Brother Pistol Pete

As a true "Okie from Muskogee," it was indeed a treat to see Frank Lloyd Wright's Price Tower in Bartlesville gracing the front cover of the Spring 2006 issue of The Scroll. And it is always nice to see the chapter updates, especially one's own. The brothers at Oklahoma Beta continue to set the standard for campus excellence while enjoying a rich and varied campus-life experience. However, I would like to correct one statement in the Oklahoma Beta chapter news article. It mentioned that Brett Adkins is the first Phi at OSU in 82 years to serve as the official school mascot, Pistol Pete. Actually, one of my pledge brothers in the fall of 1971, and fellow "Okie from Muskogee," Will Beckman, '75, had the privilege of "suing up" in the Pistol Pete regalia during our 1973-74 school year.

Thank you for keeping all of us old Phis up to date with Fraternity and campus news.

Robert Miller

Oklahoma State '75

Editor's note: We also heard from Joseph Wells '99, that James Robert (Catfish) Neville '99, served as Pistol Pete in 1998 and 1999. And Will Beckman wrote that Bill Ransdall served before him in 1970-71.

Another Phi in Iraq

I am currently serving in the U.S. Army in Iraq, separated by distance from my brothers at Kansas Zeta chapter. I was in my senior year when my National Guard unit got deployed. I would like to hear from other Brothers serving over here with me. I can be reached at: talon.mitchell@us.army.mil or high_runner94@hotmail.com.

Putting the big in band

As a big band buff, I was interested in reading in The Jazz State of Indiana, a reference to the piano at the Indiana Zeta chapter house in the 1930s. I recall the night in 1936 when Bob Crosby and the Bearcats jammed until the wee hours after his band played a prom at DePauw. Legendary jazz pianist Bob Zurke, accompanied by equally legendary big band drummer Ray Bauduc, sans drums, stroked his wire brushes on a floor lamp. As a freshman, I had to give up my bed to the 300 pound New Orleans clarinetist, Irving Fazola. The mattress was never quite the same.

I continue to feel honored that my membership card is signed, Arthur R. Priest, Executive Secretary.

GHQ staffers participate in Relay for Life

This summer, the General Headquarters Staff will be participating in its second Relay for Life in Oxford, Ohio. Last year we were able to raise over $6,000 for the American Cancer Society through the generosity of our families, friends, and a number of Phi Delta Theta volunteers. This year the 20-hour walk will be held Saturday, June 24th and 25th at Millett Hall on the Miami University campus. If you and your family would like to support or participate on Phi Delta Theta's team, please contact Steve Good at General Headquarters. His email is sgood@phideltatheta.org.

We are also looking for any Phi cancer survivors and names of those who have passed away from the disease so that we can recognize these members. A highlight of the Relay for Life walk is the luminary ceremony, which honors the men and women that have survived cancer and honor those that we have lost. The luminaries line the track at dusk and continue to flicker until dawn, lighting the track as a reminder to all the participants.

Expansion in California, Texas, Kentucky and Pennsylvania

The Fraternity continues to grow as two new chapters and four new colonies joined the ranks of Phi Delta Theta during the fall of 2005 and winter of 2006. New colonies were formed at the University of Southern California, University of Texas, El Paso, University of Pittsburgh and University of Louisville. Meanwhile two colonies progressed from colony status to chapter status at the University of Hartford and Louisiana State University. The California Delta Colony at the University of Southern California is scheduled to be installed April 22.

Phi Delta Theta will be expanding to Miami University (Ohio), Indiana University, and Vanderbilt University during the 2006-2007 academic year. During this period the Fraternity will be recruiting founding fathers who are seeking a values-based fraternal experience based on leadership, service, and academics. If you know of any students who are currently attending or will be attending these universities and meet these criteria, please contact Steve Good at sgood@phideltatheta.org.

For more information about the expansion program please visit www.areyoualeader.com.

Hero awards

Phi Delta Theta General Council President, Michael Scarletelli, presented the Anti-Hazing Hero Award during the Fraternity's General Officers Conference to David Westol in recognition of his anti-hazing efforts.

Westol has long been a proponent of hazing abolishment in the Greek system. He is a nationally known speaker on the topic of hazing and spoke at numerous Phi Delta Theta events in support of his stance. He is the CEO of Theta Chi Fraternity, but is known throughout the Greek World for his "Hazing on Trial" presentation.

In 1980, Westol was an assistant prosecutor and discussed hazing from a legal point of view at a Pi Kappa Alpha event. In 1981, he scripted his talk and began excerpting it for Greek leadership presentations. He estimates that, since 1981, he has given his "Hazing on Trial" presentation at least 1,700 times on various campuses and events (including several Phi Delta Theta events).

Westol is not the first individual to receive the Anti-Hazing Hero Award. Phi Delta Theta's own, Thomas "Sparky" Reardon was the recipient of the award at the Fraternity's Presidents Leadership Conference in early January.

June Sheard retires after 50 years!

She's outlasted two executive vice presidents, 25 General Council presidents, and countless Leadership/Chapter/Traveling consultants asking her about voucher checks. But now, GHQ Bookkeeping Supervisor June Sheard has retired, an event commemorated this past winter.

Sheard has worked at GHQ for 50 years in various capacities, and has always been a dedicated employee. She's one of the many "behind the scenes" folks who really run the Fraternity.

The General Council issued a proclamation in June's honor, thanking her for her years of service and wishing her a happy, healthy retirement.

Happy Retirement!

Manitoba Alpha celebrates 75 years

"Seventy-five years of unparalleled friendship" – that was the theme of Phi Delta Theta – Manitoba celebratory weekend to mark 75 years at the University of Manitoba. The weekend of September 22 to September 25 was filled with the joy of reunion, the humor of undergraduate days re-lived and most of all, the comfort of brothers young and old meeting in a common place – in membership in the "grand old fraternity" Phi Delta Theta.

