Miller Celebrates 30th Anniversary

Robert J. Miller (New Mexico '50) and his wife, Jerri, were honored on June 5 at the General Headquarters Building on his 30th anniversary as a member of the fraternity's professional staff and their 29th wedding anniversary.

Both sons, Rob (Clemson '76) and Dennis (Arkansas '83), were on hand for the occasion along with nearly 200 friends, neighbors, business acquaintances and out-of-town guests. Many of the general officers and other fraternity executives sent letters of congratulations.

Dr. John D. Millett (DePauw '33), former president of th GC and former president of Miami University, read a letter and telegram from Bruce Thompson (Minnesota '49), current GC president.

That was followed by a toast from Miami University historian, Dr. Walter Havighurst (Ohio Wesleyan '23).

Miller joined the headquarters staff on June 11, 1951, as a field secretary and was named assistant executive secretary in 1953, the title changing to administrative secretary in 1954. He became acting executive secretary upon the death of Executive Secretary Paul Beam (Indiana-Illinois '25), July 6, 1955, and was named executive secretary Aug. 17 of that year.

Since that time the fraternity has grown and prospered and Miller has become recognized throughout the Greek world as one of the top professionals among fraternity executives. He is a past president of the Fraternity Executives Association and has been very active in the National Interfraternity Conference.

He grew up in Mansfield, Ohio. While still a senior in high school there he was sworn into service in the US Army Air Force and was called to active duty six months later. Following two years of service he entered Heidelberg College and later transferred to the University of New Mexico where Phi Delta Theta had been established a year earlier.

Miller was initiated as Bond No. 50 and went on to serve as chapter president for two terms. As an undergraduate he attended both the Centennial Convention at Oxford in 1948 and the Chicago Convention in 1950.

After receiving his B.S. Degree in 1950 he stayed on at New Mexico for graduate work. It was while he was in graduate studies at New Mexico that he met Jerri.

When he became a field secretary he completed work at Miami to satisfy requirements for the M.A. from New Mexico. He has also finished an M.B.A. degree from Florida Atlantic University in 1977 and is a certified Associate Executive of the American Society of Association Executives.

Miller has been active in local Oxford community. He served 10 years on that community's hospital board and has served as president of that board, chairman of the Community Chest, president of the Rotary Club and district governor of Rotary. In 1968 he was named Oxford's "Citizen of the Year." He has been an active volunteer for the local St. Mary's Catholic Church.

He is only the third chief executive to serve the fraternity. The other two were Arthur R. Priest (DePauw '91) and Beam.■

TWO ANNIVERSARIES: Bob and Jerri Miller celebrated two anniversaries on June 5. It marked his 30th year with the fraternity's professional staff along with their 29th wedding anniversary.

Martin Named 'Phi of the Year'

BY DOUG PHILLIPS (New Mexico '49) Chairman, Gardner Selection Committee

W. F. Martin (Oklahoma '38), chairman of the board of Phillips Petroleum Company, has been named the winner of the Raymond L. Gardner Award as "Phi of the Year" for 1980. Raymond E. Blackwell (Franklin '24) and Gordon Caldis (North Dakota '42) were both selected jointly as runners-up for the award. Honorable mention was awarded to four other Phis.

This award was presented to the General Council by the Seattle Alumni Club in 1959 and is given annually to an alumnus for outstanding service to Phi Delta Theta, higher education and community life. The award honors those alumni who have brought prestige to the Fraternity and themselves through their activities in their post-graduate years. It was inspired by the leadership and service of Brother Ray Gardner, who served as chapter adviser of Washington Alpha, province president, and as a member of the General Council from 1952 to 1956.

Martin, whose article on the energy crisis appeared in The Scroll in the Summer, 1974 issue, was a Big 6 tennis champion, an All-American with the Phillips 66 Oilers. He joined Phillips in 1939 as a general clerk and in 1971 was elected president. He became chairman of the board of Phillips in 1974, and continues to serve in that position.

