Sobriety is power

I am a mom, and I am so glad to hear of your alcohol-free policy, as alcohol can destroy. I am writing today because we have some dear friends who are blind to the fact of what alcohol is doing to their family. When alcohol takes over in someone's life it takes everything—potential, health, youth and strength—to name a few.

A clear mind, a healthy body and being a man of strong moral character are the most attractive assets any man can have. The men in your Fraternity will reap the benefits for life. They will come out on top and have full success and all that comes with it. God bless you all.

More on avoiding nuclear war

Thank you for the article on Senator Sam Nunn and his Nuclear Threat Initiative (NTI). You could not have addressed a more important issue. Sadly, in recent years the threat of nuclear war has been seriously neglected by most politicians, citizens and academics. NTI's DVD docudrama The Last Best Chance, starring former U.S. Senator Fred Dalton Thompson, is one of the best tools available for helping us all confront the distinct possibility of a terrorist attack with weapons of mass destruction.

In the Scroll article, Sen. Nunn calls for a verifiable international treaty which would halt the production of additional fissile material for bomb purposes. As Brother Nunn knows very well, the signing and ratification of that treaty will face many political obstacles, which will require a great deal of political education and action on the part of U.S. citizens, and those of other countries. Widespread dissemination of The Last Best Chance can markedly contribute to such education and action. The DVD can be secured, at no cost, by calling (800) 336-0035. I highly recommend that every chapter of Phi Delta Theta obtain a copy of the film for showing to their Brothers. They, in turn, can do much to educate their fellow students on this crucial problem which truly threatens life on our Planet.

Alumni in action at Indiana Theta

On a ski trip out west last winter with pledge brothers from 1980 Brad Dickinson and Dave Tavitian, we hatched the concept of an annual "Alumni in Action" weekend at the chapter house. The event was designed to have a three-fold purpose: spruce up the house for the fall recruitment; build stronger bonds between actives and alumni; and raise funds for longer term projects.

Fortunately Brad's son, Justin, is currently a member of Indiana Theta and was able to provide great coordination during the planning process. On Thursday evening, just prior to the first home football game, a dozen alumni and 30 to 40 actives came together to conduct a Telethon Fundraiser. Friday consisted of a full day work session supported by alumni and actives alike. The event culminated with a steak dinner Friday evening on the front porch of the house. The Telethon raised approximately $8,000 and the work session, proceeding at a frantic pace, accomplished all that was planned. The dining room ceiling tiles and light lenses were all replaced and the metal grid thoroughly cleaned. The back stairwell received a fresh coat of paint, all the living room carpets were cleaned, and the ground received fresh mulch, trimming and fertilization.

This was a great opportunity for us alumni to get to know the fine group of young men that now occupy the house that we used to call home. Their hospitality and appreciation was overwhelming.

We agreed that it was as close to reliving our wonderful undergraduate years as it could be for a bunch of 40 plus year old Phis. We have no doubt that the "Alumni in Action" weekend will become an annual event at Indiana Theta.

Oklahoma reunion

Our 1965-70 Pledge Class Reunion that we held in Dallas October 5-6 during the Oklahoma/Texas football game weekend was a wonderful success. We had over seventy of our Brothers in attendance plus spouses/significant others. I don't think many of us really understood the deep bonds of friendship we have for each other that started as a result of being Phis at the University of Oklahoma 40 years ago, until we got together for our weekend of events.

One of our Brothers who is partially paralyzed was even brave enough to fly alone from Oklahoma to Dallas. What impressed me most about the weekend was that at no time during our two-day reunion was he by himself and never in need of anything, for a Brother was always there for him. These many unselfish acts of true brotherly love for a fellow Brother made me proud to be with these guys because they are indeed good eggs who care about their Brothers.

We are already planning for our 2008 Reunion the first weekend in October.

Armstrong sculpture, lunar footprints, unveiled at Purdue

Editor's note: Neil Armstrong, Purdue, '55, was recently honored by his alma mater. A badge Brother Armstrong took with him to the moon remains on display at Phi Delta Theta Headquarters.

PURDUE UNIVERSITY unveiled a bronze sculpture of alumnus Neil Armstrong on Friday, October 26 as a prelude to that weekend's dedication ceremony for a new engineering research and education building named for the first astronaut to walk on the moon.

The statue, accompanied by a trail of sculpted moon boot impressions and other symbolic features, is situated in front of the new Neil Armstrong Hall of Engineering, located at Stadium and Northwestern Avenues on Purdue's West Lafayette campus.

Artist Chas Fagan, from Charlotte, N.C., created the work. The sculpture of Armstrong, depicted as an undergraduate student in the 1950s, sits on a stone plinth in front of the building. Armstrong gazes over his left shoulder in the general direction of the lunar moon boot impressions.