For the previous 18 months the planning committee worked diligently to settle all the details for this momentous weekend. Kicking off the celebrations, a day of golf and fellowship planned by John Quinton saw nearly eighty brothers whisked off to beautiful Grande Pines Golf Course near Victoria Beach. The afternoon concluded in great fellowship with a man-sized barbecue of giant beef ribs – a prairie treat.

On Friday September 23, "The Brothers Banquet" was organized by Jeremy Silcox and Bryce Kumka at the Winnipeg Squash Racquet Club for nearly 200 Brothers. After a stunning array of hot hors d'oeuvres, the brothers enjoyed an immense buffet specially prepared by the Club for us. John Zaplatynsky so deftly handled the microphone as chair over the very enthusiastic response to a program packed with such diverse elements as presentation of scholarships, a house report, salute to members in the Chapter Grand and concluding with a Golden Legion ceremony honoring four Brothers: Don Jacks, Stan Shackell, Holman Olson and George Chapman. During the course of the program, humorous reminiscences from Phis of different eras were met with thunderous applause as well as gales of laughter.

While the Brothers gathered, so too did the Phi wives and ladies at an elegant soiree in the penthouse apartment of Susan Glass and Arni Thorsteinson. This event was aptly titled "Up Among the Stars" and according to all reports was an outstanding event as well. Special thanks to Susan – a gracious hostess for this event.

On Saturday September 24th, all the Brothers were asked to assemble at 5:30 pm on the front staircase of the Fort Garry Hotel for this historic photo. After the photo everyone adjourned to the beautiful Crystal Ballroom of the Hotel for a sumptuous four course dinner. David Hutton chaired the program for "The Sword and Shield Ball" and brought his charm to the short but lively program which included both a toast to the Fraternity by Al Jacks and a toast to the ladies by John Quinton, followed by a serenade of "Tell Me Why" by the active chapter. After the conclusion of the program, the merriment continued with dancing until one a.m.

Sunday September 25th was packed with activities from a noon time continental brunch held at 548

Stradbroke in a giant white tent on the property. Casual and relaxed, many people brought photo albums and other memorabilia to share.

Concluding the weekend was a 70s style "Hootenanny" Sunday evening at the Winnipeg Press Club. Time rolled back as we all joined Larry Haffner, Brock Mason, Len Vopnfjord, Jeff Konchak and Jim Greville with their banjos and guitars as they tuned up such oldies as "Where Have All the Flowers Gone," "Kum-baya" and hits of the Kingston Trio. The mood of reminiscence was heavily charged throughout the evening but never more so than when people were bidding one another farewell – for all were loathe to say goodbye.

This renewal of friendship will stay with everyone who attended as we all look forward to celebrating another 75 years of unparalleled friendship.

California State – Northridge: Just added to the Banta Library is another book from Doug Thorburn, '77, Alcoholism Myths and Realities: Removing the Stigma of Society's Most Destructive Disease. By discrediting the myths that surround this disease, the stigma that instills emotion in the identification of alcoholism can be eliminated. Only then can those affected, whether family, friends, co-workers or society, offer tough love with a clear conscience. Too many view alcoholism as a character flaw rather than a disease.

With Christen's continued interest in the Civil War, he is looking for information about the experiences of Phi Delt members who fought in that war. He can be reached at gwjchris@earthlink.net.

THE FACES OF PHILANTHROPY

By: William R. Richardson

Have you ever wondered what a philanthropist looks like?

One of the most popular books within the fund raising world in the past ten years is titled The Seven Faces of Philanthropy. The book did not show actual faces but described seven characteristics or motivations of philanthropically inclined individuals. Those characteristics and motivations are clearly evident in the thousands of Phi Delta Theta alumni who contributed to the Foundation's 2005 campaign.

To help truly put a face on some of these philanthropists who helped make 2005 such a successful year for us, we are pleased to share some of their photographs throughout this report.

Ironically, if asked, many of these individuals would not consider themselves philanthropists. Like most people, they tend to think of a philanthropist as someone with a name like Rockefeller, Getty or Gates. But they are philanthropists in the truest sense. They voluntarily donate their support to a charitable cause in which they believe, and that support improves the lives of others. That cause also has a face... and it includes the faces of more than 6,000 current undergraduates.

The 2005 Campaign

Because of our Phi philanthropists, 2005 was another very successful year for the Educational Foundation. Alumni, undergraduates, friends and parents contributed more than 6,300 gifts totaling almost $1,300,000. This represents a healthy increase in the number of gifts (+5%) and total dollars (+34%) compared to 2004.

The report that follows recognizes all donors who made gifts between January 1 and December 31, 2005. We are truly grateful to each of these donors for their support that enables the Foundation to provide the crucial scholarships, fellowships and leadership programs for today's young Phis.

Highlights from some of the Foundation's activities over the past year include:

- Scholarships and Fellowships – The Foundation now has more than 45 named scholarship and fellowship funds. These funds, when combined with the Foundation's general funds, provided more than $190,000 for scholarships and fellowships in 2005. Since its creation the Foundation has given almost $2.5 million in scholarships and fellowships.