Brother Martin is a former president of the Bartlesville, Oklahoma, Alumni Club and has been instrumental in assisting Oklahoma Alpha with its rush program. Recently, he founded and chaired the Oklahoma Alpha Alumni Club and took a leading role in the reorganization of the chapter and the house corporation. He also served as president of the alumni association of the University of Oklahoma which honored him by inducting him into its Alumni Hall of Fame; naming him to the Academy of University Fellows; and awarding him the Distinguished Service Citation.

Brother Martin has been widely recognized by business and industrial groups for his contributions to increased understanding of the free enterprise system and is chairman of the committee to raise funds for Oklahoma's Enterprise Square USA in Oklahoma City. He has also received the Royal Norwegian Order of St. Olav and is a member of the US-USSR Trade and Economic Council.

Brother Blackwell is a former province president, scholarship commissioner, alumni secretary, and editor of The Scroll. He has also held several positions of the National Interfraternity Conference and published a book on improvement of fraternity scholarship in 1957. He has been President of the Franklin College Alumni Council, and a member of the Board of Directors of Franklin.

Brother Caldis, an attorney, was a captain of the football team while an undergraduate. He was selected as the outstanding young man in the state of North Dakota by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1954, and as the outstanding "Phi of the Year" by the Grand Forks Alumni Club in 1980. In 1970, he received the Sioux Award, the highest award of the Alumni Association of the University of North Dakota. Beginning in 1975, he negotiated the sale of the old chapter house of North Dakota Alpha and a new 99-year lease from the University. He played a key role in the organization of a charitable foundation for raising funds which were used to construct a new chapter house.

The four Phis selected for Honorable Mention are: 1. Clinton W. Kanaga (Kansas '42) - Past President of the Board of Police Commissioners, Kansas City; awarded "Phi of the Year" in 1974 by the Greater Kansas City Alumni Club;

2. Arthur C. Mackendorf (Michigan '48) - Professor of Sociology and faculty adviser, Washburn University; President, Topeka Halfway House and 7-Step Foundation;

3. Murray S. Smith (Knox '25) -Past province president and sports editor of The Scroll; Alumni Achievement and Ambassador Awards from Knox College;

4. Wm. Frank McCall, Jr. (Auburn '38) - Founding Member, Georgia Trust Historic Preservation; member of Auburn House Corporation for 16 years; Liberty Bell Award, Law Day USA; National Award for Distinguished Service in Cancer Control.

McEwen Retires From Seat

In the Spring issue of The Scroll it was reported that Robert C. McEwen (Ver mont-Penn '42) lost his seat in the House of Representatives in the fall, 1980 elections.

Actually, McEwen decided not to seek re-election as a member of Congress and announced his decision in April, 1980. He served 16 years as a Republican Congressman from New York and, prior to that, served 11 years in the state senate.

"Serving in a legislative body is much more than a way to earn a living," he stated. "It is a way of living, and it becomes an integral part of one's life. I know that I shall miss it. I shall miss those that I have been associated with — a loyal and competent staff, colleagues and constituents who are good friends and supporters, party leaders, newsmen and others."

The Malone Evening Telegram summed up his 16 years of service by saying that "his finest hour was not one single event but rather a compilation of all of his hours in office."

Kansas, Ole Miss Capture Awards

BY STAN BROWN (Nebraska-UCLA '36) CSD Chairman

Kansas Alpha at Kansas won the Paul C. Beam Trophy for the best single observance of Community Service for 1981 while Mississippi Alpha at Ole Miss won the Lubbock Trophy for year round community service.

Beam Trophy runner-up was Quebec Alpha at McGill and honorable mention plaques go to chapters at Arkansas, University of California-Davis, Michigan State and Southwestern-Texas.

This report on the Community Service Day awards for 1981 is also a report that active chapter participation continues to amaze the man who thought it might be a good idea way back in 1955.

ARKANSAS PROJECT: Typical of many CSD projects around the country was the Special Olympics Day sponsored by the Phi Delt chapter at Arkansas.

Although not all chapters enter the awards contest, the chapter consultants estimate that about 90% of the chapters either devote one day a year to doing some good work for one of a great variety of projects or else do a whole series of projects throughout the year. To recognize these two approaches to CSD, there are two major awards, the Paul C. Beam Trophy for the most outstanding single Community Service Day activity and the Lubbock Trophy for year round community service projects.