"When our students see this sculpture, I hope they'll believe that they, like Mr. Armstrong, can achieve the unimaginable," said Purdue President France A. Córdova. "I hope it will inspire them to reach for the stars." The bronze statue, an eight-foot-tall, 125 percent scale likeness of Armstrong, recreates the image of a clean-cut college student wearing a windbreaker, button-down Oxford shirt, cuffed khaki pants and penny loafers. His right hand rests on a small stack of books, and his slide rule is removed from its case as though ready for action.

Mary Jo Kirk and her husband, Purdue alumnus Bob Kirk of Washington, D.C., donated the money for the sculpture. In recognition, the area in which it is located has been named Kirk Plaza.

An elliptical stone arc resembling a spacecraft trajectory is embedded flush with the ground in Kirk Plaza next to the statue. An inscription in the arc reads: "One small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

The arc leads toward the lunar footprints, which were molded from an impression made using a moon boot provided by the Smithsonian Air and Space Museum. The 20 boot impressions trail away from the sculpture, running parallel to a walkway and spaced far apart to replicate the bounding gait of an Apollo astronaut. A few of the lunar prints are farther apart than others, as though created by a leaping moon walker.

Fagan said the sculpture presented several challenges.

"The moon boot prints are definitely an interesting feature," Fagan said. "Now students are really able to walk in the footsteps of Neil Armstrong."

Fagan consulted with Armstrong to ensure that he was on the right track before creating the sculpture's final design.

"I met with him privately so that I could ask him for input and get his perspective of what he was like as an engineering student at Purdue," Fagan said. "He reviewed details and made suggestions, and the design was approved by committee."

Fagan also had to meet with his subject to solve a key missing ingredient: He needed to know what Armstrong's profile looked like.

"I took photos that clearly showed his profile because none existed," Fagan said. "The age difference did not really matter because bone structure and basic features don't change. Without knowing someone's profile, you are just guessing, based on shadows you see in non-profile photographs, as to how the person looks in real life."

Armstrong also provided materials for the sculptor to work with, including photographs from family albums, his slide rule and original Purdue notebooks, said Fagan, an internationally known artist whose work adorns the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. Fagan currently is working on a statue of Ronald Reagan for the U.S. Capitol building. He also created the official White House portrait of Barbara Bush, an oil painting.

Armstrong earned a bachelor's degree from Purdue's School of Aeronautics and Astronautics in 1955 and was selected for astronaut training in 1962. As spacecraft commander for NASA's Apollo 11, he and astronauts Michael Collins and Buzz Aldrin completed the first landing mission to the moon in 1969, with Armstrong as the first human to walk on the lunar surface. He also had been commander of the Gemini 8 flight in 1966 when he performed the first successful docking of two vehicles in space, flew 78 combat missions from an aircraft carrier during the Korean War and was a test pilot for pioneering high-speed aircraft.

Armstrong is a retired chairman of the EDO Corporation, an electronics and aerospace manufacturer.

Former White House economic advisor is a Phi

President's economic adviser Allan Hubbard

Allan Hubbard, Vanderbilt '69 recently concluded his term as the assistant to president for economic policy and director of the National Economic Council. Over the past three years, Hubbard helped shape economic policies for the Bush administration. When announcing Hubbard's resignation, the president honored Hubbard's career.

"While many of the policies Al worked to develop are in place today, other policy initiatives, including Social Security reform and health care reform, have laid the foundation for policies I believe will be adopted in the future," Bush said. "Al has been a valuable leader among my economic advisors for nearly three years, and for many more years he and his family have been friends to Laura and me."

The Scroll sat down with him before he left the White House to talk about the economy, the election, and his plans after politics.

What has this experience been like for you?

It's been fascinating. Dealing with everything from agriculture policy from trade to health care, it's been like going to college all over again. It's an incredibly collegial White House. I have enormous respect for the president; I think he's a remarkable guy who stays focused on the important issues.

What's it like working in the White House? How does it compare to your business experience?

"It's a 24-7 job, basically. You work extremely long hours and never can get everything done. There are so many moving parts to the process. To get an idea through, it has to come from the Executive branch to the 535 members of Congress and the Senate. It's an incredibly arduous process and the framers made it that way. I guess my frustration is, it's so hard to get anything accomplished. It's easier to measure what you've accomplished in business. But, at the same time, it's been an incredible experience.

The economy has had some troubles of late. What's your take?

Outside of the financial area and housing, the economy is really quite strong. (stats 550) It's going to take awhile for the housing sector to come back. We've overbuilt. Until the excess inventory of houses drops, you're not going to see the housing market turn around. And the credit market, there is a lot of uncertainty about the value of security. So, that's got to work itself out and that doesn't happen overnight. It's going to take awhile.

