Louis Gehrig was born on June 19, 1903, at 94th Street and Second Avenue in the lower-middle-class section of Manhattan's Yorkville. His parents were Heinrich Gehrig and Christina Fack, part of the large number of German immigrants who had come to America at the turn of the century. Of the four children born to Christina, Lou was the only one who survived infancy. He was raised in a poor household, close to the poverty level, but when Lou became famous his mother always insisted that he was not "a product of the slums."

As a shabbily-dressed Yorkville youngster, and later when his family moved to Washington Heights, Lou played in the streets and schoolyards and swam in its rivers. His father was often ill, and sometimes drank too much. He had some skills as a metal worker, but often found it hard to obtain employment. Christina, on the other hand, worked almost constantly. She cleaned floors, cooked for others (including a job at the Columbia Sigma Nu fraternity house), and worked as a laundress—anything to bring money into the house.

Gehrig attended Commerce High School, where he became proficient at football and baseball. As a Commerce senior in 1920, he hit a ninth-inning home run with the bases loaded in an inter-city game at Chicago's Wrigley Field. The feat earned him his first newspaper kudos, including some comparisons to Babe Ruth—rather a crushing burden to impose on a young ballplayer off the streets of New York. In the process of hailing his achievement, one newspaper misspelled his last name.

Impressed by Gehrig's skills, and with his eye mainly on the young man's football talents, Bobby Watt, Columbia '16, a former chapter president and graduate manager of athletics at Columbia, encouraged Lou to enroll at Columbia. At the time, Christina Gehrig was convinced that her son might wind up as an engineer or architect. But even as he played on the line and in the backfield for Columbia's footballers (where he joined Wally Koppisch, a running back with All-American credentials), Gehrig's destiny turned out to be baseball.

Gehrig spent two years on the Morningside Heights campus, which later won him the nickname of "Columbia Lou" in the nation's press. That was far preferable to "Biscuit Pants," which he was also called on occasion. By leaving Columbia in his junior year, Gehrig became Columbia's most eminent dropout since Alexander Hamilton. On one level, Gehrig's time at Columbia was quite productive. It was on the Lion campus that he apprenticed for stardom in major league baseball, and it was where he gained the friendship and advice of baseball coach Andy Coakley, a former big league pitcher, who recognized and nursed Lou's large talents.

On the other hand, Gehrig felt that he never gained full acceptance from his fellow students at Columbia. At Phi Delta Theta fraternity, where he was pledged, he waited on tables and often performed other tasks. In an era when many fraternities emphasized the social backgrounds and bank accounts of its members, Gehrig lacked such credentials. He had to rely on his athletic prowess to win the condescending approval of his fellows. His family background, with two parents who had difficulty with English, plus his own meager interpersonal skills and clumsiness, exposed him to frequent ridicule. He was often disparaged for his awkwardness and lack of social polish. He ran up a small debt to the fraternity, which he was reluctant to repay even in his halcyon years. Such treatment by his associates gnawed at his own sense of unworthiness and didn't help him to overcome his basic shyness. He was never able to forget the snobbery he confronted, although he did appear as a guest lecturer at Columbia's Teachers College in the 1930s, an indication that he held no grudge against the school itself. Also, in conversations with his wife, Eleanor, whom he married in 1933, he commented on the role that his Columbia education had played in his learning to appreciate reading, good books, and classical music.

On April 18. 1923, when Yankee Stadium opened for the first time, Babe Ruth fittingly christened the spectacular new edifice with a home run. On the same afternoon at Columbia, pitcher Gehrig struck out seventeen Williams batters for a team record. Somehow, Columbia still managed to lose the game. Only a handful of collegians were at South Field that day, but more significant was the presence of the bow-legged Yankee scout, Paul Krichell, who had been trailing Gehrig for some time. However, it wasn't Gehrig's pitching that particularly impressed him. Instead, it was Gehrig's powerful hitting from the left side of the plate. During the time Krichell had been watching Gehrig, the bulky Columbian had hit some of the longest home runs ever seen on various Eastern campuses.

Within two months Gehrig had signed his name to a Yankee contract. A bonus of $1,500, a veritable fortune for Gehrig and his family, was enough to get him to leave his studies. Two years later Gehrig would become part of a symbiotic slugging relationship with Ruth in the heart of the vaunted Yankees lineup. Batting fourth as the cleanup man behind the Babe, Gehrig became half of the most devastating one-two punch in the game's history. His consecutive game streak began in June 1925, he appeared as a pinch hitter for Peewee Wanninger. The next day, Gehrig replaced Wally Pipp at first base and stayed there for fourteen years. Ultimately, he became the all-time player at that position, which he played unfailingly through broken bones, split fingers, aches, pains, and menacing beanballs.

Gehrig accumulated 493 home runs, had a lifetime batting average of .340 (only a few points behind the Babe) and batted in 175, 174, and 184 runs in the years between 1926 and 1930. To this day his 23 home runs with the bases loaded surpass all players in history. In a 1932 game against Philadelphia, he became the first player in the twentieth century to hit four home runs in one game.

Yet, through the years of the Roaring Twenties, Prohibition, the Jazz Age, the Great Depression, and the New Deal, Gehrig constantly played in the bulging shadow of his Rabelaisian teammate, Ruth. The Babe outhit, outhomered, outate, and outpublicized Lou. Even in the 1928 World Series against St. Louis, in which Gehrig knocked out four home runs and batted in nine runs, the Babe hit .625, an all-time high in a four-game series. When a fatigued Ruth left the Yankees after the 1934 season, along came the San Francisco phenom, Joseph Paul DiMaggio, in 1936, to deprive Gehrig of the press attention he so richly deserved.

It's hard to know exactly how Gehrig felt about all of this. On the surface he seems to have been content being the Yankees captain—essentially a symbolic role. But what also seems clear is that he had a profound sense of himself as a public figure, with a self-designated role as a loyal team player, a loyal son, a loyal citizen, and a loyal employee. Such an unquestioning commitment may have placed a heavy burden on him, at times costing him dearly in human relationships. For example, he assigned himself the role of preserving, certifying, and codifying all rules of Yankee behavior. On a ball club with more than a few rogues and rapscallions on the premises, such a posture was hardly designed to win him great popularity. Gehrig's relationship with the Babe was a case in point. In the early years, Gehrig had expressed great admiration for Ruth, but as time went by, the two men barely spoke to each other, on or off the field.

Twilight

In the spring of 1939, after a relatively mediocre season in 1938, Gehrig's sturdy body started to fail him. He wasn't connecting solidly with the ball, nor was he fielding his position properly. He even had trouble tying his shoelaces. Disturbed by his inadequacies, Gehrig informed Manager Joe McCarthy that he was going to step down for the good of the team. McCarthy, who was tremendously fond of Gehrig, had difficulty accepting his decision. He was convinced something was terribly wrong with Gehrig, but encouraged him nonetheless to keep trying. Gehrig thought otherwise. Within a short period of time the Mayo Clinic, where Gehrig had seen physicians for a physical examination, issued a chilling report indicating that he was suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, an incurable disease. Only a few, including Eleanor Gehrig, knew that Lou was a dying man. It is possible that Gehrig himself didn't know, although some things he said in the last two years of his life sounded as if he had such suspicions.

The depth of Lou's feeling toward Eleanor was underlined by a handwritten letter he sent from Detroit the day after he terminated his active career. In part, this is what he wrote:

"My sweetheart—and please grant that we may ever be such—for what the hell else matters—that thing yesterday I believe and hope was the turning point in my life for the future as far as taking life too seriously is concerned. It was inevitable, although I dreaded the day, and my thoughts were with you constantly—how the thing would affect you and I—that was the big question and the most important thought underlying everything. I broke before the game because I thought so much of you. Not because I didn't know you are

The Lou Gehrig Memorial Award

The Lou Gehrig Memorial Award was created by Phi Delta Theta International Fraternity to recognize the Major League Baseball Player who best exemplifies the spirit and character of Lou Gehrig, both on and off the field. Lou Gehrig was a distinguished member of Phi Delta Theta and a man of integrity. The award was created to acknowledge an individual player's outstanding commitment to his community and philanthropy. Since the award's inception in 1955, the name of each recipient has been placed on the permanent Lou Gehrig Award plaque, located at the Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum in Cooperstown, New York. The Lou Gehrig Memorial Award Committee, a team of alumni brothers associated in some capacity with Major League Baseball, decides the recipient.

Where and what, I know not, but who can tell that it might not lead to greater things. Time will tell. . . "

On the special day in his honor on July 4, 1939, Gehrig spoke his farewell words without a hitch, and with no notes in his hand. This was surprising, since slurred speech is often characteristic of ALS victims. After that day Gehrig chose to remain with the team, even as he found it increasingly difficult to walk the few feet out to the home plate umpire to deliver the Yankees lineup. That year the Yankees won the pennant, then defeated Cincinnati in the World Series. On the trip to Cincinnati, New York's mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, sat next to Gehrig on the train and spoke to him about joining the New York City Parole Commission. When La Guardia told Gehrig that he could be an inspiration to many youngsters in trouble, Gehrig reminded the mayor that he knew little about the law or the workings of the Parole Commission. But the mayor was insistent. "All you need is common sense, and you have that," he told Gehrig. La Guardia followed up his proposal by sending Gehrig a number of books on criminology, sociology and

Lou Gehrig's Farewell Speech

July 4, 1939, Yankee Stadium

"Fans, for the past two weeks you have been reading about a bad break I got. Yet today, I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth. I have been in ballparks for 17 years and I have never received anything but kindness and encouragement from you fans.

"Look at these grand men. Which of you wouldn't consider it the highest of his careers just to associate with them for even one day?

"Sure I'm lucky. Who wouldn't have considered it an honor to have known Jacob Ruppert? Also, the builder of baseball's greatest empire, Ed Barrows? To have spent six years with that wonderful little fellow. Miller Huggins? Then to have spent the next nine years with that outstanding leader, that smart student of psychology, the best manager in baseball today, Joe McCarthy? Sure, I'm lucky.

"When the New York Giants, a team you would give your right arm to beat and vice versa, sends you a gift, that's something. When everybody down to the groundskeeper and those boys in white coats remember you with trophies, that's something. When you have a father and mother work all their lives so that you can have an education and build your body, it's a blessing. When you have a wife who has been a tower of strength and shown more courage than you dreamed existed, that's the finest I know.

"So I close in saying that I might have had a bad break, but I have an awful lot to live for.'

psychology. Gehrig diligently read them, and then informed the mayor he would accept his offer. Before arriving at this decision, Gehrig consulted Eleanor, who told him, "It is a fine chance to do something good for the old hometown."

Last days

Prior to joining the Parole Board, Gehrig was unanimously voted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers' Association in December 1939. A rule was waived that would have required him to have been retired for one year. At the same time, the Yankees retired Gehrig's uniform, making him the first major leaguer to be honored in such a way.

Gehrig was sworn in to his new civic role on January 2, 1940, for a ten-year term, with the mayor on hand to give the inductee his official blessing. Gehrig's primary duty was to render judgments about the time of release for prisoners in the city's penal institutions. The commission's caseload was over 6,000 a year, and Gehrig was assigned his share of cases.

For one year, while he was still physically able to travel downtown to lower Manhattan by car, with Eleanor doing the driving, Gehrig maintained a regular schedule. He had almost daily contact with street criminals, hoodlums, vagabonds, pimps, prostitutes, and con artists, a rung of society he had hardly known anything about in his years as an athlete.

In reflecting on his role, Gehrig said that "only a small percentage of men have to go back to prison. I think that many convicted fellows deserve another chance. However, we not only have to play fair with the fellow who's gotten bad breaks, but we must also consider the rights of taxpayers and our duties towards them. We don't want anyone in jail who can make good."

By the spring of 1941, Gehrig had become too ill to pursue his parole tasks, and he requested from the mayor a leave of absence. Until then La Guardia had not been aware of how frail he had become. By that time it had become difficult for Gehrig to even sign his name or to lift a piece of paper.

As his body wasted away, Gehrig's mind remained active and untouched by the disease. When friends came to visit, he rarely complained. A good deal of the time he listened to music and opera. On June 2, 1941, seventeen days before his 38th birthday, Lou Gehrig died in his sleep at home.

Tributes poured in from everywhere, from President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who sent flowers, to New York's Governor Herbert Lehman to the redcaps at Grand Central Terminal. Over 1,500 telegrams and messages flooded his home in Riverdale. One of his mourners, Bill Dickey, a former teammate who had once roomed with him, said, "He doesn't need tributes from anyone. His life and the way he lived were tribute enough. He just went out and did his job every day."

Ray Robinson is the author of "Iron Horse: Lou Gehrig in his Time" and grduaed from Columbia in '41. He has been an editor at Pageant, Coronet, Good Housekeeping and Seventeen, and has also authored biographies of Christy Mathewson, Will Rogers and Knute Rockne. Robinson has contributed articles to The New York Times, Washington Post, New York Daily News, TV Guide and American Heritage. This article originally appeared in the Fall 2001 issue of Columbia Magazine as part of its "Living Legacies" series. The series recognizes important figures in Columbia's history as part of the university's upcoming 250th anniversary celebration.

The President's Message

2002 was an extremely challenging year for non-profit organizations and especially for fund raising as it relates to those organizations. The continuing effects of the September 11th tragedy, the 3rd consecutive year of declines in the stock market, and the uncertainty of war in the Middle East all contributed to a sense of caution among donors. Phi Delta Theta and the Educational Foundation were not exempt from these difficulties.

In spite of these difficult times, the Foundation received gifts totaling more than $828,000 last year, from 4,163

I am also pleased to report that some newer Foundation programs were very well received in 2002. The following report will briefly summarize some of the achievements from the past year.

2002 In Review

The Knights of Pallas: Announced during the Presidents Leadership Conference, this program introduced undergraduate members to the Foundation and to the idea of charitable giving. A gift of $18.48 or more entitled the undergraduate to become a member of the Knights of Pallas. One hundred and six undergraduates made gifts during the conference. Even more impressive was the fact the average gift size was approximately $29.00.

Word of this program continued to spread in the months following the conference. During the Leadership College, more than 40% of the undergraduate attendees joined the Knights of Pallas (see p. 30).

When combined, the gifts from undergraduates in 2002 totaled $9,636. These funds have been earmarked specifically for new scholarships for undergraduates. The first two of those scholarships were awarded in the spring of 2002.

The Order of Pallas: Similar to the Knights of Pallas, the Order of Pallas is geared specifically at young alumni—those members who have been out of school for ten years or less (p. 24). Solicitations to these young alumni are conducted through direct mail, e-mail, personal contact and

"The Sword and Shield," the Foundation's newsletter for and about young alumni. Jason O'Rourke and an advisory panel of young alumni known as the Council of Advocates coordinate all of these activities.

The Living Bond Society: This is the planned giving society for the Foundation. (Formerly known as the Phi Future Fund.) Alumni in this society have included the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation in their wills or other types of estate plans. During the past year, membership in this society has increased by more than 100% and now stands at over 60. These are just the ones we know about. Some alumni choose to keep those arrangements confidential so we do not learn of the bequest or other provision until after the donor's death. The Foundation received three such bequests in 2002 totaling almost $100,000. (A list of Living Bond Society members appears on p. 18.)

Scholarships and Fellowships: More than $174,000 was distributed to 64 outstanding undergraduate and graduate students. In addition to the establishment of the Knights of Pallas scholarships mentioned previously, the Jim Ballard Scholarship became fully endowed in 2002.

Educational Grants: In addition to the scholarships and fellowships mentioned above, the Foundation's approved educational grants to the Fraternity in 2002 were as follows:

Leadership Consultants	$160,000
Presidents Leadership Conf.	$135,000
Member Education	$100,000
Leadership College	$55,000
Total General Grants	$450,000
Academic Assistance	$25,000
Total Special Grants	$25,000

With the exception of the academic assistance grant, the Fraternity spent the entire grant amount in each of the above categories.

Chapter Endowment Funds: For the past two years, the Educational Foundation has worked with 25 pilot chapters on a program whereby an alumnus could specifically restrict his tax-deductible contributions to an endowment fund for the sole benefit of his chapter. The goal of this program is to eventually provide an endowed scholarship for every chapter.

The program is still underway but will need further development before it is rolled out among the rest of the chapters.

Housing Grants: House Corporations continue to take advantage of the Foundation's Chapter House Grant Program. This program allows alumni the opportunity to make tax-deductible gifts to the Foundation and earmark those gifts for the construction or renovation of the purely educational portions of their chapter house. House Corporations at Iowa State, Ole Miss, Cincinnati, North Carolina, Kent State, Texas Tech, Arizona and Auburn have participated in this program.

The success of all of these programs is a direct result of the extremely generous on-going support from Phi Delta Theta members. The report that follows is dedicated to those members who are continuing to "transmit the Fraternity to those who may follow after, not only not less, but greater than it was transmitted to them."

William R. Richardson

Yours in the Bond.

Ways you can support the Foundation

Your Support Thousands of Phi Delta Theta members contribute each year to the Educational Foundation. It is their support that makes all of the programs previously mentioned possible. Listed below are a few of the ways members choose to support the Foundation:

Annual Support

These gifts typically arrive in the form of checks, credit card gifts or gifts of stock. Most Educational Foundation donors do not restrict the use of their annual gifts. This allows them to be allocated to the areas of most critical need during the year. We are thankful that many General Officers simply direct that a portion of their expense reimbursement go straight to the Educational Foundation.

Endowments

Permanently endowed funds may be established and named in accordance with a donor's wishes through gifts of $50,000 or more. Endowments may also be created with smaller gifts that the donor pledges to increase, over a period to time, to the $50,000 level. Endowment funds provide a constant source of income for the Educational Foundation and are spent with careful consideration of the donor's intentions.

Matching Gifts

Your employer may have a matching gift program that can multiply your support. Please ask your personnel office for the necessary forms to send with your gift.

Planned Gifts

Long-range estate and financial planning can enable you to make a substantial contribution to a program or project of your choice in a manner consistent with your overall charitable and personal commitments. Some examples of planned gifts include bequests, appreciated securities, real estate, insurance policies, charitable remainder trusts and charitable gift annuities. The Foundation staff can provide additional information on each of these types of gifts. The Foundation also recognizes alumni who have made such gifts as members of the Living Bond Society.

Memorial and Honorary Gifts

A memorial or honorary gift is an appropriate way to recognize someone's life and accomplishments. The Educational Foundation offers opportunities for those who wish to associate the name of a family or an individual with a project or program of enduring worth. Memorial gifts are acknowledged to the family while honorary gifts are acknowledged to the individual. Gifts of this type to the Sesquicentennial Courtyard have been very popular.

Sesquicentennial Courtyard

Alumni and undergraduates alike continue to support the Sesquicentennial Courtyard with bricks engraved with their names or the names of other members and friends of Phi Delta Theta. More than 2,000 engraved bricks have already been placed in the Courtyard, and that number continues to increase on a regular basis. (It is not too late to buy your brick if you have not already done so.)

Restricted Gifts

Some alumni choose to restrict their gifts for specific programs or funds. For example, one alumnus may ask that his gift be used solely for scholarships while another alumnus may direct his gift to the Leadership College Fund. Both of these gifts are acceptable and welcomed. The Foundation does retain the right, however, to decline any gift that does not meet the approved purposes of the Foundation or would be overly restrictive.

Anniversary Class Gifts

Members of classes celebrating special reunions are invited to establish a class gift to the Educational Foundation as part of their reunion activities.

For more information about the Educational Foundation please contact:

William R. "Rusty" Richardson, President Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation 2 South Campus Avenue Oxford, OH 45056 (513) 523-6966 FAX: (513) 523-9200 rusty@phideltatheta.org

Did You Know? Intersting facts and figures from the Educational Foundation's 2002 annual report.

953 generous and loyal individuals gave more than one gift to the Foundation during the year. 727 gave two gifts, 131 gave three, 32 gave four, and 63 gave five or more gifts.

The Foundation received 11 gifts of stock. Those gifts totaled$109,441.07. The smallest of the stock gifts was valued at $146.95 while the largest was valued at $49,192.

Chapters already working to Strike Out ALS

s you know, Phi Delta Theta officially adopted the ALS Association and the ALS Society of Canada as its international philanthropy partners in November of 2002. But for many chapters, involvement with these organizations has been part of their service to the community for many years. The events listed below are mostly annual events that chapters organize and/or participate in as ways to raise money to help fight the battle against ALS.