In the 25 years since the beginning of Community Service Day the number of hours of labor. the cash worth of this effort the resultant good publicity and the helpful public relations are incalcuable. The best result, however, is typlified in the following quote from one of the entries. "The work we do within our community continues to be an integral part of our fraternal life. The community service projects in which we participate not only renew our ties in the local community, but also play a large part in bringing our chapter closer together. As we grow so does our involvement within our community. That is something we are dedicated to at this chapter of Phi Delta Theta."

The actual judging of the finalists this year was done by a group of alumni in the home of the chairman. As one of them said "You just have to see the quality and quantity of the efforts put forth by the actives and pledges, to appreciate the scope and depth of the combined results".

Although the entires show there is a great variety of good deeds such as fundraising, construction of camps, entertaining the aged, clean up work and on and on, the new activity that has engendered the most response is the sponsoring and officiating of a special olympics track and field meet for the handicapped.

One of the chapters engaging in this most worthwhile activity wrote "Our participation in this Special Olympics reflects the four main objectives of community service. First, this project was an obligation we fulfilled to our local community. Secondly, this activity enabled our chapter to publicly relay a positive fraternity activity to the public. Thirdly, our participation allowed us to work together as a chapter exemplifying the teachings on the Bond. And finally, this day-long project helped us put into action the principles of Phi Delta Theta".

From the entries, it appears the second most mentioned activity was an athletic event to raise money for the benefit of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis, the disease that killed Brother Lou Gehrig.

There was one new activity that had not been noted before. A city held a local parade with many equestrians and horse drawn vehicles. The chapter had a detail of pooper scoopers to evidence their devotion to civic duty!

Kansas Alpha wrote in the preface to their submission that "The men of Kansas Alpha Chapter of Phi Delta Theta are pleased to submit the following account of our Sixth Annual Basketball Tournament for the benefit of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis. We had our most successful tournament in history, and we are very proud to have it considered for such a prestigeous honor".

The chapter wrote a check for $6,000.00 to the ALS. Every member and pledge was involved in some way in doing the groundwork and staging this tournament involving 19 fraternity teams from 6 universities. As icing on the cake, the Kansas Phis won the tournament.

Quebec Alpha held a furniture sale and benefit party for Centraide-United Way Campaign. The chapter raised a total of $2,000.00.

Mississippi Alpha's report deliniated and documented four different major functions this academic year: A run-a-thon for St. Judes Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, a party for retarded children around Christmas time, a most successful clean up of the downtown area of their nearby city of Oxford and a blood drive.

Here's a quote from their entry. "On Dec. 7, the fraternity sponsored a blood drive at the house. Our success in this proved to be very beneficial, a mere two weeks later. The Blood service has a policy that if a large organization gets a certain percentage to donate blood, the whole organization gets full coverage. The coverage covers the person and every member of his or her immediate family (if needed), free of charge.

"Two weeks after the drive there was a car accident in which two members of the fraternity were involved. Both were covered because of our turnout in the drive was enough to give the whole fraternity coverage. This provided an example to us that by helping others you in turn help yourselves."

As was said at the start of this report, this writer continues to be amazed at the depth and scope of the active chapters' efforts. It is also amazing and a joy to see the effort through the eyes of the alumni who are chosen as judges each year. One of them this year said he wanted the chapters to know how he felt. I said "As a well known aviation writer, you write, so write it".

He did and here's what Torch Lewis, North Carolina Beta, '45 wrote: "Forty years ago come football season, I was a pre-Pearl Harbor Phi Delta Theta pledge at UNC Beta. Seven brothers from this pledge class and their wives still meet yearly at Chapel Hill for a football weekend. The spirit kindled four decades ago is stronger than ever. This is a spirit of togetherness which is not only the embodiment of Phi Delta Theta but it typlifies the traditions which makes one proud to be a Phi. I mean these words and you younger men who are privileged to wear the sword and shield will discover, as the years flee by, that the spirit, affection, and lovalty never diminishes. As in fine wines it mellows with the vears.