- The Trustees' Roundtable – Membership in The Trustees' Roundtable topped the 150 mark for the first time. The Trustees' Roundtable recognizes alumni who make annual gifts of $1,000 or more.
 - Leadership Consultant Grant - $120,000 was provided to support the Leadership Consultant program. This program provides critical on-site visits, evaluations and resources to every chapter.
 - The Living Bond Society – The number of Phis who have included the Foundation in their wills or other estate plans has continued to increase and now stands at 82. Based on past giving records, a conservative estimate on the value of the known planned gifts is in excess of $4.5 million dollars.
 - The Presidents Leadership Conference – A $64,000 grant was provided to underwrite the educational cost of this conference attended by more than 150 chapter presidents.
 - Electronic Solicitations and Communications – The Foundation continued to benefit from the electronic solicitations conducted in 2004. Many of the alumni who responded to this form of solicitation in the last half of 2004 made monthly pledges that continued well into 2005.
- The Foundation also received many favorable comments from The Inner Shield – a quarterly electronic newsletter and our first electronic holiday greeting card.
- Investment Performance – The Foundation's investment portfolio achieved a 9.1% annual rate of return for calendar year 2005.
 - The Knights of Pallas – This program introduces undergraduate members to the Foundation and to the idea of charitable giving. A gift of $18.48 or more entitles the undergraduate to become a member of the Knights of Pallas. Hundreds of undergraduates have answered the call and participation rates during the Presidents Leadership Conference and the Emerging Leaders Institute are typically in the 65-75% range.

There are numerous other highlights that will be covered throughout the report, and I hope you will enjoy reading about them.

On behalf of all the members who benefited from the programs made possible through the generosity of our philanthropists, I offer my most sincere thanks.

Yours in the Bond,

William R. Richardson

KNIGHTS OF PALLAS

Knights of Pallas – The Knights of Pallas program exists to introduce our undergraduate members to the Foundation and the concept of philanthropy. A donation of $18.48 grants a one-year membership to the Knights of Pallas for an undergraduate member. All funds collected through this program are dispersed within that year's time in the form of undergraduate scholarships ($1,000 each). In 2005, 259 undergraduates contributed, allowing for four Knights of Pallas scholarships to be awarded.

WAYS YOU CAN HELP

Thousands of Phi Delta Theta members contribute each year to the Educational Foundation. It is their support that makes all of the programs provided by the Foundation possible.

Listed below are a few of the ways members choose to support the Foundation:

ANNUAL SUPPORT

These gifts typically arrive in the form of checks, credit card gifts or gifts of stock. Most Educational Foundation donors do not restrict the use of their annual gifts. This allows them to be allocated to the areas of most critical need during the year.

ENDOWMENTS

Permanently endowed funds may be established and named in accordance with a donor's wishes through gifts of $50,000 or more. These endowments typically create named scholarships or fellowships but other purposes are also available.

Endowments may also be created with smaller gifts that the donor pledges to increase, over a period of time, to the $50,000 level. Endowment funds provide a constant source of income for the Educational Foundation and are spent with careful consideration of the donor's intentions.

MATCHING GIFTS

Your employer may have a matching gift program that can multiply your support. Please ask your personnel office for the necessary forms to send with your gift.

PLANNED GIFTS

Long-range estate and financial planning can enable you to make a substantial contribution to a program or project of your choice in a manner consistent with your overall charitable and personal commitments. Some examples of planned gifts include bequests, appreciated securities, real estate, insurance policies, charitable remainder trusts and charitable gift annuities. The Foundation staff can provide additional information on each of these types of gifts. The Foundation also recognizes alumni who have made such gifts as members of the Living Bond Society.

MEMORIAL & HONORARY GIFTS

A memorial or honorary gift is an appropriate way to recognize someone's life and accomplishments. The Educational Foundation offers opportunities for those who wish to associate the name of a family or an individual with a project or program of enduring worth. Memorial gifts are acknowledged to the family while honorary gifts are acknowledged to the individual. Gifts of this type to the Sesquicentennial Courtyard have been very popular.

SESQUICENTENNIAL COURTYARD

Alumni and undergraduates alike continue to support the Sesquicentennial Courtyard with bricks engraved with their names or the names of other members and friends of Phi Delta Theta. More than 2,000 engraved bricks have already been placed in the Courtyard, and that number continues to increase on a regular basis. (It is not too late to buy your brick if you have not already done so.)

RESTRICTED GIFTS

Some alumni choose to restrict their gifts for specific programs or funds. For example, one alumnus may ask that his gift be used solely for scholarships while another alumnus may direct his gift to the Leadership College Fund. Both of these gifts are acceptable and welcome. The Foundation does retain the right, however, to decline any gift that does not meet the approved purposes of the Foundation or would be overly restrictive.

ANNIVERSARY CLASS GIFTS

Members of classes celebrating special reunions are invited to establish a class gift to the Educational Foundation as part of their reunion activities.

Behind everything that makes you proud of Phi Delta Theta is strong leadership—leadership based upon our Cardinal Principles. The Fraternity and the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation are committed to developing strong leadership skills from the beginning of your membership. The Emerging Leaders Institute was created to meet that goal.

By bringing together the up and coming freshman and sophomore leaders from our chapters across the United States and Canada, a Phi Delt learning laboratory will be created where you will be able to learn leadership skills from your peers and distinguished alumni.

The Emerging Leaders Institute is the equivalent of seminars costing in excess of $1,000. Like all worthwhile colleges, we have admission requirements. To attend the Institute you must be:

- eager to learn and grow;
- committed to transferring the Fraternity not only, not less, but greater than it was transmitted to you;
- willing to model leadership in your activities as a Phi Delt. Modeling leadership includes refraining from the use of alcohol and drugs during the Institute.

We want to deliver value to your chapter through the individuals who attend the Emerging Leaders Institute. The Planning Committee is asking your chapter to send two young emerging leaders. An emerging leader is a freshman or sophomore brother or recent initiate with the future potential to hold a leadership position in the chapter or on campus.

The Price Tower

A Tree that escaped the crowded forest

Remember back to your Phikeia Manual and the section on famous Phis? Remember the gray-haired man with the flat, wide-brimmed hat, nattily dressed in a three-piece suit? That would be Frank Lloyd Wright, probably the most notable famous Phi in the field of architecture. And, if you were to look on the opposite page, you would see C.J. Silas, another famous Phi who was CEO and chairman of Phillips Petroleum and served on the Educational Foundation board of trustees.