Walk to D'Feet ALS

These chapters have already experienced the fun and satisfaction of participating in the signature event of the ALSA and ALSSC, Walk to D'Feet ALS:

Virginia Delta, University of Richmond Texas Rho, Texas A&M - Corpus Christi Maryland Gamma, Washington College Kansas Beta, Washburn University Texas Gamma, Southwestern University Kentucky Epsilon, University of Kentucky California Lambda, University of the Pacific California Omicron, Cal State-Sacramento

Walks are typically hosted by local ALS chapters; however, Phi Delt chapters are encouraged to organize their own walk on campus if no local ALS chapter exists in their college town.

Sports Tournaments

Many chapters have been long-time supporters of ALS using these creative sporting events:

All Ohio Phi Volleyball Tournament

Together, Ohio Epsilon and Ohio Mu participated in a volleyball tournament to raise money for ALS Home Run Derbies/Softball Tournaments.

Home Run Derby, Softball Tournament

In the spirit of Lou Gehrig, many chapters opt to hold home run derbies and softball tournaments to help battle ALS. Oregon Gamma, Florida lota and Oregon Epsilon are three such chapters. Together they have raised more than $5,000 through the tournaments.

Hoopsfest

This past year, brothers of Kansas Alpha raised $5,000 for ALS by organizing their annual basketball tournament.

Kingpin Bowling Tournament

Recently, brothers of Texas Beta began donating the money raised through their bowling tournament to help battle ALS.

Golf/Putt-putt Tournaments

Each year, all sororities on Southwest Missouri State University's campus come together to participate in Missouri Epsilon's Putt-putt Tournament. Kansas Beta holds a golf tournament and recently raised $1,100. Last summer, brothers of Texas Rho co-sponsored a golf tournament. This, in addition to a skeet shoot and a clean up of Corpus Christi, helped them raise $10,000 for ALS! Florida Delta is another chapter to use golf as a way to raise money for ALS.

Other Creative Events

You don't have to have a sporting event to help fight Lou Gehrig's disease. Some chapters use these great events:

PHI-Lanthropy Week

Each year, brothers of Nevada Beta set aside a week during which a wide variety of events take place to benefit ALS. This past year's PHI-Lanthropy Week kicked off with a walk benefiting ALS and a barbeque. Next, brothers began their Gatorade Challenge in which students pledged money for every 12 ounces consumed. Other events included a pumpkin decorating contest, a clothing drive and Nevada Beta's annual Lou Gehrig Homerun Derby. Nearly $700 was raised and donated to help fight ALS.

Grand Slam Week

Tennessee Epsilon's annual Grand Slam Week brought together four Greek organizations last summer for a date auction, a banner contest and a cookout at the house. Each year, the chapter sets aside one week that they pack with ALS-related activities.

This information on chapter involvement with ALS is based on a community service survey sent to all chapters in February. If your chapter was not included in this report and has held a philanthorpy to benefit ALS, send a report to scroll@phideltatheta.org to receive recognition in a future issue.

Benefit Calendar

Florida Gamma has been helping support ALSA for many years. About six years ago, the chapter put together a calendar that was sold to raise money for ALSA. Brothers asked for one applicant from each of the 16 sorority houses at Florida State University at the time. After interviewing the women, nine were selected to be photographed for the calendar. The winner, whose father ironically was battling ALS, appeared on the cover.

Phi Delta Palooza

To raise money for ALS, brothers of Missouri Eta put together Phi Delta Palooza, a battle between local bands.

Raffles and Auctions

Maryland Gamma organized a silent auction of goods from local businesses that raised $400. Georgia Gamma raised $100 by holding a raffle in association with its 130th anniversary. The brothers of Virginia Theta also held a raffle that raised $100 for ALSA.

Walk-A-Thon

One hundred dedicated brothers plus the participation and cooperation of 13 sororities at Ole Miss equaled one truly incredible event for Mississippi Alpha last October. The chapter's first annual Walk-a-Thon raised more than $20,000 for ALS! Each participant was asked to seek sponsors to donate a certain amount of money for each mile walked. Money was also raised by selling T-shirts and by asking businesses to buy ads to be displayed on the back of the T-shirts and on signs around the track at which the walk took place. The event got great coverage in local papers and radio stations. Brothers of Mississippi Alpha are looking forward to another successful Walk-A-Thon next year.

During the 2002-2003 academic year, Phi Delt chapters raised more than $32,300 to help fight ALS.

Football

The 9-5 Texas Tech Tangerine Bowl squad, with 12 Phis, was led by All-Big 12 Conference second team performer Wes Welker, who had 2,055 all-purpose yards. He was second with 86 receptions for 1,054 yards, seven touchdowns; returned 57 punts for a 13.2 average, three TDs (including an 88-yarder); and rushed for 244 yards on just 31 carries. Named to the Academic All-Big 12 first team were OG Cody Campbell, WR Dupre Scovell and WR Taylor Jobe. Also seeing action were K Wich Brennan, QB Cody Hodges and WR Slade Hodges.

Kicker Nick Novak was named to the All-ACC and All-ACC Academic first teams after leading the 11-3 Maryland Peach Bowl team (coached by Ralph Friedgen, Maryland '70) with a school record 125 points. He hit on 24 of 28 field goal attempts and 53 of 54 extra point attempts. He had a career long 51 yard FG versus Duke and kicked three field goals versus Wofford (50,43,39), Tennessee and Wake Forest. K Jonathan Nichols led the 7-6 Mississippi Independence Bowl club with 85 points (15 of 20 field goal attempts, 40 of 40 extra point attempts). He booted a career best 50 yard FG against Arkansas State; had three FGs versus Vanderbilt; and was named to the Verizon District All-Academic team. Teammate Bo Hartsfield had three starts at TE for the Rebels.

William Chapman won the North Carolina outstanding DE award after posting 27 tackles and forcing two fumbles. David Jorgensen started seven games at OG and two at C for the 8-5 Florida Outback Bowl team. RB Sunny Byrd scored a touchdown in the Rose Bowl for the 11-2 Southern California squad and was a good special teams player. Other NCAA Division I-A players included P John Millar of the Oregon State Insight.com Bowl squad; K Ryan Gullet of the 9-5 Arkansas Music City Bowl club; OG Jacob Bell, who started nine games for Miami (Ohio) head coach Terry Hoeppner, Franklin '69; Shane Williams, who had three starts at TE for Baylor; and TE Trent Hrncir, who played 11 contests for SMU and had a TD catch.

The 7-3 Davidson squad (with 16 Phis) was led by co-captain/QB Paul

Nichols, who was named to the All-Pioneer Football League South Division first team. He completed 174 of 308 for 2,189 yards and a school record 25 TDs. He was PFL Offensive Player of the Week after hitting 22 of 36 for 267 yards and a record-tying five TDs versus Austin Peay. Paul now holds school career records with 5,822 passing yards, 465 completions and 51 TDs. Other standouts were All-PFL South Division first team C Jon Davis, OG Will McMurray and OT Rutledge Johnson plus WR Chris Monfiletto and WR Mike Halkitis.

Leading Davidson's defense was PFL South Division Player of the Year cocaptain/LB Jim Carney, who had 74 tackles. All-PFL South Division first team DE Ryan Tennis had a team high 14.5 tackles for loss and eight sacks (among his 47 stops). Gaining All-PFL honorable mention was LB Brendan Dete, who had 64 tackles. Also playing well were DB Peter Lowry (47 tackles), DB Zach Drozda (28 tackles) and LB Wilson McDowell (20 tackles). Specialists earning All-PFL South Division first team honors were K Dan Hanks (64 points) and P

Chris Costello (48 boots for a 38.2 average).

All-Ivy League first team K Peter Veldman was the top scorer for 9-1 Pennsylvania with 79 points (secondhighest kicking total in school history). He connected on 12 of 15 field goals attempts and set a school mark with 43 of 43 extra point attempts. Peter was also on the Ivy League All-Academic first team and gained All-ECAC honorable mention. Earning All-PFL north division first team honors for Drake was OG Eric Link. Playing for Butler were All-PFL North Division first team OT Carl Erickson; All-PFL honorable mention WR Adam Lafferty, who led with 35 catches for 657 yards; and DB Brandon Martin, who had 47 stops, eight deflections and 13 punt returns for a 13.1 average.

Another All-PFL North Division first teamer was OG Tom Byrne of Valparaiso, who started 44 straight games in his career. TE Greg Sommersberger gained All-PFL honorable mention and caught 24 balls for 362 yards. He also gained Verizon Academic All-District second team honors, as did LB Adam DeSilva. Other key teammates included RB Matt Van Daele, QB Joe Milazzo, OL Paul Montgomery, OL Kyle Padgett, DB Adam Oas and DL Ross Conner and DL Bill Marshall.

Seeing action for the NCAA Division I-AA championship Western Kentucky squad (coached by AFCA National Coach of the Year Jack Harbaugh, Bowling Green State '61) was OG Jeremiah Sowards. TE Randy Moshier caught eight passes for Southwest Texas State and scored the winning 34 yard touchdown on a fourth quarter fake punt versus Texas A&M-Kingsville. Playing for Cal Poly-SLO was offensive OL Nick Zantich.

Matt Massari of the 9-3 California-Davis playoff team was a top runner in Division II, gaining 1,274 yards and scoring 11 TDs on 210 attempts. He also caught 30 passes for 280 yards and was named to the All-Independent Football Alliance first team. Matt was D2Football.com National Offensive Player of the Week after gaining a careerhigh 237 yards (including an 89-yarder) versus Abilene Christian. He also ran for 221 yards against Cal Poly-Pomona and 180 versus St. Mary's. Teammate Kenny Kearns completed 30 of 56 for 369 yards and OL Ryan Pegnim played in seven contests.

Arkansas Alpha University of Arkansas

Our highly successful year has set us up nicely for Summer Rush 2003. Potential new members will be impressed to meet our 25 newest members and learn about our Casino Party that raised $5,000 for the Arkansas Children's Hospital. In addition, we held our annual Jennings Osborne Homecoming Barbecue benefiting the Pulaski County Humane Society. Arkansas Alpha alumnus, Jennings Osborne, is known across the nation as the person who lights Disneyworld, Graceland and the Jimmy Carter Presidential Library during the holiday season. Each year, he hosts the barbeque which is becoming a more major campus-wide gathering each year. -Kelvin Stroud

California Theta University of California, Irvine

Our first large-scale event as the "new" California Theta proved highly successful as we raised $1,000 to benefit ALS.

We sold 105 tickets for a show at the Improv. A representative from the local ALSA chapter in our area was at the event to accept the check, making the contribution even more meaningful to us.

-James Harvey

Colorado Gamma Colorado State

In February we held our annual Founders Day dinner, awards ceremony and dance at the Marriott in Ft. Collins. We were able to honor six legionnaires this year. -CJ Smith

Florida Delta University of Miami

Our chapter has completely transformed itself this past year. The fall and spring pledge classes have doubled the number of members, and we made a strong showing on campus with intramurals, philanthropy, and Greek Week. Our president, Jason Magesis, was initiated into the Order of Omega and 78% of the Brothers had a 3.0 or better in grades. After such a successful year, and the promise of another one, we are looking forward to our end of the year celebration, "Formal in the Florida Kevs." -Lee Katzman

Florida Lambda Ringling School of Art and Design

We celebrated our 10-year anniversary this past January in Sarasota. Over 35 brothers from as far away as California and New York reunited for this four-day celebration. Guest speakers included Robert Kimbrough, Davidson '55, a board member at Ringling; Lee DeLieto, Syracuse '64, Sarasota Alumni Club president; Arland Christ-Janer, Carlton '44, past president of Ringling; as well as many other brothers all joining in the festivities.

-Adam Cromie

Georgia Delta

More than 500 actives and states gathered on November 16 to celebrate our 100th anniversary. The evening took place at the historic Biltmore Hotel in Mid-town Atlanta in with composite pictures of each class. Copies of the composite of the original pledge class at Georgia Tech were passed out to all in the Hot Nuts, who plaved their first gig 40 years ago at Tech, entertained us before we recognized George Matthews for his contribution toward the renovation of the chapter house and Michael Franke for his continued commitment to the Housing Corp Committee. -Alfie Means

Indiana Zeta DePauw University

Three members of our chapter are being rewarded for their scholarship and community involvement through the generosity of Albert Lund, '48. David Trogden, Andrew Behrmann and Richard Livingston have been selected to receive Lund Scholarships of $5,000 each. Larry Lund. 77, Albert Lund's son, returned to campus to announce the scholarship recipients. He shared that, "my dad gets tremendous satisfaction in helping these young men achieve their goals, and he especially enjoys the letters and e-mails he exchanges with the Scholars, and learning how their lives are developing." -Ken Owen

Iowa Delta Drake University

This semester we became involved with a company called Digital Aid that works to send computers over to Africa. We sent members downtown to help sell raffle tickets and T-shirts that raised money to be donated to Digital Aid, and we were recognized publicly by the company for our service.

-Matt Garner

Kansas Beta Washburn University

Kansas Beta welcomes 17 new members this semester. For the fourth consecutive semester, we recruited the most new members of any fraternity on campus. In addition to raising more than $1,200 for charity, we contributed 800 hours of service to the community. This spring we will be celebrating Founders Day and holding our first charity golf tournament. —Phil Kaberline

Michigan Epsilon Northwood University

We have worked hard to better ourselves as a chapter this year, as well as increasing our alumni communications with the implementation of our new and improved web site www.morrisonlives.com. We are also looking forward to celebrating our 20th anniversary as a chapter on Northwood's campus with all of our alumni from the last two decades. —Brent Warner

Mississippi Alpha University of Mississippi

Cameron Stubbs, '03, was critically injured in an accident in the Bahamas over Spring Break. Our chapter has established a relief fund for Cameron and his family to help during this difficult time.

Any donations would be greatly appreciated, and they can be made out to Phi Delta Theta/Cameron Stubbs and mailed to P.O. Box 8167, University, MS 38677. The recovery fund will be instrumental in providing the financial support to house his family during their stay in Miami and to help ease the financial burden associated with time off from work, as well as medical bills.

—Harland Webster

Missouri Epsilon Southwest Missouri State University

This spring at our annual Founders Day Golf Tournament and Banquet, Eric Westacott, '95, was the keynote speaker. Westacott sustained a serious spinal cord injury which participating in a Greek intramural softball game. However he went on to graduate from SMSU and then earned his Juris doctor degree in 2001 from St. Louis University. We are pleased to honor Eric and the Eric Westacott Foundation, created to raise money for spinal cord research. - Jeremy Hake

New Mexico Alpha University of New Mexico

We are continuing to be a very strong force in the Greek Community. With two executive officers and two chairs sitting on the Interfraternity Council, our involvement is unmatched by any of the other fraternities on campus. This spring the chapter took home the prestigious Greek Cup for having the most overall points during Greek Week.

We would also like to send a huge thank you to all our alumni brothers for their support and generosity.

Oklahoma Alpha University of Oklahoma

Last fall, we hosted our annual "Pre-Dally Rally" with the sisters of Pi Beta Phi. This year's event which drew more than 2,000 students and fans to our lawn received live news coverage from three major Oklahoma news stations. We raised just over $1,000 which we donated to a local organization that benefits under-privileged children. More recently, we placed first overall on the Chi Omega/ Lambda Chi Alpha "Campus Kidnap" - an event during which Greek presidents are kidnapped and held at the Chi Omega house until their members return with 100 or more cans of food for donation to the Oklahoma Regional Food Bank. Oklahoma Alpha contributed 970 of the 4,200 cans, earning us our third consecutive landslide victory in the event.

Carmen Kipp died December 13, 2002 at his home after a three-week battle with melanoma. The unexpected diagnosis followed nearly three-quarters of a century of healthy, life-embracing vitality.

Kipp was born and raised in Salt Lake City, graduating from the University of Utah and the Utah Law School and then founded the firm of Kipp and Charlier (later Kipp and Christian). Among his broad passions were the practice of law, people and conversation, skiing, golf, jazz music, cooking, flowers, anything Christmas and Phi Delta Theta. He was president of the Salt Lake and Utah Jaycees, member of the Salt Lake Kiwanis Club and served as a director of the Salt Lake Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Kipp was always a big supporter of Utah Alpha and also received the Fraternity Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year Award which is given for Fraternity service, community involvement and service to higher education.

Blah Blah Blah Wills Blah Blah

ver the years you've probably read so many words about wills that you could teach a college course on the subject. You know, for example, that nearly everybody needs a will and yet most people procrastinate about getting one. You know that a will can be used to provide for loved ones, make special bequests, name guardians and to generally make life easier for those who survive your death. You know all this stuff. Blah blah blah blah.

So why should you read on?

Because we have a gift for you, an antidote for the blahs. We would like to send you a free packet of material that contains the latest information about wills, probate, general estate planning and charitable bequests. Good stuff. Interesting stuff. We call it our "Will Information Kit."

Read what these folks have to say about our Will Information Kit:

"I no longer have the estate planning blahs. Your kit cured me for good."

> —Willing Wilber, Willbury, Wyoming

"After reading your material, I ran to the attorney's office to update my will. We fell in love and were married the next day. I owe it all to your marvelous Will Kit."

-Wilma Willer, Willtown, Wisconsin

"I used to have trouble waking up in the morning. Now, all I do is read a few paragraphs of your material and I bound out of bed ready and willing for the day."

—Will Wilson, Willingham, W. Virginia

Seriously, we are proud of our Will Information Kit and we think you will find it valuable. Your packet is here, ready to be mailed. All you need to do is fill out the form below and mail it to the Educational Foundation's office. Or you can call us at (513) 523-6966.

The faster you act, the sooner we can rush you our Will Information Kit. Please understand you are under no obligation by requesting this information.

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION

Dear Scroll Reader,

We hope you enjoy reading each issue of The Scroll that arrives in your mailbox. However, we know that some copies of the magazine are mailed to bad addresses (which might include an initiate's parents' address, an old address and sometimes addresses that don't even exist) or to members that simply aren't interested in reading the magazine.

To cut down on the expenses associated with mailing unwanted copies and mailing to incorrect addresses, The General Council would like everyone currently receiving the magazine to confirm their subscription by December 31, 2003.

If you want to continue receiving this magazine, please let us know through any of the methods listed in the box to the right. We have printed a special message next to your address below indicating your subscription status at press time. If you no longer wish to receive the magazine, you may also inform us of that decision through any of the listed methods.

We want to give all our readers proper notice so we will be including details regarding subscription confirmations in every issue of The Scroll in 2003.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact the General Headquarters via mail, e-mail (scroll@phideltatheta.org) or by phone (513-523-6345) for assistance.

General Convention in North Beach

Join your brothers and their families in Newport Beach, California, for Phi Delta Theta's 75th Biennial Covention, June 24-27, 2004. Four of Phi Delta Theta's area alumni clubs are already working to make sure you and your family have a great time. The General Convention is the Fraternity's supreme legislative body. Every other year, convention delegates—which include representatives from chapters, alumni and General Fraternity officers—meet to conduct business, vote on several important issues and elect a new General Council. In the coming months, we will be providing more detailed information on the Convention so you can make plans. Be sure to visit www.phideltatheta.org or call (513) 523-6345 to learn more about this important event.

Presidents Leadership College

For the fifth straight year, St. Louis, Missouri, will host Phi Delta Theta's Presidents Leadership Conference on January 8-11, 2004. Each chapter president will be invited to participate in "The Summits of Leadership" where they will learn new skills to enable them and their chapters to achieve greater success.

Emerging Leaders Institute

The General Council is pleased to announce a new program which will bring Phis back to Oxford in the summer of 2004. Leadership College: Emerging Leaders Institute will be held July 31-August 3 and focuses on the young and upcoming leaders in each chapter. Each chapter will be encouraged to send two of their emerging leaders to Oxford for this premiere event.