The community service programs instigated nationwide by the fraternity are benchmarks of which we alumni share your pride of achievement. You are all winners good brothers and we are just damn proud of you all. Keep up the great work! To me you all win First Prize!"

That says it all.

OLE MISS CLEAN-UP: Ole Miss Phis conducted a very successful clean-up of the Oxford community as one of their community service projects during the year.

Phi Producer Successful in TV

In the attic of an old Victorian home in Los Angeles a bathrobed woman sorts through the momentos of her own active life—pictures her children drew, love letters, dusty awards. Her daughter enters and in a few moments both women are in tears. The reason—the elder is dying of cancer. And she and her daughter know that each remaining hour is precious.

The intimate scene dissolves with the word, "Cut," and the director congratulates his cast and film crew on a strong performance. In the background is a smiling Martin Tahse (Cincinnati '52), the award-winning producer who is pleased that this show, A Matter of Time (his 17th dramatic special for the ABC network), is running true to form and right on schedule.

"This is the fun part," says Tahse, "when all the pieces go together and everyone on the project starts glowing with the sense that something important is being created. It makes all the preparation headaches seem insignificant."

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Tahse spent the first two years of his college career at the University of Cincinnati-with membership at the Phi Delta Theta chapter there. He came to television after making a mark on the Broadway theater. As a producer there he founded a company which specialized in producing the national tours of Broadway's biggest plays and musicals. In six years he produced fifteen shows, including "Funny Girl, "The Miracle Worker," Arthur Miller's "After the Fall," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Two for the Seesaw," "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," and "Advise and Consent.'

He also created and produced "A Program for two Players"—an evening of Shakespeare which starred Maurice Evans and Helen Hayes. The production opened at the Shakespeare Theater in Stratford, Connecticut and toured the country with remarkable success.

Move to TV

"I was eager to reach a larger audience than even our theater shows could get to. The logical move was to television, and we were fortunate to get involved with ABC's wonderful Afterschool Specials series in its infancy."

Since then, Tahse's production company has created seventeen specials. The subject matter is as varied as the audience which, year in and year out, watches for the Tahse banner as an assurance of quality. Shows have dealt with critical issues in modern family life, comic exploits, and adventures in period settings.

"We aim our shows at the youth market," comments Tahse from his production offices in Westwood, California. "But one thing is certain . . . kids today are a sophisticated, demanding audience. As a result, our shows must be every bit as hip, entertaining, and dramatically effective as the product they see on prime time or in the theaters." He adds with a wry smile, "Judging by our ratings and fan mail, we must be tapping the right nerve."

Success in Casting

"One of the key variables to success in film is strong casting," remarks the producer. "And we've been fortunate to draw on many rising talents in Hollywood," Three of the "newcomers" Tahse employed early in their careers are Kristy McNichol, Lance Kerwin, and Melissa Sue Anderson. "These young actors are pros through and through," he says. "But they're relieved to get the kind of support that veterans like Marian Ross or Tony Award-winner Virginia Capers can provide. In fact, the mood on the set often has a strong family feel. And that's the magic ingredient often lacking in today's television product.'

Martin Tahse is a producer who gets totally involved in every facet of his productions. He works closely with the writers, often writing much of the production himself; he edits each film; and along with the composer he selects the music cues and mixes each production. Such involvement inevitably leads to innovation. And Tahse prides himself inhaving developed the first system of editing film on videotape. "What was pooh-poohed by many at first has now become an industry standard, with even gargantuan productions like Apocalypse Now using a variation on this technique."

TOTAL INVOLVEMENT: Martin Tahse is a producer who gets totally involved in every facet of his productions. This includes writing, editing, composing along with direction.

During any television season one can see at least seven Tahse specials on the network. His shows have won a large and loyal audience—drawing consistently higher ratings than any other producer's.

In addition, his films are distributed to schools, libraries, and business and industry through Walt Disney Telecommunications, Time Life Video, and the Learning Corporation of America. An overseas distribution arm gives Tahse's films an international outreach as well, to over 35 countries with translations in many foreign languages.