These two Phis' lives intersect on the corner of South Dewey Ave. and Sixth Street in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, where you'll find a copper-clad, angular building towering over the rolling hills of the area. We'll explain how this building connects these Phis later.

Older Phis will remember Wright, who attended Wisconsin and was an engineering student there, as a flamboyant and daring architect, whose designs have inspired generations of buildings. He was even known to visit a Founders Day or two in his time. And, although this may be an "urban legend," the Arizona Beta chapter house was designed by his students or others associated with his firm. When the General Headquarters was built in 1948, some in the Fraternity wanted to approach Wright for a design, but eventually decided to build a structure that would complement the Georgian architecture of the Miami campus.

Wright's architecture embodies his concept of "the total work of art" and used a rich organic geometric language that results in a cohesive, unified design that looks contemporary to this day.

"I don't think it's unfair to say there is no American architect who has done as much to touch the world, who has done as much to realize his vision of what a perfect architecture might be than Frank Lloyd Wright," says William Cronon, a historian quoted in a recent PBS documentary on Wright's life.

One building form that Wright generally isn't known for is the skyscraper. Although fascinated by this uniquely American building type, it conflicted with his belief that architecture must be close to nature. He solved this dilemma by using a tall form found in nature: the tree.

"A tree is a vertical beam cantilevered out of the ground and to Wright, the cantilever is "the most romantic, most free, of all the principles of construction," writes Peter Blake in his book about Wright.

The architect stewed on this concept for years, initially applying it to a design in 1929 for an apartment tower for lower Manhattan. Plans called for a vertical service core (elevators and utilities) in the "trunk" of the building with floors cantilevered out from it. With the building's strength coming from the "trunk," exterior walls could be open with expansive glass and metal. The tower was never built, but Wright went back to the design when Harold C. Price and his two sons, Joe and Harold C., Jr., owners of an oil pipeline company, visited him at Taliesin (his headquarters in Wisconsin) to explore designing a corporate headquarters.

The H.C. Price Company originally wanted a smaller building, with three or four floors of office space, according Prairie Skyscraper, a book about the tower. Wright convinced them to build a taller building that would incorporate the Price headquarters, offices for the Public Service Company of Oklahoma and luxury apartments – a radical concept for the area at the time. Wright told the Prices the building could be completed for nearly the same cost of the smaller headquarters (less than $1 million). The building construction would eventually total more than $2 million, very steep in 1953 dollars.

Wright's design for the tower was dazzling and revolutionary. Originally 16-stories, the architect told the Prices it "really needs to be higher" and eventually it grew to 19 stories, with a "television" spire tapering into the sky (the structure was never used for TV broadcasting, but a radio antenna was later added). From the outside, the building was a dazzling array of geometric shapes, windows and copper. On the inside, Wright's touch extended to every square foot. He designed light fixtures, furniture, picked colors, even specified triangular posts in the parking area.

Executive Vice President Emeritus Robert J. Miller's son, Robert Miller, Clemson, '76, is an architect, professor and director of the Clemson Architecture Center in Charleston. We asked him for his thoughts on the Price Tower from the perspective of a Phi and architect.

When I was in junior high and first fired by the prospects of architecture, my father checked out for me (from the Banta Library!) several books on Frank Lloyd Wright. To this day I remember unfolding an oversize drawing of Wright's design for a Mile-High (528-storey) skyscraper, a romantic and radical vision of 1956 that is linked chronologically to the Price Tower in Bartlesville, completed that same year.

The culmination of twenty five years of rumination (starting with proposals for the St. Mark's Tower in New York), the Price Tower brought Wright's organic philosophy of design to the vertical building: a deep central foundation (analogous to a taproot) anchored a central structural and service core (the trunk) from which floors were cantilevered (the branches). A light-weight and multifarious skin, different on every side yet synthetic as a whole, recalled the macroscopic harmony yet microscopic diversity of foliage.

Some time later my parents took me to visit Wright's only realized skyscraper on the flat plains of Oklahoma and, I confess, the building-in-person was much less arousing than had been the Mile-High fold-out! It was Wright's genius for composition, perhaps, that compels us still to refer to this mere nineteen-storey mirage on the sweltering plains a "skyscraper"! Like many great works of architecture, the Price Tower was better as an idea than a building.

Although the building never won Wright more influential commissions, the Price Tower was important. You didn't have to subscribe Wright's organic philosophy to appreciate the logic and merit of treating the various sides of a tall building as distinct design opportunities. The first two generations of tall buildings from the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries had featured (when they did) unique elevations for purely formal reasons; the third generation, cast in the International Style, were mostly uniform; but the Price Tower showed that environmental sensitivity, customary in low-rise buildings up to that point, could be applied with grace to their high-rise counterparts. Confronting differing solar conditions and wind loads as a function of orientation, Price Tower taught us that the four (or more) sides of a tall building should all be different!

Kevin Roche would adopt Wright's environmental sensitivity ten years later in his Knights of Columbus building (1965), though in a different stylistic tradition (and with far less elegance). It was Roche's precedent that inspired me, during my junior-year mandatory high-rise project (1974), to think critically for the first time about the design of tall buildings and that returned me to my earlier pilgrimage to Oklahoma. Only after having tried (without much success) to balance the complexity of an environmentally responsive tall building did I realize that the Price Tower was a masterpiece of artifice: it made a squatty building look tall, wrapped four very different facades into a single cohesive needle, and transformed a small office building on the plain that was Bartlesville into a manifesto of organic architecture.