Why We Say, "Fraternity for Life"

When alumni clubs receive the list of Legionnaires and Palladians for Founders Day, it always starts with the oldest first – those eligible for a Diamond Palladian, marking 75 years since they are initiated into our great Fraternity. This year, I noticed that the first name on the Emerald City list was Robert Hanscom, initiated in 1927 at Butler University which also happens to be my alma mater. I phoned Brother Hanscom to invite him to receive his award, but unfortunately he is now bedridden. So, on Easter Sunday I drove to Redmond, Wa., where he lives. Although his body is frail, his mind is as sharp as ever. Surrounded by his entire family, he sat up in bed while I pinned a Golden Legion pin with the 75-year Diamond Palladian charm on his pajamas. On April 29, one week after our ceremony, Brother Hanscom turned 99. Having the opportunity to share this special occasion truly brought home for me that Phi Delta Theta is "A Fraternity for life."

Kindness Rewarded Almost 80 Years Later

By Rusty Richardson, Tampa '80, Educational Foundation President, and L. Farnum Johnson, Jr., Colorado '51

he Trustees of the Educational Foundation are pleased to announce the creation of the David S. and Julia Jenkins Fellowship Fund. This new, fully endowed fund has been created through an extremely generous gift from Mrs. Jenkins in memory of her late husband, David S. Jenkins, Colorado '25.

Proceeds from this fund will be used to provide three or more graduate fellowships each year. Priority consideration will be given to alumni from the Colorado Alpha and Arizona Alpha chapters. The first fellowships will be awarded in 2004.

Although David Jenkins died in 1984, his affiliation with Phi Delta Theta and the act of kindness date back to the early 1920s. David joined Phi Delta Theta at the University of Colorado on January 22, 1922. In 1925, David decided to transfer to the University of Arizona and learned he could affiliate with the relatively young Arizona Alpha chapter.

He and a friend set out by automobile for Tucson from Evergreen, Colorado—where David's family lived. Along the way David became thirsty and stopped to get a drink from a water tap he spotted near the side of the road. Fortunately his friend wasn't thirsty and did not drink the water.

By the time the pair reached the Phi Delta Theta chapter house in Tucson, David was running a fever. He then collapsed and was immediately taken to a hospital run by an order of nuns. David had contracted typhoid fever from the contaminated water. The drugs and antibiotics needed to fight the disease had not yet been invented. Air conditioning was still unknown so the best anyone could do was to try to keep him cool by applying damp towels and hope that the fever would break.

The Arizona Alpha chapter organized its members to assist the nuns with around-the-clock nursing for their Brother from Colorado Alpha. For over two months they looked after him and tried to keep David cool. Finally, the fever broke and David began the slow recovery.

Because of the illness and long recovery, David never did enroll at the University of Arizona. The next year, he returned to the University of Colorado where he later graduated.

One young man who was especially helpful to David during his recovery was a member of the 1925 pledge class, Lee F. Johnson. This was the start of a life-long friendship. After Lee's first year at the University of Arizona, he transferred to the University of Colorado and later served as that chapter's president.

Following their graduations, both David and Lee moved to Washington, D.C. This was during the early days of the New Deal. David went to work with the Department of the Interior where he became Director of the Office of Saline Water. His responsibilities included working on the development of systems to convert saline and brackish water to safe drinking water. He provided technical assistance to communities around the world. His experience in Arizona with typhoid fever helped direct him to his ultimate career.

It was in Washington that David and Julia first met. A member of Delta Gamma at Indiana University, Julia moved to Washington following her graduation. She and David met at a social function and were later married.

Because of David and Lee's close friendship, Lee's son—L. Farnum Johnson, Jr., Colorado '51—has known the Jenkins since he was a young boy. He now serves as Julia's attorney and advisor.

From the time they were married until his death in 1984, David and Julia seldom missed a Founders Day Banquet in the Washington area. David truly embodied the statement, "Phi Delta Theta Fraternity is a Fraternity for Life." He credited the kindness and support of the Arizona Alpha brothers with saving his life. They truly became their Brother's keeper. David remained eternally grateful, as does his wife, Julia, even today. It is an expression of that gratitude that prompted Julia to make this wonderful gift that will benefit members of Arizona Alpha and Colorado Alpha for generations to come.

On February 22, 2003, Colorado Gamma and our club held our annual Founders Day celebration at the Fort Collins Marriott. More than 150 undergraduates, alumni and guests attended. Erik Nilsson, Colorado State '67, director of emergency management for Larimer County, was the keynote speaker. Six alumni were inducted into the Golden Legion. We also voted to switch from monthly to quarterly meetings and to hold meetings and events in Denver as well as in northern Colorado.

Our next major event was the annual Golf Tournament benefiting the Rob Upton Scholarship Fund and ALS. The two-some scramble was held at The Broadlands Golf Course in Broomfield on Friday, September 26. A dinner and Centennial celebration for Colorado Alpha followed.

The Orange County, California Alumni Club celebrated Founders Day on March 13 with a dinner at the Pacific Club in Newport Beach. Fortyseven alumni and ten undergraduates from UC Irvine attended the dinner hosted by Jim Burra, Northridge '67, chairman of the Educational Foundation. Don Knapp, USC '52; Gordon Haag, Allegheny '49; and Dick Gerlach, Nebraska '55, were inducted into the Golden Legion. Fourteen other Phis received Silver Legion pins.

The club, which will host the 2004 General Convention in Newport Beach, is also planning a golf tournament for later this summer.

Akron: On July 10, the Greek Alumni Society of The University of Akron honored Dr. Paul Martin, '35, with the Greek Leadership Service Award that recognizes an outstanding alumnus who has contributed his/her time and talents toward preserving and promoting the excellence of The University of Akron Greek System. In 1991 Dr. Martin received the Phi Delta Theta International Alumnus of the Year Award and in 1999 he was recognized by the Fraternity and Foundation by having the General Headquarters building in Oxford named in his honor.

Arkansas: Greg Hale, '97, and Robert McLarty, '98, are both serving as directors of advance positions for competing presidential campaigns. Greg is working for Senator John Kerry of Massachusetts and Robert is with Senator Bob Graham of Florida. Pledge brothers and good friends, these two also worked in Washington during the Clinton presidential campaigns and his administration.

Dalhousie: Ross Kerr, '95, is in project management at Canada Life and recently completed his MBA.

DePauw: Wesley Huffstutter, '97, received a Master of Business Administration degree from the John M. Olin School of Business at Washington University in St. Louis. He was designated as a Charles F. Knight Scholar. acknowledging the top 10 graduating students. He has also completed a Master of Engineering Management degree.

Kansas: Wayland Stephenson, '40, and his wife have retired to Sisters, Oregon to be near their daughters and grandchildren. He was a neurologist in the Navy and then for many years at Sansum Medical Clinic, Santa Barbara.

Lawrence: Scott Reppert, '83, was recently inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in South Bend, Ind. He is

Unique Halls of Fame Have Phi Delt Roots

Just miles apart on Florida's Atlantic south coast, two halls of fame open their doors each morning to visitors. One door opens to the swing of Big Band favorites, the other opens with a splash.

The International Swimming Hall of Fame in Ft. Lauderdale and the Big Band Hall of Fame in West Palm Beach both have roots closely connected to Phi Delta Theta.

Every Child A Swimmer

Born and raised in Ohio, G. Harold Martin's, Florida State '22, first encounter with an ocean's current was most memorable.

"Dad was certainly not experienced with the ocean," notes his Phi son, James Martin, Florida '53, "and that first dip in the ocean was almost his last.

"He didn't know it at the time, but that swim was occurring just as the ocean's waves began being effected by the Hurricane of 1926. Fortune was on his side, though, as the force of the waves washed him ashore."

But, the fear of that night stayed with Brother G. Harold Martin until his entrance into the Chapter Grand at age 97 in 1998.

"That one encounter gave my dad a mission that lasted his entire lifetime and included the founding of this wonderful place," says James Martin as he overlooks the Olympic-size pool at the International Swimming Hall of Fame aquatic center.

Water safety on his mind as a 25-year-old in 1926, Brother Martin was instrumental in the building of the Ft. Lauderdale Float, a platform on a series of pontoons with a diving board, located just beyond the break of the waves on Ft. Lauderdale Beach. That same year, he continued his safety in swimming campaign by promoting the salt water Casino Pool, the first public pool in the community. In 1935 at Brother Martin's urging, university swim teams began training at Casino Pool and formed the College Coaches Swim Forum. Many consider this act the inauguration of the spring break phenomena. A lawyer by profession and a city judge for a brief tenure, Judge Martin wrote the official charter of the College Coaches Swim Forum Committee. Three decades later, he would lead the charge to have the Fort Lauderdale City Commission locate a Swimming Hall of Fame on or near the site of the original Casino

Within the International Swimming Hall of Fame are tributes to the greatest aquatic heroes and accomplishments, as well as a focus on the preservation of the sport's history and its many disciplines. From Johnny Weissmuller to current record breakers, every aspect of the sport of swimming is examined and applauded.

Judge Martin championed the well-known phrase "Every Child A Swimmer," which was an initial International Swimming Hall of Fame outreach campaign to teach children to swim. The "Every Child A Swimmer" Program continues to educate school children on water safety and swimming and is now conducted through the Kiwanis Club's Key Club International, thanks again to Brother Martin. Knock, Knock Answering the Ultimate Question

Nearly everyone asks themselves, "What should I do with my life" at some point, even those people who seem-than jump at the first job he could, Bronson decided to seek the experience of other people who had answered

ingly have already found their calling. After working as an aerobics instructor, high school teacher, bond trader and a variety of other jobs, Po Bronson, Stanford '86, finally earned critical and financial success as a writer, his passion since he was in grade school. His three novels, Bombar-

this question in their own lives. In the process he met and interviewed more than 900 people from all walks of life and compiled the stories of 55 of them for his new book What Should 1 Do with My Life? (Random House). |

The book focuses on the interviews of these people who writing projects on the horizon, even he started asking himself what he calls the "ultimate question." | Rather have dared to be honest with themselves and follows them through their journey to engage their hearts and minds into jobs that they love. But how should people go about finding what they should do with their lives? Bronson's book helps with this question by looking at the experiences of these people who are doing what they truly love.

In the book's introduction he writes: "I began this project because I hit that point in my life. The television show I'd been writing for was canceled. The magazines I wrote for had thinned their pages. My longtime book editor had quit to pursue theater and film. I was out of work, I had a baby on the way (my first) and I was worried..."

Another motivation behind the book, Bronson says, is to help other people facing this same turning point by demonstrating how others deal with similar circumstances. For instance, Bronson points out that it is very common among the people he interviewed to start asking this question seriously only after being confronted with a crisis.

"What really gets people to ask the question is that they're forced to," explains Bronson. "Their feet get put to the fire. They have to choose a major; they graduate; they get laid off; they get divorced; they suffer an illness; someone in their life dies. Those are the main factors that force someone to to find a way to give back to society. So, it sounds like a selfish question but the answers are often unselfish."

At Stanford, Bronson was surrounded by a culture of high achievement, but he says that rather than being motivated to do something significant his classmates went to Stanford subconsciously to "succeed and maintain their status."

This motivation to succeed financially often leads to nagging and inexplicable feelings of dissatisfaction later in life. "These brilliant masses that haven't really given back to society, would probably be a lot happier if they did that," Bronson says of his Stanford peers.

On the other hand, the possibilities are endless for those with passion for what they do. In his book, Bronson talks about the behaviors of passionate employees and their rewards – including money, responsibility, and most importantly, the satisfaction of knowing your place in the world.

Bronson himself didn't really know what he pursue an answer to this question. People often fantasize about it, but no one I interviewed just did it out of fantasy. There were always real life triggers making something happen."

Often asking the question comes with feelings of guilt and confusion, because people, especially those who've experienced financial success, think they're being indulgent or selfish. But Bronson insists that reaction, although normal, is the first barrier to fulfilling their dreams.

"The reason they ask the question in the first place is that they're privileged, and they got to go to college and make something of themselves," Bronson says. "And that is a responsibility and a burden and also an opportunity. Asking the question then becomes a way to meet this opportunity, should do as a career while he was in college, and he credits the older brothers in California Beta for giving him guidance. They pointed the way to the career development office and helped him to start thinking about employment after college.

"In the Fraternity, my brothers were enormously helpful," he says. "There were a number of guys who were two or three years older who were the student union's financial managers. And they were into the stock market and into business. So when investment banking first became cool, they interviewed for and got these jobs in consulting. And they passed that down so that it grew from generation to generation, class to class."

The brothers helped Bronson land a summer job on campus as the assistant to the financial manager, and after college he started working as a bond trader for First Boston. But he realized quickly it wasn't his passion. He turned down a six-figure income for a career as a writer. It took a little longer, but his brothers eventually started questioning their career choices, too.

"Many of them are now hitting a point at 38, 39, 40, 41 (years old) where they're wondering if there isn't more to life," Bronson says.

Bronson didn't interview any Phis for his book, but he has talked to his brothers about his project, acting at times as a counselor. "There are several of them who have confessed that they've had trouble focusing at work since a parent died," he says. "Or one friend of mine told me he was taking a leave of absence from his job to go back to seminary school."

For Bronson's brothers and other people facing this question later in life, the lack of a clear epiphany that illuminates them about the meaning of their lives and their purpose in it sometimes makes them feel that perhaps they are not passionate about anysays it's particularly difficult for college students to find their calling before they've graduated and worked at a variety of different jobs.

"I think it's wrong to think you can figure out what you want to do before you graduate. You temper your decisions with experience, and that's a necessary part of the process."

Bronson's advice is to try to filter out the little voices in the back of your mind that tell you to be practical or do the respectable thing. Try to find the little voice that reminds you what you love to do, and try not to have unrealistic goals. "Dreams are like children," he says. "You can't burden them with too high of expectations too soon."

David Slatton, Whitman '90, was editor of The Scroll from 1992 to 1995 and interviewed Bronson following the release of his first book, Bombadiers, for a story in the 1995 spring issue. Read the 1995 article in The Scroll section of www.phideltatheta.org. Slatton now works for Adobe in Seattle, Washington.

A calling "The idea of having a calling is kind of a misnomer. Most people think 'I'm kind of interested in politics or auto repair, but is that something I want to do for the rest of my life?"

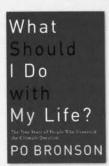

thing. But Bronson says that passions are cultivated, not revealed.

"People are not hit with this clear sense of what they want to do very often," he says. "The idea of having a calling is kind of a misnomer. Most people think 'I'm kind of interested in politics or auto repair, but is that something I want to do for the rest of my life?' Well, nothing passes that test."

Bronson says it's better to ask yourself if you're interested enough in something to just take the first step, to volunteer or do some research into the idea first. Fulfillment comes along the way. "For the vast majority of people, they grow into their passions," Bronson explains.

Because these passions seem to reveal themselves slowly and through a lot of soul-searching, Bronson SINCE THE RELEASE of his fourth book, Po Bronson has been a busy man. He has been featured on NPR, the Today Show, Good Morning America, on the cover of Fast Company magazine and continues an extensive tour of booktstores, colleges and conferences. You can learn more about Bronson, his other projects and Mentoring for Success . . . teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime.

PHI CONNECTIONS

Mentoring and professional resource program prepares to open its doors online

ook back on your life. Briefly ponder on a few of the successes you have experienced. In fact, even think about some of the challenges you faced earlier in life, but overcame those obstacles. Was there someone there to provide you feedback and assistance that helped you achieve your success? Did someone teach you some skills or share some personal life experiences to help you become a better person?

We've all been assisted sometime in our life by family, friends, church members, coaches and teachers to name a few. These people became a mentor to you. They taught you how to work through a personal problem, to swing a baseball bat properly, to treat others with kindness, to fix a flat tire. The list is endless. Your mentors helped make you the person you have become.

Today, mentoring is a hot topic within the world of education and business. Not because it's "the latest craze" in training or written about in various magazine articles, but because mentoring works! Studies have shown that students perform better when they have a good mentor to assist them with schoolwork as well as things that affect them outside the classroom. Studies have also shown that new teachers who connect with a mentor experience more satisfaction from their job than teachers who do not have a mentor. Business professionals have used mentoring strategies for decades. If you looked in any successful real estate business or company sales division, you will not only find a solid training program but also a strong mentoring program.

The greatest outcome from a good mentoring relationship is that it benefits the mentor as well as the mentee. The relationship provides such a positive learning opportunity for both parties that it magnifies the experience. Our undergraduate members need mentors, and our alumni have something to give to our undergraduate members. It is with this reason that Phi Connections is being created.

- Phi Connections is the Fraternity's new mentoring and professional development program. It provides a method for all Phis from across the United States, Canada. and abroad to "connect" with other Phis and to discuss their professional and personal development needs.
- ■■ Phi Connections complements the member development program, The Accolade. Phi Connections provides the opportunity for our undergraduate members to find an alumni mentor to discuss their educational goals, career aspirations and personal development. The program provides a place for undergraduates to seek-out a mentor (or mentors) and create a relationship that benefits both of them. For example, the undergraduate may be inquiring about a career choice. Through Phi Connections, he will have the chance to "connect" with a variety of Phis that can give him assistance and insight into that career.
- Phi Connections is not only for undergraduates. Alumni can utilize the program to also "connect" with other Phis to discuss their professional development needs. An alumnus may be considering a career change or demographic change. He can utilize Phi Connections to find other Phis who currently work in the career area he is considering or who live in the demographic area where he is curious about moving.
- Phi Connections is not a job board. It is a program that allows each member the opportunity to learn from each other on a variety of levels such as personal and career development. Phi Connections provides a method and means for Phis from across the globe to extend the helping hand of brotherhood. It allows undergraduates the privilege of having a mentor while also helping alumni become involved in the Fraternity again.

GOLD 2002-2003 STARCHAPTERS

Twenty chapters awarded the Fraternity's highest honor for excellence

he Gold Star Award recognizes Phi Delta Theta's top chapters. It is presented annually to the chapters that achieve the greatest success in overall operations.

Ranging from exceptional community service and campus involvement to outstanding academics and leadership, these chapters have clearly made their mark of excellence. Congratulations to these Gold Star chapters! By Jentry Garber Theiss

Connecticut Alpha

Central Connecticut State University

Founded only a year ago on December 14, 2002, this innovative chapter has led Phi Delta Theta into our last unchartered continental U.S. state. Not satisfied as the only Greek organization on campus, the men of Connecticut Alpha helped to recruit and organize a Phi Sigma Sigma chapter on campus and began a Greek Council. The chapter also recently completed a Walk for Multiple Sclerosis, raising more than $2,000 for the cause. If this chapter's first-year accomplishments are any indication of years to come, Phi Delta Theta will have a bright future in the state of Connecticut. Congratulations to Connecticut Alpha on its first Gold Star!