Television Awards

Tahse's films have garnered virtually every award in television. In May of this year he accepted his eighth Emmy, this time for the "Outstanding Children's Entertainment Special," A Matter of Time. All those tears in the attic were well worthwhile.

"We're on the grow, developing a number of feature film projects, and additing staff as we expand. Variety is the key, and we've got features in the works gears for family audiences-and a few with more sensational adult themes. Taking a chapter from my theatrical successes, I'm shunning the big studio connection in favor of independent financing. It's an opportunity to get backers involved who know little about the nuts and bolts of film production but are attracted by the lucrative potential of the medium. And it gives us better control of the finished product's quality. With the added stimulus of new pay tv and cable markets, there's literally no place to go but up."

Phi Delt Organizes Whitman Business Club

They'll remember Scott Greer (Whitman '81) in Walla Walla.

When the 22-year-old Whitman College senior from Tacoma marched down the aisle for his diploma in May, he left a bit of himself behind at the four-year liberal arts school.

Greer is the founder and prime mover of the Whitman Business Management Organization (WMBO), a student-run club for those interested in business careers.

Several factors make the organization unique. It is the first business club created by student initiative to be officially recognized by the college. It stands alone among college business clubs because it is not affiliated with any nation-wide campus business organization. And it fills a gap in a liberal arts curriculum where no business classes are offered.

Greer, who has been accepted for deferred entrance into the Harvard University graduate business school in 1983, has an economics major at Whitman. Although he has always planned on a business career, he chose a liberal arts college for his undergraduate work to get a broad-based education.

"I knew I would be in a specialized field eventually," he says. "After four years, I'm an even firmer believer in the value of a liberal arts education. It's undervalued in our society."

At the same time, Greer realized that the general education at Whitman would not provide him with the technical orientation many graduate schools and business employers prefer. Yet "a substantial number of Whitman graduates eventually enter business-related professions," he says.

Although Greer couldn't do anything about the curriculum, he conceived the idea of a business-oriented club and began to work toward its formation during his sophomore year. His ideas were endorsed by the administration and faculty, as well as by the Whitman Associated Student Body, which helps the organization with financial support.

The WBMO was set up with three inter-connected units.

A speakers unit was established to bring business leaders for campus workshops. Response from Whitman alumni has been particularly gratifying, Greer says. Topics range from career planning and mobility to business ethics.

A second unit, in cooperation with the Whitman Career Planning and Placement Office, focuses on basic skills, including resume writing and interviewing techniques.

The third unit is designed to provide support and assistance to those seeking entrance to graduate business schools, including establishment of a catalog library, assistance with application writing and preparation for required graduate school pre-examinations.

In addition, the club is working toward cooperative programs with the Walla Walla Area Chamber of commerce and with two other colleges in the area, Walla Walla College and Walla Walla Community College.

Greer has laid the groundwork for the organization to continue after he is gone.

"Although several business clubs have been formed at Whitman in the past, they have often dissipated with the graduation of their founders," he says. "The WBMO was formed with an organizational structure stressing continuity and independence. I have taken myself out of it as much as possible so that the group will exist in the future without me."

The fact that students are responsible for WBMO is a plus, he believes.

"If the administration were doing it, they could sit back and let the administration do it for them. If they do it for themselves, they get more out of it."

Greer, who will graduate magna cum laude, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He has been a teaching assistant in financial and managerial accounting for two years. And he has been active in Whitman organizations: student body treasurer, sports photographer for the student-run newspaper, secretary and treasurer of Signet Table scholastic honorary and treasurer and vice president of his pledge class.

But organizing a program from the grass roots has been one of his most valuable experiences, he says.

"Because of the school size (1,100 students), it's easy to get involved in things, to find a need and do something about it. It's enhanced my education at Whitman. I happen to feel there is more to education than what you learn in a classroom.

"Many students think the college is here to serve them," Greer adds. "They think Whitman is the path to fame and fortune. It's definitely not that way. You have to work for yourself."