Chairs, desks, even wastepaper cans also were specially designed to fit the angular shape of the office spaces in the building. At the center point of each floor was placed a medallion with a special Price Tower logo on it. Wright sought to “mediate” the interior and exterior with open walls and windows that allowed plenty of natural light and views of the Bartlesville countryside.

The H.C. Price Company and other tenants moved into the building with much fanfare in 1956. BusinessWeek called the building a bad investment and accused the Prices of victimizing their employees with an impractical building. Wright threatened to sue the publication. But, to the magazine’s point, the building’s elevators were slow, offices tended to be noisy, heating and cooling were challenging and windows leaked. But Joe Price and other executives later said the building provided a significant psychological boost to company employees, who felt a sense of pride walking into such a novel building each morning.

As for the apartments, while providing unique two-floor living quarters, relatively few were rented. Potential tenants balked at the high price ($285 a month for rent in 1956), small closets and unusual shape. And, when they did move in, they found furniture wouldn’t fit on the hexagonally-shaped elevators (the first automatic elevators in Bartlesville) and had to be hauled up the exterior of the building. The kitchens, while well-appointed with modern appliances, were very small. Architect Bruce Goff (who introduced Wright to the Prices) lived and ran his studio in an apartment on floors 9 and 10. Another couple used an apartment as a radio studio for several years.

On April 9, 1959, just three years after the building opened, Wright died. The architect never lived to see his dream in use for many years, as the Price Company continued to use the building until the company was dissolved and the tower sold to the Phillips Petroleum Company in 1981. The Price Tower went on to win the American Institute of Architects Twenty-Five Year Award in 1983. This is where C.J. “Pete” Silas, and his wife, Theo come in. As CEO of Phillips, he helped direct the company to give the Price Tower to the Price Tower Arts Center, which was formed in 1998 after the Bartlesville

Museum & Sculpture Garden was reorganized as the Price Tower Arts Center. The Center's first exhibition, appropriately enough, was called "The Tree that Escaped the Crowded Forest" and focused on Wright's work. Phillips paid to refurbish the exterior of the building in 2000. Price Tower Arts Center has restored the interiors and expanded the building's use to include the Inn at Price Tower and Copper Restaurant + Bar, designed by Wendy Evans Joseph.

"Without Pete and his wife, the Arts Center could not have developed as it has," wrote Richard P. Townsend, executive director and CEO, in the forward of Prairie Skyscraper.

Incidentally, Silas's philanthropy has extended to Phi Delta Theta. He has served on the Educational Foundation board of trustees and has long supported the organization's efforts. He was chairman of the Foundation's $5 million "Living Bond" campaign and also was chairman of Georgia Tech's $700 million capital campaign.

In recent years, the Price Tower has found a new use as a luxury hotel and bar. New-York-based architect Wendy Evans Joseph updated Wright's work to make apartments into hotel rooms. The building continues to be a destination for students of architecture and those interested in Wright's work. The presence of the Tower helped Bartlesville be named a "Distinctive Destination" for 2006 by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

As the building celebrates its 50th year this year, its patrons are looking to expand. Award-winning and internationally-renowned architect Zaha Hadid has been selected to expand the Price Tower Arts Center's museum space. Undoubtedly, new generations will be attracted to the Tower, which still looks contemporary at 50. For this, we can thank two famous Phis.

Special thanks to the staff of the Price Tower Arts Center for assistance in researching this article. For more information, visit www.pricetower.org.

"Toward all I raise high the perpendicular hand, I make the signal to remain after me in sight forever, for all the haunts and homes of men. Where the city of the faithfulest friends stands, where thrift is in its place but prudence is in its place, where behavior is the finest of the fine arts, where outside authority enters always after the precedence of inside authority, where the city that has produced the greatest man stands, there the greatest city stands."

Northern Arizona University
For Arizona Gamma, the weekend of November 5, 2005 was not simply this year's Homecoming celebration at Northern Arizona University. It also brought 50 plus brothers and alumni together to celebrate AZ

Gamma chapter's 10 year anniversary. Founded October 14, 2005, and thriving among today's Greek community at NAU, the Arizona Gamma chapter had a few festivities to commemorate the milestone. Prior to Saturday's football game, the undergraduate chapter held a tail-gate to welcome the alumni and build spirit for the game. The grills were fired up, and the undergraduates went all out to make the alumni feel comfortable; live music, horse shoe toss, and bounce house boxing were among the activities available to entertain all who were in attendance. AZ Gamma's alumni traveled in from Ohio, Northern & Southern California, Nevada, New Mexico and many from Phoenix, to join the undergraduate chapter in the festivities. Later that Saturday night a formal dinner was held in honor of the chapter's tenth year on the NAU campus. Twelve of the original initiated members were among those in attendance at the dinner. Mixing those AZG brothers who had single digit Bond numbers among those current active members in the triple digits was a great experience for all. Much of the chapter's colorful history was exchanged and passed on to the younger actives.

Guests of honorable mention present for the festivities included;

John Jones - Current Omega Province President,
Russ Gillard - President of Valley of the Sun Alumni Club,
Jerry Barlow - Valley of the Sun Alumni Club,
Veronica Hipolito - Coordinator of Greek Life at N.A.U.,
Summer Burke - Assist. Hall Director of Greek Life,
Dick Ambler - Flagstaff Resident and Phi Delta Theta Alumni from Colorado Gamma Chapter.

During that night's dinner, four undergraduates were awarded academic grants for their excellent scholastic performance. Presentation of the grants to these undergrads was performed by Russ Gillard and John Jones. Under the AZ Gamma Chapter Grant established by previous Province President George Grady, the four undergraduates who received them were: Justin Anderson, Michael Guffy, Mark Holden and Johnathan Newman-Goncha.