Indiana Lambda University of Southern Indiana

After a six-year absence, the men of Indiana Lambda have won their second Gold Star Award in the chapter's 17-year history. This has been quite a rebuilding year for the chapter. Members successfully recruited and initiated 12 men and continued to revamp their recruitment program. The chapter participated in a number of philanthropies and service projects such as the September Smash, a Golf Scramble, the Big Man on Campus, the Rock-A-Thon, the King of Hearts, Greek Week Giving, Adopt-A-Highway, and Walk to D'Feet ALS. Previous Gold Star: '97.

lowa Gamma lowa State University

The men of Iowa Gamma received their 30th Gold Star

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY

Award and 15th Harvard Trophy during their 90th anniversary year. This is the third consecutive year Iowa Gamma has won the Harvard Trophy. This year's activities upheld the chapter's reputation for excellence by hosting two successful philanthro-pies — a BBQ for Juvenile ALS which raised more than $700 and a "Tuck-In" service to raise money for the American Cancer Society. The Cyclone Phis were highly visible in campus activities. They received second place overall at VEISHEA (the nation's largest student-run festival) and first place in the medium-size float competition. At homecoming, the Phikeia class finished second in the Yell-Like-Hell competition. Finally, the chapter also won the Intramural Hockey and Ragball competitions. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '01, '98, '97, '96, '95, '94, '93, '91, '90, '88, '86, '85, '84, '83, '82, '80, '78, '77, '68, '67, '66, '64, '63, '62, '60, '59, '57, '56

Kansas Alpha University of Kansas

The 121-year-old Kansas Alpha chapter earned their 27th Gold Star Award. While the chapter finished fourth on campus in grades, they were only 0.09 points behind first place, excelling in the classroom with a 3.11 GPA average. The chapter takes pride in their house, claiming to have the cleanest fraternity house in the state of Kansas. The chapter also won the University of Kansas Chapter Excellence Award and was named Hill Champions — the designation of fraternity intramural champions. #### Kansas Beta

Washburn University

Washburn University's Director of Greek Life J.J. O'Toole-Curran best summarizes Kansas Beta's year. "There are many stories in our profession as Greek advisors that end traumatically, including stories of Greek life and its stereotypical pitfalls. Those are stories we have to endure. Then there are success stories, which we work to achieve and immensely enjoy when they occur. This year the Kansas Beta chapter of Phi Delta Theta has created a wonderful story of success from what could have been a traumatic conclusion to their chapter at Washburn." After being placed on both General Council and Province President Probation the men of Kansas Beta came out swinging, completing their probation in record time by going above and beyond their sanctions. It's not surprising that the chapter is this year's Kansas City Trophy winner. The Ichabod Phis of Washburn also won nearly every inter-fraternal competition, including Homecoming, Intramural

Kansas Delta

Wichita State University

The Shocker Phis at Wichita State have won their third Gold Star in their 44-year history. With the second-highest GPA on campus — a respectable 2.95 — the men of Kansas Delta have come a long way within a short period of time. They attribute their academic success to their new scholarship program and GPA Bowl. The chapter also has a strong presence in the community, raising more than $50,000 for Lou Gehrig's Disease by hosting a golf tournament. To date, this is the most money raised in one event by any Greek organization. In campus life, this year's chapter won both the "Shocktoberfest" and "Hippodrome," which are all-Greek competitions. Previous Gold Stars: '01, '78

Kentucky Alpha-Delta Centre College

"The chapter's campus identity with students, faculty and staff has been transformed not by luck, but by the persistent determination of chapter leadership dedicated to making this happen," said Irene Moss, director of Greek life, about the chapter at Centre College. The Kentucky Alpha-Delta chapter has raised its GPA into the top third on campus and is steadily climbing the ranks. Much of this success is due to their active scholarship program, which serves as an example for students throughout campus. The chapter also developed an organized program involving members' parents, and they are continuing a tradition of philanthropic work with the Louisville Cerebral Palsy School. Finally, the chapter has developed an excellent new-member education program. As a result of their hard work, the chapter completed the year as the 2002-2003 Overall Chapter of Fraternal Excellence on their campus. Previous Gold Stars: '86, '73, '69, '61, '60

Kentucky Eta

Western Kentucky University

The 54-man Kentucky Eta chapter is this year's recipient of the Founders Trophy. Members completed more than 2,500 hours of community service en route to their fourth consecutive Gold Star Award. The chapter had an exceptional year on Western Kentucky's campus — winning the Reed Morgan Award for Chapter of the Year. Members of this chapter are involved in organizations from student government to athletics, including Spirit Masters, a prestigious organization made up of only 50 members out of the 16,000 students on campus. Kentucky Eta has six men in the organization. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '01, '00, '97

Minnesota Beta

Minnesota State University

The largest chapter on Minnesota State's campus, Minnesota Beta's Gold Star year was enriched with a number of successes. The chapter implemented an active scholarship program, including the GPA Bowl, a steak and beans dinner, and teacher evaluations. As a result, they earned the top fraternity grade ranking. More than 22 members won scholarships from the Alpha Beta Mu Foundation. Overall, the chapter completed more than 2,500 hours of community service. They had members participate in organizations such as IMPACT, Men Against Rape, and Order of Omega. The chapter also hosted a Dance Marathon, raising more than $2,000 for Children's Miracle Network. Minnesota Beta ended their successful year by winning the campus' Fraternity of the Year award for the fourth time in a row. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '91, '89, '88, '87

Missouri Delta

Saint Louis University

Striving toward excellence is a continuous goal for the men of Missouri Delta. The chapter had a year that well warranted a Gold Star

Award. Keeping the chapter GPA above a 3.0 and implementing a scholarship program have been key factors in their success story this year. A number of chapter members were involved with campus organizations outside the fraternity, such as the DePaul Society kitchen. The chapter plans to host a "Shoot for the Cure" tournament for the Jack Orchard ALS Foundation, which plans to raise thousands of dollars this spring. Previous Gold Star: '92

Nebraska Gamma

Creighton University

This chapter has accomplished many achievements in its six-year history.

This year the chapter averaged a GPA of 3.51, one of the best in Creighton fraternal history! In addition to their exceptional academics, the men of Nebraska Gamma served more than 550 hours to the community through raising $2,500 for ALS during their annual "Night at Lou's" concert and working with Celebrate Literacy!, Adopt-a-Highway, and an Easter egg hunt. The chapter has also developed an excellent Phikeia program which includes a number of outside speakers and seminars. This award marks the six-year-old Nebraska Gamma chapter's fifth Gold Star. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '01, '00, '98

North Carolina Delta

North Carolina State University

North Carolina Delta continues its consistent tradition of excellence with the 13th Gold Star in its 15-year history. The chapter has developed a well-organized scholarship program and finished third in grades. The brothers were actively involved in all facets of chapter life. For example, the chapter participated in several community service events including the their own Lee Fowler Celebrity Gold Classic. The event raised more than $20,000 for ALS. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '01, '00, '99, '97, '96, '95, '94, '93, '92, '91, '90

Nova Scotia Alpha

Dalhousie University

With their second Gold Star in three years, Nova Scotia Alpha continues with a tradition of determination and excellence. They are the recipients of the Housser Trophy as the top Canadian chapter for the second time in four years. An impressive recruitment drive and 18 new initiates later, the chapter has quadrupled in size in a single year! Their work with the Goresbrook Special Needs class continues, as does their efforts with the Canadian Red Cross' Monte Carlo Night in Halifax. They have worked diligently to increase awareness of Greek life in the Halifax community, all while helping each other remember the basics of the three cardinal principles. Through retreats, to revamping Phikeia education, to raising the chapter cumulative GPA, the Nova Scotia Alpha brothers continue to lead at Dalhousie in most aspects of fraternity life. Previous Gold Stars: '01, '00, '89, '88

Oklahoma Alpha University of Oklahoma

After winning the Improvement Citation last year, Oklahoma Alpha takes home their first Gold Star Award since being re-chartered as a full chapter of Phi Delta Theta in 1999. Being named the runner-up in the OU homecoming competition coupled with their extreme improvement in scholarship ranking were the highlights of their year. Members were also heavily involved in community service activities and once again held their "Pre-Dally Rally" with Pi Beta Phi sorority to benefit the Josh Heupel #14 Foundation. Oklahoma Alpha also won the Chi Omega and Lambda Chi Alpha "Campus Kidnap" by collecting nearly 1,000 canned food items. The chapter also held a golf tournament to raise money for the Lou Gehrig's Disease (ALS) Foundation. Previous Gold Stars: '86, '85, '57, '56

Oklahoma Beta Oklahoma State University

After bringing home a Gold Star Award from last year's General Convention, Oklahoma Beta had yet another outstanding year and received their second consecutive Gold Star. They boast the fifth-highest chapter grade point average among the 19 chapters on campus. In addition, they recruited 43 new Phikeias this year and initiated 40 of them, thereby raising their chapter size to one of the largest on campus. Oklahoma Beta is justifiably proud of its community service activities, having members participate in activities such as Relay for Life, Into the Streets, and Crop Walk. This chapter is most proud of their dedication to the ritualistic works of the Fraternity. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '98, '96, '95, '94, '81, '80, '78, '77, '74

Ohio Mu

Ashland University

After earning an Improvement Citation last year, the Phis at Ohio Mu set their sights on a Gold Star and achieved their goal by winning their 11th Gold Star overall and as the honorable mention recipient of the Kansas City Trophy.

Not only was this chapter honored with these awards from Phi Delta Theta, but it also earned Ashland's Van Osdal Award for Outstanding GPA with the best overall chapter GPA, the most improved chapter on campus, and the IFC awards for risk management and philanthropy. Individual awards include a member receiving the Greek Man of the Year Award (for the second year in a row) and the chapter adviser winning Ashland's Chapter Adviser of the Year award. The chapter also started a volleyball tournament to raise money for Lou Gehrig's Disease that included Ashland students and other chapters of Phi Delta Theta throughout Ohio. Previous Gold Stars: '92, '91, '88, '87, '84, '83, '81, '70, '69, '68

Oregon Beta

Oregon State University

After winning a Silver Star last year, the Oregon Beta Phis earned their seventh Gold Star—their first since 1984. The highlights for this chapter certainly include their academic performance. As a chapter, they were ranked fourth of the 20 fraternities on campus for the fall term and their Phikeias had the best GPA of all fraternity new member classes with a 3.23 GPA. The chapter also produced several outstanding newsletters to keep alumni involved and informed about the chapter and its progress. Members participated in an annual community service activity with the Big Brothers and Big Sisters organization in which they purchased gifts for nearly 100 underprivileged children during the holiday season. Oregon Beta also has a strong program for membership education in which they bring outside speakers to discuss issues such as alcohol, drug abuse and rape awareness and prevention. Previous Gold Stars: '84, '83, '68, '61, '60, '59

Pennsylvania Pi Robert Morris University

Pennsylvania Pi received its charter in 2001 and in just two years succeeded by earning their first Gold Star. Their achievements include being the largest fraternity on campus (almost double the average chapter size); successfully recruiting and initiating at least 12 new members; and holding the top

GPA for the fall semester. The chapter also utilizes an officer expectations program to hold their officers accountable for their duties as chapter leaders. Despite being a young chapter, Pennsylvania Pi published several alumni newsletters and held an alumni event this year. They were also active in community service and philanthropy - holding the first Walk to D'feet ALS on campus, which raised nearly $1,500 for the Lou Gehrig's Disease Foundation. In addition, the chapter requires each member to complete at least 50 hours of service per year. The brothers participated in close to 20 different community service activities throughout the year.

South Dakota Alpha University of South Dakota

Earning its 13th Gold Star this year, South Dakota Alpha was also named the honorable mention winner of the Founders Trophy. The chapter is proud to have maintained a chapter GPA of better than a 3.0 and the Phikeias also accomplished academic excellence as they ranked first among all the new member classes on campus. The chapter went above and beyond their duties by utilizing the Standards for Brotherhood program to set goals for the year and improve their already strong chapter. Community service also played a pivotal role for South Dakota Alpha as they organized the Lou Gehrig Charity Golf Tournament to raise money for the ALS Foundation. Alumni relations was yet another priority as the chapter published several comprehensive alumni newsletters to keep alumni informed of chapter events. An alumni banquet was held and attracted nearly 40 alumni. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '00, '99, '97, '96, '95, '89, '88, '85, '84, '83, '81

Texas Epsilon Texas Tech University

The brothers of Texas Epsilon brought home their 36th Gold Star this year and the honorable mention for the Harvard Trophy. The chapter's cumulative GPA for fall semester ranked third among the 23 fraternities on campus. The chapter also celebrated its 50th anniversary this spring and held a Founders Day celebration that included General Council President Charley Pride and Executive Vice President Emeritus Robert J. Miller who installed the chapter 50 years ago. At the event, nearly 30 brothers were inducted into the Golden Legion. The chapter's community service and philanthropy program participated in many activities including Walk to D'Feet ALS. They also held their annual Kalf Fry and raised nearly $8,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Previous Gold Stars: '02, '99, '97, '96, '95, '94, '93, '92, '91, '88, '87, '86, '85, '84, '83, '82, '81, '78, '77, '76, '74, '73, '70, '69, '68, '67, '66, '65, '64, '62, '61, '60, '59, '57, '56

on a great IDEA

Eleven New Chapters and Counting By Jacob C. Heuser, director of expansion

n 2002-2003, Phi Delta Theta installed more chapters in one year than ever before. However, this banner year did not happen overnight. It took the extra work, effort, and time from an abundance of people. Our success has its beginnings through the dedication of the former Director of Expansion Moe Stephens. Brother Stephen's undying determination set an example for the Fraternity and an initial foundation of colonies to build from for a banner year.

The chapter services staff and loval volunteers and alumni carried on Moe's initial work and vision. Countless hours were spent aiding our new groups by our entire volunteer staff, from the General Council to the survey commissioners to province presidents, and most importantly the colony advisers. These volunteer efforts coupled with the commitment made by Senior Director of Chapter Services Marc Mores and the leadership consultants created a valuable resource for our colonies.

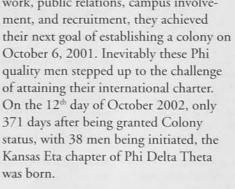

Finally, the most essential part of this year's expansion success was our undergraduate members. Their efforts were a stunning example of Morrison's philosophy, "To do what ought to be done but would not have been done unless I did it, I thought to be my duty." These 11 new chapters will be the foundation for a better Phi Delta Theta.

Kansas Eta Kansas State Univerity-Salina

On November 10, 1999, 10 freshmen at Kansas State-Salina sat down together in a residence hall room and decided they wanted to start something special, not very much different from another historic meeting that took place in 1848. They wanted to start a fraternity on their campus, something that had never been done before. They began to do some homework on fraternities, and then, taking into account the type of guys they were and men they wanted to become, they made the easy decision to explore Phi Delta Theta. They quickly became an "interest group" or as they liked to call it, a "Brotherhood Fraternity." From there, with many hours of hard work, public relations, campus involvement, and recruitment, they achieved October 6, 2001. Inevitably these Phi quality men stepped up to the challenge of attaining their international charter. On the 12th day of October 2002, only 371 days after being granted Colony status, with 38 men being initiated, the Kansas Eta chapter of Phi Delta Theta was born.

Tennessee Gamma

What sets these men apart? Due to their vast amounts of campus involvement (the bulk of KSU-Salina's male student leadership population are Phi Delts), countless hours of community service hours, and all the while staying well above the campus' all men's average GPA, they have earned the title of "Outstanding Campus Organization" every year since they became that "Brotherhood Organization."

Tennessee Gamma University of Tennessee

The Tennessee Gamma chapter of Phi Delta Theta was originally installed at the University of Tennessee in 1963. The interest was rekindled in the spring of 2001 when an interest group of 13 members began the journey to regain the charter. During that summer, the interest group chose officers and prepared for that fall's rush. With the help of General Headquarters, they cleaned out what was quite possibly the dirtiest house in the history of Phi Delta Theta. Rush was extremely successful and they continued to grow throughout the semester. With hard work and dedication, the Tennessee Gamma interest group became a colony in December 2001. The eventual goal of re-chartering was now a realistic one.

The next semester was spent on cultivating their campus reputation, while the colony members learned about the Fraternity, going through their initial Phikeia program. Furthermore, the future Phis worked extremely hard to get involved in a variety of campus organizations that got Phi Delta Theta's name out on campus. After a fall filled with another successful rush and exciting

on a great lDEA

social events, Tennessee Gamma found itself meeting all the requirements to regain the charter. With the help of our alumni, we organized the initiation location and installation. The day approached, and on October 18, 2002, the members of the Tennessee Gamma colony accepted The Bond of Phi Delta Theta. In their own words, "Phi Delt has given our group an incalculable gift in our Brotherhood." The group continues to succeed with their growing membership, initiating their first pledge class at the end of April. Furthermore, they are excelling in grades, since they are currently ranked third of 18 fraternities, and they are looking forward to homecoming with the ladies of Delta Zeta. Overall, they are striving to make the most of what they have earned, making Tennessee Gamma the shining star of both the University of Tennessee and of Phi Delta Theta.

Pennsylvania Delta Allegheny College

The Pennsylvania Delta chapter, at Allegheny College, was re-installed on November 23, 2002, with 35 brothers after starting out as an interest group on February 13 of the same year. The group, which currently possesses 46 brothers, prides itself on diversity and strong friendships.

The chapter had both its first initiation and first formal the weekend of March 29, initiating 11 Phikeias and four brothers who were abroad during the group's initiation last semester. They are now working on getting their first fraternity composite and fundraising to help lower members' dues. When the 2003-2004 school year starts, Phi Delta Theta will already be the largest fraternity on Allegheny's campus.

Connecticut Alpha Central Connecticut State University

On December 14, 2002, Central Connecticut State University became a different place. Without having a single Greek fraternity on campus for nearly 20 years, the men of Connecticut Alpha truly made their mark. Through two years of hard work and dedication, aided by the efforts of Jason Carlage, a brother Phi from New Hampshire College, Connecticut Alpha was able to create a newly constructed Greek constitution, aid in the creation of Phi Sigma Sigma sorority, and push through all the steps necessary to achieve chapter status through Phi Delta Theta. Connecticut Alpha raised nearly $22,000 from the start of the fall semester until Installation in December through > fundraisers, dues, and community service. The ritual ceremonies started Friday night in Founders Hall at Central's Campus and further Installation continued the next day with family and friends accompanied by food and song at a local restaurant. The new brothers of Connecticut Alpha declared that their installation and initiation far exceeded any of their expectations.

Kentucky Epsilon University of Kentucky

The Kentucky Epsilon colony of Phi Delta Theta was re-chartered on March 1, 2003. Many anxious alumni and proud parents attended the ceremonial celebration at the King Alumni House on the University of Kentucky campus. The newly initiated brothers reflected on the last two years as a colony. "We are all witnessing a great day for a group of men who have lit a fire that will burn for many years," said Brother Shaun Laungani, president of Kentucky Epsilon. All of these Phi Delts expressed what a pleasure it had been to accomplish this extraordinary task with the fine gentlemen involved. The Lexington, Kentucky alumni club president, Theodore Bates, in his speech, told the new brothers of his chapter that this was just the first step in the long road of making this chapter as strong as it was in his college days. Then Past General Council President, Anthony Ambrose, challenged the Fraternity to, "strive in all ways to transmit the Fraternity not only, not less, but greater than it was transmitted to them."

Brother Ambrose's challenge will be difficult for the group considering that just one month after receiving their colony status they held a philanthropy event for the Greek community that raised more money for the Phi Delta

Pennsylvania Delta

Kentucky Epsilon

Theta September 11th Rescue Relief Fund than any other chapter in the U.S. or Canada. Plus in the fall semester, they won the Annual UK Greek Week Competition and ranked second out of 20 fraternities with their overall grade point average of 3.02, which also exceeded the all-university average. The Kentucky Epsilon chapter has come a long way, but every member knows that they are capable of more.

Washington Gamma Washington State University

After leaving the Washington State campus 3 years ago, Phi Delta Theta was able to return with their re-installation on March 15, 2003. Their installation was the culmination of meetings that were held at WSU just 13 months prior. Nathan Rarick, who was originally initiated into the Idaho Alpha chapter just 10 minutes away, led the new chapter to their goal. Now that the chapter has reached its initial goal of chartering, they have refocused themselves to improving their overall programs, specifically Phikeia Education and Scholarship and also toward winning General Fraternity awards.

Wisconsin Epsilon St. Norbert College

In the fall of 2002, a student organization at St. Norbert College contacted Phi Delta Theta Headquarters, and in what seemed to be a blink of an eye they became a chapter on April 12, 2003. This joyous ceremony was culminated by the recognition of the Kausch family and the initiation of his father Gary Kausch, whose son Justin (an initial member of the group) passed away in a car accident earlier that summer. The members of the Wisconsin Epsilon chapter hold a very special place in their hearts for Justin and his family.

It is no wonder this chapter was able to accomplish their goal of chartering so quickly considering the overall make-up of the group. Every member is either in another student leadership activity on campus or a varsity sport, and the overall chapter GPA is an astonishing 3.2.

Tennessee Beta University of the South

After a short stint of working as a local fraternity, the members of Tennessee Beta decided it would be best to rejoin the International Fraternity. President

Matthew Walters along with numerous members of the group followed a long family tradition of being initiated members of the Tennessee Beta chapter. After deciding to return home to Phi Delta Theta this group achieved chapter status in just seven short months. When asked why they decided to return to Phi Delta Theta, the members simply stated they needed the structure and organization the General Fraternity could offer them.

The chapter's re-installation ceremony was accompanied by the Golden Legion Ceremony of Tennessee Beta brothers Lee Glenn and Oliver Jervis, who were initiated together on February 8, 1953.

Virginia Gamma Randolph-Macon College

Our sixth and final re-installation of the school year featured our most resilient group by far. After membership issues last year, the colony at Randolph-Macon College started the fall 2002 semester with only 10 members, 25 short of what they needed to receive a charter. However, that couldn't stop the men of Virginia Gamma. They not only got the necessary members to charter, but they also received the highest GPA on campus and numerous campus awards. They ultimately received their charter on April 26, 2003, in front of their family members and alumni.