Atlanta Phi Contributes Art to Hospitals

BY WILLIAM L. DAVENPORT S.M.U. '41

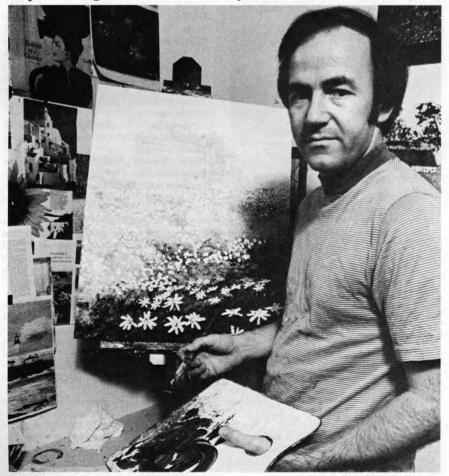

• ohn Feight (Florida '63) is an Atlanta businessman and artist who has won nationwide acclaim for donating his services to paint murals in hospitals throughout the United States and in several countries in Europe.

John, a self-trained artist, believes that art should go where the people are. His latest honor was being awarded one of Atlanta's coveted Community Service Awards in 1980.

John is the full-time marketing communications director for Scientific-Atlanta, Inc., a fastgrowing international electronics firm headquartered in Atlanta. He does his painting at Atlanta hospitals at night and from 6 a.m. till noon on weekends. He is often aided by his wife, Linda, and his two sons, Scott (12) and Drew (10). On several occasions, patients have sensed that John was trying to make their hospital environment bright and cheerful and have volunteered to paint and do clean-up work.

His first painting was done at Northside Hospital in Atlanta, where he got the idea during a long series of visits with a dying friend. John asked the question, "why shouldn't a hsopital—where life begins, is nourished and sometime ends—be bright and cheerful."

Chris Clark, the Northside Hospital administrator who authorized the unusual art experiment says, "John has now painted about 300 murals for us, and we hear almost every day some expression of how his art has helped our patients, their families and our hospital staff." Clark points out that the only cost to the hospital was the cost of paint and supplies.

John Feight has painted murals at over twenty-four hospitals, including Sloane-Kettering in New York, Oschner Clinic in New Orleans and hospitals in other cities from Los Angeles and Las Vegas to his boyhood home of Millersburg, Ohio. His business takes him to conventions in many cities. At the invitation of the hospitals, he schedules a weekend and often a few evenings to paint in halls, waiting rooms and patient rooms. He has murals in hospitals in Belgium, France and Switzerland. If his business schedule doesn't take him to a city in which a hospital has asked him to paint, John will take a weekend or a few days of vacation to make the trip.

Awards and recognition are not new to John Feight. He has been featured on all the Atlanta TV stations, on CBS, in Southern Living and a number of other publications. He was recently cited by the American Cancer Society for his help and friendship to cancer patients whom he met while painting. These relationships caused him and his wife to start a self-help cancer group in Atlanta.

John is in demand as a speaker about his experiences and his feelings as he undertook to change and improve the environment in which patients and their families spend trying days. When John Feight speaks, it is clear that his hospital art is a work of love—love not just to the "public", but love for people. But even if John remained silent, some 1500 murals speak the fact that he had a dream and has made it come true.

Ingels Chosen Top Phi Adviser

BY BOB SCHUEMANN (Valparaiso '71) Chairman, Adviser Selection Committee

Deeply devoted, open and sincere, unflaggable enthusiasm are a few of the superlative adjectives used by undergraduates and alumni to describe Robert Ingels (Illinois '51), the 1980-81 winner of the Samuel V. Stone Award for his work as chapter adviser at the University of California-Davis.

As adviser of California Epsilon, he has provided continuous guidance to the officers and brothers of the chapter. Through his leadership, a struggling chapter of 13 members in 1975 (a chapter placed on management probation by the General Fraternity) has developed and strengthened not only its membership to 55, but the quality of chapter life. This was exemplified by the chapter being the recipient in 1980 of a Gold Star Award, which denotes chapter excellence.

Bob's special interest in each individual brother is shown in their deep appreciation for the time and dedication that he has given unselfishly to the chapter. Ingels is a very visible facet in the quality of life and effective chapter management that is present at California Epsilon.