A call to action was made to all AZ Gamma alumni to step forward and support this Academic Scholarship by making their personal donations to the Educational Foundation, which are 501(c)(3) –Tax Deductible. Monies should be marked for the support of this AZ Gamma Academic Grant Fund. To emphasize the level of commitment to get these academic grants funded, the newly formed Arizona Gamma Alumni Club will be donating to the Educational Foundation on an annual basis. On February 12 Kappa Alpha Theta members joined us to visit the Belmont Village retirement home in Hollywood to treat residents to an evening of hors d'oeuvres, conversation and dancing. To prepare, the USC swing dancing team came to a chapter meeting to teach us some senior friendly moves (cha cha, fox trot, waltz). Resident Morty Jacobs, accompanist for George Burns and friend of Frank Sinatra, played requests on the piano for the admiring audience of young people. He and the other residents enjoyed the spice that the evening brought to Belmont Village, and the chapter had a wonderful time and we were worn out by the energy and stamina of the residents.

We are well on our way to being the top fraternity on campus. Thanks to contributing efforts from every member, the house has raised its cumulative GPA above the all-campus and all-Greek average to a 3.02. We also received the seal of approval from Colorado State University and are one of the lead contenders for Chapter of the Year award. We are one of only three houses on campus that are participating in the live-in adviser program. Keith Lopez, a graduate student from New Mexico currently attending CSI, has been an amazing asset to the house.

The actives recently participated in the annual ALS Cancer Walk held by the University every year. 28 actives helped set up, run, and take down the event which raised over $20,000 for cancer research.

Thanks to donations from alumni, the house was recently re-carpeted, a new deck was constructed and new chairs purchased for the chapter room and dining room. Thanks alumni!

If all continues along its current track, Phi Delt should come out at the top of Greek life here at CSU.

We would like to extend our thanks to Brother Jon Ely, '91, for his generous donation of drywall and other furnishings to restore the basement of the house. Your contribution is greatly appreciated.

retired after 41 years of service to our chapter. Originally hired in 1965 as the cook, Winnie's role expanded over the decades to become the house mother, property manager, friend and mentor to the brotherhood. Her picture has appeared in 41 composites and she is a common link between generations of alumni and more than 900 New York Zeta Phis.

In appreciation of her long-standing service to the Fraternity, Winnie was honored in front of her family and friends with a retirement banquet and an awards presentation. Bruce Clayton, '89, treasurer of the New York Zeta of Phi Delta Theta Corporation, presented a rendering of a brick bearing her name to be placed in the Phi Delta Theta Sesquicentennial Courtyard in Oxford, Ohio.

Conrad Thiede, '90, vice president of development for the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation, delivered a proclamation honoring her legacy on behalf of the Educational Foundation and the General Fraternity. Dozens of members provided their own testimonials about Winnie. These personal, humorous and sometimes tearful commentaries spanned four decades, ranging from members who were in the chapter when Winnie first arrived to current undergraduate members. In addition to the retirement celebration, the undergraduate chapter, led by president Kyle Levenick, '07, hosted the Founding and Silver Legion ceremonies.

We are honored to have so many outstanding athletes as part of our chapter, and they also are leaders off the field, with Joe Rizzo as our chapter president and Brad Duesing as vice president. Duesing was only the second player in NCAA history to exceed 1,000 receiving yards in four straight seasons and was University Athletic Association (UAA) Offensive Player of the Year. He is also recognized for his work ethic and strong value system. Joe Rizzo was a three-time All-UAA first team choice. Along with Brother Ben Schaub (also All-UAA first team), they are the tri-captains of the football team.

The chapter was installed on May 28, 1906 and over the years has initiated more than 900 men. Attendees were treated to reminiscences throughout the evening from Brothers spanning the many years of the chapter's existence, from Bruce Gray to Paul Kirkconnell to Ken Mayhew. More than 40 members received their Silver Legion pins, and ten Golden Legionnaire pins were awarded.

The highlight of the night was when George Brigden was inducted into the Fraternity's Legion of Merit for his outstanding lifetime contribution to the Fraternity. The Legion of Merit was presented to George by Executive Vice President Emeritus Bob Miller, who attended the festivities along with Mark Ochsenein of the General Council. George is only the second Canadian Phi bestowed with this honor, the first being Fred Green. In addition to a long and distinguished legal career, Brother Brigden has served the Fraternity and his chapter consistently over the years, including acting as Ontario Alpha's chapter adviser, as well as being the driving force behind the establishment of the Canadian Scholarship Foundation.

Energized by the weekend, a number of alumni pledged money to put toward improving the chapter house, and this has served as the impetus for the launching of a major fundraising campaign. Alumni interested in contributing should contact Grant Loree at grant.loree@rbc.com.

Virginia Beta

University of Virginia

The University of Virginia is a community defined by tradition. Since its founding in 1819, U.Va. has developed a complex of traditions ranging from formal attire at football games to a unique style of language which labels freshmen "first years" and refers to the campus as "Grounds." Directly across from the historical Lawn, built by Thomas Jefferson, lies Rugby Road, a center of such traditions. Here, the vibrancy of Virginia's longstanding Greek community springs to life, mixing the traditional Jeffersonian architecture of the red-brick houses with the ceaseless activity of the student body. The Greek community, however, is far from perfect. In 2000, the revocation of the charter of Phi Delta Theta's Virginia Beta chapter amply demonstrated the problems inherent in Greek life. The revocation also demonstrated that the University community was ready for an example of what a fraternity could aspire to become. General Headquarters, in conjunction with University administrators, conducted an extensive recruitment campaign, culminating in 2001 with the initiation of thirty-one men into The Bond of Phi Delta Theta with the explicit purpose of creating a perfect fraternity.