Texas Sigma Schreiner University

In the spring of 2001, the journey toward becoming the first fraternity on the Schreiner University campus began for the members of Texas Sigma. They not only needed to create a new fraternity, but they had to do it with no other true examples on campus. This proved to be a more daunting task than anyone could have initially perceived. After what seemed to be a roller coaster of events that group received their charter in front of numerous family members, friends, and faculty of Schreiner University. The future looks bright for Texas Sigma. They feature members of every male varsity athletic team on campus and two of the four class presidents, and one out of every 10 undergraduate males at Schreiner is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

What about my chapter? It is unfortunate but true, that Phi Delt chapters close. A chapter can close or be suspended for many different reason. But, members in good standing from these chapters should know the General Fraternity hasn't forgotten them or their campus chapter. If your chapter is closed, reconnect with your brothers at www.phideltatheta.org and, starting in November, learn of possible plans to return your chapter to campus. Contact General Headquarters with any questions.

California Tau

California Tau California State University, Stanislaus

The final installation of the 2002-2003 school year may have been the most gratifying for everyone. After spending nearly three years as a colony, the men at California State University, Stanislaus earned their charter on June 8, 2003. The new chapter at CSU, Stanislaus has spent most of its existence as the largest fraternity on campus, but they knew that wasn't enough to receive their charter. Against all the odds the group continued to recruit everyday until they finally reached their pre-requisite of 35 members. The chapter installation was truly a sigh of relief for this group, but it also created an understanding that they could always shoot higher. The men of California Tau have a passion for Phi Delta Theta that is rarely seen across the country.

hen you have a year with so many wonderful triumphs, there are too many people to thank. However, Phi Delta Theta will be forever indebted to the undergraduate members of these groups and the volunteers that made their dreams possible. Keeping all of our successes in mind it is important that we remember the words of Brother Robert Morrison at the 1898 Semi-centennial Convention (a quote we have used at every installation this year), "You must guard against elation. Do not look at the past as a thing that should be satisfying; look at it only as something in general that was well done. Thank God for it, but go and do something better."

That is exactly what Phi Delta Theta plans to do. We are looking at returning to the University of Wisconsin, Madison and Gettysburg College next year, not to mention numerous new campuses. For more information on how to start a chapter or chapters currently being started, please contact the Director of Expansion Jacob C. Heuser at General Headquarters. And don't forget to check out www.phideltatheta.org in November to find out what Phi Delta Theta is doing to re-start your chapter!

What's with all the lingo?

Wonder what we're talking about? Here's your expansion primer:

expansion The process of establishing a new chapter on a college campus.

interest group An individual or group interested in forming a chapter but has not received recognition as a colony.

colony a group of men who have met the requirements for colony recognition but have not yet been granted a charter.

Colony members, or "Founding Fathers," are inducted as Phikeias.

chapter installation The ceremony during which the colony receives a charter, becomes an official chapter and colony members are initiated as members.

charter A document that recognizes a chapter and grants to it, the rights, duties and privileges of Phi Delta Theta.

E P NDING on a great IDEA

Colonies

This year wasn't just about installations; we colonized six new groups (including Wisconsin Epsilon and Tennessee Beta who received charters during the same academic year). We started 2003-2004 with five colonies.

- Texas Theta West Texas A&M
- Michigan Alpha University of Michigan
- Nebraska Alpha University of Nebraska-Lincoln
- Missouri Theta Northwest Missouri State
- Washington Epsilon
  Eastern Washington University

These groups need your support. If you are interested in helping out in any way, please contact the Director of Expansion, Jacob C. Heuser at Phi Delta Theta General Headquarters.

Track

Two Phi Delts were national champions in their events this spring. Brandon Tedrow of La Verne won the javelin throw (197'10") at the NCAA Division III meet and was named Division III West Region Male Athlete of the Year. Winning the NAIA 3000 meter steeplechase in 9:03.32 was Brant Littrell of Southwestern College. At the KCAC meet, he was named Most Valuable Athlete for the second straight year after winning the 1500, 5000 and 3000 steeplechase events and running on the first place 3200 meter relay.

Jordan Kitchen of Wichita State placed fourth in the 60 meter hurdles (8.12) at the MVC indoor meet and was third in the pentathlon at the indoor Air Force Invitational. As a decathlete outdoors, he scored 5,941 points at the Texas A&M Invitational and had a best long jump of 23-0.75. Hurdler Wes Alexander of Eastern Kentucky competed at the OVC outdoor meet. At the outdoor PSAC meet, David Duriancik of Clarion placed fifth in the 3000 meter steeplechase.

Named All-American again was M.I.T. co-captain Craig Mielcarz, who ranked seventh in the Division III indoor high jump and ninth in the outdoor high jump. He reached a best of 6-10.25 in a second place finish at the ECAC Division III meet. M.I.T. co-captain Rick Rajter was second with the 400 relay and sixth in the 110 hurdles at the New England Division III meet. He also won the triple jump at the NEWMAC event. This last academic year will not be forgotten. We had many cheers for our exciting rendition of "Grease Lightning" at the Songfest.

Throughout the year our battles with the "rat invasion" of the house gave us some pretty good memories, and then on our spring break road trip we visited Washington Alpha, Oregon Beta and California Alpha. We are looking forward to moving into our brand new, $2 million house at the beginning of this school year. We want to give a huge "thank you" to all the alumni who have made the new house possible.

We are excited to once again be able to place the 1989 Delta Phikeia class plaque in its rightful place attached to the back stairs to the basement. During the summer of 1995 when the rear basement door was replaced, the plaque was packed away but was present at all the Phikeia meetings the next year. That following summer it was again packed away and disappeared

We have been extremely busy in our summer community service campaign. For the June 21 Walk to d'feet ALS we not only participated and raised funds, but we also put in many hours calling potential donors and walkers. Brothers also supported the Colorectal Cancer Walk. Each Saturday night four brothers at a time have been delivering food, drink and clothing to homeless individuals for Ne Ma Res, the native Canadian-run street humanitarian aid program. This has been a very productive year for our chapter. Our recruitment and Phikeia programs are better than ever, and by the end of this term we will have more than tripled our membership! We are also in the final stages of getting a Greek Advisor at PSU, something the campus hasn't had for decades, and Adam Johnson is the only student on that committee as well as being president of the revitalized Greek Council. Phi Delts are creating a very positive/proactive impact for all Greeks and the campus community as well.

Texas Epsilon ★ Texas Tech University

On the weekend of April 25-27, 438 alumni and active Phi Delts participated in the 50year reunion of our chapter. Following events such as the Tech/Nebraska baseball game, a show at the Cactus Theater, a golf tournament, and tours of campus, Caprock Winery and our Lodge, everyone gathered Saturday evening for a Founders Day ceremony which included the induction of over 25 into the Golden Legion and 12 into the Silver Legion. They were inducted by Robert J. Miller, the same man who inducted the Silver Keys into membership 50 years ago. Bill Dean and Charlie Pride shared facts about Texas Epsilon and our rich traditions that set us apart, John Scovell spoke on raising money for the new Lodge, and everyone danced.

The weekend closed with a Sunday morning service where Tio Kleberg gave a testimony on the importance of life.

our years and $16,000 later, our chapter has successfully continued our philanthropy and community service in the area of fire safety education. In 2002 Burt Reynolds, Tim Conway, Dirk Benedick, and the Green Bay Packers all thanked us for our efforts. We also received the General Headquarters Paul C. Beam Award for excellence in philanthropy. This year Jim Doyle, Wisconsin Governor, issued a formal proclamation of thanks, but of greater significance to the chapter have been honors bestowed by members of the fire fighting community including the Ripon Fire Department, The Wisconsin Fire Chiefs Association, the International Association of Fire Chiefs, the Los Angeles Fire Department and the famed Fire Department of New York City. "We are proud of all the awards and honors we've received," chapter president Uecker explains, "but our work on this has taught us how brave and dedicated fire fighters are." If other chapters would like to institute a fire safety philanthropy or community service program, feel free to contact us via our faculty adviser, Jody Roy, at royj@ripon.edu or by phone at (920) 748-8712.

Clark W. Faulkner, Nebraska '40

In the Fall 2001 issue of The Scroll, the lead article began "My one year active duty was to end on December 13, 1941, but on the preceding Sunday, as you know, all hell broke loose." The article continues in Clark Faulkner's words telling of some of his other war experiences that included action in Midway, the Solomon Islands, Philippines, Guadalcanal and Okinawa. He won the Navy Cross, the Navy's highest decoration, for sinking two destroyers off the coast of Guadalcanal in early 1943. He also was awarded the Purple Heart.

Born August 24, 1919 in Lincoln, Neb., Faulkner retired as Chairman/CEO of Woodmen Accident and Life Co., Lincoln, a company he joined in high school, beginning at the bottom by sweeping out the place. Woodmen was a mutual insurer started by his grandfather to provide accident insurance to farmers and blue-collar workers. Faulkner passed away on April 26 and survivors include his wife, a son and daughter and their spouses, three granddaughters and a grandson and his wife.

Charles Heimsch, Miami University '36

Charlie Heimsch passed away in Moscow, Idaho on April 23, 2003 where he had moved from Oxford several years ago to be with his family. However, for many years before that he had served on the House Corporation for Ohio Alpha and later in Idaho he also kept in touch. Many graduates remember his love and ongoing involvement with the chapter. He was also active with the Oxford Alumni Club and attended the General Headquarters and Educational Foundation ground breakings, dedications, and other events.

While attending Miami he lettered in football and golf, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and graduated summa cum laude in 1936, majoring in botany. Following post-graduate degrees at Harvard, he began his teaching career at Swarthmore College and then went to Amherst and then on to the University of Texas in Austin. In 1959 he returned to Miami University as professor and chairman of the department of botany. Under his leadership, the doctoral program in botany was instituted, and the department became recognized as one of the nation's leading academic units in botanical science and education. From 1974 to 1981, he served as chairman of the university's Athletic Advisory Board and as faculty representative to the NCAA and to the Mid-American Conference. He was inducted into the Miami Athletic Hall of Fame in 1994.

Charlie set an example of dedication to the Fraternity and Miami University that has influenced many undergraduates and graduates.

Swing Defined a Generation

For many who grew up during the Depression and were a part of the World War II generation, Big Band music defined that era as much as the happenings at home and around the world. After a lull in the late '60s through the '80s, Big Band and Swing music made a dramatic comeback in popularity in the 1990s, and this resurgence has continued.

Thanks to Sally and Paul Bennett, Ohio Wesleyan '38, the history of this musical culture has a home.

"Sally was the driving force behind the museum," Brother Bennett notes about his wife who passed away on June 15. "She had been collecting Big Band memorabilia for decades."

Harry James' trumpet is in a display case, as is one of Count Basie's signature caps. A snare drum and stick once used by Buddy Rich and a baton autographed by Guy Lombardo are proudly displayed as Louie Armstrong's trumpet can be heard from an old vinyl 78.

Sally Bennett was herself a musician and composer, and several of her compositions have been featured and recorded by Glenn Miller, Guy Lombardo, Sammy Kaye and other well-known Big Bands of the '40s and '50s.

Mrs. Bennett was also one of the founding board members of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. and a past member of the Metropolitan Opera Board.

Brother Bennett recalls, "After Sally's Cleveland Big Band radio show was cancelled in 1966, our home became a de-facto Big Band museum."

The Bennetts had an idea for a permanent Big Band hall of fame and a year later they hosted the first of what would become an annual event, the Big Band Hall of Fame Ball. These galas, like the site of the Hall itself, began in Cleveland and moved to Palm Beach in 1984 when the couple "retired" to South Florida.

Brother Bennett, a former executive with Dow Chemical Company, now serves as the CFO and business manager of the Big Band Hall of Fame. The original Palm Beach location for the Hall was on the campus of a local community college, but this past year the Hall relocated to the South Florida Fair's Yesterday Village. This permanent site is the perfect fit for the Bennetts' dream and welcome knowledge for all Big Band fans. The museum opened this past year and the building has been renamed the Sally Bennett Big Band Hall of Fame Museum.

Let the Good Times Roll

However, it's a financial roller coaster ride

It has been said that life is like a roller coaster—full of ups and downs, peaks and valleys. Organizations are very much the same and tend to go through their own cycles. Phi Delta Theta was fortunate enough to have a nice, long uphill financial ride throughout the '90s. The good times did, indeed, roll. And while we had our twists and turns, some down hills, the ride was uphill. It was exciting and fun and a great time to be a Phi Delt. But the Fraternity reached the crest of the financial hill at the start of 2001 and it has been a severe downhill ride since with the bottom still to be reached. I don't think anyone could have foreseen a national disaster so closely timed with a market downturn and the severe impact of the two combined.

You see, Phi Delta Theta has been 'blessed' with a two-edged sword. On the one side, and the one we rely on the most, is our Educational Foundation with the grants that they've been able to give to the Fraternity year

'minor' programs created, is over $400,000.

And while this side of the sword is very beneficial, the other side can be sharp and cruel. So as the markets and our Foundation and investment income fell, the Fraternity started its descent on the roller coaster with budget reductions. First came $100K followed by another $75K. Then thereafter $100K more and then only two months later $225K—mostly our 2003 Leadership College. In 2003, another $100K was reduced and we think we have leveled off for the moment for this Biennium. While looking ahead at the 2004-2006 Biennium budget, we are projecting an additional $550K reduction before this ride 'bottoms out'. What we, as a Fraternity, need to do is to prevent that next downhill fall. In essence, to start that slow trip up the next incline before we fall further. We need to turn that double-edged sword into a saber. Still sharp on one side but dull on the other. That side still may hurt when it falls but does not become life threatening.

The proposed legislation at the Convention will focus on member and pledge dues and initiation dues. Every organization or entity, whether it is state or local government or colleges and universities, has seen increases in fees and/or reduction of services in the past 10 years. One latest report shows college tuition increases averaged 40% over this period. High schools are charging payto-play fees for sports and clubs. In comparison, our Fraternity dues program began 8 years ago while our initiation dues also had a nominal increase at the same time. Our pledge dues have not changed since 1988-16 years! In a 2003 survey, Phi Delta Theta ranked last in four year cost of membership when compared to 37 other major fraternities. The proposed increases of $50/year for member dues, $10 for pledge dues, and $40 for initiation dues would still rank us only in the middle of the pack. Both of the dues would be at the 'average' while the initiation dues would be in the top 25%. This is only a short-term fix at this level and we need to look at other ways to help keep us current with costs. Keep in mind that this proposal only gets us to a 'reasonable level of service with restoring core programs.' It does not get us to 2000 calendar year levels.

As alumni, there are things that you can also do to help. Remember, this is your Fraternity too. It is a Fraternity for life. I always chuckle when I hear, "I was a Phi Delt". You ARE a Phi Delt! If you are currently contributing to the Educational Foundation, I ask you to consider increasing that amount. If you are not currently contributing, please consider doing so. The grants that the Foundation provides go strictly to educational programs, examples previously mentioned, that are wonderful experiences for our undergraduates. This is all in addition to approximately $160K in annual scholarships granted. If you have the means to do so and are so inclined, consider endowing a portion of the Leadership College or one of our other programs. This would help supply a more stable revenue flow and free up Fraternity income for other areas where needed. I'm positive that Foundation President Rusty Richardson or any of the Trustees could help with suggestions.

This is not a one-year program. Much work will still remain. Remember, the climb up the roller coaster is slow and can be jerky at times. We need to make sure that when it reaches the peak again, the drop-off isn't as steep. We all need to be going in the same direction—cheering, encouraging, contributing, and helping. If successful, by the end of the next Biennium, we may be able to say again, 'Let the good times roll'.

2004 Convention relocated

General Convention site moved to Marina del Rey

75thBiennialConvention

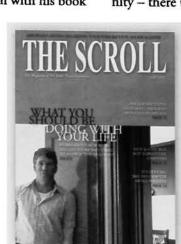

oin your brothers and their families in Marina del Rey, California, for Phi Delta Theta's 75th Biennial Convention, June 24-27, 2004. In the last issue of the magazine we announced the location of our 75th Biennial Convetion would be Newport Beach, however, the hotel recently decided to renovate their meeting space. As a result, we have moved our convention the the Marina del Rey Marriott. The Fraternity and our four area alumni clubs are still working hard to make sure you and your family have a great time with us next summer in Marina del Rey! The General Convention is the Fraternity's supreme legislative body. Every two years, convention delegates—who include representatives from chapters, alumni clubs and General Fraternity officers-meet to conduct business, vote of important issues and elect a new General Council. Check www.phideltatheta.org in January for more details on the Convention so you can make plans to attend!

Great article on an important topic

on What You Should Be Doing with Your Life hit a soft spot. I penned a quick note to Po complimenting him on pursuing HIS passion, and sharing that with us in book form. It's great to see he has gotten the recognition deserved from investing his time, talent, and resources in answering one of life's great questions. It's inspiring to see people finding more value in their life rather than simply pursuing a vocation.

Thanks to The Scroll for highlighting a Phi making a difference.

Words from a Phi soldier

I was commissioned a 2LT in the Military Police Corps last May. My wife and I were stationed at Fort Stewart, Ga., and I was deployed with the 549th Military Police Company. I returned from Iraq in October but the 549th is still in Baghdad. My wife and I are being reassigned to Fort Sill, Okla., because of a compassionate reassignment.

It is great to hear about other Phis in our military doing great things. It is always good to be part of an organization the lasts even after college.

My soldiers kept me going in tough times and they remind me a lot of the Fraternity – there through tough and easy times. A good leader always has good people behind him/her and because of my soldiers' performance, I was awarded the Bronze Star for my/their performance during the war. I know there are a few of our brothers in or going to Iraq, and I wish them the best.

On Nov. 13, 36 Phis gathered for a luncheon meeting with the program featuring Leadership Consultant Tim Gilbert and Jim Burra, chairman of the Educational Foundation trustees. Tim reviewed the state of the Fraternity and answered questions about the status of specific chapters, stressing the value of alumni support. Jim reviewed the purpose of the Foundation and specific projects funded by alumni contributions, also reviewing the alcohol-free initiative. Several alumni shared how this initiative helped their chapters rebuild. The club will meet again in March for Founders Day, the Golden Legion ceremony, and a full review of the Convention to be held in Marina del Ray, June 26-28.

Colorado Alumni Club

On Sept. 26, we hosted our second annual golf tournament benefiting both the Rob Upton Scholarship Fund and ALS. Over 40 members and friends participated in the two-player scramble at the Broadlands Golf Course. Later at dinner more alumni joined us for revelry, reunion and celebration of ColoradoAlpha's Centennial. We raised more than $500 for ALS and about $1,400 for the Scholarship Fund. The Founders Day meeting is tentatively scheduled for March 8. If you would like to be e-mailed the group announcements and mailings, contact me at nocopdtalum@yahoo.com

Jacksonville Alumni Club

Ashland: Eric Schimmoeller, '00 is employed full time by Clear Channel Radio in Lima in sales and sports. In his spare time, he is the radio play-by-play voice of the University of Findlay football, basketball, and ice hockey. The games air on 107.7 FM, WPFX.

Bowling Green: Bill Protz, '65, recently received the Paul L. Getting Member of the Year Award by the St. Petersburg, Fla. Chamber of Commerce for his work with the Chamber, as well as his many community activities.

Butler: Doug King, '73, of Wooden & McLaughlin LLP in Indianapolis, was honored by The Defense Trial Counsel of Indiana on Nov. 20 as the Indiana Defense Lawyer of the Year.

California State-Chico: The National Republican Congressional Committee has presented Steve Kallestad, '95, with the 2003 National Leadership Award and made him an honorary chairman representing the State of California of the National Business Advisory Council. One of his responsibilities is to provide a top-five list of issues affecting his businesses. Kallestad is president of Ingenuity Professional Services Inc., a small consulting firm focusing on software development for enterprise level clients; president of Coming Attractions Imaging, a 3D/4D imaging center providing expectant families the opportunity to see their babies while they are still in the womb; and president of Agile Live, that integrates Web conferencing capabilities into a variety of applications for use within the enterprise.