As was mentioned numerously by the brothers, "Bob leads by example and gives guidance, but never dictates, He assists us in reaching our decisions". There are many brothers that have been influenced by Bob's positive character and brotherly love. They, as well as the General Fraternity, are very appreciative of his dedication.

As has been stated numerous times, the position of chapter adviser is the most influential and valuable position of the many volunteers that continue to work with the Fraternity. As with many awards—there can be only one winner, but in addition to acknowledging Brothers Ingels' great dedication we would like to salute other Brother Phis who were nominated for this award.

These men give greatly to the success of their respective chapters and desire recognition. These advisers work consistently to strive to direct the officers and brothers to benefit from the learning experience that only a living environment such as our Fraternity can provide.

By their example these dedicated Phis live and teach that Phi Delta Theta is a Fraternity for Life and they daily transmit to the younger brothers that the principles of Friendship, Sound Learning and Rectitude are as important and valuable today as in 1848.

To the following brothers we extend our gratitude and greatly appreciate the valuable part you play in the success of not only your chapters, but the total Fraternity: Bob Bourdette, Kansas Beta (Washburn); Stan Gilson, California Zeta (Cal State Northridge); Thomas Reardon, Mississippi Alpha (Univ. of Mississippi); Ralph Thompson, Kentucky Theta (Eastern Kentucky); Ralph Tomassi, Ohio Mu (Ashland); Gordon Walters, Indiana Zeta (DePauw); Dwight Nelson, Indiana Epsilon (Hanover); Donald Schenk, Maryland Beta (Western Maryland); and Tim Shea, North Dakota Alpha (Univ. of North Dakota).

Dennis Miller (Arkansas '83) finished first in the 19 and under age category for men in a 26 mile and 385 yard run late in the spring in Fayetteville, Arkansas. His time was 3:26:09. The event was the fifth annual Hogeye Marathon. Of 154 individual runners who started the race only 95 finished due to heat and humidity.

Phi Delts at Hanover College received considerable publicity when they assisted the local chapter of the American Association of University Women with their annual Book Fair. Members helped move in books for the fair, cleaned and shelved the books and helped move left-over books the next day.

 Brett Shockley (Minnesota '81) was selected as one of the top outstanding Greeks on the University of Minnesota campus this year by the university IFC. He and another Phi, Kevin Liebeg ('81) were awarded senior recognition awards for outstanding service to their chapter, the Greek system, the university and the community.

The General Council held a mostly routine meeting in Denver on May 9 again spending considerable time discussing various hazing problems in chapters.

The Council reviewed financial operations, discussed next year's General Officers Conference, and heard a report from Bill Dean, editor of The Scroll.

Gellatly Captures Priest Award

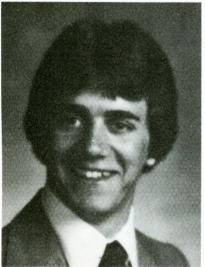

Robert Gellatly (Puget Sound '82) has been named as the winner of the fraternity's Arthur R. Priest Award as the outstanding undergraduate. He will receive a $1,500 scholarship from the Educational Foundation for the coming school year.

Kurtis Powell (Iowa '82) was also named winner of the O'Dell Award, a $1,000 scholarship given to an undergraduate from Iowa Beta. In addition, 29 other undergraduates won Educational Foundation Scholarships of $1,000 each. (see listing in this issue)

Gellatly has a 3.92 grade point average at Puget Sound and has won several additional scholarships during his career there including one of the University's prestigious Trustee Scholarships.

In Washington Delta he was president of his pledge class and, since being initiated, has served a scholarship chairman, vicepresident and president. He is also an active intramural participant.

The Priest winner is a student representative to the academic standards committee of the university and has recently been accepted to Mortar Board. He assisted in 1980 and 1981 with the Special Olympics Swim Meet as a timer. He has also worked in the March of Dimes campaign.

In these two activities he has also helped motivate his chapter to participate and gain community-wide approval. Spencer Hinson (Puget Sound '82), chapter vice president, and James Dart (Puget Sound '82), social chairman, express his value to the chapter in this way: "Rob has not only applied guidance in the area of administration, but has often assumed the role of advisor, confidante, and friend to many in the chapter. Knowing him has been one of the high points of living here."