The president has FHA reform legislation on Capital Hill, and we have legislation to deal with writedowns of mortgages to make it not a taxable event (it is now). The IRS says you have to pay taxes on that reduction of mortgages.

What would you say to young Phis looking to succeed in business?

My number one piece of advice would be, if you want to be successful in business or politics, those things only happen if you're trying to make them happen. You can't just sit there and hope for them to happen. You have to be swingin'. You have to be at the plate. And, you have to have a lot of luck. Most businesspeople will admit that.

Allan Hubbard and Brazil's Foreign Minister Celso Amorim talk during a meeting in Brasilia, in Oct., 2007. Hubbard was in Brazil to participate in the Brazil-US CEOs Forum.

How did Phi Delt help you?

"I made some very lasting friends. Phi Delt made the college experience more enjoyable."

We have a pretty interesting presidential election underway. What would be your advice to whoever moves into the White House next January?

I think the economy is going to be a big issue. I am just a huge believer in the free market. We have to let people keep more of their hard-earned money. The best way to stimulate the economy is to let more people have more of their own money. Our corporate taxes are higher than other countries' and that is causing some of our companies to look overseas for investment. We have to accept this is a global economy.

We have to encourage entrepreneurship and business investment. I would hope that whoever comes in would not put in new regulations that increase the costs for businesses. Anytime you add to labor costs or regulations, particularly labor regulations, you add to business costs.

What's next for you?

I'm going to go skiing for a month, and then go back to Indianapolis and go back into business.

Gardner Award goes to Gary Wade

GARY R. Wade, (Tennessee '70) of Sevierville, Tennessee is the 2007 Raymond L. Gardner Alumnus of the Year. The prestigious alumni award is given annually to the Phi Delta Theta alumnus who has made the greatest contribution within the Fraternity, his community, and the world of higher education. The award was originated by the Seattle Alumni Club in memory of Raymond L. Gardner (Washington '18).

Brother Wade was nominated for the award by the Knoxville Alumni Club and received over twenty letters of recommendation from his peers and colleagues. The letters of support on behalf of Brother Wade can be summed up in one comment that came from an associate, "Being equipped with outstanding legal knowledge, an excellent personal reputation, an enviable history of civic accomplishments, and especially an extraordinarily warm and friendly personality, I suggest Gary would be a most worthy recipient of the Gardner Award."

He was presented the award by lifelong friend and former Executive Vice President and Educational Foundation President, Emeritus, Robert J. Miller, General Council Treasurer Mark Ochsenbein, and General Council Member-at-large Rich Fabritius at a club event honoring him in front of friends and family on October 5, 2007.

During Brother Wade's thirty years of membership, he has served the Fraternity and his community in a number of capacities. His first post was as president of his chapter in 1969-1970, and he still views that as a landmark occasion in his life. "I count being elected president of the Tennessee Gamma Chapter in 1969 as among my greatest honors in life. Thank God for the Brothers in the chapter at that time! They kept me from falling flat on my face."

Ironically only seven years after being elected president of Tennessee Gamma, Brother Wade decided to run for mayor of Sevierville, Tennessee, and was honored to serve in that capacity until 1987. "That was a great time for me and my family. My son, Zach, claims that he had to defend my political honor at least once a week at school. Sure enough, he did come home with some scrapes from time to time. I think my wife, Sandy, did a better job on my daughters, Katie and Gigi. They were too young to be bothered by local politics," says Brother Wade.

While Mayor, Wade also began a general law practice which would be the beginning of an illustrious legal career. In 1987 he began serving on the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals, and was the Presiding Judge from 1998 to 2006 when he was appointed to the Supreme Court of the State of Tennessee. Special honors for his service in the judiciary include the American Board of Trial Advocates' Appellate Judge of the Year for 2004 and the Judicial Excellence Award for the Knoxville Bar Association in 2005. Brother Wade was also a founding member of the Friends of the Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

While Brother Wade has dedicated much of his life to the Great State of Tennessee, he has also shared his time with the organization that gave him his first official political office, Phi Delta Theta. In 1989, shortly after helping his chapter raise enough funds to purchase a new chapter house in Knoxville and serving as House Corporation Vice President, he was appointed Eta South Province President and would serve the chapters in Tennessee until 1997.

"Because I sat as a judge throughout the state, it was not out of my way during court travel to visit our chapters at Vanderbilt, the University of the South, Tennessee Tech University, and the University of Tennessee. Later, of course, the province added the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga and Belmont University; watching their growth from interest groups to chapters were particularly rewarding experiences."

In addition to the rewards, there also came times of difficulties and challenges as Province President. "Keeping up with the issues facing young people was both enlightening and, on occasion, disappointing. Alcohol was by far the biggest issue at each of those chapters and, of course, throughout the fraternity system. Adopting an alcohol-free policy in those years was simply the right thing to do for Phi Delta Theta. I am proud of the leadership the General Council demonstrated during that period of time."