Cal State–Sacramento: Kurt (Heinzman) Caceres, '94, is currently starring in the ABC show "Threat Matrix." He was most recently seen on "All My Children," and in the series "American Family," and he also co-starred in the film, "Southside."

Colgate: John Frieser, '04, has been named by the National Football Foundation and College Hall of Fame to receive the National Scholar-Athlete Postgraduate Scholarship Award ($18,000 post-graduate scholarship). To be eligible, the nominee must be a senior or graduate student in his final year of eligibility, have a GPA of at least 3.0 on a 4.0 scale, have shown superior academic application and performance, have outstanding football ability as a first team player and have demonstrated strong leadership and citizenship. Frieser, a three-year starter for the Raiders is regarded as a legitimate pass-catching threat, has caught 56 passes for 837 yards and seven touchdowns in his career.

DePauw: Lee Banks, '85, has been promoted to worldwide president of the Parker Hannifin Corporations' Hydraulics Group. Previously he served as president of the company's Instrumentation Group.

Idaho: In commemoration of the bicentennial of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, the Speed Art Museum of Louisville, Ky. is presenting "Faces from the Land: A Photographic Journey through Native America" by Ben Marra through April 11, 2004. In 1988, Seattle photographer Ben Marra, '62, and his wife, Linda set out to document Powwows and the shared cultural qualities that bind together the community of Native America. "Faces from the Land" focuses on many of the Native American cultures that Lewis and Clark encountered during their expedition.

lowa State: The Bond of the members of the 1948 Harvard Trophy class continues to be strong. Since their 25th reunion the brothers have been returning to Ames every five years. Among their many accomplishments in 1948 was to win the Interfraternity Sing contest and at this 55th reunion they proved they could still sing. Under the direction of their 1948 song leader J.B. Prince, they serenaded their ladies with—what else?—"Tell Me Why She Wears His Pin."

Kentucky Wesleyan: Jack Head, '67, has accepted the position of director of instructional technologies at Columbus Ivy Tech College of Columbus, Ind. This position will act as part of the school's focus on the educational needs of the community. Brother Head will focus his attention on assessing the needs of the community, individual business, and employees by bringing the college to them. Before accepting his new position at Ivy Tech, he spent the past 15 years managing corporate training and development for two Fortune 500 companies. Head has just published Selective Memories of Vietnam 1969-1970. The book is a recollection of his experiences in Vietnam with the 11th Light Infantry Brigade, Americal Division.

Lawrence: Joel Ungrodt, '64, was inducted into the Lawrence Athletic Hall of Fame this fall for his career in basketball and track. Having been diagnosed with ALS, his primary focus now is to raise awareness of ALS and thus to promote research that hopefully will benefit those that follow him. He has devoted his life and career to helping others, especially children. In the 80s he worked in Wisconsin's children's statewide advocacy and in the '90s he founded Family Works Inc., a small but vital service that provides treatment foster care for challenged and challenging children. More can be learned about him at www.friendsofjoel.com.

Maryland: On Oct. 14, Michael Coulter, '97, was commissioned into the U.S. Navy Reserves and will hold the position of chief of staff of the Bureau of Political-Military Affairs at the U.S. State Department. Senators John Warner and Chuck Hagel presided over the ceremony and friend Admiral Jake Shuford swore him in.

Mississippi: Dr. James Darnell, '52, was awarded the National Medal of Science during a ceremony at the White House on Thursday, Nov. 6, for his exceptional work in gene regulation research. This is the highest honor of lifetime achievement in the field of scientific research. Brother Darnell is one of six scientists to receive the award. John Palmer, '54, is serving as ambassador to Portugal. He is the founder of Mobile Communications Corp. of America and former chairman of SkyTel Communications.

Steve Garcia, '02 and Brian Harrelson '02, coincidentally crossed paths on Oct. 23, 2003 in Ar Ramadi, Iraq, where they are both serving the United States. Garcia is in the Third Armored Cavalry Regiment and Harrelson is in the 82nd Airborne Division. May all Phi Delts fighting for our country have a safe return home!

Missouri: Roberts Williams, '51 shares that his 1948 pledge class has had a reunion every five years for the past 35, and in October they had their 55th where, of the original 20 members, 14 members and their wives were able to be there. In a chapter house fire a few years ago the Bond book was destroyed so they had an opportunity to re-sign the new Bond at the house.

Ohio University: A stone has been placed in the Dayton, Ohio Walk of Fame (on West Third Street in the historic Wright-Dunbar neighborhood) to honor Chapter Grand member C. Ritter Collett, '42. Collett was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame Writer's Wing and was known for his dedication and active involvement with AIM for the Handicapped and with many other charitable and civic causes.

Randolph Macon: When Addison Jones, '68, learned from his son, who was serving with the Marines in 2001 in Afghanistan, not only of the poverty but of the children trying to learn by writing in the sand with no school supplies, he realized that he could help in a small way. Jones is executive vice president of The Supply Room Cos., a regional office supply company in Richmond, Va. With the help of the Richmondbased Christian Children's Fund and other businesses across the country and world, two shipments of school supplies and sporting goods were sent in November from Richmond to Houston, to Pakistan, and on to Kabul.

Southern Methodist: Michael Haynes, '73, will take the reins as the new CEO of Collectors Universe Inc. on Jan. 1, 2004. Collectors Universe Inc. is the leading provider of products and essential services to the highend collectibles market. Haynes will bring to the company more than 19 years of experience in managing both public and private companies engaged in selling collectibles at auctions, retail and wholesale.

Texas-Austin: President Bush has named former Secretary of State James A. Baker III, '57, as his personal envoy to lead an effort to convince countries to forgive or restructure an estimated $100 billion in debts owed by Iraq. The White House said Baker's experience as secretary of state and as treasury secretary – as well as his personal relationships with key world leaders and diplomats – make him an ideal choice for the delicate effort.

Getting involved with an Alumni Club

Phi Delta Theta's alumni clubs exist to perpetuate the ties of friendship begun in our Fraternity as an undergraduate. We take great pride in considering ourselves "Phis for Life" and anticipate returning to the college campus for alumni activities each year.

However, in an increasingly mobile society, the Phi Delta Theta alumni clubs can serve a valuable role in our lives as alumni. The opportunity to network with other Phis from other chapters, whether in a city you've just recently moved to, your hometown or even if a new club has started that you weren't aware of, is a valuable benefit of belonging to Phi Delta Theta.

With a shared set of values from our Fraternity membership, members of our alumni clubs are often surprised at how much they have in common with other Phis from across the country.

Expanded Opportunities

Colorado Alumni Club

Formerly the Northern Colorado Alumni Club, president Steve Wicks has expanded the club's reach as the group has held events throughout the state, from a golf event outside Denver to a Founders Day in Ft. Collins. Brother Wick would welcome alumni interested in participating and/or helping to plan upcoming events, regardless of location within Colorado. Contact Steve at: nocopdtalum@yahoo.com

Atlanta, Georgia

A group of young alumni within the Atlanta Alumni Club have begun planning "young alumni" activities to complement the club's traditional events. These young alumni events cater to recent graduates under 30 with a hectic schedule who are interested in networking with other young professionals in the Atlanta area. Contact Glenn Dedeaux if you would like to participate: info@PhiDeltAtlanta.com or visit www.PhiDeltAtlanta.com.

Cleveland, Ohio

The Cleveland Alumni Club has reorganized this fall, starting with a Cleveland Indians baseball game. The club is holding their second event as a Holiday gathering in December and hopes to have a casual event every few months. For information about how to get involved, please contact: Collin Boetger: Collin.Boetger@onbase.com

Indianapolis, Indiana

The Indianapolis Alumni Club has undergone rejuvenation this fall and has already held a number of successful events. The club is meeting monthly, alternating between the north side of Indianapolis and downtown, with a typically casual environment. The club has a calendar of events for 2004, including a March 25th Founders Day celebration. Travis Webb is the point of contact for the alumni club and can be reached at: indyphideltalumniclub@yahoo.com

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

The Pittsburgh Alumni Club has begun meeting again and recently elected officers to lead the club through their spring events. For other Phis in the Pittsburgh area who are interested in joining this group, Mike Hough will update you on the schedule: MikeH482@hotmail.com

Chicago, Illinois

The Chicago Alumni Club is organizing with an emphasis on fun, casual events to allow alumni in the surrounding areas to network with other Phis from around the country. The group that has been meeting to discuss the shape of this alumni club represents chapters throughout North America. David Stevenson is leading the effort and can be contacted via email: davidbstevenson@yahoo.com

New York City, New York

The New York City Alumni Club is holding monthly meetings the second Thursday each month at the Macelleria in downtown Manhattan.

New Alumni Clubs

"New Clubs" continued from page 7 Alumni in attendance during earlier meetings have represented six states and the group is looking to continue to grow it's membership. Please contact Sean Brennan: fleck10@earthlink.com

Boston, Massechusettes

The city that created the Harvard Trophy recognizing the most outstanding undergraduate chapter has an active alumni presence again. Whether you (like some of the members) are attending Harvard Law or Harvard Business, or working in the Boston area, the group welcomes your participation. Judd Depew is leading the alumni club: jdepew@mfs.com

Jacksonville, Florida

The University Club hosted the first event of the new Jacksonville Alumni Club and the group even provided contributions to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation as one of their first activities. Mark Roesser's idea to partner the University Club, Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation and the relaunch of the Jacksonville Alumni Club together gathered a number of Phis. For information about future events, please email: MROESSER@aol.com

Sacramento, California

The Sacramento Alumni Club began meeting as a direct response to help the California Omicron chapter at California State – Sacramento. With the crisis averted, the group is continuing to meet and would like to branch out to include additional chapters among their membership. Joe Darden (joe.darden@mindspring.com) will provide information about upcoming events.

Neil Armstrong honored

Famous Phi celebrates 50th year of membership

ne of Phi Delta Thetaís most well known members,
Neil A. Armstrong, Purdue
'55, was recently inducted into the Golden Legion. The Educational Foundationís
President Emeritus, Robert
J. Miller, and its current President, Rusty Richardson, presented Brother
Armstrongís Golden Legion certificate and pin to him during a luncheon in Lebanon, Ohio.

The Golden Legion program, recognizing Phi Delta Theta alumni who have been members for 50 or more years is sponsored each year by the Educational Foundation. More than 1,100 members were recognized as new inductees during 2003.

"Club Reports" continued from page 5 schools and from members graduating in the '40s to the new Florida Zeta Phikeia class. The Phikeias actually received their pledge names and took their oath during the event. We were also happy to have Ed Hopper, Chi North Province President, in attendance. Please contact me if you are interested in being a part of our new alumni group in the Jacksonville area.

Orange County Alumni Club

Contact: Jim Harvey (714) 979-7031 or harvey5@adelphia.net

We hosted our semi-annual Golf Classic on Nov. 14 at San Juan Hills Country Club in San Juan Capistrano. The event drew the biggest turnout we have ever had for a golf tournament. Five actives and 50 alumni from the UC Irvine chapter played 18 holes in a scramble format, which was won by the foursome of Pat Munoz, UC Irvine '86, Greg High, UC Irvine '85, Greg Hughes, UC Irvine '90 and Jack Chadam, Chicago '89 with a 10-under par 61. The Club is planning to resurrect its quarterly luncheons after the first of the year, and host a Founders Day dinner in March. We will also cohost the 2004 General Convention in Marina Del Rey in June.

Pittsburgh Alumni Club

Contact: Bill Marx (412) 931-0171 or w_marx@msn.com

In September we had our first meeting to discuss the formation of an alumni club for the area. We had a great response for this initial meeting with 10 Phis and several more sending RSVPs. Since then we have had two more meetings with a very enthusiastic group. If any Phis in the area are interested in attending a meeting and getting involved with the club, please contact Mike Hough at Mikeh482@hotmail.com or me.

A Salute to Frank Wright

Palm Beach Phi honored: eight decades of service

By Conrad Foster Thiede, Colgate '90

n Friday, October 10, 2003, Phis from across the state of Florida gathered at the invitation of the Palm Beach County Alumni Club to celebrate the life-long commitment to Phi Delta Theta of Frank Wright, Florida '26. This special tribute honors a man who has been an active contributor to the Fraternity for more than half of Phi Delta Theta's history—truly a moment to chronicle in our shared fraternal history.

With 98-year old Brother Frank seated at the head table, several Phis toasted his many accomplishments with his public, personal and Fraternity careers.

John F. "Cactus Jack" Thomas, Emory '43, spoke of his 65-year friendship with Brother Frank and Frank's impact on Phi Delta Theta on a local level and within the state of Florida. Providing concise details on Frank's lasting contributions as a member of Governor Fuller Warren's administration, Brother Thomas informed all in attendance of the wonderful accomplishments that occurred sixty years ago, as well as others just a few years back.

George Frost, Florida '51, discussed Frank Wright's career as a public relations icon and wellknown Florida personality.

Conrad
Thiede, Colgate
'90, noted
Frank's tremendous Phi Delt career that spans 8 decades and fully encompasses the Fraternity for Life
motto.

Wright was presented with his Diamond-Palladian pin, and all attending the event received a "Frank Wright Scrapbook" that includes everything from then-undergraduate Frank's Scroll article on the Florida Alpha installation in 1925 to his receipt of the "Phi of the Year" award at the Sesquicentennial Convention.

Palm Beach County Alumni Club President Randy Cropp, South Florida '79, with Frank Wright, Florida '26.

Frank Wright: A Lesson in History

Phi Delta Theta Highlights:

- Founding Father of Florida Alpha Chapter at the University of Florida; Bond # 9, 1925.
- Served as Province President, 1931-36, 1940-42 and 1946-50.
- Served upon the General Council, 1950-54.
- Served upon the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award Committee, 1955-2000.
- Presided over the Palm Beach County Alumni Club as President at age 90, the same year the club was honored as the Alumni Club of the Year, 1995-96.
- Honored at the Sesquicentennial Convention with the Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year Award, 1998.
- Delivered the official Sesquicentennial Greeting in Cincinnati, which was entrusted to him in 1948 at the Centennial Convention in Oxford, 1998.

Highlights of his personal/professional life:

- Named youngest sports editor of a major daily at age 21 for the Florida Times-Union, 1926.
- Appointed Director of Public Relations and Alumni Affairs for the University of Florida, 1927-42.
- Served in WWII, 1942-45.
- Formed Frank Wright Associates, a Miami-based public relations firm, 1945.
- Accepted post as campaign manager for Fuller Warren's gubernatorial candidacy, 1948.
- Served the state of Florida as Assistant Governor. 1948-50.
- Named Executive Director of The Palm Beach Roundtable, 1966.
- Married Eleanor Bumgardner, 1966.
- Presented, along with Eleanor, the prestigious Patti Award, 1980.
- Recipient of Honorary Degrees from Florida Southern College and Northwood University.

he day was perfect when Brent Cunningham hopped out of his bunk and looked out the window. The first crisp day of fall. Leaves fluttered past the window. The sun was golden. And today is special: he's turns 21 at midnight.

"You ready for tonight?" asked Brent's roommate, his voice coming from the other loft.

"You betcha. I just have to deal with this stupid econ test and it's time to party," Brent replied.

JCrew jacket his parents sent him for his birthday. He caught up with several of the guys on the way to class.

"Ooooh. Look at the birthday boy!" Quipped Tom, the fraternity's resident joker. Brent decides to swing through the mailroom on his way to class. He pulls out a note with swoopy handwriting and covered with stickers. It was from Jennie, his girlfriend. As Brent read it, someone came behind him and covered his eyes.

"Guess who?"

"Mom, I told you not to visit me at school!"

From the sweet, soft voice, Brent could tell it was Jennie, who has a class in the same building.

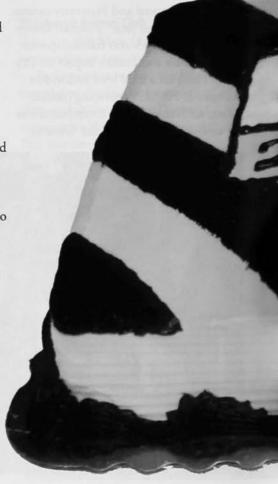

"That coat looks great on you, birthday boy. Right out of JCrew and into my heart."

Brent swings Jennie around and gives her a kiss.

"So, are you going out with the boys tonight?"

"Oh yeah."

The shots keep coming. Vodka from his big brother. He does tequila with another friend. At one point, three shots are lined up.

"Well, be careful. I might go out with Kate and Nikki after our chapter meeting and I don't want you barfing on me.'

"You might get the drunk dial!"

It's evening now. Brent survived the econ test. Classes tomorrow (Friday) will be blown off, no doubt. Hey, it's his birthday, right? The chapter house is buzzing with the pre-going-out rituals. Guys are spending more time in front of the mirror than they have all week. Razors knock off two or three-days' worth of stubble. Hair is gelled. Pants are pressed. Cologne is sparingly applied.

"What is this, a sorority house?" Brent asks as he makes his way down the hall. A small-town kid, Brent eschews the gel and overly "pretty" look favored by some of his brothers.

Since he won't be allowed in Loo Loos, the college bar, until midnight, when he's officially 21, Brent hangs back at an offcampus apartment to have a few beers with some of the guys before meeting the rest of the crew over at the bar.

With each beer Brent consumes, his blood alcohol level increases by approximately .02.

"A drink, as we define it, is a 1.5 ounce shot of hard alcohol, a 12 ounce beer, or 5 ounces of wine," says Marilyn (Lynn) S. Sommers,, RN, PhD. Sommers trains medical professionals to deal with various traumas. She has seen many cases of alcohol poisoning as part of her research at the University of Cincinnati.

"Even at low levels, alcohol decreases judgment and the ability to make good decisions. We fail to understand our social context and begin to act 'high' or drunk or inappropriately. That's why we see people jumping off balconies or taking unusual risks

"I'll pretend I didn't see you in here all those times before tonight."

Like many of the guys, Brent found ways to sneak into Loo Loo's from time to

"That's one, 20 more to go!"

Brent weighs about 180 pounds. With the three beers he had at the chapter house and the Jaeger, he's now at .80 BAC. He's barely within the legal

The shots keep coming. Vodka from his big brother. He does tequila with another friend. At one point, three shots are lined up. He downs them all within a minute. Brent's had a total of 10 beers or shots. His BAC now matches his age at .21. As he gets up to go to the bathroom, he feels himself stagger and almost hits the floor a few times.

> "At .200, we see real difficulties in motor coordination and balance," Sommers says. Brent should stop now. He'll feel this

"Wow, man..."

More shots come down the bar. Brent can barely stand. His BAC is still rising as his body metabolizes the onslaught of alcohol. His brothers begin to count off the drinks by marking hash marks on Brent's right hand.

Alcohol is like general anesthesia. It can slow down the rate of respiration, drop your heart rate and blood pressure. If you drink too much, it can shut down breathing all together, according to Sommers.

Back at the chapter house, Mike, the newly-elected president, is studying for a mid-term exam in the president's room. He heard the gang leaving to celebrate Brent's birthday a few hours ago, and expects to hear them stumbling and rumbling back into the house soon, since it's approaching 2 a.m., when the bars close.

Almost on cue, the chapter house door slams open and the heavy footsteps of drunk brothers begins to pound into the foyer. Mike tries to concentrate on his studying, but for some reason alcohol makes everyone feel they need to yell.

"C'mon Brent. Just a few more steps to go!"

Laughter mixes with shouting as the brothers try to coax a very inebriated Brent up the stairs. At this point, Mike has got to pop out of his room to see the scene. Two brothers, one on either shoulder, are carrying Brent up the stairs. He's barely conscious. Mike begins to laugh. But as Brent comes into focus, he doesn't look good. His color is gray and his eyes are rolling around wildly, unable to fix on anything.

The guys, also pretty well oiled, don't share Mike's concern. Brent's just celebrating his big birthday the way everyone should—by getting blitzed.

"Crap, guys, what did you do to him?" Mike asks.

Something to consider: 21st stats

On the day students at Cal Poly Pomona celebrated their 21st birthdays:

- 46% ▶ did not drink any alcoholic beverages
- 70% ▶ of the men drank less than 5 alcoholic beverages
- 71% ▶ of the women drank less than 4 alcoholic beverages
- 89% ▶ did not have any negative consequences from drinking too much (i.e., they did not have hangovers, vomit, drive drunk, have unsafe sex or miss a class)—they averaged only 3 drinks each.