Over the past four years, the Virginia Beta Phis have come a long way towards that goal. The first problems of the re-chartered chapter were naturally logistical, as Brothers worked to find some sort of housing and to reestablish the Fraternity's prominence on Grounds. This problem was complicated by the absence of a supportive alumni network. It was very shortly after the re-chartering, though, that Virginia Beta began to gain a reputation as a new kind of fraternity at U.Va. This was in part due to the successes of individual Phis, some of whom have become leaders at every level of University life over the past five years. From traditional forms of involvement such as Student Council and the Class Councils to less institutional avenues of leadership like working for the enormous Pancakes for Parkinson's annual fundraiser or leading Alternative Spring Break trips to Ecuador, Phis have dedicated themselves to the U.Va. community and the larger world, demonstrating enormous abilities to lead, organize and execute.

Virginia Beta is focused now on its future. The first aspect of that future, of course, is membership, as the chapter remains determined to maintain the standards it applies during recruitment and to find men who are searching for the unique experience that Phi Delta Theta offers. Equally important is the chapter's continuing commitment to the brotherhood and the power of the bond that drew its constituent members together in the first place. This commitment is amply demonstrated by the continued involvement of the Virginia Beta alumni in chapter life, such as the recent establishment by the alumni of a House Corporation. Perhaps the most pressing goal of the chapter is housing. Though still renting a house in the aftermath of its re-chartering, Virginia Beta hopes to be able to purchase a chapter house in the near future, believing that owning its house would allow the chapter greater freedom to do simple things like house maintenance, while at the same time powerfully communicating that the chapter has truly reestablished itself. Most importantly, though, each brother of Virginia Beta is intent on holding fast to the principles of Phi Delta Theta, looking always to tomorrow with the hope of continued success, and always proud to be a Phi.

JORDAN HAINES KANSAS '49

Jordan Haines, a great Phi and longtime supporter of the Fraternity, died January 20.

Haines was a member of the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation board of trustees from 1998-2000. He also remained a loyal supporter of the chapter at KU and of the Fraternity's efforts in the region.

He was also devoted to his alma mater, University of Kansas, serving as chair and member of the board of regents, a member of the executive committee of the KU Endowment Association and as an interested Kansan. He served as director of the Campaign for Kansas fund drive for KU, which far surpassed its goal of $120 million by raising $285 million.

In business, Haines was a successful banker in the region as leader of the former Bank IV. Local newspaper articles heralded his ability to take the bank to the next level in deposits, loans and earnings.

Dolph C. Simons, Jr., a writer for the Lawrence Journal-World newspaper said Haines was a colorful figure, often letting university officials, politicians and newspaper writers know his opinions "in rather colorful language," Simmons wrote in an obituary. "He was unique in many ways and will be missed by many. Wichita, the state of Kansas, and Kansas University all are better today because of the interest, devotion and commitment of Haines." Phi Delta Theta is, as well.

ROBERT MANLEY CINCINNATI '70

For many years, when universities tried to shut down chapters illegally or when chapters were in legal trouble, it was Bob Manley, the fraternity's lawyer, who came to their aid. Brother Manley died March 24 of a heart attack. He was 70.

Despite building a significant portion of his practice on defending Greek letter organizations, Manley was not a member of a fraternity until fairly recently, when he was initiated at University of Cincinnati (Ohio Theta) chapter during a Leadership College in Oxford. Brother Manley's firm represented a number of fraternities and sororities, and he was frequently called in as special counsel to advise and represent clients on the many issues that face fraternal organizations. He advised organizations on issues of policy, risk management, rights and, when necessary, litigation. Chapter officers and general officers of Phi Delta Theta are familiar with Fraternal Law, a publication that provided guidance on legal matters for Greeks.

Outside of the courtroom and office, Manley was a world traveler, hiking the Amazon rain forest, climbing mountains, exploring ruins or traveling to tiny islands near Africa. His downtown Cincinnati townhouse was filled with artifacts from his journeys. But, no matter how far he went, he continued to be an advocate for his hometown. He considered himself a "Cincinnati nationalist" and promoted the area at every opportunity.

Known for his satirical wit and charm, he often commented on local issues in letters and newspaper columns. He was a defender of local property rights, crusading against eminent domain private property seizures.

"He was a giant," Cincinnati City Councilman Jim Tarbell said in the Cincinnati Enquirer. "He was in a class by himself."

"Brother Manley's contributions in defending Greek organizations are innumerable. His loss will be felt in Phi Delta Theta and throughout the Greek world," said Robert A. Biggs, Phi Delta Theta executive vice president. Biggs' comments were echoed in a statement from Chi Omega sorority. "Bob was a loyal friend and advisor. He cared deeply about Chi Omega. His wisdom and guidance will continue to resonate with our leaders. He will be missed by all," said Jean Mermoud Mrasek, national president.

Undergraduate Phis from across North America descended upon St. Louis in early January for two leadership events. The 7th annual Presidents Leadership Conference welcomed over 150 chapter presidents for an intensive three-day training period built around the theme "The Courage to Change." In a nearby hotel, Phi Delta Theta's first "Recruitment Boot Camp" with nearly 100 chapter recruitment chairmen was held.

Chapter presidents discussed and debated the importance of building relationships with their stakeholders such as the campus administration, the local community leaders, their alumni, and the General Headquarters. Large group sessions were also held on important issues such as risk management and how to run an effective chapter meeting. Several fellow undergraduate "peer mentors" provided brief talks about their own leadership experiences.

Brothers were assigned to small groups according to their chapter's demographics, and topics included: ritual, leadership, the chapter success model, minimum standards, hazing, goal setting and action plans.

Brother Sparky Reardon ensured the Brothers understood their role as chapter presidents when he spoke about having the courage to step-up and address their chapter's challenges head-on in his talk entitled, "Leadership – Presidents Can't Punt." The closing session came from the dynamic speaker, Will Keim. His topic was "Promoting the Development of Leadership through the Education of Character." Keim has spoken to more students on more campuses about actualizing peak performance and leadership than anyone in our nation. His wit, humor, and engaging stories about leadership received a standing ovation and closed out the Presidents Leadership Conference.