Brother Wade was previously recognized by the Fraternity in 2004 when he joined the Legion of Honor. However, he resumed his service to Phi Delta Theta in 2006, when he was appointed a Trustee to the Educational Foundation. Wade believes this role is extremely important, as the success of the Fraternity depends on the Educational Foundation and its fundraising efforts. "Fortunately, there are a number of our alumni who have enjoyed success in their careers and who are generous with their time, talents, and treasure."

Brother Gary R. Wade is truly a worthwhile winner of the Gardner award for his lifetime of service to the Fraternity, and for being such a tremendous ambassador of Phi Delta Theta in his community. While Wade has already accomplished what for most would be a lifetime of service, based on his comments one would believe the best has yet to come. "For me, Phi Delta Theta has indeed been a Fraternity for Life. The basic principles of friendship, sound learning, and rectitude are as important to me today as they were on the day I signed the Bond."

Two graduate students garner 2007–2008 Francis D. Lyon Scholarships

By Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins

ONCE AGAIN this year's Francis D. Lyon Scholarships for students of filmmaking went to two M.F.A. students. The first place award of $3,000 went to Jennava Laska who is studying Broadcast Cinema and Film Production at the Art Center College of Design located in Pasadena, California. Miss Laska has earned a cumulative GPA of 3.7. The second place award of $2,000 went to Stephanie Willis. Miss Willis is studying Film and Television Production at the University of Southern California. She has earned a perfect 4.0 GPA.

The competition for these two awards was rigorous. There were not so many applicants as last year, but the quality was extraordinary. For the second year, the applicants were urged to provide a sample of their work, and most provided DVDs and videos for the judges to study. The DVDs provided by Miss Laska and Miss Willis were critically important to their success.

Jennava Laska graduated with a BFA from the Art Center College of Design in 2006 as a film major. Her DVD work sample featured commercials she has directed. She has worked as a commercial director for the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, the United Nations, and the American Red Cross. She has also done commercials for BMW, Visa, Chanel, Disney, Johnson and Johnson and United Airlines. Upon graduation she hopes to pursue a career as a commercial director. She seems well on her way to success in that field.

Miss Laska is the director, founder and creator of the Student Filmmakers Guild, the largest community of student filmmakers. The Guild works to facilitate the art and production of filmmaking. "I want to work to find a way to build community and possibilities for all filmmakers, especially women."

"I want to contribute to the film community and a national audience with portrayals of positive women in media...My grandmother always says, 'together we can overcome anything.' I believe that unity through community and awareness can change the world."

Before entering graduate school, Stephanie Willis graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College in Film and Television Studies in 2006. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and received numerous other academic honors. "My talent to navigate the motivating factors and mind sets of characters coupled with my knack of crystallizing emotional moments lend themselves to the creation of heartfelt, deeply engaging films that expound a message and touch viewers."

Miss Willis states she wants to have a hand in transforming the film medium. "It appears that now, more than ever, the film industry has become preoccupied with box office returns more than narrative quality and innovation. The artistic quality and creativity of film, in my opinion, has increasingly declined. While technological advancements have had a resounding effect on film aesthetics, narrative innovation appears to have ceased. The majority of films have become trite, pre-packaged molds that consist of nothing more than clichés, special effects and strident violence: films completely devoid of a message." She feels film should be a site "where viewers encounter unexpected advice and subtle guidance." We believe the films she will make will do just that.

This year's Lyon Scholarships were judged by David S. Hartstein, Emory '00, William R. Richardson, Tampa '80, Dr. Scott D. Goldsleger, Emory '98, and Carmalieta Dellinger Jenkins who served as chairman. Many thanks to them for their hard work.

Francis D. "Pete" Lyon, UCLA '28, was a distinguished director, producer and editor of motion pictures and television. He won 1947's Academy Award for Best Film Editing for Body and Soul. Just weeks before his death in 1996, Brother Lyon endowed the scholarships in his name for students of filmmaking. At Pete's direction, they are available to Phis and to non Phis, to men and to women, to undergraduates and to graduate students. The recipients must be talented, and they must share Pete's passion for making films.

This past recruitment period we welcomed 18 new Phikeia into the chapter, two short of our fall rush goal. The chapter plans on a strong spring rush to bring the new member count to 25 for the 2007–2008 academic year.

Thanks in part to the hard work of Brother David Yuen, a stronger focus on alumni relations has been made a priority for this academic year. On December 2 we held our first Holiday Family Social, encouraging alumni and their families to celebrate the holiday season with the current undergraduate chapter. Other plans under consideration include an executive mentorship program as well as a golf tournament for next summer.