Being a Responsible Brother

Secondary effects reported by students who live on campus or in sorority or fraternity houses and who abstain or drink moderately:

- 60% ▶ had study or sleep interrupted
- 48% ▶ had to take care of a drunken student
- 29% ▶ had been insulted or humiliated
- 20% ▶ female respondents who experienced an unwanted sexual advance
- 19% ▶ had a serious argument or quarrel
- 15% ▶ had property damaged
- 9% ▶ had been pushed, hit or assaulted
- 1% ▶ female respondents who had been a victim of sexual assault or acquaintance rape

Press Release City of Davis Police Dept.

Tuesday, April 4, 2000

At approximately 12:13 AM this morning, April 4, 2000, the Davis Police Department was alerted by the Emergency Room staff at Sutter Davis Hospital of a possible alcohol overdose case involving a 21-year old male UCD student.

The victim was reportedly brought by personal vehicle to the hospital by friends after he stopped breathing following a night of drinking in a downtown bar to celebrate his 21st birthday.

The victim has been identified as David Earl Thornton from Fresno, Calif.

David Thornton was a member of Phi Delta Theta, initiated at California Epsilon on January 6, 1998.

In the Sacramento Bee

"He was not a party person, he was hardworking. Not many kids have that kind of academic background," says his father, Rod Thornton.

David Thornton was a former valedictorian at Clovis West High School who carried a 3.36 grade point as average studying biological sciences in college and volunteered for the National Ski Patrol.

"You don't do that if you're out partying every night," Thornton said. "He should have made better decisions when he went with a group of friends and fraternity brothers to a downtown Davis bar." Still, he believes that a culture that accepts, even encourages, such binge drinking was a motivating factor in his son's death.

In the Daily Trojan

University of Southern California by Lesley Ann Storm

Last week I did something I wish never had to happen. I attended the funeral of David Earl Thornton, a childhood friend and neighbor for 11 years. ... I never imagined that my first funeral would be someone so close to me. This was the most difficult goodbye I have ever had to say. I will not attempt to speak in Dave's words or assume his thoughts, but I beg of you to all think about the consequences of drinking. Dave has taught me that alcohol can kill. We don't have to stop drinking or having a good time, but we must all take care of our lives. So, please, give Dave's tragic death some consideration. Life is too precious to be lost in the carelessness of one night. The tradition of "21 for 21" must stop now.

In the Davis, Calif. paper

excerpts from columnist Bob Dunning

"His true friends will take some responsibility"

As I read the account of the campus memorial service for David Thornton, I was overwhelmed with the wonderful emotions expressed by those who knew him. But the more I read the kind and comforting words, the more it became clear that something was terribly wrong with this picture. For no amount of platitudes can hide the awful circumstances of his death. That is was, first and foremost, a failure of the very friendship that speaker after speaker spoke so glowingly of. Put very simply, you can't poison a man one day and praise him the next. And make no mistake, what happened to this you man this boy really – was nothing short of assisted suicide, even if it doesn't fit the legal definition of that act.

According to the account in Sunday's paper, a display of photos in the lobby of Freedom Hall was adorned with the words "Our brother David Thornton" and Proud to be a Phi." To be sure, there are many reasons to be "Proud to be a Phi," but this is not one of them. This is, truly, a sad day to be a Phi.

Brotherhood involves caring for and loving one another. And in this instance, some of his brothers, whether fraternity members or not, dramatically failed David Thornton by encouraging the very behavior that led to his death. It is time for someone, perhaps several someones, to admit that yes, I was there. And I will work every day for the rest of my life to be certain that no one ever again goes through what David Thornton did. No one who knew David Thornton should ever forget how he lived his life. And no one should ever forget what should have been done to prevent his death.

"Well, let's see, it looks like one, two, five... count 'em up!" said Tom, grabbing Brent's hand and showing Mike the crudely-drawn hash marks.

"I think we should take him to the emergency room," Mike says.

"Are you NUTS? We'll lose our charter if the school hears about this!" Tom says.

"Yeah, but he could die!

"At least give him a little while to sleep it off... see how he does"

All right. Put him on my couch and I'll watch him.

Brent is placed on Mike's couch with a bucket strategically located in front of him.

"Put him on his side so he doesn't pull a Jimi Hendrix." One of the brothers quipped, referring to the famous guitarist's unfortunate demise.

"The body's reaction to an overdose of alcohol is to relax many of the body's muscles and reflexes. If that happens while someone is 'passed out,' they stand a good chance of vomiting and then breathing in the contents of their stomach into their lungs. This can cause death," Sommers says.

Mike paces around his room, watching Brent. The other brothers have gone off to bed. It's lonely at the top, Mike thinks as he keeps an eye on Brent's chest to make sure he's still breathing. He grabs Brent's wrist to check for a pulse and notices he's cold and clammy.

Screw this. Mike calls Pete, the chapter vice president, who's shacked up at his girlfriend's.

"Yeah?" Pete's sleep-filled voice answers.

"Get over here. I need someone to help me get Brent to the hospital."

Like most college-town hospitals, the medical center closest to Amberly College wasn't really large and had a mediocre reputation. Once, when a brother twisted his ankle in intramural basketball he waited 3 hours before anyone could see him. But when Mike and Pete dragged Brent in, the doctors and nurses moved quickly.

They asked how much he'd drank. They asked if he had allergies. Said something about having to insert a tube in Brent's throat to help him breathe. Everything happened so fast. Doctors or nurses would run out of the ER to ask Mike a question. Mike could only see a glimpse of Brent. Tubes were being run into him. Monitors beeped and buzzed. Doctors were barking out instructions to nurses.

"Is he going to be alright?" Mike asked one of the nurses.

"We'll let you know."

Mike sat in the waiting room with Pete. Even though the room was stuffy, he had the chills to the point his teeth were chattering. He remembers meeting Brent's parent's last year during parent's weekend. Good people. A little uptight, but supportive. Would he have to call to tell them their son died like this?

When a patient with alcohol poisoning arrives at an emergency room, doctors first must make sure he or she is breathing properly. Often, the patient needs to be connected to a ventilator to assist the lungs in breathing.

Afterward...

What happened to Brent? Was he lucky and only need to spend a few days in the hospital? Or did the doctors come out and ask Mike how to get a hold of Brent's parents? Thousands of college students are taken to hospital each year from doing what Brent did. It happened to Bradley McCue in 1998. Bradley was a popular student at Michigan State University. He collapsed after drinking 24 shots on his 21st birthday and died. Nick Meese, an honor student at Arizona State University, downed 21 shots in an hour on his 21st birthday. He survived, but spent the next day in the hospital dealing with internal bleeding.

"We see this kind of risky behavior at campuses around the country," says Jason Julian, director of risk management at General Headquarters. "This isn't just a Phi Delt problem. But, unlike dormitories, we live among people we call 'brothers' who really should look after us. We are our brother's keeper."

Scholarships and Fellowships TOP $2 MILLION

by Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins

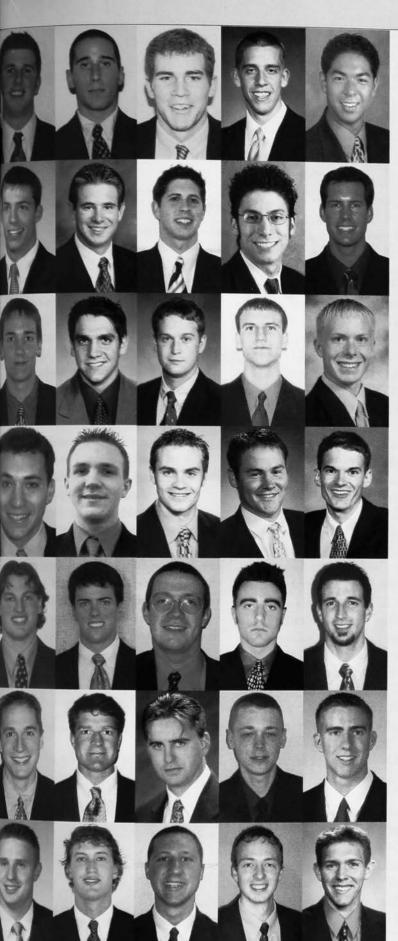

he Educational Foundation Trustees and staff proudly announce that we have gone over the $2 million mark! To be precise, since 1954 the Foundation has presented scholarships and fellowships in the amount of $2,105,652.50 to 1,239 students.

For the 2003-2004 academic year, we have presented awards to 65 students. The awards total a healthy $164,250. Forty-eight undergraduate Phis shared $114,250 with scholarships ranging from $500 to $4,000.

We awarded $3,000 fellowships to 15 Phi graduate and professional students. And we awarded one $3,000 fellowship and one $2,000 scholarship to students of film from the Francis D. Lyon Fund.

We say a special thanks to three former General Officers who served again this year as judges for our undergraduate scholarships. This stellar committee is composed of John J. Budack, Minnesota '58, S. George Notaras, Lawrence '53, and T. William Estes, Vanderbilt '55, who served as chairman. The task of judging all of the nomination materials is a difficult one that takes many, many hours. We thank them!

Thanks also to our donors! Loyal Foundation donors, both alumni and undergraduates, make possible our grants – and all of our other programs and initiatives. We know the recipients of the grants join us in sending our donors heartfelt and enthusiastic thanks.

Ryan Murphy Garners 2003-2004 Priest Award

Ryan P. Murphy, Virginia '04, was one of 33 Founding Fathers of Virginia Beta when the chapter was rechartered at the University of Virginia in September of 2001. The group was a colony for only 9 months and since installation, Virginia Beta has become one of the very strongest fraternities at Greek-dominated UVA. Both facts speak to the quality of the chapter's leaders.

Brother Murphy is a fourth year student at UVA who is majoring in Systems Engineering. He has a cumulative GPA of 3.78 and is a member of the Raven Society, the oldest and most prestigious honorary society at the University of Virginia. He has also received a Raven Scholarship. The Raven Scholarship is given to one student from each of the University's ten schools for excellent scholarship, exceptional leadership and service to the community. Ryan is a Rodman Scholar which means he is a participant in UVA's honors program. He is also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, the Order of Omega, and Phi Eta Sigma.

Ryan served Virginia Beta as secretary last year and is currently Phikeia Educator and a member of the Executive Committee. He has been particularly active in the chapter's community service events, and he plays on the chapter's intramural basketball, flag football and softball teams.

A sample of Ryan's activities will tell you of his numerous and varied interests.

During the summer of 2002, he interned at the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy. He is a Resident Assistant and serves as an advisor and role model to first year students. He has been a Teaching > Assistant for Computer Science 101 and co-chair of the selection committee for UVA's honors program. He volunteers at Charlottes-Club and coaches in-Youth League Basketball program.

Associate Professor of Engineering, Kathryn A. Neeley, wrote to us recommending Ryan. She closed a two-page letter full of praise for his academic achievements and his leadership abilities, by saying, "I was a national officer for my own sorority, Kappa Delta, and have spent many years as a sorority advisor and participant in the Greek System. Ryan Murphy represents the very best the system has to offer and the most important ideals to which it aspires." He sounds like a perfect Priest Award recipient to us!

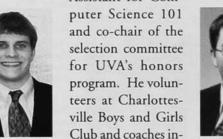

Aaron W. Roseland, South Dakota '04, is a Political Science major with a 3.654 cumulative GPA. He is South Dakota Alpha's Warden and has also been its Scholarship Chairman. His other chapter offices include Assistant Phikeia Educator, Computer Chairman and IFC Judicial Board Representative.

To say that Brother Roseland is very involved in USD campus activi> ties is an understatement. He is President of the University of South Dakota Student Association. He has served two terms as a member of the student senate and has received the Outstanding Senator Award. He lobbied the state legislature as a participant in the Students for Higher Education Days program.

Brother Roseland served a year on the Student Affairs Committee of the University Faculty Senate and took a very active role in the development of an academic integrity task force. For three years he has been a wo young women from Texas, one a graduate student and one an undergraduate, were named to receive this year's Francis D. Lyon Scholarships for students of film.

Karen M. Skloss, a graduate student at The University of Texas at Austin, received a $3,000 Lyon grant. Karen's major field of study is Studio Art (Transmedia: filmmaking and installation art). Karen's undergraduate degree is also from the University of Texas. She studied film her freshman year at NYU's Tisch School for the Arts. Her cumulative GPA is 3.9. Karen plans to combine her experience as an actress, director, installation artist and documentary film editor to make a feature documentary that will highlight the trials and hopes of single parents (she is one) and their children. She also plans to make a series of short video works that will explore the mechanics of communication between mothers and daughters.

Jennifer Hope Clary of Dallas, Texas is a senior at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, New York. She has earned a 3.57 GPA. She is the first Vassar student to be approved for a double major in film and drama. She has experience writing, producing and directing films, documentaries and musicals. Jennifer is a multifaceted actress who has "received awards for her Shakespearean portrayals, operatic recitals, dramatic roles, and musical comedy performances." While continuing her studies at Vassar, she accepted roles in the Paramount production School of Rock and in the independent silent film Blue Betty. Jennifer received a $2,000 Lyon scholarship.

The Trustees thank the members of this year's Lyon Scholarship judging committee. They are: Stephen J. D'Amato, University of Miami '00, who works in the film industry; David S. Hartstein, Emory '00, a former Lyon Scholarship recipient; William R. "Rusty" Richardson, Tampa '80; and Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins, who served as the committee chairman.

Francis D. "Pete" Lyon, UCLA '28, was a distinguished director, producer and editor of motion pictures and television. He won 1947's Academy Award for Best Film Editing for Body and Soul. Just weeks before his death in 1996, Brother Lyon endowed the scholarships in his name for students of film. At his direction, they are available to Phis and to non Phis, to men and to women, to undergraduates and to graduate students. The recipients must be talented, and they must share Pete's passion for making films.

Student Ambassador, a group of students who recruit new students to USD.

Aaron is a member of the USD Honors Program, has been on the Deans' List, and is a member of Golden Key Honor Society. He is a member of the college Republicans and has worked as volunteer campaign manager for a Republican candidate seeking a seat in the South Dakota Senate.

Jesse Moyer, a past president of South Dakota Alpha who is currently a Phi Delta Theta Leadership Consultant, wrote a letter of recommendation. "Brother Roseland does what ought to be done, and he does it with great enthusiasm and a zest for the task... He is someone I think of every time I say 'Proud To Be A Phi!'"

educational foundation grants 15 graduate fellowships

orty-three Phi graduate and professional students applied for this year's fifteen $3,000 graduate fellowships. Perhaps one of the members of the fellowship judging committee best describes this year's applicants. Dr. J. M. Anthony Danby, North Carolina State, wrote: "...I was struck by a much smaller spread in the level of the candidates. None was 'marginal,' and all were strong contenders. So I found ordering these Brothers to be very difficult. I expect that different readers may come up with significantly different ordering – which, of course, is all for the good. The fifteen candidates that finally succeed will richly deserve their fellowships. But all the rest are deserving, and all should be congratulated."

Let me tell you about the fifteen successful candidates.

W. Benjamin Turner, North Carolina State '03, is the recipient of this year's George E. Grady Fellowship. Ben began dental school at UNC Chapel Hill in the fall. He graduated with a perfect 4.0 GPA in the Honors Program with a major in Biochemistry. He served as president of North Carolina Delta and as the chapter's community service chair, PR Chair, and IFC delegate. Ben is a member of a number of honoraries including Phi Beta Kappa and was named a Valedictorian of his NC State graduating class.

Charley R. Johnson, Mercer '03, is the recipient of the William R. "Rusty" Richardson Fellowship. He majored in Environmental Engineering and graduated with a 3.96 GPA. He began graduate work in Civil and Environmental Engineering at Georgia Tech in the fall. Charley was president, warden, scholarship chair, new member educator and fundraising chair of Georgia Gamma. He was named the University's Most Outstanding Freshman and four years later received its prestigious Mercerian Award.

Warren C. Bergquist, Southwestern College '03, garnered a 3.86 GPA in Physics with a minor in Business Administration. Warren has begun work in Civil Engineering at Washington University. He served Kansas Zeta as president, alumni chairman, housing chairman, and scholarship chairman. He was named an NAIA Academic All-American four times for Cross Country and Track. He was a Student Senator and a Justice in the Campus Court.

Thomas T. Bringley, Duke '03, graduated with a 3.82 GPA with degrees in Mathematics and Physics. He has begun work toward a Ph.D. in Applied Mathematics at New York University. He served NC Alpha as president, treasurer, librarian and IFC representative. He was named a PRUV Fellow by the Mathematics Department, an award which includes the opportunity to do research. His research was published even though he was an undergraduate.

Craig J. Edwards, Drake '03, who majored in History and English, earned a 3.79 GPA. He has begun Law School at The University of Iowa. His Iowa Delta chapter offices include president, secretary, rush chair and alumni secretary. He was named Drake's Fraternity Junior of the Year during Greek Week and was selected as one of the University's 15 Top Seniors. He served the Drake IFC as scholarship chair and vice president.

Jamie (James) M. Gallagher, Berkeley '03, graduated with a degree in Political Science and a GPA of 3.8. He is participating in a year-long program working with California state legislators and receiving credit through California State University, Sacramento. He will attend law school next year. Jamie served California Alpha as president, vice president, Phikeia

Educator and social chairman. He was a student senator and editor-in-chief of California Patriot, a conservative campus news publication

Jacob A. Gantz, Rutgers '98, earned a 3.4 GPA studying Computer Science. He was admitted to the Rutgers College General Honors Program and is a member of numerous honor societies. As an undergraduate, he served New Jersey Alpha as vice president, recruitment chairman, IFC representative, steward and warden. He began pursuing a J.D. in 2002 at Rutgers School of Law, Camden. His law school GPA is 3.953. He was named a Dean's Scholar and received First Year High Honors from the law school.

Daniel A. Harrison, Akron '03, received his B.S. in Political Science earning a 3.7 GPA. He has begun work on a Masters of Applied Politics from the University of Akron. He served Ohio Epsilon as recruitment chairman, scholarship chairman, Phikeia Educator and for two years as president. He is a member of several honor societies and was a University Ambassador, a member of the University's House of Representatives, and an Admissions Tour Guide.

Patrick S. Hurley, North Dakota '01, graduated summa cum laude in Religion and Philosophy with a 3.78 GPA. Patrick was treasurer of the UND Student Body. He is a student at The George Washing-

Brian was named to numerous honor societies including Mortar Board, Golden Key and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. He spent a semester studying abroad in Florence, Italy and was selected to participate in the University's Honors Program. Brian began studying for a J.D. at the Harvard Law School in September.

Matthew S. McKenzie, Mississippi '03, was last year's recipient of Phi Delta Theta's prestigious Arthur R. Priest Award. He garnered a 3.65 GPA en route to a B.A. in Managerial Finance with an emphasis on Corporate Finance and Investment Analysis. He served as Mississippi Alpha's president and recruitment chairman. Matt was tapped for ten honor societies and received a number of scholarships. He was an Associated Student Body Senator and a member of the Student Rebel Athletic Foundation. He returned to Old Miss last fall to attend the School of Law.

Sean M. Ploof, Creighton '03, graduated with a 3.97 GPA with majors in Biology and Philosophy. Sean served Nebraska Gamma as Scholarship Chair. He is a member of several honor societies including Alpha Sigma Nu, the highest honor that can be bestowed by a Jesuit University. He acted as a liaison between the University and the community as a Magis Ambassador and served in numerous campus leadership positions. Sean began his studies at the Creighton University School of Medicine in August.

Eric C. So, Maryland '03, graduated with a B.S. in Economics and a B.S. in Government and Politics. His cumulative GPA was 3.8 earning him cum laude honors. He was president and co-founder of the Community Caring Coalition, an organization committed to serving the community through charitable acts. Eric received the Outstanding Department Scholar Award from the Economics Department and was a commencement speaker for the Department. He has begun work on a Ph.D. in Economics at Cornell University.

Geoffrey L. Wayne, Texas Tech '97, earned a B.B.A. with majors in Accounting and Finance. His undergraduate GPA was 3.78. He served Texas Epsilon chapter as president, vice president, scholarship chairman, and awards chairman. He also served as chapter adviser from 1998-2000. Geoff served as president of the Student Body and of the campus IFC. He was tapped for nine campus honoraries. He was the only student member of the University's Chancellor Search Committee. In 2002 he entered the MBA program at the Harvard Business School.