The undergraduate Brothers left St. Louis armed with new ideas and a renewed spirit to tackle the challenges they face on their individual campuses and within their own chapters. When asked what the most rewarding aspect of the Presidents Leadership Conference was, the undergraduate delegates provided these comments in the conference evaluations:

- "Revisiting the core values that make us who we are was extremely rewarding."
- "Meeting other Brothers from different schools and having the opportunity to speak to every General Council member in person."
- "Meeting presidents from chapters all over North America and knowing that we're all in the same boat ultimately; also being able to exchange ideas and learn from each other's mistakes and triumphs."

- "Getting feedback from all of the other presidents and seeing this organization as a whole. It is a lot different to see it than read about it or hear about it."
- "Interacting with other presidents, and networking with men to continue discussing matters away from PLC. The fact that I can continue growing, and gain skills to help my chapter, is the most meaningful part of the PLC experience."
- "Our chapter operates on quite a bit of tradition, and I was never taught that some of these traditions violate the order of the way things are to be done at this Fraternity. PLC was invaluable to me because it showed me where we were erring in our ways as a chapter and where I can improve the chapter itself to bring it back to the standards of Phi Delta Theta."

During Recruitment Boot Camp (RBC), chapter recruitment chairmen were asked to complete a self-evaluation on their recruitment program including their chapter's organizational abilities, recruitment skills, and motivation. The program provided discussions on how to align the Fraternity's values during recruitment activities and how to appropriately brand their home chapter during recruitment, both visually and thematically.

After three intense days, each attendee left RBC with a full-scale action plan on how to improve recruitment back at their home chapter. The action plans contained goals for the chapter to accomplish with the help of Chapter Advisory Boards, Province Presidents, Greek Officials, and the General Headquarters staff.

In order to assist the recruitment chairmen in taking these ideas home, they met with their respective chapter president on the last day of both conferences to share the plans and ideas that they gathered from the various speakers and breakout sessions. David Stollman, co-founder of CAMPUSPEAK and creator of the RBC program, presided over this joint session after heading up Recruitment Boot Camp.

The Phi Delta Theta General Council and General Headquarters staff would like to thank the twenty-five volunteers who helped facilitate these two conferences. They took time away from family, friends, and work to help shape and guide the undergraduate members who are the future leaders of Phi Delta Theta.

PHI DELTA THETA

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

A Profile in Giving ~ A Lifetime Commitment

Today, Jerry Felmley, Illinois '54, serves as chairman for a committee of Air Force Reservists that meets annually to select scholarship recipients from among the ranks of young men in the Air Force Reserves. He attributes his lifetime interest in scholarship to his involvement with this group and as a donor to the Phi Delta Theta Educational Foundation.

Jerry explains that his undergraduate fraternity experience had a "very positive influence in his life," and he emphasizes the long-term benefits of being a member of Phi Delta Theta. He clarifies, "it's not just a 4-year experience; it is an opportunity to be involved for life."

When Jerry was initiated in 1951 he was pinned by his cousin, Jim Meek, one of 12 Phi Deltos on that side of his family. Jerry describes this as one of his fondest Phi Delt memories. The pin was significant because it had belonged to Jim's father in the early 1900s, and Jerry was honored to wear it until he purchased one of his own.

What makes him most proud to be a Phi? For Jerry it's the relationships that remain even today with about two dozen of the 88 men who were in the chapter with him. He recalls the close relationships they built while in the chapter and they still get together for football weekends. Members from Jerry's pledge class keep in close contact and every winter there are about 14 of them who get together for a mini-reunion in Tucson where Jerry resides.

Jerry credits the fraternity experience as being a place where young men can build relationships and learn discipline as they progress through their undergraduate years. He explains, "I attribute my success with interpersonal relationships to both my membership in Phi Delta Theta and my active duty in the Air Force. I was able to use the skills I learned in a very competitive business environment. You learn to easily recognize differences in others, how to approach negotiation, interview new employees, build cohesive and effective teams and still maintain good friendships."

Now that he has the financial means to comfortably give to the Foundation, Jerry does so by shifting his equity shares, which allows him to meet the giving level he desires to reach each year. He sees his financial gifts as an extension of his commitment to the organization—a demonstration of his love for the Fraternity. He explains that, "offering a helping hand to younger Phis through my donations to our Educational Foundation is the essence of the Phikeia Oath: 'I will strive in all ways to transmit to those who may follow after, not only not less, but greater than it was transmitted to me.'" And that, declares Jerry, "is my commitment—to continue to make the fraternity better than it was in 1950, 1995 and 2005, for those who will follow my path."

Jerry says his greatest satisfaction from contributing to the Educational Foundation comes in meeting undergraduates and alumni who have received Educational Foundation grants towards their academic goals. "I feel a direct relation to their success."

He's now "99% retired." After 27 years on active duty with the Air Force and then working in acquisition management and business consulting, Jerry now spends his time with the University of Arizona Phi Delta Theta chapter, the Tucson Alumni Club, and with his three daughters that reside across the U.S.

As a member committed to our cause, Jerry Felmley has been a donor to the Foundation for over 35 years. He is a member of the Living Bond Society and the Founders Club, and has been a member of the Trustees' Roundtable since its inaugural year. Because of his lifelong interest in scholarship and Phi Delta Theta, there is a direct connection that Jerry has to many of our members – some he has met over the years in his travels and some he will never meet but only assist them in achieving their academic goals. Either way, Jerry's contributions to Phi Delta Theta will continue to touch the lives of our members in years to come.