Our 18th annual Teeter Totter-a-Thon took place on November 28–29. Last year's event raised over $2700 for Vancouver's Empty Stocking Foundation. Braving the wet, cold weather of the west coast, members rode a teeter-totter in front of the student union building for 24 hours straight, accepting donations for under-privileged kids throughout the lower mainland.

We continue to actively participate in intramural sports leagues running teams in soccer, ball hockey, volleyball, and football.

All teams have performed extremely well. In particular the chapter soccer team won the Men's Tier Divisional Championship in a 3–2 score over Kappa Sigma. —Steven Yau

California Delta University of Southern California

In the spring 2007 semester for the second semester in a row, we achieved the highest GPA of any fraternity on campus, well above the all men's and all university averages. Thanks to our strong study programs throughout the Phikeia process as well as within the active chapter, we will continue to cultivate this trend of scholastic excellence.

We also received numerous University awards, including an award for excellence in philanthropy and fundraising programming as well as the chapter vision award. Furthermore we received the Fraternity's Stan Brown Trophy for our Belmont Village "Senior Prom" in which our chapter and the ladies of Delta Gamma danced the night away at a local retirement community.

We would like to thank those alumni who have committed their time and effort to California Delta, especially with the renovation of the chapter house. Your help has been invaluable, and we greatly appreciate it. We encourage all Cal Delta alumni to join the effort in reestablishing the chapter to its full potential. —Michael Spilsbury

Our Founders Day last spring had a sad note tied into it with the death of Brother Mark Roesser, '83, just previous to the event. Although we mourned his death and celebrated his life, it was a great chance to reconnect with some members of his pledge class and other Brothers from his time. We had some of the highest number of alumni out for the event, and it really helped us with our association with the older members.

On a lighter note, our chapter has just won the all sports intramural trophy for the third year in a row. We have big plans for this year and high hopes for this year's Founders Day celebration. —Wesley Kane

Indiana Alpha Indiana University

The Indiana Alpha Colony had a very successful recruitment season this semester. With the leadership of our recruitment chair, Brice Fox, the nineteen men of Phi Delta Theta were able to select thirty-three young men to enter the Phikeia program, and put ourselves in great position to have not only enough men to get our charter back, but well more than enough to move back into our chapter house by the Fall of 2008. We are hoping to have as much success next semester by continuing to recruit throughout this semester for our next Phikeia class.

With this accomplishment, as well as successes in our intramural programs, and a successful community service event where we helped with the annual Red Cross Book Fair, we are all working hard to finish our petition for chapter recognition, and have our charter back before the end of this semester. With the help of our leadership consultants, our housing corporation, and other key alumni, we hope to finish our run as colony members and move on to become initiated brothers in the Fraternity we have all been working hard to bring back to Indiana University. —Benjamin Fair

This fall semester we have been re-establishing the Phi Delta Theta name on campus and have been trying to live up to the expectations of not only our alumni and the campus, but the expectations of ourselves. We have been actively recruiting, searching for the gentlemen fit to be called a Phi, and have a fall pledge class of two outstanding gentlemen. We have held two major parties at the house, and have been holding tailgates for all home games. We are also in the process of establishing ourselves within the larger Greek community at Vanderbilt by keeping an attendance of at least 25% of the Brothers at every sorority benefit. It is an uphill battle as a colony to live up to the great Phi name that preceded us amid the competitive rushing of the other chartered fraternities, but it is a battle that we are going to win. Ohio Epsilon hopes to continue a legacy

By: Mike Polefrone

A CHAPTER HOUSE is one of the most important pieces of a Fraternity. It symbolizes power, presence, and respect. It is where events are held and relationships are built. It is the foundation of a Fraternity.

The Ohio Epsilon Chapter at The University of Akron has been active for 133 years, since it's founding in 1875, and the chapter house has been the residence for the brothers for almost 100 of those years. However, the old house has been recently demolished to make room for a brand new, nearly 10,000 square foot chapter mansion. The new Chapter house which triples the size of the old one will be built in the same spot and feature seven bedrooms, a Graduate assistant's room, a library, numerous computer labs/study stations, a huge back deck and a movie theatre in the basement.

The plans to build the house now reflect the "Landscape for Learning" aspect that The University of Akron is trying to create. The new house will not only be lavish but very practical. It will include many state-of-the-art features plus a sprinkler system for fire protection. Phi Delta Theta is on the rise, and with our new house we have set the bar very high for Greek housing life at The University of Akron.

The plans were drawn up by architect David Mann, and Brother Jon Lombardi was chosen to be the general contractor for the build. The house is different however. It is being built to commercial standards. That means all doorways have to be handicap accessible, a fire code needs to be followed and the ladies will have their own separate bathroom. This is very important in the eyes of the brothers and the housing corporation.