Ross M. Wright, South Dakota '01, earned degrees from the School of Education and the Honors Program. He majored in Secondary Education: History and Social Science earning a 3.85 GPA. He served South Dakota Alpha as president and recruitment chairman. For three years he was a member of Team Phi Delt in the College Bowl Tournament. He was tapped for membership in six college honoraries. Ross was vice president of the USD Student Body and voted Outstanding Student Senator. He is now a student at the USD College of Law seeking a J.D. and also at USD's Department of Political Science where he seeks a Masters of Public Administration.

Don Thompson Receives Gardner Award

By Conrad Foster Thiede, Colgate '90

"It is such an honor to be recognized by an organization you love," noted Don Thompson, Butler '66, upon learning that he was named the 2003 Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year. "I am humbled and most grateful."

The "Phi of the Year" Award was created in 1960 in memory of Raymond L. Gardner, Washington (Sea.) '18, past member of the General Council and long-time member of the Seattle Alumni Club. The award is given annually to the alumnus who best exemplifies individual commitment to his community, to higher education and to the Fraternity.

Scores of Phis and friends participated in the Gardner Award presentation sponsored by the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club on December 6, 2003 at the home of Russ and Cindy Gillard in Mesa, Arizona.

Indiana Roots

Don Thompson was initiated into Phi Delta Theta in Fall 1963 while a sophomore at Butler University in Indianapolis. The Shelbyville High School (Ind.) student body president was an active Phi, serving on the chapter's executive board as an undergraduate and playing tennis on the Butler squad. He received a B.S. in English from Butler in 1966 and two years later graduated from Indiana University with his M.S. in Education.

An Educator First

A lifetime educator, Thompson was a guidance counselor while living in Indiana, serving both the Indianapolis Public Schools and Pike Township Schools. In his new hometown of Mesa, Arizona, Thompson is an English teacher and tennis coach at Westwood High School. His students have also recognized his contributions to their lives, for he received the "Walk An Extra Mile" Award from the Westwood High School Student

"It's been quite an adventure these past 30 years," says Eden, Don's wife. Also a local educator, Eden has been an avid participant in a unique Phi Delt experience of her own. "I've probably been to more Fraternity events than most Phi Delts, and I have certainly met some characters," she says with a laugh.

As a couple, the Thompsons not only attend Phi Delt reunions and conventions around the country, but they continue their own educational endeavors, including attending the world-famous Utah Shakespeare Festival that is facilitated by 1996 Distinguished Alumnus Award recipient Dr. Michael Flachmann, Sewanee '66. "Don Thompson and his lovely wife, Eden, are two of the nicest people," notes Dr. Flachmann. "He's a brilliant scholar, a fine athlete, a lover of the arts, and just an all-round great guy who has devoted much of his adult life to the service of Phi Delta Theta. He richly deserves this long-overdue recognition."

Community Participant

Active in both his Indiana and Arizona communities, Brother Thompson has a broad interest when it comes to his volunteer choices. While in Indiana, he served as a basketball and football referee for 20 years, and he was the assistant area coordinator for Fellowship of Christian Athletes under US Senator Richard Lugar. Thompson was instrumental in the founding of the Indianapolis chapter of Big Brothers/Big Sisters. Brother Thompson's work with the Arizona Chapter of the ALSA and American Cancer Society has brought him much praise.

Fraternity and Higher Education Advocate In 1986, Brother Thompson helped start the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club, which serves over 1000 Phis in the Metropolitan Phoenix area.

"Don was the primary founder of our alumni club," says President Russ Gillard, Kettering 73. "I can truly say that our club would not exist, and would have difficulty sustaining itself without Brother Thompson."

During Don's tenure with the club, it has been recognized with the Hoysgaard Alumni Club Achievement Award a record three times and hosted two General Conventions.

Thompson has served in active roles with Phi Delt alumni and student groups at Arizona State University and Northern Arizona University, as well as his home chapter.

"Don has always shown a concern for our chapter being well-represented at Phi Delta Theta functions, such as conventions and the Leadership College, and has GARDNER continues on page 30

Danny Graves Receives Lou Gehrig Award

Reds pitcher honored for work in community

By Conrad Foster Thiede, Colgate '90

"It's certainly not about the awards or the publicity, it's about doing the right thing," said Danny Graves upon learning that he had been named this year's Lou Gehrig Memorial Award recipient. "I am glad that you guys do this. So many people just see us as athletes, but we are also sons, parents raising kids, neighbors; and we are just trying to do what's right."

On August 29, 2003, representatives of the Lou Gehrig Award Committee, the Foundation and the Fraternity presented the Gehrig Award to Graves and his wife, Andrea. Additionally, 100 Phis and their guests participated in the celebration at the new Great American Ball Park in Cincinnati.

Phi Delta Theta presents the award annually to the Major League Baseball player who best exemplifies the giving character of Hall of Famer Lou Gehrig, Columbia '25. The award was first presented in 1955 and is permanently maintained in Cooperstown.

Danny and Andrea Graves have been a visible, productive couple within the Cincinnati community. Earlier this year, the couple announced a $25,000 commitment to the Reds Community Fund. Additionally, the Graves made their private suite at Great American Ball Park available to many non-profits throughout the 2003 season.

"I am so fortunate to be able to work with someone like Danny Graves, who represents our team so well," says Lorrie Platt, Community Relations Manager for the Cincinnati Reds.

To honor Danny Graves' financial support of Cincinnati's Cleves Community Park, one of the new baseball diamonds now bears the name: "Danny Graves Field."

"It's weird—you never think that something like that will happen," notes Graves. "But I'm glad to have been a part of it, because it worked out great and now the kids have a safe, clean field."

Graves has participated in the "Rubber Duck Regatta" fundraiser that benefits the FreeStore Foodbank. He is the Reds' representative for Major League Baseball's Big Bam breast cancer awareness program and a team ambassador for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. As a local spokesman for the Cincinnati National Multiple Sclerosis Society, he has promoted the agency's READaTHON program. Graves has also served as spokesperson for the Disabled American Veterans day at Cinergy Field in 2002. He is an honorary member of the Hamilton County Special Olympics and was featured in their 2001 campaign. Due to Graves' receipt of the Reds' 2001 Roberto Clemente Award, a $2,500 donation was made to the Hamilton County Special Olympics. He was featured on a poster sponsored by the Ohio Department of Safety's Sober Truth Program.

"My parents taught me when I was a kid that anytime I could give back to my community, I should," says Graves. "Now that we are financially stable, my wife and I enjoy giving back, especially for programs impacting children."

Danny Graves completed his eighth season in the Major Leagues. He came up to the big leagues with the Cleveland Indians in 1996 and joined Cincinnati a year later.

Graves has been one of the most productive Redleg pitchers in team history. From 2000-2002, he was involved in 117 of the Reds' 229 victories (51%), including 58% in 2001. He is 39-36 lifetime with 131 saves and a 3.88 ERA. Prior to becoming a starter in 2003, Graves had recorded three consecutive years of 30 or more saves and was the team leader in saves during each of the four prior seasons. He was a member of the 2000 All-Star team, a season in which he was 10-5 with 30 saves and a 2.56 ERA. Grave's 470 innings pitched as a reliever, 1997-2002, was third most in the Majors during that six-year span. He was converted to a starter late in 2002 and through most of 2003, and all indications point to his return to the bullpen full time for the 2004 season.

"The 1999 season was a great time," Graves says, noting the Reds' surprise run for the National League wild card and his best team moment. "I would definitely say that being named to the All-Star team GEHRIG continues on page 30

Alabama Beta Auburn University

December 10, 2003 marks the 10-year anniversary of the tragic death of Chad Saucier, an Alabama Beta pledge. Saucier died from alcohol poisoning at a Christmas party held by the chapter. After a four-year suspension, Alabama Beta is back on campus as a chapter with new priorities. A private ceremony is planned to remember their departed brother. —Todd Mishkin

Florida Alpha University of Florida

Our chapter continues to make great strides. This past spring we teamed up with the ladies of Kappa Alpha Theta in a dodge ball tournament and raised approximately $6,000 for Spinal Muscular Atrophy. This cause was important to us all as the nephew of our brother, Joseph Goldberg, passed away recently from the disease. In April, we were able to pin and

The chapter here continues to get involved with on campus activities including the prestigious Florida Blue Key, IFC, and student government. As we move forward, the possibilities of the fall semester seem bright as the brothers here at Florida Alpha welcome 41 eager new members and look forward to the father/son golf tournament in October.

We are also planning for our chapter's 50th anniversary celebration. Our goal is to host a weekend filled with fun alumni events.

Finally, we held our first drug and alcohol program, which we plan to make an annual event. The program attracted more than 200 students and included many speakers from the police department and drug and alcohol victims. ## Gamma Provinces Conference

The eleven chapters in Phi Delta Theta's three Gamma Provinces—Gamma North, Gamma South and Gamma West—convened at the University of Maryland on July 25-26. The Maryland Alpha chapter hosted the event.

In the absence of Leadership College in Oxford, Ohio this summer, the Province Presidents thought it all the more important to provide a regional forum for learning, leadership training and discussion on best practices and effective chapter management. General Council Reporter Rudy Porchivina was also able to attend the meeting and address the group.

At the final banquet General Fraternity award recipients were recognized including, Ryan Murphy, Virginia '04, who received the Arthur R. Priest Award.

For the second year in a row, a Kansas Beta Phi Delt has been crowned homecoming king at Washburn University. Senior Matt Sinovic was crowned this year's king along with this year's queen, Brooke West. Brother Sinovic serves as the chapter's treasurer. —Jamison Johnson

Missouri Zeta Southeast Missouri State University

After nearly two years of suspension, Missouri Zeta is determined to make a strong return! We have completely restructured with a new executive board and new recruitment, scholarship and Phikeia programs. Last spring we hosted a very successful alumni golf tournament in St. Louis. Many alumni participated with their hard work, time and money to secure the tournament's success. For the first time since 2001, we are able to conduct fall recruitment! We would like to give a special thanks to all of our alumni, the staff at General Headquarters, and especially all the Phis who are the reason

California Omicron North Province Conference

On August 1-3, chapter officers from Phi Delta Theta chapters at University of California-Davis, University of the Pacific, California State-Sacramento and California State-Chico gathered for a regional leadership conference.

Topics covered included recruitment, chapter finances, chapter discipline, the meaning of The Bond, and chapter management and organization. We also presented awards, had a Model Initiation and attended the Rivercats baseball game.

Province Award winners included University of the Pacific (chapter of the year, scholarship, recruitment); Aaron Kenny, California-Davis (Phi of the Year); and California-Davis (Philanthropy).

Plans are in the works for a province-wide Founders Day, tentatively scheduled for April 17.

Our biggest philanthropy event of the semester, "The Great Pumpkin" carving, was held on Oct. 26. This popular annual event brings local townspeople and professors to the chapter house with their children to carve pumpkins, eat food prepared by our cook of 39 years, and drink hot cider. We obtained 200 pumpkins for the event, and every one of them was used. This year we held "The Great Pumpkin" along with the ladies of Gamma Phi Beta, who set up an arts and crafts station for the children as a

The Accolade

What is it?

The Accolade is a member development program that helps develop successful students and fraternity members through individual expectations and chapter programs. The Accolade engages the undergraduate member in personal development activities including goal-setting, time management, character development, and career development, as well as chapter-based activities such as retreats, educational programs, or activities involving The Bond and three cardinal principles to enhance his collegiate and Fraternity experience.

The Accolade builds upon the premise that by developing better members, the Fraternity builds better chapters. Transversely, by building better chapters, the Fraternity is developing stronger, more well-rounded members. All the supporting programs of The Accolade enhance both the individual chapter member and the chapter: All for one and one for all.

Additionally, The Accolade encompasses not only undergraduate members, but also incorporates alumni as well. "A Fraternity for Life" is more than a motto. Rather, The Accolade considers member development in all phases of membership: Phikeia, undergraduate member, and alumnus. The Accolade is a program that any member (at any phase of membership) can utilize to enhance his brotherhood experience.

Many families from the town visited the house, along with several Fraternity parents because the event took place the Sunday of Colgate's Parents' Weekend. Our front lawn and dining room were energized with Halloween spirit, and the pumpkin carving was a great way to showcase the house and our brotherhood to our school, parents and local community. —Bart Hale

North Dakota Alpha University of North Dakota

The brothers at North Dakota Alpha held a philanthropy benefiting Lou Gehrig's disease from Oct. 1-3. Our theme this year was "Up To Bat For Lou." Along with the three-day event was a contest for our Carnation Princess. One woman from each of the seven sororities on campus competed for the hearts of the Phi Delt men. The seven sororities also competed to win the Phi Delta Theta house award - the house with the most points throughout the week. The house contest began with a baseballthemed banner contest, later we had a coin collection for ALS in our Memorial Union and it brought in nearly $300 in coins! Other events were a taco feed to raise money and a Batgirl contest. This contest involved sorority

We luckily have a large field past our backyard; so we held it there and made a field with an orange snow fence and some spray paint. Our most successful fundraiser was our "Up To Bat For Lou" t-shirt sale. All in all, our philan-

Fall semester has been incredibly busy for Ohio Iota. For the first time, we participated in the weeklong philanthropy contest, Anchor Splash, hosted by Delta Gamma. As another event, eight men from our chapter volunteered to make peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for local shelters. We also plan on volunteering at a soup kitchen this holiday season and raising money for multiple sclerosis.

On another note, Ohio Iota is proud to have several outstanding athletes within the chapter. Our intramural flag football team finished second in our division and three of our members—Kyle Banahan, Matt Barron and Will Trumbull—are members of Denison's nationally-ranked soccer team.

Ohio Theta University of Cincinnati

Ohio Theta is alive this fall at the University of Cincinnati! More than $10,000 in scholarships were awarded to active brothers and incoming freshmen during the Third Annual Scholarship Dinner. The dinner, combined with a recruitment weekend this past summer, has generated the Phi Delt name throughout campus. Our hard work seems to be paying off as we gear up for a strong fall recruitment. We are also stepping up our community service involvement by teaming with Alpha Phi Omega to co-sponsor the fall quarter's largest event, Make a Difference Day.

Pennsylvania Omicron Shippensburg University

July 19, 2003 marked Pennsylvania Omicron's first golf outing at Mayapple Golf Links in Carlisle, Pa. Although we are a young chapter, more than 30 brothers, both undergraduates and alumni. attended the event. Our chapter hopes to make this an annual event as our alumni base continues to grow. The four-man scramble began at 11 a.m. and for the first nine holes, all teams were tied at one under par. At the conclusion of 18 holes, the winning team had a score of 65 (five under par) and consisted of Thomas Baer '02, Pat Farren '02, Steve Muir '03, and Bill Salisbury '04. This event was a great opportunity to connect with alumni, spend time with brothers and have fun!

South Carolina Gamma Clemson University

This past October, we were happy to hold the first of what we plan to make our annual philanthropy event, the Phi Delt 500. The event is a series of tricycle races for sororities. This first time around, we were able to raise more than $1,200 for the ALS Association. Also this fall, we had the opportunity to become involved as a chapter in building the Habitat for Humanity homecoming house — the 11th of its kind to be built on campus in the midst of the homecoming floats. From Oct.1-10, we dedicated more than 360 man-hours, and displayed our letters in front of the house on the day of the homecoming game.

often assured that the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club would provide financial assistance if necessary," states Arizona Gamma Chapter President Nick Peterson. "He has referred several incoming freshmen to our rush activities, and has sent us names of good candidates for membership."

Though two thousand miles from his alma mater, Brother Thompson continues to sit on the Butler University Board of Alumni. Don is one of the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation's most consistent donors, and he has made contributions for 29 consecutive years.

"I have received so many benefits from my membership in Phi Delta Theta, that giving back with both my time and through contributions is really an easy choice to make," says Don.

An Educated Fan

Brother Thompson, an avid baseball fan, was named to the Lou Gehrig Memorial Award Committee in 2000 and is a member of the Society for American Baseball Research.

Judge J.V. Boles, Butler 62, shares an interesting story: "Upon moving to Arizona, Don did not forget his roots. Don has a relative (great uncle) 'Big Sam' Thompson, a Hall of Fame Major League Baseball player who grew up in Danville, Indiana. Don spent many hours researching 'Big Sam's' history and succeeded in getting the Town of Danville to name its ballpark after 'Big Sam' Thompson and having a plaque placed in our Government Building commemorating the honor. Don did not forget his roots, his brothers back here, or the need to educate future leaders of Indiana."

Don has also participated in several presentations of the Gehrig Award, including those to Tony Gwynn and Todd Stottlemyre, whose nomination was submitted by Brother Thompson and the Valley of the Sun Alumni Club.

Province President George Grady, Arizona '52, sums it up well as he notes: "Don represents the loyalfor-life Phi we could use more of in the Fraternity. He is one of those rare individuals that persists and leads, and I truly believe he is exactly the type of Phi that should be selected for the award."

GEHRIG from page 23 in 2000 has been my best personal moment thus far."

In talking of his teammates, he smiles and says, "These guys are great, especially Sean Casey. Sean and I came up together with the Indians and we're like family. I sometimes think he cares more about others than he does for himself."

The Gehrig Award Committee thinks the same thing about Danny Graves.

Graves is the fourth member of the Cincinnati Reds to receive the Gehrig Award. He joins current Reds Captain Barry Larkin, who received the award in 1994 and two members of the Big Red Machine, Pete Rose (1969) and Johnny Bench (1975).

Many of you will recall the article that appeared in the most recent issue of The Scroll entitled "Kindness Rewarded Almost 80 Years Later." The article described an extremely generous gift received from Julia Jenkins, the widow of David S. Jenkins, Colorado '25. Mrs. Jenkins' gift in memory of her husband fully endowed three graduate school fellowships through the Educational Foundation for the benefit of alumni from the University of Colorado and the University of Arizona. Mrs. Jenkins passed away in October.

Hatten S. Yoder, Jr., Chicago '42

Dr. Hatten Yoder, an expert on volcanic basalt whose research about the effects of high pressure and temperature on minerals contributed to knowledge about the origins of life, passed away on August 2, 2003 in Bethesda, Md. The emeritus director of the Carnegie Institution's Geophysical Laboratory, Yoder did experimental research in geology and petrology for more than half a century. His investigations included the physical chemistry of silicate and sulfide, energy in molten systems and abiotic synthesis of organic compounds. He pioneered a technique and apparatus of high-pressure research on basalt that was later used by lab scientists who found unexpected chemical reactions in deep hydrothermal vents of the sea. The reactions were believed to have played a key role in the conversion of nitrogen to ammonia, a step in the development of life. The mineral yoderite was named for him after he synthesized the compound.

Giving to Phi Delta Theta in AD 2048

ould you like to make a gift to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation 45 years from now? How about in 2098 when Phi Delta Theta celebrates its 250th year anniversary? You can . . . and here's how: Simply add up your annual gifts for the year and multiply by 20. Then, make an estate gift for this amount (through your will or other device) and designate it for our "Annual Giving Endowment Fund." That's all there is to it.

The endowment will provide an annual gift to the Educational Foundation at roughly the same dollar value you are giving now. Long after you are gone — even 95 years from now - Phi Delta Theta will continue to receive "your" annual gift.

Here's an example of how this works: Bob gives the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation $500 every year. He may give it in smaller chunks or as one annual gift. He realizes that the Foundation depends on his giving and wonders how we will fare when he's no longer alive to send the $500.

Bob talks to one of our Foundation staff members and learns about our Endow Your Giving program. He then instructs his attorney to add a codicil to his will, providing a $10,000 bequest to our Annual Giving Endowment

The initial income from his endowment gift will be $500 (assuming a 5 percent return), and income will grow as the endowment appreciates over time. He is pleased because he knows that money from the endowment fund will be given to the annual fund every year — just as though he were sending a check to the Foundation.

The idea of an endowment fund may captivate you to the point you will want to establish a larger fund — bearing your name — for either a restricted or unrestricted purpose. This can be done now, or through an estate gift when you are gone. Again, we urge you to talk with Rusty Richardson, Conrad Thiede or Jason O'Rourke, who can explain this in detail and help you accomplish your goals.