Ronald V. Adkins, director of academic advising, classifies Bob as "easily a member of the Top 1% at UPS." "He is a fine man and a superb representative of the finest traditions of fraternity life. I commend him to you without reservation."

Gellatly has worked most of the time he has been in school. Puget Sound is a private institution with high tuition expenses. He has passed an examination in real estate and has earned a real estate license.

Powell is a political science major at Iowa who has a 3.87 grade point average. He is a State of Iowa Scholar and a Mortar Board nominee. In Iowa Beta he has been social chairman, activities chairman and president.

He has served as the co-director of Chi Omega-Phi Delta Theta Skate-a-thon and is also in the political science club.

Like Gellatly, he has had to work to put himself through school.

Demkee Selected As Province President

Donald E. Demkee (Akron '60) has been appointed president of Sigma South Province by the General Council following approval by the chapters in the province.

Sigma South Province consists of the chapters in northern Ohio.

DEMKEE Demkee is in the private practice of oral and maxillofacial surgery in Wooster, Ohio. Following graduation from Akron, he attended the Ohio State University College of Dentistry, graduating in 1965.

As an undergraduate he served as president of his chapter and has since served as a member of the alumni board for the chapter. He was named Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

In his community he serves as a member of the Board of Governors for the local hospital, on the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Financial Affairs and he is president-elect of the Wayne County Ohio State Alumni Association.

He is married and has two children. Hobbies include the harness horse business, flying and skiing.

Walker Now Oakland Sportscaster

BY CHRIS HOKOM San Jose '82)

"Through Phi Delta Theta I learned and experienced many things which have helped me in my careers."

Brother Wayne Walker (Idaho '68), sportscaster and former National Football League star is a perfect example of how Phi Delta Theta can prepare a young man for his future. "Phi Delta Theta taught me how to deal with different types of people on both social and professional levels," commented Brother Walker.

As one of the N.F.L.'s toughest linebackers with the Detroit Lions, Wayne played a record 200 of 203 games in 15 seasons. He presently broadcasts nightly sports reports and Oakland A's games in the San Francisco Bay area. "I just stumbled onto this career." commented Walker, who studied education at the University of Idaho. During his career in Detroit, Wayne was interviewed on television several times. Broadcast executives recognized his natural speaking ability, auditioned and hired him to do weekend sports for WGBK in Detroit during the off season. Following his retirement from football, Wayne landed a job in San Francisco with CBS affiliate station KPIX channel five. During his career at KPIX, Wayne was awarded two Emmys for sports features. Pretty good for a guy who didn't even study broadcasting in college.

Bond number 833, Wayne was initiated into Phi Delta Theta's Idaho Alpha chapter in 1955. He attributes his scholastic success to his entrance into Phi Delta Theta. "The fraternity not only helped me socially, but taught me proper study habits and time budgeting as well." Wayne graduated in 1958 with a degree in Education. "When I entered college, I didn't know how to study, but the Idaho Alpha chapter heavily stressed scholarship. Our chapter at the time wasn't a jock house; it carried a diverse cross-section of guys. This is why I joined Phi Delta Theta," continued Wayne.

Wayne has settled into what he describes as "comfortable and rewarding career" in broadcasting. A typical work day for Wayne begins at 3 or 4 p.m. in preparation for his two nightly sportscasts. After his 6 p.m. spot, Wayne either takes in dinner and a movie with his wife, or attends a local ballgame. He then returns to the studio for his 11 p.m. report.

Although he is happy in his job, he still talks fondly of his life as a professional football player. He recalls his crazy days with former roommate Alex Karras. "Alex and I would dress up like vampires and go out at 3 a.m. and scare all the other team members in the hotel."

Although his job commitments keep him busy throughout the year, Wayne still keeps in contact with some of his brothers from Idaho. "Whenever I'm in Idaho I make an effort to go by the house or attend alumni gatherings. The Idaho house has grown considerably since I graduated. It's one of the two or three biggest on the campus, and certainly one of the best."