The new house will not only provide residence but it will help to attract new members. Having the biggest and newest house on campus will be very appealing to everyone and will help the Fraternity to grow. With a new house, the brothers of the Ohio Epsilon chapter will have a huge place to gather. It will be a place where relationships form, bonds are made, and memories are never forgotten. The completion date is scheduled for June.

Thanks to generous donations from alumni and the efforts of our Housing President Dave Budai and Province President Jim Warner, 194 Spicer Street will be the home of Phi Delta Theta for at least 100 more years.

Kentucky Iota installed at Louisville

It is said that everything that is worth having is worth working for. For the newly initiated Brothers of the Kentucky Iota chapter at the University of Louisville, hard work and dedication led to the installation of the chapter on November 17, 2007.

Over the past year and a half, the men of Kentucky Iota have seen great success maintaining the top G.P.A. on campus, recruiting an 18-man pledge class in the fall, highly involving themselves on campus, and giving back to the Louisville community.

On Friday, November 16, 38 new Brothers signed The Bond during the initiation ceremony held at the Malcolm B. Chace University Club and Alumni Center. General Council Treasurer, Mark Ochsenein, presided over the ceremony with help from Past President of the General Council and current Eta North Province President, Tony Ambrose, GHQ staff members, local alumni, and undergraduate Phi Deltas from the University of Tennessee, Tennessee Tech University, University of Cincinnati, and Southern Indiana University.

Saturday's installation ceremony and reception at the Red Barn complex on campus officially deemed the Kentucky Iota colony a chapter of Phi Delta Theta. Along with the presentation of the charter and speeches, those in attendance witnessed Chapter Advisory Board Chairman, Phil Snyder (Embry-Riddle '99) receive a special award in recognition of his dedicated service to the chapter.

The Fraternity is excited to begin what will become a long and prosperous history at the University of Louisville. If you would like to become involved with the Kentucky Iota Chapter Advisory Board, please contact Director of Expansion, Steve Good, at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

Phi Delta re-colonizes at UTA

On Thursday, December 6, 2007, Phi Delta Theta made great strides towards its end-goal of re-installation at the University of Texas-Arlington. The Texas Kappa Colony became official when 26 new colony members took the Phikeia Oath at the colonization ceremony. Province President Hugh King led the ceremony in front of the colony members, alumni, University officials, parents, and guests. The Texas Kappa Colony has been fortunate to have strong local alumni support to guide them to colonization. As Texas Kappa launches into the colony period, they will also be working to reclaim their chapter house on campus. If you are interested in becoming involved with the Texas Kappa Colony, please contact Roy Anderson at bigroy071@gmail.com.

Fall expansion recap

Utah Alpha—The University of Utah

In conjunction with local alumni in Salt Lake City and Office of Greek Life at the University of Utah, the Fraternity made its return this fall following its suspension on campus in 2005. Strong alumni support and cooperation with the University at the time of suspension allowed the Fraternity to return after a short two year absence. Johnathan Talcott and Jacob Kingdon, Leadership Consultants for the Fraternity, led the recruitment efforts and networked their way through campus to establish the Utah Alpha interest group. The interest group will be ready for colonization early into the 2008 calendar year. If you are in the Salt Lake City area and would like to become involved with Utah Alpha, please contact Chapter Advisory Board Chairman, Ryan Lufkin, at ryan_lufkin@yahoo.com.

Oregon Alpha—The University of Oregon

A return to the University of Oregon began this fall as Leadership Consultants, Johnathan Talcott and Keith Wysocki, spent the tail end of the fall semester in Eugene. Oregon Alpha's charter was suspended in March of 2000, and the Fraternity is excited for its long awaited return. Successful initial recruitment efforts have been completed, and the Fraternity looks forward to a colonization ceremony sometime in the early 2008 months. The chapter house on campus is currently filled by U of O students but will eventually be available to Phi Delta Theta. As the group grows on campus, alumni support is vital. If you would like volunteer to on the Chapter Advisory Board, please contact Kelly DeLacy at kdelacy@standard.com or 971-321-2057.

Upcoming expansion

Illinois Gamma—Monmouth College

Phi Delta Theta had a brief stint at Monmouth College in the late 1800s, initiating 58 men before its suspension and revocation. The College recently selected Phi Delta Theta as its choice to become the school's "newest" fraternity. Leadership consultants Jacob Kingdon and Keith Wysocki will spend the first few months of 2008 in western Illinois recruiting student-leaders to become Re-Founding Fathers. The Fraternity is in search of alumni near Monmouth, Illinois to become involved with our Chapter Advisory Board. If interested, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

DePaul University—Chicago, Illinois

Phi Delta Theta hopes to establish its third chapter in the Windy City by recruiting at DePaul University during the upcoming months. If interested in taking a role on the Chapter Advisory Board, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

Indiana Gamma—Butler University

The Fraternity continues to work with Butler University and Indiana Gamma alumni to secure our return to campus. Much has been accomplished, but before recruiting, the University must approve of an acceptable chapter house renovation plan by the House Corporation Board. A Chapter Advisory Board has already been implemented and is ready to provide advice, composed of Indiana Gamma Phis, alumni from surrounding chapters, and Butler employees. The Fraternity is committed to allocating its resources for the rebirth of Indiana Gamma once the green light is given.

Iowa Beta—University of Iowa

Phi Delta Theta has allocated the opening months of the 2008–2009 school year to our return efforts at the University of Iowa.

Alpha Chi Omega moved into the Iowa Beta chapter house after their facility was struck by a tornado in April of 2006. The Iowa Beta House Corporation will be working with Pennington & Company, the recognized leader in Fraternity and Sorority fundraising, to launch a capital campaign for future renovations. To become involved with the return of Iowa Beta, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

Expansion

Michigan Beta—Michigan State University

The Fraternity has been working with the University and IFC at Michigan State to prepare for our return to campus. The project was initially allocated for the 2007–2008 academic year, but progress has been delayed. The Fraternity's staff members plan to travel to East Lansing in the early months of 2008 to make a presentation to the MSU IFC. Local alumni anxiously await the return of the chapter and have begun to develop an advisory team. For more information or to show your desire to become a part of the return, please contact Jere L'Heureux at jere@contractoptions.com.

New Jersey Alpha-Rutgers, State University of New Jersey

Phi Delta Theta has had initial discussions with Rutgers about a return to campus during the 2008–2009 academic year. The New Jersey Alpha Chapter of the Fraternity was suspended in October of 2005, but at that time, Phi Delta Theta expressed its desire to return to campus after a period of time. Alumni volunteers are needed as the Fraternity begins to work on the requirements for return that will give Phi Delta Theta the ability to return to campus. To become a member of the New Jersey Alpha leadership team, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

California Beta-Stanford University

Phi Delta Theta is looking into a return to Stanford University, the Fraternity's California Beta chapter. Suspended on May 22, 1999, it was noted that the Fraternity would be able to pursue a return after 2004, given that an attractive plan, proposal, and composition of a leadership team are developed. The Fraternity will begin working with the University to secure an ideal time frame for return, but in the meantime, a leadership team must be developed. If you have interest in becoming involved in the future of California Beta, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

George Mason University-Fairfax, Virginia

Phi Delta Theta has made an agreement with George Mason University to start a chapter on its campus during the Fall semester of 2009. GMU is minutes from Washington D.C. and will provide a great opportunity for D.C. Phis to get involved with our expansion efforts. George Mason is seeing tremendous growth on campus, and the Fraternity is excited for this tremendous opportunity. For more information about George Mason, contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

Upcoming installations

Indiana Alpha-Indiana University

Phi Delta Theta began its return to Indiana Alpha in the Fall semester of 2006. With an initial group of Re-Founding Fathers, it was re-colonized on October 16, 2006. Since colonization, the Indiana Alpha Colony has grown to 50+ members and is preparing for the installation weekend during the Spring of 2008 semester. The installation weekend will bring the charter back to Phi Delta Theta's second chapter after its suspension in 2004. Please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org for additional information about the installation weekend.

Indiana Delta-Franklin College

The road back to Franklin College is coming to an end as the Indiana Delta Colony has completed the prerequisites for installation. The Colony was able to move back into its chapter house this fall and has brought the proud Phi Delt tradition back to campus. The Colony recently hosted a memorable and emotional scholarship dinner to honor the late Terry Hoepfner, Franklin '69. Installation plans are being made for the Spring 2008 semester. For more detailed information, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

Returning to the Wild Wild West

Be a part of Phi Delt history Attend Convention this summer

Robert Morrison was there.

So was Paul Smucker (think jelly).

This year, a Phi who has been to outer space will be there. Along with representatives from every Phi Delt chapter. Make your own fun this year in Paradise Valley, Arizona. Join your brothers at the Biennial Convention.

The Biennial Convention offers a unique opportunity for Phis of all ages from many parts of the world to meet in the true spirit of the Bond. For more information, visit www.phideltatheta.org.

50th Anniversary

Thomas G. Beaham

Arizona, '60

Tom Beaham, who gave 50 years of loyal service to Arizona Phis, died September 3, 2007 after a long battle with cancer. Brother Beaham served as a house corporation president and president of the Tucson Phi Delta Theta Scholarship Foundation. Fellow Phis established a scholarship in Brother Beaham's name with the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation.

George Brigden

Toronto, '52

Former Legion of Merit recipient and former General Officer George Brigden died October 31, 2007.

As his career blossomed, this Phi maintained his contact with the Fraternity, becoming Ontario Alpha's Chapter Adviser. That job had its share of moments. One thorny issue involved his efforts to get the international fraternity to understand that Canadian Universities had shorter periods of study.

Perhaps his most notable contribution during those years was his work to establish a Canadian Scholarship Foundation. At the time, for tax reasons, Canadian students were not eligible for U.S. Scholarships. He met with officers of the Fraternity, and together they hammered out the details of what would become a thriving Foundation.

Although his busy law practice prevented him from attending many conventions, over the years he has attended every Ontario Alpha Founders Day. For over 50 years, he has been a devoted brother, and a key contributor to the Phi Delta Theta organization. Ontario Alpha, in particular, owes him a debt of gratitude for his wisdom and his hard work.

Robert S. Dinkel

Alberta, '53

Former General Council President Robert Dinkel died December 2, 2007. Brother Dinkel was the second Canadian to serve as General Council president. He served on the General Council from 1980–1986, having first served as a commissioner and province president. As an attorney, Dinkel's booming voice and presence helped persuade many judges that his was the winning argument. He appeared in every level of court in Canada, including the Canadian Supreme Court.

Brother Dinkel served as Queen's Counsel and was appointed to serve as a Judge of the Provincial Court of Alberta.

Dinkel is survived by his wife, daughter and Phi son Michael.

Edward Elliot

Purdue, '36

Former Gardner Award winner Ed Elliot died October 17, 2007 at his home. An active Phi, Elliot also was a three-year player in Purdue's Big Ten Champion basketball teams. He won the Gardner Award in 1995.

George Frost

Florida, '51

George Frost entered the Chapter Grand on October 21, 2007. Brother Frost was a civil engineer by trade and served four tours as a pilot in the US Navy. Known for his shoot-from-the-hip style, Brother Frost served Palm Beach County for 16 years as Assistant and County Engineer, and another 16 years as Palm Beach town manager. During his lengthy career in politics and civic roles, Brother Frost remained active in the Fraternity. He was one of the founders of the Palm Beach County Alumni Club of Phi Delta Theta in 1958, and he served as the club's president and sponsored the club's Founders Day at his club for many years.

Stephen Jensen

Minnesota State-Mankato '67

Stephen Jensen, Minnesota Beta Bond Number 1, died August 27, 2007. Jensen, who was known as "The Chief," is being mourned by Mankato alumni. Jensen was among the alumni who traveled to California to petition Phi Delta Theta for membership in 1950.

Roger B. Smith

Michigan '46

Famous Phi Roger B. Smith, former CEO of General Motors, died November 29, 2007.

Leadership for a Lifetime Campaign nears $7 million goal

Phi Delta Theta Foundation Celebrates Fifty-Year Anniversary In June

96% and Counting

More than $6.7 million dollars has been given or pledged toward The Leadership for a Lifetime Campaign as of the end of 2007. This total represents 96% of the original campaign goal.

The Campaign is scheduled to conclude during the Fraternity's Biennial Convention that will be held in late June, in Paradise Valley, Arizona.

Foundation President Rusty Richardson stated that the Educational Foundation is truly in the "home stretch" of the Campaign, but there is still much to be accomplished in the next few months.

The Foundation Trustees continue to express their deep appreciation for all of the alumni who have already given so generously to this Campaign.

Celebrating 50 Years

2008 marks the 50th anniversary of the creation of the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation.

To help recognize and celebrate this milestone, the Foundation will be sponsoring what is expected to be a very memorable event in conjunction with the Fraternity's Biennial Convention this coming summer.

Since its very humble beginnings, the Foundation has awarded almost $3,000,000 in scholarships and fellowships to outstanding young Phis. The Foundation has also granted several million dollars toward the Fraternity's premier leadership and educational programs such as the Presidents Leadership Conference, the Emerging Leaders Institute, the Leadership Consultant Program and the Alcohol-Free Housing Initiative.

Phi Delta Theta Auction Coming Soon

One of exciting ways the Foundation Trustees have planned to celebrate the Foundation's 50th Anniversary is to sponsor an auction during the Convention. All proceeds from the auction will supplement the Foundation's current educational grants, scholarships and fellowships.

The list of auction items is still being compiled but it will include both Phi Delta Theta and non Phi Delta Theta related items. Examples include: A customized Phi Delta Theta golf bag, a week stay at a vacation home at Lake Tahoe, a hunting trip at the famous King Ranch, a private dinner with the President of the General Council and much, much more.

You do not have to attend the Convention to participate in this auction as it will be available on-line as well. Plan now to enter and bid on the items of your choice in Phi Delta Theta's first auction.
